ON THE COVER

"This one's for John!" That was the defining statement delivered by Broncos President and Chief Executive Officer Pat Bowlen as he stood atop a crowded stage for the presentation of the Vince Lombardi Trophy following Denver's Super Bowl XXXII victory over Green Bay, Jan. 25, 1998 at San Diego's Qualcomm Stadium. Quarterback John Elway, in his 15th NFL season, guided the Broncos to the first World Championship in the franchise's 38-year history, and is pictured on the cover of the 1998 Broncos Media Guide, hoisting the trophy.

THE PAUL D. BOWLEN MEMORIAL BRONCOS CENTRE

On March 5, 1990 the Denver Broncos moved into the Paul D. Bowlen Memorial Broncos Centre, the state-of-the-art headquarters for the National Football League team. The complex is named for the Broncos owner's late father, and is the culmination of Pat Bowlen's desire to maximize a positive working environment for his team, which earned its first World Championship in 1997 after being the only American Football Conference club to appear in the three Super Bowls during the 1980s.

The training facility is situated on 13.5 acres in the rapidly expanding Dove Valley Business Park in south Arapahoe County. It includes an administrative building, two full-size practice fields and a smaller workout field.

The Bowlen Broncos Centre is a two-story building totaling 60,000 square feet, well over twice the size of the team's previous facility. The ground floor houses the main entry, visitors area and trophy display area, and media room, in addition to the play-related facilities, which encompass the locker room, meeting rooms, training area, weight room, equipment room, and video department.

It is on the second level, which is accessible through two stairways adjacent to the lobby area, that most of the administrative offices are located. These include the offices for Pat Bowlen, Mike Shanahan, John Beake and David Wass, as well as those of all assistant coaches and football operations personnel. The second floor is divided into one wing for administrative offices and another for coaches and meeting rooms. The Broncos' extensive computer operation also is located on the second floor.

There is ample practice space available for use by the Broncos, as both practice fields are 100 yards and one of them has a unique design system that includes underground wiring to prevent the turf from freezing and thus allows the Broncos to practice year-round on unfrozen natural grass. The complex also includes a smaller, 50-yard natural grass workout field and the Broncos' indoor "bubble," which houses a 70-yard artificial turf field.

The expansive weight room and training room are among the largest in the entire league, and the Bowlen Centre also includes a separate building that houses two racquetball courts for training and leisure use by players and staff members.

PRESIDENT AND CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER

PAT BOWLEN

With the single phrase, "This one's for John," Denver Broncos owner Pat Bowlen verbalized the feelings of the city of Denver, the Rocky Mountain region, and much of the nation after his beloved Denver Broncos won Super Bowl XXXII in San Diego on January 25, 1998.

But as much as the Broncos first World Championship was for John Elway and the team's legion of fans, no one was more deserving of the triumph than Pat Bowlen, whose single-minded pursuit of the Super Bowl title has been unwavering since he purchased the Broncos in 1984.

All are aware that it is the owner who provides the leadership that is integral to a championship team, but many fans are unaware that much of the heart, soul, and drive of this championship organization comes directly from Pat Bowlen.

Champions are built from the top, and the Broncos owner has been a model in the scope of his drive and commitment. "I want us to be number one in everything," Bowlen has often said in a recurring theme that marks his management style.

His 1997 Broncos fulfilled the team's lifelong quest in bringing the Mile High City the World Championship with their sterling 31-24 triumph over the Green Bay Packers. In the process, the Broncos became the first American Football Conference team to win in 14 years and just the second wild card to win the Super Bowl under the NFL's present playoff system.

It is the owner himself who charts the course for this highly successful franchise, infusing his team and employees with the drive to attain those goals. Financially and philosophically, his pursuit of a championship is absolute, whether judged by the Broncos' pursuit of free agents, by his pledge to contribute more than $80 million to Denver's proposed new stadium, or simply by his fierce desire to have his Broncos at the pinnacle in all ways that success can be measured.

Well into his second decade as the Broncos' chief executive, Pat Bowlen comes into 1998 braced with the satisfaction of great success, both for his franchise and the NFL structure, and yet at the forefront of new challenges for the team, the city and the league.

The Broncos' President and Chief Executive Officer has fashioned a powerful reputation among his peers as a bold, dynamic leader who is single-minded in his pursuit of excellence, whether in representing Denver and Broncos or the hierarchy of the National Football League.

In addition to his role with the Broncos, Bowlen was a key figure in spearheading both the league's labor and TV contracts. He has been a member of the NFL Management Council Executive Committee, and is currently the Chairman of the highly prestigious NFL Broadcasting Committee, while also serving on the NFL Finance Committee. A pivotal voice in league policy, he also is Chairman of the NFL Enterprises/NFL Films Executive Committees and serves as a member of the NFL International Committee and the Board of the NFL Europe League. Most recently, Bowlen was named to a special NFL committee formed to look at league-wide business strategy and long-range planning.

Bowlen comes into the 1998 season in the midst of the drive for a critically needed new stadium that will mutually benefit the Broncos and the Mile High City, and in his role as Chairman of the NFL Broadcasting Committee he once again spearheaded the negotiations for the league's new television contract, the most lucrative single-sport contract in history.

Nineteen ninety-eight will be the 29th straight year of home sellouts at Mile High Stadium, longest in the American Football Conference, and that streak is just one measure of the Pat Bowlen success story in Denver.

During his tenure as President and Chief Executive Officer of the Broncos (1984-97) Bowlen's team has dominated the American Football Conference Western Division in posting more division titles (six), conference Championship Game appearances (five), and Super Bowl appearances (four) than any other club in the division. Under Bowlen's leadership the Broncos have had eight playoff appearances and just two losing seasons.

The 1995 campaign began a new era both for the Broncos and the NFL, and Pat Bowlen played an integral role in both, selecting a dynamic new head coach in Mike Shanahan while also having had a pivotal role in the creation of the new collective bargaining agreement and the television contract, changing the face of professional football in the process.

The Broncos' dynamic chief executive followed up the hiring of Shanahan by once again becoming a major player in the league's free agency. Under Bowlen's leadership Denver has been very aggressive in the marketplace, in the last four years adding 25 unrestricted free agents to the Denver roster.

Bowlen has made all these moves with one goal unchanged—to aggressively position the Broncos for yet another run at a Super Bowl championship for the Mile High City.

He presides over a franchise that by any standard has been one of the NFL's most successful in this time frame (1984-97). In Bowlen's 14 years of ownership the Broncos have played 18 postseason games, with all regular and postseason games sold out at Mile High Stadium.

The Broncos President has seen the team's consecutive home game sellout streak stretch to 222 straight regular and postseason non-strike games through the end of the 1997 campaign, as Denver led the entire National Football League in actual in-stadium attendance over that 14-year period. The Broncos have drawn nearly nine million fans to Mile High Stadium from 1984-97, tops in the NFL.

Bowlen's 14 years of ownership have resulted in the best home record (88-25) in the AFC. Bowlen finished second in The Sporting News 1987 Executive of the Year balloting.

His franchise has won six division crowns, and has had regular season win totals of 13 (twice), 12 (twice), 11 (three times) and 10. In fact, eight of the nine finest campaigns in team history have come during the Bowlen regime.

In 1991 Bowlen's team had the greatest turnaround in team history, finishing with a 12-4 record that included the American Football Conference Western Division title and the fourth AFC Championship Game appearance of Bowlen's vibrant ownership.

Bowlen's focus for the coming year is to once again put his team in line to defend its title. The Broncos own AFC Championship wins in 1986, 1987, 1989 and 1997. Denver was the only AFC franchise to make three Super Bowl appearances in the 1980s and without question Pat Bowlen provides the organizational thrust that has served as the catalyst to the Broncos' outstanding record.

No one sets higher standards for the Broncos than Pat Bowlen himself, whose unchanging goal is to have his franchise annually regarded among the finest in pro football, with victory being the measuring stick for that success. Thus, the goal of Denver's dynamic and energetic chief executive remains firmly set on repeating the World Championship season of 1997.

The Broncos once again will pursue a championship season from their spacious headquarters, the Paul D. Bowlen Memorial Broncos Centre, a 60,000-square-foot state-of-the-art office and training complex in Arapahoe County's Dove Valley location. The move into this new facility, which came on March 5, 1990, accomplished one of Bowlen's significant goals, that being to upgrade the Broncos' working facility and in so doing solidify the foundation for continued success.

Pat Bowlen was introduced as the majority owner of the Denver Broncos on March 23, 1984, and that announcement triggered a new era in franchise history, one which has coupled success on the playing field with enthusiasm for an even brighter future.

He immediately put his own mark on the Broncos, establishing a solid administration and creating a positive atmosphere that was a major factor in the team's success both on and off the field.

The team responded with a 13-3 record and the American Football Conference Western Division championship in 1984, following that up with an 11-5 record that just barely kept the Broncos out of the playoffs in 1985.

Having established a solid foundation, Bowlen took a dramatic step toward the future during 1986 with the construction of 60 luxury Penthouse Suites atop the west side of Mile High Stadium.

Bowlen and the Bowlen family acquired 100% ownership of the Broncos franchise in July of 1985.

Born in Prairie du Chien, Wis., he attended high school there and went on to the University of Oklahoma, where he earned degrees in both business (1965) and law (1968).

He is President of the Denver Broncos Charities Fund and in that capacity has donated nearly $7 million to charitable organizations in the Denver area.

Bowlen has served as the Honorary Chairman of the Colorado Special Olympics for 13 years, and was that organization's Outstanding Celebrity in 1993. Bowlen has served as the Honorary Chairman of the Colorado Family Classic to benefit St. Joseph's Hospital for 14 years and this is his third year as Chairman of the Capuchin Friars fund-raising dinner. He also chaired the 1989 Centennial Scholarship rally at the University of Northern Colorado in Greeley and was Co-Chairman of the Rose Medical Center Critical Care Campaign from 1986-89.

In addition, Bowlen was elected to the University of Denver Board of Trustees in 1987, and is active on several committees. He chairs the Athletic Affairs Committee and plays a role in the Capital Campaign for major athletic gifts, while also serving on the Buildings and Grounds Committee. His previous DU committee memberships include the Institutional Advancement Committee and Institutional Advancement/University Relations subcommittee. He was also named to the Colorado Academy Board of Trustees in 1991.

He also serves on the Board of Trustees of the Hawaii Maritime Center and was the 1992 honoree at the American Ireland Fund dinner.

Bowlen is a member of several clubs and societies, including the Chief Executive's Organization, the Canadian and Edmonton Bar Associations, and the Law Society of Alberta. Bowlen is also a past member of the Young President's Organization.

He also is Chairman of the Board and Director of Hambledon Estates Limited, and Northern Development Company Limited of Edmonton.

Bowlen maintains an active lifestyle and exercises extensively as part of his daily regimen. He has competed in the Ironman Triathlon — an event in which one must swim 2.4 miles, ride 112 miles on a bicycle, and run 26.2 miles, all consecutively — as well as in other triathlon races and several marathons.

GENERAL MANAGER

JOHN BEAKE

John Beake enters the 1998 season in his 14th year as the Denver Broncos general manager, the longest such tenure in team history, and this period by far has marked the most successful era in franchise history, capped by the World Championship victory over Green Bay in Super Bowl XXXII.

The only general manager in the National Football League to be on a World Championship club as both an administrator and a coach — John was on the Kansas City coaching staff for their victory in Super Bowl IV — his 13 years as the Broncos general manager have included four Super Bowl appearances, five division titles, seven playoff appearances and a continuing string of sellouts at Mile High Stadium.

The Denver Broncos have earned international recognition as a model sports franchise that has developed a pattern of the highest success on and off the field, and John has played an integral role in the creation and continuance of this tradition.

Nineteen ninety-eight is John Beake's 30th year in professional football, his 21st with the Broncos, and his 39th overall season working in the sport. His career as an administrator and coach is highlighted by 327 wins on the professional, collegiate and high school level, a total unmatched by any other current NFL administrator. He has had a key role with teams or schools that have reached postseason play in 18 of those campaigns.

A member of five Super Bowl teams during his pro football career, he works closely with team President Pat Bowlen and Head Coach Mike Shanahan in assembling an organization that represents the Broncos and the Mile High City in the most successful and positive manner. John embodies the philosophy that one should combine performance with community involvement.

As general manager, he is responsible for the administration of all football operations functions as they relate to league matters. John also is responsible for NFL coordination and Broncos support to the NFL Europe League. He personally directs the Broncos' contractual relationships with local radio and television entities, and is in charge of all Bronco-related operations at Mile High Stadium.

John has perhaps the broadest range of experience of any NFL general manager, the only one in the league who has coached championship teams on the pro, college and high school levels, as well as having served in a wide variety of administrative roles.

John enters the 1998 campaign in his 21st year with the Denver Broncos. He has been a vital cog in a Denver club that has dominated the American Football Conference Western Division, winning more division titles (six) than any other AFC West team.

John Beake's prominence in the Broncos' hierarchy is paralleled by continuing respect within the NFL. Active in the NFL's international development, his involvement is one of the keys to the Broncos being among just two teams (along with San Francisco) to have been selected for American Bowl games in London, Tokyo (twice), Berlin, Barcelona and Mexico City. The Broncos' game last year at Mexico City against the Miami Dolphins marked Denver's sixth American Bowl game, with the 49ers being the only other team to have played that many. In addition, he played an integral role in Denver being the only American Football Conference club to win three conference crowns and thus make three Super Bowl appearances (XXI, XXII, and XXIV) in the 1980s.

In 1991 John was named to the Board of Directors of the World League of American Football, now NFL Europe. Now in his eighth year working with the board, he spends a considerable portion of time lending administrative guidance to the NFL Europe offices in New York. John was instrumental in determining the methodology by which NFL players are provided to the European league, beginning with the 1992 campaign.

In the 1993-94 seasons the World League was put on hold and John Beake played a major role in helping to restructure the WL to the format in which it exists today: six teams playing American Football in Europe. The commitment to take our game of football globally was maintained, and the resulting format provides solid structure, organization and the chance to give the NFL a grass-roots presence in Europe.

The NFL has had ever-increasing support of its European league, as 30 NFL players participated in the WL in 1995, with that number increasing to 69 for the 1996 campaign and almost doubling to 110 — representing all 30 teams — for the 1997 season. For the 1998 campaign NFL clubs allocated 97 players, all of whom came from either the 53-man rosters or the practice squads, a contribution which has led to this group being called the best assembly of players ever in NFL Europe. By steadily increasing the number of NFL players as reflected by the above totals, the skill level of the European league has jumped dramatically and the commitment of all 30 NFL teams is strongly demonstrated — NFL Europe is the only sports league outside America with the financial support of a United States league — a tribute to the vision and dedication which John Beake has contributed.

Along with his continuing commitment to NFL Europe, John serves as chairman of the NFL International Working Group, which is primarily comprised of other NFL general managers and player personnel directors. He is also a member of the NFL College Relations Committee.

One of his most visible Bronco accomplishments has been to provide a key leadership role in the construction of and move into the team's training facility, the Paul D. Bowlen Memorial Broncos Centre, a 60,000-square foot state-of-the-art complex in Arapahoe County. This project, several years in the planning stages, was the fulfillment of one of John's key goals as the Broncos' general manager.

In addition to contract involvement, one of John's prime areas of interest is working closely with city and state representatives on a variety of community concerns. For the past nine years, John has served as the chairman of the Red Ribbon Campaign, a strong educational anti-drug, chemical and substance abuse association that works in conjunction with the Colorado Federation of Parents.

An avid skier, he is on the Board of Directors of the National Sports Center for the Disabled at Winter Park, Colo., Ski Resort. The NSCD is heavily supported by the Denver Broncos Charities Fund. John is an annual participant in the Winter Park Pro-Am race to benefit the disabled skiers program. He is also involved with the Cancer League of Colorado, the Western Fantasy (Volunteers of America), and is a member of the St. Joseph's Foundation Board.

As part of the continuing plan to broaden the team's community role and strengthen a family spirit within the club, John is very supportive of the Performing Arts Center.

John served as assistant General Manager in 1984 and was the Broncos' Director of Football Operations the previous year, so his position at the helm of the club's administration is the culmination of a steady rise within the organization.

He joined the Broncos in 1979 as the Director of Pro Personnel and became Director of Player Personnel in 1981, having concentrated on the coaching aspects of the game prior to coming to Denver.

As assistant coach for the Kansas City Chiefs from 1968 through 1974, John was the offensive backfield coach for the Chiefs when they defeated the Minnesota Vikings to win Super Bowl IV in New Orleans. He also coached the running backs at New Orleans in 1976-77. On the college level, he coached at Penn State in 1961-62 and was the offensive coordinator at Colorado State University in 1975.

Upon receiving his master's degree from Penn State in 1962, John coached for six years at the high school level, where his teams lost just four games and won two championships at Nyack High School. He has a bachelor's degree from The College of New Jersey, in addition to his graduate degree from Penn State.

John was inducted into the College of New Jersey Hall of Fame in 1981, and in 1998 was inducted into the Long Branch High School Hall of Fame, in Long Branch, N.J.

John and his wife, Marcia, have three children, Jenilyn, Chip, and Chris.

VICE PRESIDENT OF BUSINESS OPERATIONS

DAVID WASS

Now in his third season as the Vice President of Business Operations for the Denver Broncos, David Wass has as his major project a key role in the campaign for Denver's new football stadium. Strategic planning, coordination, delivery of the Broncos message to the voting public, and future marketing of the project all come within his scope.

As part of his extremely active role in the planning process for all aspects of the new stadium, Mr. Wass works closely with important members of the political, business, and civic communities that make up the cultural fabric of the Mile High City.

Having brought a fresh perspective on marketing philosophy into the Broncos organization, Mr. Wass supervised the creation of marketing opportunities relative to the team's new logo and uniform design introduced in 1997, with the end result being Denver's rise to the top five among all NFL team in merchandise sales, according to the latest figures from NFL Properties.

He continues to work very closely with Nike and NFL Properties, who worked in conjunction with the Broncos in determining the team's popular new look.

Reporting to Denver Broncos President and Chief Executive Officer Pat Bowlen, Mr. Wass is responsible for all business and financial management, marketing and sales functions, media relations, ticket operations, and facilities and administrative operations for the National Football League team.

David Wass is a management professional with more than 20 years experience in directing business and marketing operations for retail organizations and super regional shopping centers.

He came to his new position with comprehensive expertise in the areas of fiscal planning and control, marketing, media relations, business planning, facilities management, human resource management, and community relations.

Mr. Wass joined the Broncos from The Taubman Company, for whom he served as General Manager of the Cherry Creek Shopping Center from 1989 until joining the Broncos in 1996. He was with The Taubman Company since 1984.

Under the leadership of David Wass, The Cherry Creek Shopping Center ranked in the top 1% of all shopping centers in terms of productivity nationwide, generating sales in excess of $350 million annually.

In his role at Cherry Creek Mr. Wass directed, coordinated, and oversaw the operations of this major regional shopping center, and as such was responsible for all business and marketing related functions.

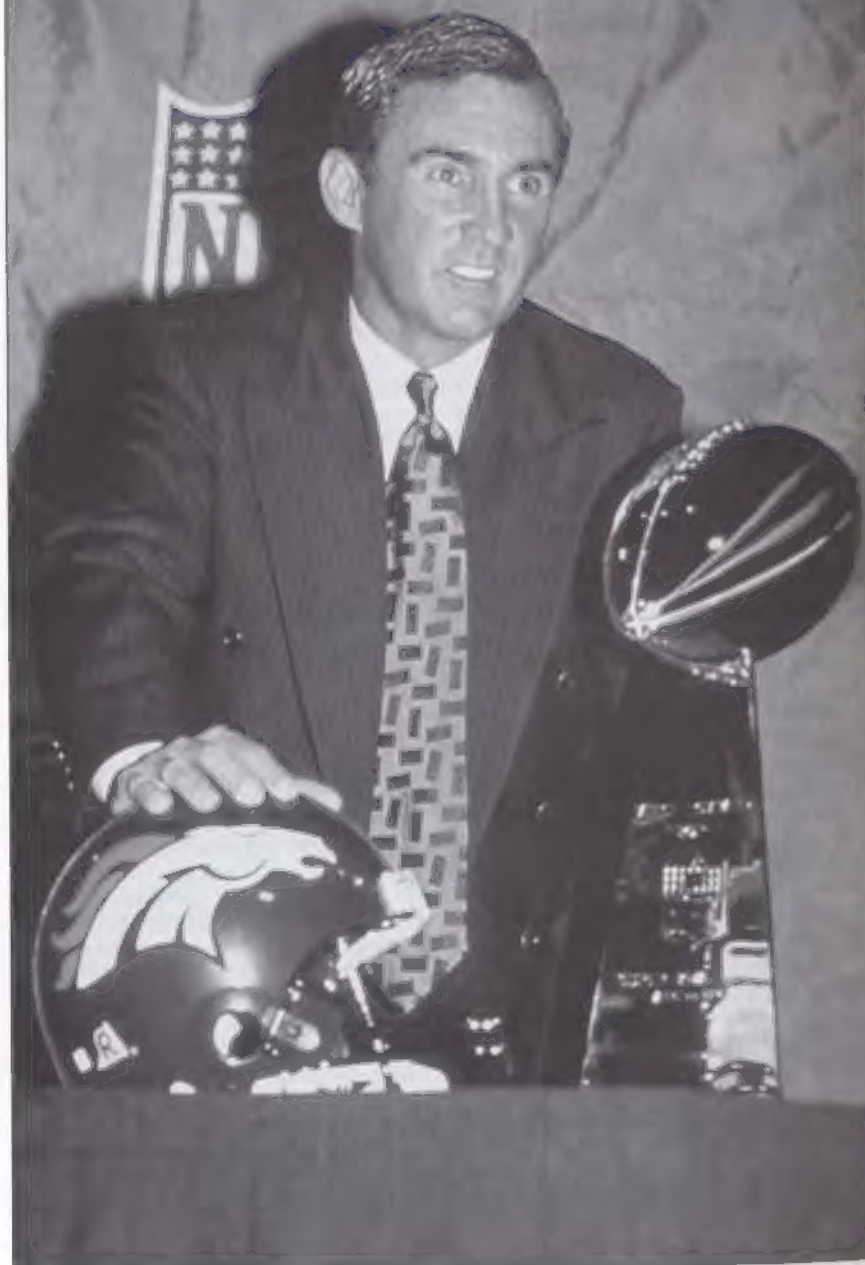

His previous experience with The Taubman Company included serving in a management capacity at four Michigan shopping centers, including the Lakeside Mall in Sterling Heights, the Fairlane Town Center in Dearborn, the Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi, and the Briarwood Mall in Ann Arbor.

HEAD COACH

Mike Shanahan joined an exclusive group of just five active NFL head coaches to have won a Super Bowl with Denver's 31-24 victory over Green Bay in Super Bowl XXXII last January. Shanahan has the best winning percentage (.688) of any head coach in club history, and has compiled a 22-2 home record at Mile High Stadium — including back-to-back undefeated campaigns — in his three seasons at the helm.

MIKE SHANAHAN

The World Champion Denver Broncos stand as the perfect symbol of a team manifesting the personality of its head coach — maintaining discipline, focus, preparation, mental toughness, and physical effort — all qualities indelibly stamped onto the franchise by Head Coach Mike Shanahan, whose superb guidance directed the Broncos to victory in Super Bowl XXXII.

Mike Shanahan took his career and the Broncos to a new level in 1997 as the intense and personable Denver Broncos head coach became one of just five active National Football League mentors with Super Bowl victories (joining, alphabetically, Mike Ditka, Mike Holmgren, Jimmy Johnson and Bill Parcells).

He is the only AFC head coach — and one of just three overall (Holmgren, Ditka) — to have won a Super Bowl as either a head coach or assistant with more than one team, and is the only one to win a Super Bowl in each conference.

While his seal of leadership already had been permanently ingrained into the entire Broncos organization, Shanahan took a step in the direction of legend when he joined Tom Flores as the only two coaches in pro football history to post four wins in one postseason.

In his third season at the helm of the Denver Broncos, Mike Shanahan not only led the Broncos to their first Super Bowl victory, but became the winningest active coach in postseason play in the process (4-1, .800).

The Broncos stormed through postseason play to their eventual World Championship with a home win over Jacksonville and subsequent road victories at Kansas City and Pittsburgh, defeating those Super Bowl contenders in their home parks on back-to-back weeks, answering any lingering questions about the status of Denver as the best team in the American Football Conference.

It has been widely documented that the Broncos posted one of the greatest upsets in Super Bowl history, played in perhaps the best Super Bowl game ever, and ended the National Football Conference's 13-year domination in the NFL's Championship Game.

The Broncos posted their win — in fact, their four wins — in convincing style.

Under Mike Shanahan's steady control and forceful leadership, the Broncos had no question that they were the best team in football, and their postseason performance reflected that belief every step of the way.

In 1997 postseason play, Denver scored nine touchdowns in nine goal-to-go situations, including four-of-four in Super Bowl XXXII.

Conversely, opponents started six drives in Denver territory in the postseason, netting just six points (two field goals).

Denver scored 13 touchdowns in 16 red zone opportunities in the postseason, and of the Broncos' 46 postseason possessions, Denver scored 16 times (14 touchdowns and two field goals), accomplishing that feat against teams with a combined record of 51-16 at the time of each game.

The Broncos had posted the biggest win by a sports team in Colorado history, and one of the most significant in NFL history, all with Shanahan pointing the way. The Broncos had entered the playoffs as a wild card, but their head coach never let the team's compass waver even slightly from the only goal he had ever set.

Mike Shanahan now has that glittering postseason record of 4-1, which added to a regular season mark of 33-15 give the him a combined record of 37-16 (an exceptional .698 percentage) in three years as head coach of the Broncos. Not only is that record the best among all coaches in Denver history, but his home record at Mile High Stadium is a staggering 22-2 (.917) in regular season play.

Last year he directed a Denver offense that scored a total of 583 points (29.2 per game) during the entire 1997 season, the fifth-highest total in NFL history and the second-highest total in AFC history for a combined regular and postseason. The all-time high of 636 points came from the 1994 World Champion San Francisco 49ers, for whom Shanahan was the offensive coordinator.

He led his team to a 12-4 regular season record in 1997, marking the first time in franchise history that the team has won 12 or more games in back-to-back seasons.

Since Mike Shanahan took over the Broncos' coaching reins in 1995, Denver has scored 30 or more points 24 times (including twice in postseason) and 20 or more points 39 times (including four times in postseason) in the 53 regular and postseason games of Shanahan's career. Denver's record in the 24 games in which it has scored 30 or more points under Shanahan is an amazing 23-1 (2-0 in postseason), including a 16-0 mark (1-0 in postseason) at Mile High Stadium.

His high-powered offense reached 30 points a franchise-record nine times during the 1997 regular season and twice in the postseason. Denver also broke the franchise record for most points in a season (previously 391 in 1996) in just their 13th game of 1997 and broke the record for most touchdowns in a season (previously 47 in 1996) in just their 14th game.

Over the last six years (three in Denver and the previous three in San Francisco) Mike Shanahan's offenses have finished No. 1 in the NFL four times, second once and third once, falling just 17 yards and 83 yards short, respectively, from the No. 1 spot in those two seasons.

Shanahan in 1996 led his club to a 13-3 record that was the best in the NFL as well as the finest record in Denver history, earning both NFL Coach of the Year (Touchdown Club of Columbus) and AFC Coach of the Year (Kansas City 101 Club) honors for 1996.

His team's performance in 1996 gave notice that this is a regime driven by a single goal, that of taking the Broncos to the pinnacle of pro football success. The Broncos were undefeated in October and November as they ultimately built their record to 12-1 in clinching their division title and playoff berth on December 1, thus becoming one of the earliest teams to clinch in NFL history. In clinching home-field advantage on Dec. 1 as well, the Broncos joined the 1985 Chicago Bears as the only two teams in the past 27 years to accomplish that by Week 13.

While the disappointment of Denver's 1996 playoff loss to Jacksonville gripped Shanahan as much as it did the entire region, it also served to further his resolve to return the Broncos to that level once again.

A dynamic and disciplined leader who has completely revitalized the Denver organization over the past two years, Shanahan is the lightning rod from which the entire organization takes its direction and energy.

Under Shanahan's tutelage the Broncos led the entire NFL in total offense in 1996, after having rewritten the Denver record books in 1995. In fact, the last three Broncos' seasons have produced the most prolific three-year total offense statistics in franchise history.

Renowned for his organizational ability and recognized as one of the brightest offensive strategists in football, Shanahan has restructured both the team and the entire football operations department of the Broncos to deal successfully with the new personnel and financial dynamics of pro football.

In his first season as the Denver Broncos' head coach, Shanahan improved the team to a .500 record (8-8) and contention in the very competitive AFC Western Division, while immediately stamping the Denver offense with his signature as the most productive unit in the AFC, finishing third in the entire NFL. Under Shanahan in 1995, the Broncos had the most prolific offense in franchise history, breaking team records in points scored (388), total yardage (6,040), total passing yardage (4,260), first downs passing (205) and highest average gain per play (5.7), while tying the team records for touchdown passes (27) and average gain per rush (4.5). At the same time, the Bronco defense improved 13 positions, from last in the NFL the previous year to 15th under Shanahan's leadership.

Denver Broncos President and Chief Executive Officer Pat Bowlen named Mike Shanahan as Head Coach of his NFL franchise on January 31, 1995, ushering in a new era for a team that has made four Super Bowl appearances under Bowlen's ownership. The Broncos' head coach has a seven-year contract and complete control of all aspects of football operations.

Shanahan, 45, came to Denver from the World Champion San Francisco 49ers, where he served as offensive coordinator for three seasons (1992-94). The 49ers' offense reached astonishing levels under Shanahan's leadership. San Francisco's three-year offensive averages under Shanahan's direction were the most productive in the history of pro football. His three-year averages included being number one in total points (an average of 470 per year), total touchdowns (61), rushing TDs (24), passing TDs (32), third-down efficiency (49%), total offense (an average of 6,225 yards annually) and average yards per play (6.2 yards per attempt).

His three-year period as offensive coordinator included the 49ers setting numerous team records during Shanahan's tenure, including the first time ever that San Francisco led the NFL in total offense in consecutive seasons (1993 and 1994), along with remarkable records for most touchdowns (66), passing yards (4,302), total offense (6,435), first downs (372), completion percentage (70.3 %), and average yards per play (6.30).

San Francisco quarterback Steve Young re-wrote many NFL passing records and was named the NFL most valuable player twice in his three years under Shanahan's guidance, in addition to throwing for six touchdowns and earning Super Bowl XXIX most valuable player honors.

During his NFL career Shanahan has been a part of teams that have played in eight AFC or NFC Championship Games, in addition to his five Super Bowl appearances, four with Denver and the Super Bowl XXIX game with San Francisco. In his nine seasons coaching at the collegiate level, Shanahan's teams participated in eight bowl games, winning two national championships.

A driving force behind the Broncos' offense for all three of their Super Bowl appearances in the 1980s (following the 1986, 1987, and 1989 seasons), he first came to Denver in 1984 as coach of the club's wide receivers. He served as offensive coordinator from 1985-87, and then returned to Denver as quarterbacks coach on Oct. 16, 1989, after serving as head coach of the Los Angeles Raiders in 1988 and through the first four games of the 1989 campaign. Shanahan inherited a team that was 5-10 in 1987 and improved it to 7-9 his first season. After starting 1-3 the following year, he was dismissed.

His second stint in Denver included not only the 1989 Super Bowl appearance by the Broncos, but the team's fourth AFC Championship Game appearance of the Bowlen era (1991 at Buffalo), with Shanahan again serving as offensive coordinator.

A native of Oak Park, Ill. (8/24/52), Michael Edward Shanahan attended East Leyden High School in Franklin Park, where he earned numerous honors. In a student body population of 2,500, Shanahan was voted athlete of the year as well as most valuable player in both football and track. He set a still-standing single-game school record with 258 yards rushing on 17 carries (a 15.2 average).

He received a scholarship to Eastern Illinois University, where he played quarterback and lost a kidney in the spring game of his junior year, which began his coaching career a year earlier than was intended. Mike also received his bachelor's and master's degrees at EIU.

He began his coaching career at Oklahoma in 1975-76, serving as the offensive backfield and receivers coach for the Sooners, and they won the national championship in his first year on their staff (1975).

Shanahan was Northern Arizona's backfield coach in 1977 at the age of 24, and the Lumberjacks averaged a school-record 391.1 yards that season. A year later, Shanahan returned to Eastern Illinois as offensive coordinator and helped guide his alma mater to the Division II title. The year before Shanahan's arrival the team was 1-10. In 1979 he served as offensive coordinator at Minnesota, where he implemented the run-and-shoot offense, with the result being that the Gophers set 40 school offensive records. Mike moved on to Florida the following year, inheriting the second poorest offense in Division I football, as well as a team record of 0-10-1. In Mike's four years the team broke many offensive school records and went to four straight bowl games. During his stint at the college coaching level, his teams had a combined record of 77-29-3.

Recognized as one of the most dynamic offensive minds in the game, Shanahan thus was an assistant coach in college at age 21, an offensive coordinator at the Division I level by 25 and at the NFL level at 32 in his first Denver stint.

Mike and his wife Peggy have two children, son Kyle and daughter Krystal.

ASSISTANT COACHESFRANK BUSH • LINEBACKERS

NFL Season: 7th (4th year with Broncos)

Frank Bush is in his fourth season as linebackers coach for the Denver Broncos, a position in which he has overseen steady progress each year, contributing to the overall improvement of the Broncos defense.

He joined the Broncos staff in 1995 after spending the previous 10 years with the Houston Oilers as a player, scout and assistant coach.

Bush's linebacking corps played a pivotal role in the Broncos' 1997 World Championship run, producing the team's No. 1 and No. 2 tacklers — John Mobley (162) and Bill Romanowski (117) — and featuring a first-team Associated Press All-Pro selection in Mobley. That followed Romanowski's Pro Bowl invitation in 1996 — the first of his nine-year career to that point — to give a Denver linebacker a significant individual award for the second consecutive season.

With Mobley blossoming into one of the game's brightest young defensive stars and Romanowski continuing to play at an elite level, Bush will again be armed with a talented assortment of youth and veteran leadership at the linebacker position in 1998.

The linebacking corps was much improved in 1996, following the addition of Romanowski through free agency and Mobley through the draft. They joined Allen Aldridge to form an outstanding starting group that played a major role in the Broncos' improvement to the No. 4 defensive ranking in the NFL.

In his first year in Denver, Bush's linebackers were part of a defensive unit that improved its league ranking by 13 places to figure 15th overall in the NFL.

Bush began his coaching career in 1992, when he coached the linebackers for the Oilers. Under Bush's tutelage, several members of the linebacking corps earned postseason honors as the Oilers boasted one of the most aggressive defenses in the NFL.

Before his coaching tenure with Houston, Bush was a college scout for the Oilers from 1987-92. During that period Bush was the primary college scout in the Western states, helping to bring in some of the players who made the Oilers a very successful team during his tenure.

Bush, 35, was considered one of the most talented young players during his two years in the NFL until a spinal injury prematurely ended his career. In 1985 he played in all 16 games with 11 starts and contributed 114 tackles and four sacks (including two of John Elway). For his efforts, he was selected to UPI's first-team All-NFL rookie squad.

Bush was a fifth-round draft choice of the Oilers in 1985 out of North Carolina State. As a three-year starter for the Wolfpack he recorded 247 tackles, 15 sacks and four interceptions. He majored in communications while at N.C. State.

A native of Athens, Ga., Bush starred at Clarke Central High School in his hometown. While at Clarke, Bush was recruited to play football at North Carolina State by current Broncos defensive coordinator Greg Robinson. Bush was born Jan. 10, 1963.

Frank and his wife, Stephanie, reside in Aurora, Colo.

BARNEY CHAVOUS • ASST. OFF. LINE/ASST. STRENGTH & COND.

NFL Season: 10th (all with Broncos)

Barney Chavous is in his 10th season with the Broncos' coaching staff, assisting Alex Gibbs with the offensive line and Rich Tuten with the strength and conditioning program for the fourth straight year. He joined the coaching staff in 1988 as a coaching intern.

During his nine-year tenure, Chavous has coached with such defensive greats as Earl Leggett (most recently with New York Giants) and Pro Football Hall of Famer Ernie Stautner.

Over the past three seasons, the Broncos' offensive line has made a dramatic improvement under the tutelage of Gibbs and Chavous, culminating in a dominant performance throughout the 1997 playoffs that was instrumental in the franchise claiming its first World Championship.

Over the two-year span from 1995-96 the Broncos' offensive line allowed just 57 sacks, sixth-fewest in the NFL, third-fewest in the AFC and the lowest two-year total in franchise history.

Chavous, 47, was a standout defensive end for the Broncos from 1973-85 and currently ranks third on the Broncos' all-time sacks list with 75. He is one of only six former Broncos to play 13 or more years with the club, and also started at defensive end for the Broncos in Super Bowl XII as part of the famed "Orange Crush" defense. He finished his career having played in 182 games in a Bronco uniform (fifth all-time), including 177 starts (tied for third all-time). In 1973, he was named NFLPA Rookie of the Year and made the UPI and AP All-Rookie teams. He was also named the Pittsburgh Courier's NFL Defensive Lineman of the Year in 1978 after being a second-round draft pick of the Broncos in 1973.

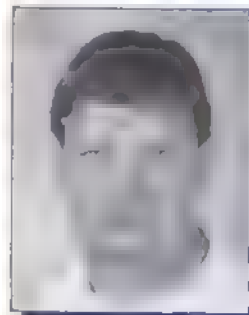

Chavous was an all-conference selection at South Carolina State, where he was a three-year starter, and was named the team's most valuable player as well as earning Associated Press All-America honors as a senior.

Chavous has been inducted into the Mid-Eastern Atlantic Conference Hall of Fame, the Aiken County Hall of Fame (1987), the South Carolina Sports Hall of Fame (1992) and the South Carolina State University Athletic Hall of Fame (1998).

A native of Aiken, S.C. (3/22/51), Chavous and his wife Odessa reside in Englewood with their four children: sons Shedric and Barney Amon, and daughters Jasmine and Nikeya Monique.

RICK DENNISON • SPECIAL TEAMS

NFL Season: 4th (all with Broncos)

Rick Dennison is in his fourth season on the Broncos' coaching staff and his second as special teams coach.

Under his guidance in 1997 the Broncos' special teams played an instrumental role in leading the franchise to its first World Championship. Darren Gordon tied for the NFL lead with three touchdowns on punt returns and ranked second in the NFL in punt return average (13.6), while Vaughn Hebronn ranked sixth in the AFC (23.5) in kickoff return average. Jason Elam ranked second in the AFC (4th NFL) in scoring (124) and Tom Rouen ranked fourth in the AFC (5th NFL) in net punting average.

As a unit, Denver's kickoff and kick coverage teams ranked among the league leaders, as the Broncos recorded an average drive start of 28.6 (2nd AFC/4th NFL), while forcing their opponents to an average drive start of 24.4 (4th AFC/9th NFL). Denver also led the NFL in punt return average (13.5).

A former standout linebacker for the club, Dennison joined the coaching staff in 1995 after spending the previous three years coaching at Suffield Academy in Connecticut. He served for two years in Denver as an offensive assistant, providing quality control work and assistance of all types to the offensive coaching staff before being promoted to his current post Feb. 12, 1997.

In Dennison's two years on the offensive staff the Broncos' offense posted the most prolific two-year total offense numbers in franchise history, including a No. 1 NFL total offense ranking in 1996.

and a bevy of franchise offensive records set in both seasons.

Dennison, 40, played inside linebacker for the Broncos from 1982-90, playing in 128 games, including 52 starts and three Super Bowls. In 1989, he received the Ed Block Memorial Award for Courage. Dennison ranked second on the team in tackles in 1988 with 133 and led the team with three fumble recoveries.

Perhaps the best performance of his career came in a 1987 playoff game against Houston when he registered eight tackles and a quarterback pressure. He also had an excellent season in 1984 when he had 164 stops and a career-high three sacks in his first full season as a starter. Dennison was a free agent acquisition by the Broncos in 1982.

Dennison joined the Broncos in 1982 after a fine college career at Colorado State where he was a second team Academic All-American as a senior and earned three varsity letters. In 1979, Dennison received his bachelor's degree in civil engineering from CSU, followed by a master's degree in the same field from CSU in 1982.

Dennison, born in Kalispell, Mont., on June 22, 1958, attended Rocky Mountain High School in Fort Collins where he lettered in football, basketball and baseball. His father, George, is president of the University of Montana.

Rick and his sons, Joseph and Steven, reside in Englewood, Colo.

ED DONATELL • DEFENSIVE BACKS

NFL Season: 9th (4th year with Broncos)

Ed Donatell is in his fourth season as defensive backs coach for the Broncos after spending the previous five seasons in the same capacity with the New York Jets.

Donatell and Broncos defensive coordinator Greg Robinson brought to Denver in 1995 a new, more aggressive style of defense that has dramatically improved the Broncos' league total defense ranking from 28th in 1994 — the year prior to their arrival — to No. 4 in 1996. Denver remained among the league's top five in 1997 with a No. 5 ranking.

In particular, Donatell's defensive backs have boosted the unit's ranking against the pass at a steady progression, improving an inherited No. 28 ranking to No. 9 in 1995, then No. 10 in 1996 and up to No. 5 in 1997 as the franchise claimed its first World Championship.

The defensive backfield unit enters 1998 with all four starters returning from last year's Super Bowl team, and should receive an additional boost from the reintroduction of promising young cornerback Tory James, whose 1997 season was wiped out by a severe knee injury suffered in the preseason opener.

Donatell has seen several of his players go on to receive postseason honors in his career, most recently safety Steve Atwater who earned his seventh straight Pro Bowl invitation in 1996, and safety Tyrone Braxton who was selected to his first the same year. While Donatell was in New York, Jets safety Brian Washington was an All-Pro selection in 1993 by Football Digest. Donatell has not only worked with future Hall of Famers such as Ronnie Lott, but has also been instrumental in the development of such younger players as James Hasty and Aaron Glenn while in New York.

Donatell, 41, joined the Jets in 1990 after prior coaching stints on the collegiate level at Cal State Fullerton (1989), Idaho (1986-88), Pacific (1983-85), Washington (1981-82) and Kent State (1979-80).

A native of Akron, Ohio, Donatell attended Glenville State in West Virginia where he was a four-year letterman and was named all-conference as a defensive back. He earned his bachelor's degree in physical education and then went on to earn his master's from Kent State in administration.

Donatell (2/4/57), his wife Shari, daughter Brenna (11) and sons Thomas (9) and Steven (4) reside in Lone Tree, Colo.

GEORGE DYER • DEFENSIVE LINE

NFL Season: 17th (4th year with Broncos)

George Dyer is in his 17th season coaching in the NFL and his fourth with the Broncos as defensive line coach, following a three-year stint in Los Angeles where he was the Rams' defensive coordinator and defensive line coach (1992-94). Dyer joined the Rams staff after nine years with the Seattle Seahawks (1983-91) where he was also in charge of the defensive line, and one year with the Buffalo Bills (1982).

His defensive line unit in 1997 boasted three players with at least eight sacks — defensive ends Neil Smith and Alfred Williams, and defensive tackle Maa Tanuvasa each with 8.5 — spearheading a defensive group that posted 44 for the season, the highest Denver total since 1993. Tanuvasa, a Dyer pupil on the Rams' practice squad in 1993, showed considerable growth in his third season.

Under Dyer's tutelage, Smith was voted to his sixth Pro Bowl in 1997, as part of a unit that utilized as many eight players in an effective rotation throughout the season. Smith, Tanuvasa, Williams and defensive tackle Keith Traylor return as starters in 1998 with strong challenges coming from veteran tackle Mike Lodish, ends Harald Hassebach and Marvin Washington and promising young tackles Trevor Pryce (1997 No. 1 pick) and David Richie.

In his first two seasons in Denver, Dyer's defensive line has helped the entire defensive unit improve its league ranking from 28th in 1994 to fourth in '96 — including a No. 1 ranking against the rush.

During his tenure in the NFL, Dyer has coached All-Pro linemen wherever he has been, including six-time Pro Bowler Fred Smerias and Ben Williams in Buffalo, Jacob Green, Cortez Kennedy and Joe Nash in Seattle and Sean Gilbert in Los Angeles. While in Denver he has tutored Pro Bowl players in Alfred Williams (1996) and Neil Smith (1997). Dyer's 1994 Rams defense ranked seventh in the NFC and 12th in the league against the pass and their defensive line gave up an average of just 3.6 net yards per rush, which tied them for third in the NFC and sixth in the NFL.

In 1983, Dyer's defensive line in Seattle averaged 2.7 sacks per game, as the Seahawks advanced to the AFC Championship Game for the only time in their history. Prior to joining the Bills, Dyer served as defensive coordinator at Arizona State (1980-81) and at Michigan State (1977-79). He also coached for the Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Canadian Football League from 1974-76 and had stints with San Jose State (1973) and Idaho (1972).

Dyer, 57, started his coaching career at Humboldt State (1964-66) before becoming head coach at Coalinga Junior College in Central California, in 1967. He was the defensive coordinator at Portland State from 1968-71.

As a player, Dyer was a center and linebacker at UC Santa Barbara from 1961-63. He attended San Gabriel High School in San Gabriel, Calif.

George (5/4/40), born in Alhambra, California, makes his home in Aurora, Colo., with his wife Marjorie. They have five children: sons George and Doak, and daughters Tami, Darci, and Marni.

ALEX GIBBS • ASST. HEAD COACH / OFFENSIVE LINE

NFL Season: 15th (4th year with Broncos)

Alex Gibbs is in the fourth year of his second tour of duty with the Broncos in 1997, and his 35th year overall in coaching. He returned in 1995 to assume the role of assistant head coach/offensive line coach under Mike Shanahan.

Gibbs, who coached in Denver from 1984-87, has coached for every franchise in the AFC West except Seattle, spending time with the Raiders (1988-89), Chargers (1990-91) and Chiefs (1993-94) in addition to two tenures in Denver.

His offensive line unit played an integral role in Denver's 1997 World Championship run, clearing the way for an astonishing rushing average of 187 yards-per-game in the playoffs.

In Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay, Gibbs' offensive line bullied the opposition for 179 rushing yards — 100 of which came in the second half when the Broncos controlled the clock and the line of scrimmage en route to the historic win. In all, Denver running backs recorded a total of 15 100-yard games over the course of the 20-game regular season and postseason slate, including running back Terrell Davis' 157-yard MVP effort in the Super Bowl.

The offensive line received a rare group award following Denver's 1997 Wild Card win over Jacksonville, as the entire unit was named NFL Offensive Player of the Week, marking just the second time in NFL history such an award has been bestowed to an offensive line.

The line has propelled Davis to three straight 1,000-yard seasons — including a franchise-record 1,750 yards and his second-straight Pro Bowl invitation in 1997. The Broncos ranked No. 1 in the NFL in rushing in 1996 and No. 5 in 1997, while the offense overall has led the NFL two years running. The 1997 team also led the NFL in scoring (472) and touchdowns (55), setting franchise records in each category.

While the strength of the offensive line has been its ability to function as a unit, left tackle Gary Zimmerman received individual acclaim with Pro Bowl honors in both 1995 and '96, while center Tom Nalen made his first trip to Honolulu following the '97 season.

It has been Gibbs' ability to mold that unit into the league's best that has allowed the Broncos' offense to put up the most prolific three-year totals in franchise history over the 1995-97 seasons. He had worked the same magic in Kansas City, dropping the Chiefs' sack total from 48 in 1992 to 19 in '94. Under his guidance, tackle John Alt and guard Will Shields earned Pro Bowl and consensus all-rookie honors, respectively, in 1993, as the Chiefs advanced to the AFC Championship Game.

In the first two years after his return Denver (1995-96), Gibbs succeeded at the very task that had formed the basis for his glowing reputation in the NFL, reducing the number of sacks allowed. Gibbs' offensive line allowed just 57 sacks over the those two seasons — a dramatic reduction from the total of 55 allowed in 1994 alone, prior to Gibbs' return. The 57 sacks (26 in '95 / 31 in '96) were the sixth-fewest in the NFL over that two-year period (third in the AFC) and the lowest two-year total in franchise history.

In 1992, Gibbs was the offensive line coach for the Indianapolis Colts, whose sack total dropped by 13 in the one season he was there. Prior to that, he spent the 1990-91 seasons in San Diego, where he helped put together a line that propelled the Chargers to the second-best rushing offense in the league in 1991 with an average output of 140.5 yards per game. The Chargers were the league's third-most potent rushing offense in 1990, averaging 141.1 yards per game.

Gibbs spent the 1988-89 seasons with the Los Angeles Raiders, where he coached with current Bronco head coach, and then-Raiders head coach Mike Shanahan. While at Los Angeles, he helped to groom the talents of guard Steve Wisniewski, who has been an All-Pro selection nine years running.

Gibbs had first become an NFL assistant in 1984 with the Broncos, serving as the club's offensive line coach for four seasons. He was part of a staff that saw Denver earn trips to two straight Super Bowls (XXI and XXII). Under Gibbs' guidance, guard Keith Bishop earned All-Pro and Pro Bowl honors in 1986 and '87.

Gibbs coached at the collegiate level for 13 seasons before entering the pro ranks. He worked at Duke (1969-70) and Kentucky (1971-72) before moving to West Virginia (1973-74), where he worked under head coach Bobby Bowden. He then became the offensive coordinator/line coach at Ohio State (1975-78) where his line troops opened up the holes that enabled Archie Griffin to claim back-to-back Heisman Trophy awards. In 1979, Gibbs became offensive coordinator at Auburn, a position he held for three seasons. He then coached the offensive line at Georgia from 1982-83. Gibbs also spent three years at Mount Airy (N.C.) High School where he won a pair of state championships.

Gibbs, 57, is a native of Morganton, N.C., where he was a running back and defensive back at Davidson College. He studied pre-law and then earned his master's degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in European history, and later received his doctorate in education from Auburn.

Gibbs is not the only athlete in his family. His son David was a defensive back on Colorado's 1990 National Championship team, where his teammates included current Broncos Alfred Williams and Tom Rouen. Gibbs' son Mark played at UCLA, and his son Chuck played for Army. David is currently the defensive coordinator/defensive backs coach at Minnesota.

Alex (2/22/41) resides in Englewood, Colo. He is the father of five children: sons Steve, David, Chuck and Mark, and daughter Sandy.

MIKE HEIMERDINGER • WIDE RECEIVERS

NFL Season: 4th (all with Broncos)

Mike Heimerdinger is in his fourth year coaching the Broncos' wide receivers, coming off three successful seasons in which his receiving corps has helped propel the Broncos' offense to its most prolific three-year statistical showing ever, culminating in the franchise's first World Championship last year.

Heimerdinger has not only enhanced the performance of veteran receivers like Ed McCaffrey and Willie Green, but has also been influential in the development of young receivers such as Rod Smith, who had a breakout year in 1997 in his third year under Heimerdinger's tutelage.

McCaffrey caught a career-high eight touchdown passes last year (5th AFC), while Smith established himself as a big-play threat with career highs in receptions (70), yards (1,180) and touchdowns (12), ranking among the league leaders in all three categories.

Added to that arsenal in 1998 is No. 1 draft choice Marcus Nash from Tennessee, who adds a deep-threat dimension to the receiving corps.

Heimerdinger came to Denver in 1995 from Duke University where he was the offensive coordinator and offensive backs coach in 1994. In his one season at Duke he directed an offense that finished 15th in the country in scoring (32.7 per game), putting up over 40 points on five occasions. The Blue Devils enjoyed one of the finest seasons in school history in 1994, finishing with an 8-3 regular season record and earning a bid to the Hall of Fame Bowl, only their second bowl appearance in 35 years.

Heimerdinger also helped to develop the skills of running back Robert Baldwin, who led the Atlantic Coast Conference in rushing with 1,187 yards and also had 12 touchdowns.

The 45-year-old Heimerdinger has a history of running successful offensive units. While coaching at Rice from 1989-93, he ran an attack that produced 1991 Doak Walker Award winner Trevor Cobb and quarterbacks Donald Haskins and Bert Emmanuel. The Owls pulled off a rare feat during Heimerdinger's tenure, as they produced the school's first back-to-back winning seasons since 1960-61.

Prior to his stay with Rice, Heimerdinger was the offensive coordinator at Cal State Fullerton in 1988. Among the offensive records recorded by his unit that season was a new standard for points in a game (58).

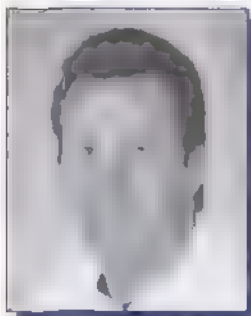

Heimerdinger began his coaching career in 1975 as head coach at Johnsbrough High School in McHenry, Ill., where he remained for five years before accepting a graduate assistant position at Florida in 1980. One-year stints at Air Force (1981) and as quarterbacks coach at North Texas (1982) followed, before Heimerdinger returned to Florida (1983-87). Two years at Florida (1980, '83) came while his former college teammate Mike Shanahan was the Gators' offensive coordinator, also coinciding with Broncos' strength coach Rich Tuten's tenure in Gainesville (1980-88). With Shanahan as offensive coordinator and Heimerdinger as receivers coach in 1983, the Gators ranked among the nation's top passing teams. They also enjoyed bowl success during Heimerdinger's tenure, playing in the 1983 Gator Bowl and 1987 Aloha Bowl, while also posting identical 9-1-1 records in both 1984 and 1985.

Heimerdinger earned his bachelor's degree in history from Eastern Illinois in 1975, and his master's in administration from Northern Illinois. He played wide receiver at Eastern from 1970-74, and also played for the Panther's baseball team as a centerfielder, participating in the Division II College World Series in 1974.

Heimerdinger was born in DeKalb, Ill., Oct. 13, 1952. He and his wife Kathie live in Highlands Ranch, Colo., with their daughter, Alicia, and son, Brian.

GARY KUBIAK • OFFENSIVE COORDINATOR/QUARTERBACKS

NFL Season: 5th (4th year with Broncos)

Gary Kubiak is in his fourth season as Denver's offensive coordinator in 1998, coming off three highly successful seasons in which the offensive unit has produced numbers unparalleled in the history of the organization, culminating in the franchise's first World Championship in 1997.

Kubiak is now one of just eight NFL coaches to win a Super Bowl with two different franchises (San Francisco, 1994) and one of just five to win a title with a team from each conference.

He returned to the Broncos organization in 1995 with head coach Mike Shanahan, after the pair coached together in 1994 in San Francisco, with Shanahan as offensive coordinator, Kubiak as quarterbacks coach and fellow Broncos assistant coach Brian Pannell (tight ends) as an offensive assistant.

Kubiak's return to Denver — where he had played quarterback behind All-Pro John Elway from 1983-91 — has been an overwhelming success. The Broncos offense has ranked No. 1 in the National Football League each of the past two seasons — a first in franchise history — and the total offensive numbers produced in Kubiak's first three years at the controls mark the most prolific three-year totals in club annals.

The Broncos have set new single-season standards for touchdowns, points scored and yards per rush in each of the past two seasons, and have scored 30 or more points in a game 24 times (including twice in postseason) in the 53 regular and postseason games since Kubiak's hire.

Denver has sent 11 offensive players to the Pro Bowl in Kubiak's three seasons as offensive coordinator, and is the only team in NFL history to produce a 3,000-yard passer (John Elway), a 1,500-yard rusher (Terrell Davis) and a 1,000-yard receiver (Shannon Sharpe and Rod Smith in '97) two years in a row, doing so in 1996 and '97. Davis won the AFC rushing title (2nd NFL) with 1,750 yards in 1997, and went on to win Super Bowl Most Valuable Player honors en route to an all-time NFL record for rushing attempts and yards in a combined regular and postseason.

Elway, Davis, Sharpe and center Tom Nalen earned Pro Bowl berths in '97 while the offense set club records for points (472; 1st in NFL), touchdowns (55, 1st in NFL) and yards per rush (4.6). The rushing total of 2,378 yards was the highest since the team record of 2,451 was set in 1978.

The Broncos led the NFL in total offense for the first time in 1996 after figuring third (1st AFC) in '95 with a franchise-record 377.5 yards-per-game average. The '96 club set a new team record for total points (391) and tied the record for highest average gain per rush (4.5) which was set a year prior, in Kubiak's first season. Davis led the AFC in rushing (2nd NFL), broke five team records, was named AFC Offensive Player of the Year and was selected to his first Pro Bowl.

Davis and Elway joined tight end Shannon Sharpe and tackle Gary Zimmerman to give Denver four offensive players in the Pro Bowl. The 1996 Broncos offense, under Kubiak's direction, became just the fifth in NFL history — and first in Broncos history — to produce a 3,000-yard passer (Elway — 3,328), 1,500-yard rusher (Davis — 1,538) and 1,000-yard receiver (Sharpe — 1,062) in the same season.

Kubiak wasted no time making an impact in his first season as offensive coordinator, as the 1995 Broncos broke team records for points scored (388), total yards (6,040), passing yards (4,260), first downs passing (205) and highest average gain per play (5.7; tops in the AFC). Individually, wide receiver Anthony Miller topped the 1,000-yard mark (1,079) and set a franchise record for touchdown receptions (14), while Davis topped the 1,000-yard rushing mark (1,117) and finished second in the NFL Rookie of the Year balloting. Overall, three members of the Broncos offensive unit — Miller, Sharpe and Zimmerman — were chosen to play in the Pro Bowl.

During the 1994 season, Kubiak coached the league's most dominating quarterback, Steve Young, in San Francisco. Young not only led the 49ers to a victory in Super Bowl XXIX, but he also earned Super Bowl MVP honors, as well as the NFL's Most Valuable Player award, besides setting numerous passing records during the campaign. He also became the NFL's all-time passer-rating leader and the first quarterback to lead the league in passing four years in a row.

Prior to his year in San Francisco, Kubiak coached the running backs at his alma mater, Texas A&M, from 1992-93. During his two seasons the Aggies posted a record of 22-3 and played in back-to-back Cotton Bowls. His star pupil at A&M was Greg Hill, a first-round pick by Kansas City in 1994. Hill was second-team All-America as a junior (The Sporting News) and first-team All-Southwest Conference, as well as an All-SWC pick as a senior by the Dallas Morning News, despite missing four games. He rushed for 2,046 yards and 21 touchdowns in Kubiak's two years at College Station. Also in Kubiak's backfield was current Broncos fullback Detron Smith, as well as eventual All-America running back Leeland McElroy, a second-round pick by Arizona in 1996.

Prior to his coaching career, Kubiak played nine seasons (1983-91) as a quarterback for the Broncos. During that time he was a member of three Super Bowl teams and appeared in 11 of the 14 playoff games played by the Broncos during his tenure. He played in 119 games for Denver (second all-time among quarterbacks behind John Elway), with five starts over that period (4-1 record). Kubiak completed 173 passes in 298 attempts for 2,020 yards, with 16 interceptions and 14 touchdowns. He also rushed for 238 yards and two touchdowns, and his completion percentage of .581 is the second-best mark in team history. Kubiak also holds the Broncos' single-season record for interception avoidance with a mark of .013 (one interception in 75 attempts), set in 1984.

Kubiak's finest moment as a Bronco was probably in his final performance in a Denver uniform, when he relieved an injured John Elway in the 1992 AFC Championship Game at Buffalo (1/12/92) and completed 11-of-12 passes for 102 yards and added 22 yards rushing, as the Broncos fell to the Bills 10-7. He entered the game in the fourth quarter and drove the Broncos into Buffalo territory three times, including an 85-yard touchdown drive that cut Denver's deficit to three points. Kubiak was an eighth-round draft pick of the Broncos in 1983.

As a player at Texas A&M, Kubiak made the Player's All-SWC team in 1982 and earned appearances in the Blue-Gray and Hula Bowl all-star games. In 1982 he led the SWC in attempts (324), completions (181), percentage (.559), yardage (1,948), touchdowns (19) and total offense (1,885). As a junior he set conference records for touchdown passes in a game (six against Rice) and percentage in a game (19-21 for 90.5% against Arkansas), and ranked second in the SWC in passing (1,908) and total offense (1,986). He has a degree from A&M in physical education.

While at St. Pius High School in his native Houston, Gary made all-state, all-district, and All-America and set the state passing record with 6,190 yards. He lettered four years in football, basketball and baseball, and made all-state in all three sports in both his junior and senior years. He was also all-state twice in track.

Gary (8/15/61) and his wife Rhonda reside in Greenwood Village, Colo., with their three sons: Clint, Clay and Klen.

PAT MCPHERSON • DEFENSIVE ASSISTANT

NFL Season: 1st (1st with Broncos)

Pat McPherson is in his first year as a defensive assistant on the Broncos' coaching staff, handling quality control duties on the defensive side of the ball.

He was hired by the club April 7, 1998 following a four-year coaching stint at his high school alma mater, Belarmine College Prep in San Jose, Calif. In addition to coordinating the defense and coaching the inside linebackers, McPherson's duties also included teaching English, algebra and physical fitness. During his tenure at Belarmine, the football team compiled a record of 35-11, won three consecutive league titles and made one section championship appearance as well as two semifinal appearances.

He gained valuable coaching experience volunteering with the San Francisco 49ers in 1996, in a defensive quality control capacity.

McPherson holds a bachelor's degree in English and an M.B.A. from Santa Clara, where he captained the football team and was voted Most Inspirational Player as an inside linebacker during his senior season of 1992. He began his collegiate career at UCLA in 1987, where he received the Charles P. Ke Award in recognition of the school's outstanding freshman football player. McPherson signed with the 49ers as a rookie free agent in 1993 and participated in three preseason games, including one versus the Broncos at Mile High Stadium.

A native of San Jose, Calif., McPherson was an all-state and All-America inside linebacker at Belarmine College Prep, where he earned Scholar Athlete of the Year honors as a senior. He was voted captain of the North team in California's North-South Shrine Game played at the Rose Bowl.

McPherson, 29, worked with the National Multiple Sclerosis Society in Santa Clara, Calif., in 1994, organizing and implementing the chapter's largest fund-raising event, the 1994 MS Walk. His father, Bill McPherson, has 20 years of NFL coaching experience and is currently with the 49ers.

Pat was born April 15, 1969 in Santa Clara, Calif. He is single and resides in Greenwood, Colo.

BRIAN PARIANI • TIGHT ENDS

NFL Season: 9th (4th year with Broncos)

Brian Pariani is in his fourth year coaching the Broncos' tight ends after spending the previous five seasons (1990-94) with the San Francisco 49ers, coaching alongside Broncos head coach Mike Shanahan and Broncos offensive coordinator Gary Kubiak.

With Denver's win in Super Bowl XXXII, Pariani joins a list of just eight NFL coaches who have won World Championships with two different clubs, and one of just five to win one with a team from each conference.

Upon his arrival in 1995 Pariani inherited the league's top tight end in Shannon Sharpe, who has since gone on to earn his fourth fifth and sixth straight Pro Bowl invitations under Pariani's tutelage. Last year Sharpe led the club in receptions (72) for the sixth straight year, and led all NFL tight ends in receptions and receiving yards (1,107) for the second straight year. Sharpe's 1,107 yards represented a career high, and marked his third 1,000-yard season, tying him with Todd Christensen and Kellen Winslow for most 1,000-yard seasons by a tight end in NFL history.

In 1996 Sharpe set career highs for receiving yardage (1,062) and touchdowns (10), while posting his second-most receptions (80) to lead all NFL tight ends in each category, en route to All NFL honors.

Overall Pariani's tight ends have caught more passes (272) for more yards (3,425) over the last three seasons than any other group of tight ends in the NFL. That productivity has helped propel the Broncos' offense to the most prolific three-year totals in franchise history, highlighted by a No. 1 NFL total offense ranking for two straight seasons, after leading the AFC in 1995. The 1997 team also led the NFL in points (472) and touchdowns (55), setting franchise records in both categories.

Pariani started his NFL coaching career in 1990 as a scouting assistant with the 49ers. He then became the team's offensive coaches' assistant for the next four seasons, working directly with the offensive coaches and quarterbacks, assisting with daily practices and game plans. The 49ers offense led the league in total yards in 1992 and '93, and scored a team-record 505 points and 62 touchdowns in '94 en route to a Super Bowl title.

After earning his political science degree from UCLA in 1989, Pariani served as a graduate assistant with the Bruins, helping head coach Terry Donahue's offense during the 1989 season. Pariani attended Marin (Calif.) Catholic High School where he played football, baseball and basketball. He is a native of San Francisco, Calif. (7/2/65). He, his wife, Stephanie, and daughter Jessica, reside in Castle Pines, Colo.

RICKY PORTER • OFFENSIVE ASSISTANT

NFL Season: 3rd (2nd year with Broncos)

Ricky Porter is in his second year as an offensive assistant on the Broncos' staff, after spending the 1996 season in the same capacity with Tampa Bay.

Porter works with an offensive unit that led the NFL in total yardage for the second year in a row in 1994 and 1995, and played a key role in the Broncos securing the first World Championship in the 36-year history of the franchise.

Denver's explosive offense in 1997 placed the league in scoring (472) and touchdowns (55), setting franchise records in both categories, as well as a new franchise record for average yards per rushing attempt.

Prior to his stint with the Buccaneers, Porter worked as a scout for National Football Scouting in 1995, where his primary responsibility was assessing talent in the Ohio Valley region.

Porter has had previous NFL coaching experience with Buffalo (1991), New Orleans (1993) and Detroit (1994) through the league's Minority Coaching Fellowship Program. His first full-time experience came at his alma mater Slippery Rock State where he coached the running backs and special teams in 1990-91 before moving on to handle the same responsibilities at Kent State from 1992-93.

The 38-year-old Porter played five years in the NFL with Detroit (1982), Baltimore (1983) and Buffalo (1987-89). He also played for the USFL's Memphis Showboats in 1985 and the CFL's Montreal Alouettes from 1986 until the club folded during the 1987 season. The Alouettes' director of football operations at that time was Marv Levy, who was later responsible for bringing Porter to Buffalo.

A member of the Slippery Rock Sports Hall of Fame, Porter was the first player ever drafted from the Division II school, chosen by Detroit in 1982 after rushing for 3,124 yards over his four-year career. A three-time all-conference, two-time A. America and two-time MVP, Porter led the nation in rushing as a senior in 1981 and also starred for the Rockets baseball and track teams. In 1990 he put his baseball skills to use as a member of the Baltimore Orioles AAA Rochester Red Wings. Porter holds a bachelor's degree in communications from Slippery Rock and is in the final stages of completing his master's degree in athletic administration.

A native of Sylacauga, Ala. (1/14/60), Porter grew up in Baltimore, Md., where he was a three-sport star at Milford Mills High School. He is a member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and while at Slippery Rock in 1982 was named ESPN's Amateur Athlete of the Week. Ricky and his wife, Carla, reside in Highlands Ranch, Colo., with their sons, Arman, Vaniko (11/3/95), and Otavio Vantay (6/3/98).

GREG ROBINSON • DEFENSIVE COORDINATOR

NFL Season: 9th (4th year with Broncos)

Greg Robinson is in his fourth season as the Broncos' defensive coordinator in 1998, a position in which he has guided steady and dramatic improvement, and crafted the Denver defense into one of the best in the NFL.

Robinson had spent the previous five seasons with the New York Jets, serving as defensive coordinator in 1994 after four years coaching the team's defensive line. While there he worked with Broncos defensive backs coach Ed Donatelli (1990-94) and Director of Pro Scouting Jack Elway (1990).

The performance of Robinson's defense throughout the 1997 playoffs played a key role in Denver winning its first World Championship, as he carried out a brilliant game-plan to control the explosive Green Bay offense in Super Bowl XXXII. Robinson's unit rose to the occasion when, most challenged, limiting the Packers to an 0-of-7 showing on third-down attempts in the second half and 0 of 1 on fourth down. Out of six occasions during the entire playoffs, in which opponents began a drive in Denver territory, just two netted points, both field goals. During the regular season, opponents were shut out once and held to three points on three other occasions.

Under Robinson's direction, seven Pro Bowl selections have been bestowed upon Broncos defensive players in the past three years, including defensive end NeSmith's starting assignment in 1997. In addition to those seven, linebacker John Mobley was recognized with Associated Press All-NFL honors in '97, in just his second NFL season.

The 1996 defensive unit featured five players who would earn Pro Bowl honors — safeties Steve Atwater and Tyrone Braxton, defensive tackle Michael Dean Perry, linebacker Bill Romanowski and defensive end Alfred Williams.

In his first two years as defensive coordinator, Robinson guided an improvement in overall league rank from 28th the year prior to his arrival (1994) to fourth in '96, and maintained that high level in '97 with a No. 5 ranking.

The 1996 ranking was buoyed by a No. 1 standing against the rush for only the second time in franchise history, paving the way for the lowest yardage total allowed (4,470) by a Broncos team since 1978. The defense set franchise records for fewest rushing yards allowed in a 16-game non-strike season and fewest rushing first downs in a 16-game season, while allowing just two opponent backs to rush for 100 yards.

Robinson set out to upgrade the defense immediately in his first year, improving the Broncos' total defense ranking 13 places to 15th in 1995. His defense posted one shutout during the season (27-0 over Oakland on Monday Night Football, Oct. 16) and held opponents under 10 points on three other occasions. Atwater represented the Broncos' defense in Honolulu with his sixth straight invitation to the Pro Bowl.

During his last four years with New York, Robinson's defense forced 151 turnovers, most in the AFC and second-most in the NFL during that span (Philadelphia was first with 155). They also improved from 27th in the league in total defense in 1989 (374.6 yards per game) to eighth in 1993 (294.5 yards per game). As the defensive coordinator in 1994, his defense tied with Kansas City for second in the AFC and the NFL in takeaways (38), two behind New England. They finished the season with 29 sacks and gave up just 20 points per game, 6th best in the AFC.

The Jets' defensive line also saw dramatic improvement under Robinson's tutelage. They were fifth in the NFL in rush defense in 1993 (92.1 yards per game — down from 133.5 in 1989) and improved to 17th in the NFL in pass defense (202.4 yards per game), while 18 of the defense's 32 sacks were produced by the line. The defense also ranked No. 1 in the AFC against the run in 1991 (90.1 yards per game — a 36-yard improvement over 1990) and recorded 35 sacks.

Robinson has also been instrumental in the development of many young players, including defensive linemen Jeff Lageman, current Bronco Marvin Washington and linebacker Mo Lewis while with the Jets. Lageman and Washington combined for 54.5 sacks from 1990-94, with Lageman leading the team with 8.5 in 1994, 8.5 in '93 and '91, and Washington leading the way with 8.5 in 1992. Lewis led the team in tackles in 1994 with 155, had four interceptions, six sacks and five forced fumbles.

Prior to his stay in New York, Robinson coached for eight years at UCLA (1982-89) under head coach Terry Donahue, primarily as a defensive assistant but also as an offensive coordinator in 1989. He had been promoted to assistant head coach for the 1990 season, but opted to join the Jets instead.

While at UCLA, Robinson coached the defensive line for the Bruins from 1982-88. Many of his former pupils have moved on to the NFL, including current Bronco Mike Lodish and former Washington Redskin Jim Wehler. His run defense ranked in the Top 10 in the nation in 1987 and '88, allowing just 95 yards per game over two seasons. In 1985, the Bruins led the nation in defense against the run at 70.3 yards per game. Their defense also averaged over 40 sacks a year from 1985-88.

During his one season on the offensive side of the ball, Robinson helped groom the talents of several future NFL players, including former Broncos quarterback Tommy Maddox, Dolphins wide receiver Scott Miller and Chiefs wide receiver Sean LaChapelle. The Bruins' 1989 offense also produced two All-Americans in center Frank Cornish (Charger, Cowboys, Jaguars, Eagles) and tight end Charles Arbuckle (Saints, Chargers, Colts).

Robinson coached at North Carolina State from 1980-81 where he helped recruit former Wolfpack linebacker and current Broncos linebackers coach Frank Bush. He coached at Cal State Fullerton from 1977-79 and at the University of the Pacific from 1975-76, where he worked with the wide receivers as a graduate assistant, and later the defensive line.

A native of Los Angeles, Robinson began his collegiate playing career as a linebacker at Bakersfield Community College from 1970-71, playing on a team that was ranked No. 1 in the nation. He then went on to play linebacker, center and tight end at the University of the Pacific from 1972-74. He earned his bachelor's degree in political science from Pacific in 1975. Robinson is a graduate of Garces High School in Bakersfield, Calif.

Robinson, 46 (10/9/51), lives in Aurora with his wife Laura and his son Dominic, and daughters Lindsay and Leslie Ann.

GREG SAPORTA • ASST. STRENGTH & COND.

NFL Season: 4th (all with Broncos)

Greg Saporta is in his fourth season as administrative assistant in the strength and conditioning department for the Broncos. Saporta and Barney Chavous assist Head Strength Coach Rich Tuten in coordinating the strength and conditioning program for the Broncos players.

Saporta came to the Broncos in 1995 from the University of Florida where he spent two separate stints as an assistant strength coach under Tuten. He originally began as a student assistant at Florida in 1981. He became assistant strength coach in 1985. He held that position until 1988, when he went to the University of North Carolina to assume the same position from 1988-92, once again working with Tuten, who had taken a position as Strength Director. Saporta then returned to Florida in 1992 to resume his position as assistant strength coach, which he held until April 1995 when he joined the Broncos' staff. He also coached with Broncos head coach Mike Shanahan and wide receivers coach Mike Heimerdinger at UF.

During his time at both Florida and North Carolina, Saporta worked with many athletes who went on to enjoy success in the NFL, including former Broncos players Ray Jacobs and Rondell Jones (North Carolina), as well as 1996 Broncos draftee Mark Campbell (Florida).

Saporta, 41, received his bachelor's degree in physical education with a concentration in exercise physiology from Florida in 1985. He previously had attended Buffalo State University in New York where he lettered for two years in football and rugby, as well as participating in track. Greg has also worked in the past with Big Brothers and Big Sisters.

Saporta, born Feb. 18, 1957, is originally from Manhattan, N.Y. He resides in Denver, Colo.

RICK SMITH • DEFENSIVE ASSISTANT

NFL Season: 3rd (all with Broncos)

Rick Smith is in his third year on the Broncos' coaching staff, assisting the Broncos' defensive coaches in all aspects of game preparation and practice regimen.

During Smith's first two years the Broncos' defense has posted overall NFL rankings of No. 4 in 1996 and No. 5 in 1997, playing an integral role in Denver securing its first World Championship last year.

Denver's defense in 1997 posted a No. 5 ranking against the pass, and limited four of the 16 regular season opponents to 3 points or fewer, including one shutout.

In his first year, Smith helped coach a defensive unit that improved from No. 15 to No. 4 in the NFL — including a No. 1 ranking against the run for just the second time in franchise history. The defense set or tied three different franchise records in 1996.

Smith, 29, was hired April 3, 1996, following a two-year stint as defensive backs coach at his alma mater, Purdue. He had left Purdue in February to accept a coaching position at Texas Christian, but spent just one month there before being hired by the Broncos.

A 1992 Purdue graduate, Smith began his coaching career with the Boilermakers shortly after his graduation, serving as the school's assistant strength and conditioning coordinator. In that role, Smith worked exclusively with football, volleyball and wrestling before being promoted to the role of interim strength and conditioning coordinator during the summer of 1993. While coaching at Purdue, Smith began graduate studies in educational administration, and received his master's degree in the summer of 1995.

Smith was a starter at strong safety and defensive captain for Purdue as a senior in 1991.

A native of Petersburg, Va. (9/3/69), Smith attended Meadowdale High School in Dayton, Ohio.

Smith, a member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, is single and makes his home in Denver.

JOHN TEERLINCK • PASS RUSH SPECIALIST

NFL Season: 10th (2nd with Broncos)

John Teerlinck is in his second year as pass-rush specialist on the Broncos' staff, hired in February 1997 to that newly-created position. Teerlinck has established himself as one of the NFL's best in that area in his nine seasons in the league, and is largely responsible for the development of several of the league's most dominant pass rushers.

The performance of the defensive line in 1997 was crucial to the Broncos' successful navigation through a four-game postseason slate that culminated with the first World Championship in franchise history.

The line boasted three players with at least eight sacks — defensive ends Neil Smith and Alfred Williams, and defensive tackle Mas Tanuvasa each with 8.5 — spearheading a defensive group that posted 44 for the season, the highest Denver total since 1993.

Especially promising was the development of Tanuvasa, who had entered the year with five career sacks over his first two seasons.

With all four starters returning in 1998, in addition to a strong mix of veterans and promising young players vying for time in the defensive line rotation, the unit appears poised to put even greater pressure on opposing quarterbacks.

Teerlinck came to Denver from Detroit where he had spent two seasons as the Lions' Assistant Head Coach/Defense. While there he dramatically improved the club's sack totals, posting an average of 37 per season, up from a total of 28 the year prior to his arrival. His 1995 squad registered 42 sacks for an NFC-high 317 yards lost. Individually, Henry Thomas posted a career-high 10.5 sacks under Teerlinck's guidance in 1995 — the most by a Lion since 1988 — and in '96 Robert Porcher notched a career-high 10 to lead the team.

Prior to his two-year stint in Detroit, Teerlinck spent three years as the defensive line coach for the Minnesota Vikings. Under his tutelage, the Vikings' defensive line was known for its dominating play and relentless pursuit of opposing quarterbacks. Three of the four linemen he coached in Minnesota were named All-Pro. The Vikings led the league in rushing defense each of his last two seasons. The Vikings limited their opponents to 68.1 yards per game in 1994 (the fourth lowest in NFL history) as Minnesota led the league in total defense in 1993 and finished fifth in 1994.

In 1993, the Vikings led the NFC in defense against the run and finished third in the league in sacks-per-pass-play. Also in 1993, the Vikings front four totaled 41 sacks, the most by any defensive line in the league and more than 16 other entire teams in the league. The Vikings' 51 sacks in 1992 were the second-most in team history and Chris Coleman was named the NFC's Defensive Player of the Year. Teerlinck has the distinction of tutoring two conference defensive players of the year: former Bronco Michael Dean Perry in 1989 while the two were with the Cleveland Browns, and John Randle in Minnesota, whom Teerlinck groomed from an undrafted rookie to a consensus All-Pro in 1993-94.

Teerlinck spent one season with the Los Angeles Rams (1991) before joining the Vikings staff, and prior to that spent two seasons with Cleveland (1989-90) where the Browns set a franchise record in 1989 with 45 sacks. He began his pro coaching career in 1983 under the late George Allen with the USFL's Chicago Blitz, who would later become the Arizona Wranglers. The team led the USFL in defense and sacks in each of his three seasons. Teerlinck's players also held nine of the 12 All-USFL defensive line spots available during the league's three-year existence.

Teerlinck spent three years (1980-82) at the University of Illinois under Mike White before moving into the pro ranks. During Teerlinck's tenure, the Fighting Illini had back-to-back winning seasons (1981-82) and played in their first bowl game since the early 1960s. Teerlinck spent two years (1978-79) as the defensive coordinator at Eastern Illinois, along with Broncos Head Coach Mike Shanahan prior to joining the Fighting Illini staff. In 1978, the Panthers won the NCAA Division I national title with Teerlinck and Shanahan on the coaching staff. His first coaching job was at Iowa Lakes Junior College in 1977 after being released from the San Diego Chargers' roster in late August.

A fifth-round draft choice by San Diego in 1974, Teerlinck started two games at defensive end in his rookie season. He started five of the first six games at defensive tackle in 1975 before suffering a knee injury, which ended his career two years later.

Teerlinck earned Little All-America honors and was co-captain as a senior at Western Illinois. He was the team's defensive MVP after posting 122 tackles and 14 sacks in 1973. He still holds a share of the school's single-game record with four sacks in a 1973 contest.

A 46-year-old native of Rochester, N.Y. (4/9/51), Teerlinck was named All-Chicago Catholic League at Fenwick High School. He holds a bachelor's degree in physical education from Western Illinois and earned a master's degree in education from Eastern Illinois. In 1986 he opened a highly successful brokerage business in Phoenix, Ariz.

John and his wife, Sue, have five children: Ann, Bill, Mark, Molly and Mary.

BOBBY TURNER • RUNNING BACKS

NFL Season: 4th (all with Broncos)

Bobby Turner is in his fourth season as the Broncos' running backs coach, a position he took over in 1995 after serving as assistant head coach, offensive coordinator and running backs coach at Purdue.

Turner has achieved great success in his first three seasons in Denver, grooming All-Pro back Terrell Davis, who has rushed for over 1,000-yards in each of his first three NFL seasons — including a club-record 1,750 in 1997 — and was named Most Valuable Player in Super Bowl XXXII. The proficiency of the running game was instrumental in Denver securing the first World Championship in the 38-year history of the franchise last year, and the 2,378 rushing yards for the season were the second-most by a Broncos team, trailing only the 1978 total of 2,451.

The Broncos rushed for 179 yards in the Super Bowl win, including 100 in the second half when Denver began to take control of the game. The team averaged an astonishing 187 yards per game on the ground during the playoffs, and Davis came up just 20 yards shy of setting an all-time NFL record for rushing yards in single postseason (581).

Among the club records set by the Broncos in 1997 was a new standard for average yards per rush (4.6), topping the previous record of 4.5 set in Turner's first year, 1995, and matched a year later. The Broncos boasted an individual 100-yard rushing performer in 15 of the 20 regular and postseason games in 1997, including two (Davis and Derek Loville) in the Broncos' Wild Card win over Jacksonville, just the third time in NFL postseason history that feat has been accomplished. In that contest Denver rushed for 310 yards, the fifth-highest postseason figure in NFL history.

The Broncos led the league in rushing in 1996 for the first time in franchise history, and Davis set five club rushing records under Turner's guidance, blossoming into one of the league's finest running backs. The '96 Broncos' league-leading total of 2,382 rushing yards was the second-highest single-season mark in franchise history at the time, topped now by the 1997 total and the 1978 total.

Turner wasted no time in 1995 making his mark in Denver, leading the running game to its highest yardage total since 1991 with 1,995 yards on the ground. Davis, then a rookie, topped the 1,000-yard plateau (1,117) and went on to finish second in the Associated Press Rookie of the Year voting. Overall, the Denver offense posted the most prolific numbers in franchise history in 1995, thanks in part to a balanced rushing and passing game.

During Turner's tenure at Purdue the Boilermakers' running game and entire offense improved each season, going from 106th in the nation in 1990 to 12th in '94, a season in which it set numerous school records and ranked nationally in many categories, including rushing touchdowns (36) and average per carry (5.01). Their offense produced 336 points, the highest Purdue total since 1989. Turner's backfield also produced the school's first 1,000-yard rusher in 18 years in A. Big 10 second-teamer, and current Tampa Buccaneers, Mike Alstott (1,188 yards and 14 TDs).

Seven different Boilermakers rushed for more than 100 yards in a game in 1992, and in 1991 Turner coached the Big Ten Freshman of the Year in running back Corey Rodgers, as well as former Cincinnati Bengal Jeff Hill.

Turner served in the same capacity at Ohio State from 1989-90 during which time the Buckeyes went to two bowl games and had one of the best running games in the Big Ten. His 1990 backfield of former Bronco Butler Byrd, Robert Smith (Vikings), Scottie Graham (Bengals), Raymont Harris (Bears) and Jeff Cuthbert (Bengals) was rated No. 1 in the nation by The Sporting News, producing a 1,000-yard rusher in Smith. He finished the season with 1,126 yards and eight touchdowns and was named Big Ten and National Freshman of the Year.

In 1989 the Buckeyes ranked No. 1 in Big Ten rushing at 241 yards per game, as well as No. 1 in total offense and scoring, coming within 16 yards of having two 1,000 yard rushers (Carlos Snow, 1,031 yards, Graham, 984). On the day of his first game at OSU, Turner's daughter Kaana was born at the university hospital just 500 yards away from Ohio Stadium.

Prior to his stint at Ohio State Turner coached the running backs at Fresno State (1983-88) and at his alma mater, Indiana State (1975-82). At Fresno he coached future pros Lavale Thomas (Packers), Anthony Mosely (Bears, Raiders) and Aaron Craver (Dolphins, Broncos, Chargers, Saints). He accepted a position as running backs coach at ISU in 1975 and spent three of his eight seasons there (1976, '77, '82) as the defensive backs coach in addition to five years as special teams coordinator (1978-82). At ISU, Turner recruited and coached two All-Americans: Wayne Davis (Chargers, Redskins) and Vencie Glenn (Chargers, Vikings, Giants).

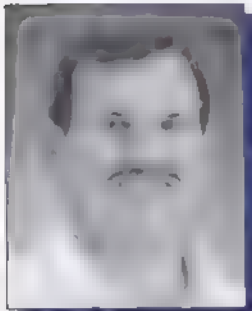

Turner also had an opportunity to be an assistant coach on ISU's 1979 Larry Bird-led Final Four basketball team but turned down the offer to concentrate on coaching football. He began his coaching career at Haworth High School in Kokomo, Ind., as an assistant football and basketball coach, and in 1993 was inducted into the Indiana High School Basketball Hall of Fame.

A native of East Chicago, Ind. (5/6/49), Turner enjoyed a fine career as an all-conference defensive back at Indiana State, where he played both football and basketball. He set the school record as a sophomore with nine of his 16 career interceptions, including two returned for touchdowns. He earned his bachelor's degree in health and physical education in 1972 and his master's from ISU in education/administration in 1976.

Turner, 49, attended East Chicago Washington High School where he was one of only two athletes in the school's history to play four sports (football, basketball, baseball, and track). He and his wife, Kimberly, have three daughters, Nacole, Krshana and Kaana, and make their home in Aurora, Colo.

RICH TUTEN • STRENGTH & CONDITIONING

NFL Season: 4th (all with Broncos)

Rich Tuten is in his fourth season as the Broncos' strength and conditioning coach. He coordinates the organization's entire strength and conditioning program with assistance from Greg Saporta and Barney Chevous.

Tuten came to the Broncos in 1995 from the University of Florida, where he was the Director of Strength and Conditioning from 1980-88, and also from 1993-94. He was the Athletic Strength Director at the University of North Carolina from 1989-92.

While at both schools, Tuten supervised the strength and conditioning programs for every sport. With UF he also served as the head strength and conditioning coach for the nationally ranked Gator football team, and played a key role in the design of Florida's current strength and conditioning complex.

At North Carolina Tuten helped the Tar Heels make major advancements in their strength and conditioning program, helping them to be able to compete with the top collegiate programs in the country. Besides his work at collegiate institutions, Tuten is also a member of the National Strength and Conditioning Association.

Tuten has worked with many athletes who have gone on to enjoy success in the NFL, including Emmitt Smith (Cowboys), Nea Anderson (Bears), Rocky Mattie (former Bronco), John L. Williams (former Seahawk and Steeler), Ernie Rhee (Buccaneers) and Godfrey Myles (former Cowboy) at Florida, as well as former Bronco Rondell Jones (Ravens) at North Carolina.

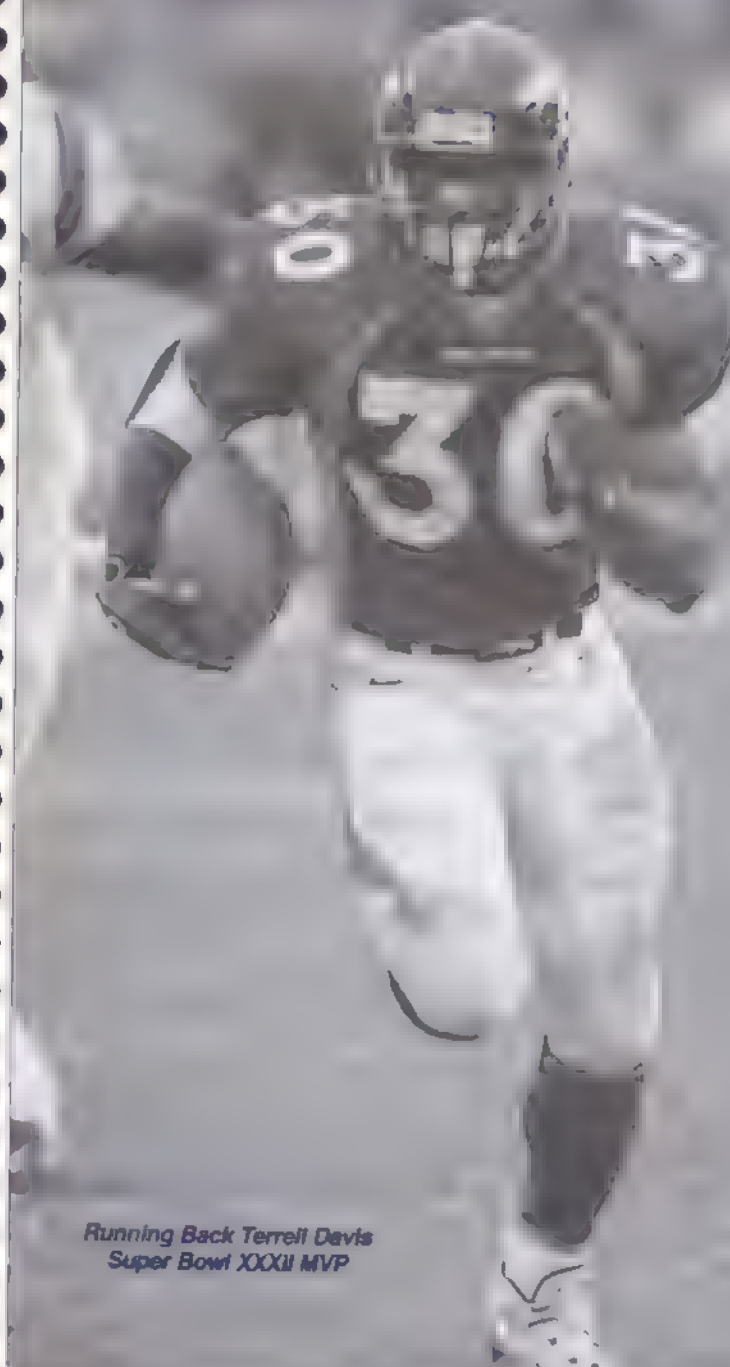

Tuten, 44, has also coached with three current members of the Broncos coaching staff. He coached with Broncos head coach Mike Shanahan and wide receivers coach Mike Heimerdinger at Florida from 1980-83, and with his assistant Greg Saporta at both Florida and North Carolina over the last 15 years.

A 1979 Clemson University graduate, Tuten was a three-year letterman and starting nose guard for the Tigers. He was named to the All-America Strength team in 1978 and was part of the 1978 Atlantic Coast Conference champion Tiger squad. Tuten registered nine tackles and three sacks against Maryland that season to help clinch the conference title. He was named ACC Defensive Player of the Week for his efforts. He received his degree in therapeutic recreation from Clemson in 1978.

Tuten, born Dec. 30, 1953, attended Wakefield High School in Arlington, Va., where he participated in football, wrestling and track. He is a native of Columbia, S.C.

He and his wife, Donna, reside in Highlands Ranch, Colo., with their two sons, Wil and Matt.

PLAYER PERSONNELNEAL DAHLEN
DIRECTOR OF PLAYER PERSONNEL

Neal Dahlen is in his third season as the Broncos' Director of Player Personnel, and his 35th year overall in football.

As player personnel director, Dahlen is involved in all aspects of player acquisition for the Broncos. He was hired March 4, 1996, renewing his association with Mike Shanahan, with whom he had worked while Shanahan was the San Francisco 49ers' offensive coordinator from 1992-94.

Dahlen spent 17 years with the 49ers organization, beginning in 1979 as a part-time assistant to the coaching staff. In 1984 he took on full-time duties as director of research and development, and later served as the team's coordinator of football operations.

JACK ELWAY
DIRECTOR OF PRO SCOUTING

Jack Elway is in his sixth year with the Broncos' scouting department and his fourth as Director of Pro Scouting. Elway began his association with the Broncos organization in 1993 as a pro scout, a position he held for two seasons before being promoted to his current post in the 1995 offseason.

Prior to coming to the Broncos, Elway was head coach of the Frankfurt Galaxy in the World League (1991-1992) and scouted for the New York Jets (1990). He has also enjoyed an outstanding career as a college head coach at Cal State Northridge (1976-78), San Jose State (1979-83) and Stanford (1984-88).

Elway also was head coach at Port Angeles (Wash.) High School and Grays Harbor (Wash.) Community College (1961-66) and served in assistant roles at Montana (1967-71) and Washington State (1972-75). He posted a .650 winning percentage as a head coach and assistant coach on the high school, community college, Division I and Division II levels during his 34 seasons before moving into the pros. Always noted for creative, multi-dimensional offenses, Elway also has served as head coach in the Blue-Gray Game and East-West Shrine Game.

Elway, 66, a native of Hoquiam, Wash., played quarterback at Washington State where he earned both bachelor's and master's degrees.

Jack and his wife Jan have three children: Lee Ann, John Jr. and Jana. John Jr. was the No. 1 pick in the 1983 NFL draft and has led the Broncos to four Super Bowl appearances, including a World Championship in 1997.

TED SUNDQUIST
DIRECTOR OF COLLEGE SCOUTING

Ted Sundquist is in his seventh season with the Broncos organization and his third in the capacity of Director of College Scouting. He spent the 1995 season apprenticing under former college scouting director Jerry Frei before being promoted to his current post following the 1996 draft. Sundquist was a college scout in 1993-94.

His current duties include overseeing the Broncos' entire college scouting process, in particular, managing the scouting department's budget, division of territory and travel itinerary. Sundquist also evaluates the top collegiate players to supplement reports gathered by the club's area scouts, and assists Player Personnel Director Neal Dahlen with the negotiation of contracts for drafted players.

As testament to his prominence within the league's scouting profession, Sundquist was selected in 1997 to sit on the five-member Executive Committee of National Football Scouting, Inc., and is a member of the selection committee for the annual National Invitational Camp.

Sundquist spent his first three years with the Broncos in the Player Personnel department as a player personnel assistant, working closely with Jack Elway in opponent scouting, veteran player evaluation, development of computer scouting analysis systems and scouting the Western region.

Sundquist '36 played collegately at the Air Force Academy before graduating into the coaching ranks. He joined the Air Force coaching staff for the 1984 season, and returned for the 1988-91 seasons. Between those two stints, Sundquist served as an Air Force Intelligence Officer in Berlin, Germany from 1986-88.

Along with his coaching duties Sundquist was also the head coach for the USAFA Preparatory School (1990-91) and took an active part in scouting for the Falcons.

Sundquist has also had considerable athletic experience outside of football, having been a member of the U.S. National Bobsled Team from 1984-88, and competing in the Olympic Trials in that sport in '88.

A Houston, Texas, native, Sundquist earned his master's degree in public administration from the University of Colorado in 1992.

Ted was born May 1, 1962 in Houston, where he attended Spring Woods High School. He and his wife, Amy, make their home in Aurora, Colo.

JERRY FREI
COLLEGE SCOUTING CONSULTANT

Jerry Frei, in his 22nd year with the Denver Broncos — and his 47th as either a coach or scout in professional or college football — began a new role in 1996 as a college scouting consultant.

After spending the 1994 and '95 seasons as Director of College Scouting, Frei scaled back his duties as Ted Sundquist assumed the director's role. Frei is still involved in the Broncos' college scouting process, but, at his request, has assumed a lighter workload since Sundquist's appointment.

Frei's history with the Broncos includes time as both a scout and assistant coach. He coached for the Broncos from 1972-75, and again from 1981-82, before moving into the scouting department the following season. Frei has been an area scout and has performed a variety of administrative roles within the scouting department for the Broncos organization.

Frei's initial tenure as the Broncos' offensive line coach from 1972-75 was his first in professional football, and was followed by a two year stint in the same capacity with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers (1976-77), and a three year stint with the Chicago Bears (1978-80), prior to his return to the Mile High City in 1981.

His professional coaching career was preceded by a long and successful assistant and head coaching career in the collegiate ranks at the University of Oregon. Frei joined the Ducks' coaching staff as an assistant in 1955 and served in that role through the 1966 season before succeeding Len Casanova as head coach in 1967. Oregon compiled a 22-29-2 record during his five years as head coach, including a 1970 record of 6-4-1 that was good enough for second place in the Pacific-8 Conference. His 1970 and '71 teams featured two future NFL stars: Dan Fouts at quarterback and Bobby Moore (now Ahmad Rashad) at running back.

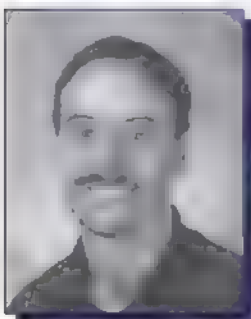

Frei, 73, is a University of Wisconsin graduate, and was an offensive lineman on the standout Badger teams of 1942 '46 and '47. His collegiate career was interrupted by service in the U.S. Military in World War II, during which he flew 67 Pacific missions in a P-38 for the U.S. Army Air Corps.

His first collegiate coaching experience came from 1952-54 at Willamette University in Salem, Ore.

Jerry and his wife Marian have five children: sons David and Terry, and daughters Judy, Susan and Nancy.

DAVE BLANDO

DIRECTOR OF SALARY CAP AND FOOTBALL FINANCE ADMINISTRATION

Dave Blando is in his second year with the Broncos organization, hired March 10, 1997 to handle the newly-created role of Director of Salary Cap and Football Finance Administration.

Blando came to the Broncos from the Miami Dolphins, with whom he held the position of Salary Cap and Information Management consultant. He worked with the Dolphins for five months, implementing various methods for analyzing the salary cap and player information. Blando also assisted in the management of the salary cap and future projections.

Prior to his stint with the Dolphins, Blando spent three years with the National Football League's main office in New York City as Manager of Player Information and Research for the NFL Management Council. He played an integral role in such areas as Daily Salary Cap Reconciliation, Rookie Pool, Free Agent Analysis and Market Valuation. He is responsible for the introduction of widespread use of relational databases for salary cap analysis.

Before working for the NFL, Blando worked for the Boeing Company in Seattle, Wash., as a financial analyst. His main areas of specialization there included the responsibility for estimating revenue and expenditures.

Blando, 37, received his degree in business administration in 1984 from Northern State University in his hometown of Aberdeen, S.D. He is single and makes his home in Denver.

BOB BEERS

COLLEGE SCOUT

Bob Beers is in his fourth season with the Broncos' scouting staff, joining the organization in June 1995 after a very successful season on the coaching staff of the World League's Amsterdam Admirals. He is responsible for scouting the Western United States.

With Beers as offensive coordinator in 1995, the Admirals compiled a 9-1 regular season record and advanced to the World Bowl. Amsterdam's regular season record equaled that of the 1991 London Monarchs, tying the club for the best record in WFLA history.

Prior to his stint with the Admirals, Beers served two seasons as head coach at Western Montana where he guided the program to Frontier Conference titles and earned Coach of the Year honors both seasons. His 1994 team claimed the conference title and garnered the school's first ever berth in the NAIA national playoffs, advancing to the Final Four and finishing with an 8-3 record. The Bulldogs finished second in the nation in passing (3,535 yards) and total offense (5,000), and 10 Bulldogs earned All-America honors, including two first-teamers.

In 1993, the Western offense set 23 school records, led the nation in passing (3,069 yards) and finished second in total offense (4,206).

Beers began his coaching career as a graduate assistant at the University of Montana before moving on to Montana Tech where he served as defensive coordinator from 1972-74. He then spent 10 years in the prep ranks of Montana and Oregon before returning to the Montana as offensive line coach under Don Read. He entered the professional ranks in 1990 as offensive coordinator for the Frankfurt Galaxy of the World League before returning to the collegiate ranks to begin his two-year stint as head coach at Western Montana.

A 1965 graduate of Sunsel High School in Beaverton, Ore., Beers earned his bachelor's degree from the University of Montana where he was an All-America linebacker as a junior and senior. Bob and his wife Janelle have three children: son Bobby (25), who was an All-America wide receiver for Western Montana, and is now an assistant football coach at Montana State; daughter Carrie (24), a Western graduate who now teaches high school English, and daughter Joey (7). The family resides in Redmond, Ore.

SCOTT DISTEFANO

COLLEGE SCOUT

Scott DiStefano is in his 16th year with the Broncos' personnel department, continuing to scout the Midwestern region.

He began his career with the Broncos scouting the Rocky Mountain and Southwest regions, before shifting his focus to the Midwest in 1990.

DiStefano, 41, was a quarterback at Colorado State from 1976-80. Following his playing career he joined the coaching staff at CSU as a graduate assistant, a role in which he served for two seasons (1980-81) before coming to the Broncos.

A native of Alliance, Ohio, DiStefano was an all-conference quarterback in 1975 at Alliance High School, the same school that produced Pro Football Hall of Fame quarterback Len Dawson. Among the honors bestowed upon him was the 1974 Massillon (Ohio) JayCee's conference sportsmanship award, a prestigious honor from such a football-rich region of Ohio.

Scott makes his home in Chicago.

JIM GOODMAN

COLLEGE SCOUT

Jim Goodman is in his first year with the Broncos, scouting the South region.

He was hired in May 1998 after four successful seasons on the coaching staff at Rice University, where his duties also included coordinating the program's recruiting efforts. Goodman coached the receivers in 1997 after three seasons in charge of the tight ends and special teams, during an era in which the Owls were Southwest Conference co-champions in 1994 and produced three of the best special teams seasons.

Goodman was Associate Athletic Director in charge of football recruiting at Clemson from 1991-93, earning consideration among the nation's top-10 recruiting coordinators by the Chicago Sun-Times, was assistant AD in charge of recruiting and high school relations at Florida from 1989-90 and recruiting coordinator at Arkansas from 1986-88, where he also coached the receivers in '86.

Goodman began his coaching career at Vanguard High School in Ocala, Fla. (1974-75) then moved into the collegiate ranks with positions at North Alabama (1976-78), Marion (Ala.) Institute (1979-80) — where his teams ranked in the top 15 in the national junior college polls both seasons, and he also coached the baseball team — and the U.S. Air Force Academy (1981), where he coached the linebackers under Ken Hatfield. His first head coaching position came at Valdosta, Ga., State from 1982-84 where he also served as associate AD before accepting the full-time athletic director's position in 1985. As coach he started a program from scratch and fashioned a 15-16-1 record over three years with a squad that included Atlanta Falcons All-Pro linebacker Jesse Tuggle.

Goodman, 48, holds an associates degree from Chipola Junior College (1972), a bachelor of science in physical education from Florida (1974) and a master's in education administration from University of North Alabama (1977). A native of Blountstown, Fla., where he attended Blountstown High School. Jim and his wife Jennie have three children: Jeff (20), Nancy (17) and Tyler (13). The family resides in Bonifay, Fla.

CORNELL GREEN COLLEGE SCOUT

Cornell Green is in his 19th year scouting in the NFL and his 12th year doing so for the Broncos' organization.

Green is responsible for scouting the Southwest region, after having scouted the South, East and Midwest regions earlier in his career with the Broncos.

Prior to his involvement with the Broncos organization, Cornell scouted for the Dallas Cowboys during and after his illustrious playing career. Green began scouting for the Cowboys in 1970 while still an active player, and continued scouting through 1979, at which time he entered private business until coming to the Broncos in 1987.

Green, 58, was signed by the Cowboys as a free agent and went on to play for Dallas from 1962-75, at cornerback for 10 years before moving over to safety for his last four seasons.

Green earned Pro Bowl honors seven times, winning that honor at both cornerback and safety.

He did not play college football but was a two-time All-America basketball player (1959-60 and 1961-62) at Utah State, where he averaged 23 points per game at forward for the Aggies from 1959-62.

A native of Boley, Okla., Cornell and his wife Betty have two children, Randy and Ronney, and make their home in Dallas.

GREG MILLER COLLEGE SCOUT

Greg Miller is in his first year with the Broncos, serving as a scout at-large for National Football Scouting, of which Denver is a member.

Miller spent the previous four years as a regional scout for NFS, scouting prospective NFL talent from colleges and universities in nine upper-Midwest states. His duties included performing the first line of evaluation, rating and computer-generated reporting on hundreds of college players for 14 NFL clubs, as well as assisting in the planning and execution of the National Invitational Camp, or combine.

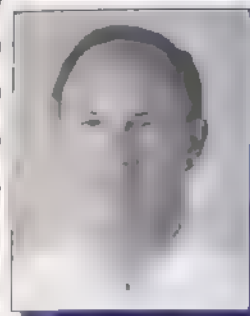

A 43-year old native of Mitchell, S.D., Miller was an all-state defensive tackle, team MVP and team captain at Mitchell Senior High School, where he also participated in baseball, basketball and track. He earned a football scholarship to Iowa State in 1973 and transferred to South Dakota State in 1974, where he was a three-year starter at offensive tackle and team captain as well as a two-time honorable mention All North Central Conference selection.

Prior to his stint with NFS, Miller worked 16 years for International Multifoods, ascending from District Sales Coordinator to Director of Operations for the entire West region by 1994.

Rambo came to the Broncos from the Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Canadian Football League where he served as Director of Player Personnel in 1997 after a three-year tenure as Director of Football Operations. He was also with the Roughriders from 1983-90, holding various positions, including director of scouting, Director of Player Personnel and Assistant General Manager.

Rambo accepted a position in Dallas, Texas, with the World League of American Football in 1990. During the offseason he was the Director of College Scouting, and during the season was Director of European Football operations, working out of Barcelona, Spain.

Rambo, 46, returned to the CFL in 1992 as General Manager of the Ottawa Rough Riders, as the team posted nine wins to craft its best record in 10 years. During his first stint with Saskatchewan, he recruited most of the players that helped lead the Roughriders to the Grey Cup Championship in 1989. In his one season as a scout with Denver, the Broncos made a Wild Card playoff appearance.

Rambo is a graduate of Carroll College in Helena, Mont., where his mother, Viola, and sisters, Kathleen and Patty, still reside. He led the nation in rushing in 1974 with an average of 152.1 yards per game, and had eight tryouts in the CFL, WFL and the NFL, including one with the Broncos in 1977.

Dan and his wife, Kathy, have two children, daughter Teeghan and son Arthur. The family makes its home in Blackburn Hamlet, Ottawa, Ontario, Canada.

DALE STRAHM COLLEGE SCOUT

Dale Strahm is in his first season on the Denver Broncos' scouting staff, responsible for scouting the Southeast region.

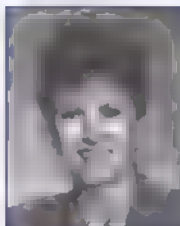

A veteran of 29 collegiate football seasons in the coaching ranks, Strahm came to the Broncos from Temple University where he spent four years (1994-97) as defensive coordinator and linebackers coach. His duties also included recruiting the areas of Eastern Pennsylvania, Delaware, Ohio, North Carolina and Virginia. In Strahm's first season with the Owls, their defense went from last to first in the Big East Conference in turnover/takeaway margin, tying for 20th nationally with a plus .82 margin per game. They also made great strides in total defense after beginning his career ranked last in the conference. A motivational speaker for a variety of corporations, Strahm also taught leadership classes at Temple.

Strahm has also coached at Duke (1990-93), Western Carolina (1989-90), Georgia (1981-88), Navy (1977-80), and Bowling Green (1971-76) at the collegiate level, starting as a graduate assistant at Bowling Green in 1968. DENVER'S WINNING TRADITION

Denver Broncos football enters its 39th season in 1998, fresh off the most successful season in franchise history in which the team won its first Super Bowl with a 31-24 victory over defending champion Green Bay. The 1998 Broncos will defend that title by playing before sellout crowds at Mile High Stadium for the 29th consecutive campaign. The team has sold out 211 consecutive regular season non-strike games, and 222 straight including playoff games. Broncos fans have watched their team amass one of the NFL's finest records since the club's first winning season in 1973, enduring just four losing seasons as shown in the list below.

This season also marks Pat Bowlen's 15th as President and Chief Executive Officer of the Broncos. During that time, Denver has enjoyed a virtually unmatched level of success in the context of the entire NFL and within the American Football Conference Western Division.

THE BRONCOS' STREAK — The Broncos' 34-7 victory over the Seattle Seahawks on Dec. 1, 1996 topped the NFL season-high winning streak in franchise history. The streak was snapped at Green Bay Dec. 8. The longest winning streak in franchise history is 10, set during the 1984 season which resulted in an AFC West title for the team. Three of the six longest streaks have ended with Super Bowl appearances. Head coach Mike Shanahan has been a part of the three longest — and four of the six longest — streaks in franchise history. He was not a part of the two winning streaks in the 1970s.

BRONCOS' STREAK THIRD-LONGEST IN NFL OVER LAST FIVE SEASONS — Denver's nine-game winning streak in 1996 was not only the second longest in franchise history, but the third longest in the NFL since 1992, topped only by Houston's 11-game streak in 1993 and San Francisco's 10-game streak in 1994. Of note is the fact that the offensive coordinator for the 49ers Super Bowl Championship team in 1984 was Broncos' head coach Mike Shanahan.

His second in the postseason as a head coach. Twenty-eight have come at Mile High Stadium (82.2%), and Elway has had at least one in each of his 15 seasons.

WHAT TO LOOK FOR FROM THE BRONCOS IN 1998

- The Broncos will be looking for back-to-back Super Bowl Championships, a feat that has been accomplished six times previously, but not since 1992-93 (Dallas). They are looking to become the first AFC franchise to accomplish this feat since the Pittsburgh Steelers did it from 1978-79. The Broncos would be the first AFC West team to ever accomplish this.
- The Broncos will be looking for back-to-back-to-back double digit win seasons for the first time since 1984-87, when they won 13, 11, 11 and 10 games, respectively. It would be only the third time in franchise history that the Broncos would have put together three straight double digit win seasons, the other time being from 1977-79 (12, 10 and 10).
- The Broncos will look to extend their NFL best home record of 148-47-1 (139-45-1 in regular season) since 1974. The regular season victories are the most over that period and the total number of victories is also the most over that period.
- The Broncos need six regular season and postseason wins combined to reach the 300-win plateau for the organization. Denver has won 281 regular season games and 13 postseason games in the franchise's 38-year history. Denver would become the 17th team to win 300 games and only the sixth current AFC team to do so. Of the five AFC teams to do so, only Kansas City, Miami and Oakland were original AFL franchises. The other two (Cleveland and Pittsburgh) are began play in the NFL before joining the AFC after the AFL-NFL merger in 1970.
- If Denver wins all of their regular season home games during the 1998 season, they will move into at least third place on the NFL's all-time list for consecutive regular season home victories with 24 straight. The current NFL record of 27 held by Miami (1971-74) is being challenged by Green Bay (23 straight wins from 1995-present). Denver has currently won 16 straight regular season home games, a team record. Wins in their first three home games will move them past both Oakland (1968-70) and Dallas (1979-81) and into fourth place all-time and wins in Denver's first five home games will move them past Green Bay (1929-32) and into third place. Should the Packers current streak of 23 games go by the wayside before it is extended any further, then a clean slate in 1998 at home for Denver would move them into second place.

JOHN ELWAY

- Needs 1331 yards passing to reach 50,000 for his career. Only Dan Marino has accomplished this incredible feat. This would also make Elway the only quarterback in NFL history with 50,000 passing yards and 3,000 rushing yards.

- Needs one touchdown pass to pass Warren Moon (279) and 13 touchdown passes to pass Johnny Unitas in career touchdown passes. Moon is currently fourth all-time and Unitas is third all-time.
- Needs 22 touchdown passes to reach 300 for his career, a feat that currently been accomplished by only Dan Marino (385) and Fran Tarkenton (342).
- Needs 87 pass completions to reach 4,000 for his career, joining Dan Marino (4,453) as the only two players to have 4,000 completions.
- Needs 106 pass attempts to reach 7,000 for his career, joining Dan Marino (7,452) as the only two players to reach 7,000 attempts.

Davis is currently at 38.
- Needs to score a rushing touchdown in each of the first two games he plays in 1998 to break the franchise record he shares with Sammy Winder (1985) of five straight games with at least one rushing touchdown. Davis did it in 1987 and has a current streak of four straight games with a rushing touchdown.

Sharpe is currently at 34. Terrell Davis, his teammate, is currently at 38 career touchdowns.
- Needs to catch a pass in each of the first ten games he plays in 1998 to move into second place all-time on the Broncos' list for consecutive games with at least one reception. He would pass in order from 5th to 2nd, Riley Odoms (41) and Anthony Miller (41), Mark Jackson (47) and Steve Watson (49). Sharpe's streak is currently at 40 games.

DARRIN GORDON

- Needs 468 punt return yards to move into third place all-time on Denver's punt return yards list. He would pass in order from seventh to third, Kevin Clark (546), Vance Johnson (689), Glyn Milburn (779), Floyd Little (893) and Gerald Willhite (1,010). Gordon is currently at 543.

Justin Armour signed by Denver as a free agent Feb. 24, 1998. His the mold of the type of wide receiver Mike Shanahan covets, big, physical and able to find an opening in a defense. These skills should help the Colorado Springs native adjust to the variety of offensive schemes run by the Broncos. Now in his fourth NFL campaign, Armour has played in 15 career games (eight starts) and made 26 receptions for 300 yards and three touchdowns. He has four rushing attempts for minus five yards and one pass attempt which fell incomplete. He has also participated in one postseason game, with Buffalo in 1995. Armour was drafted by the Bills in 1995 out of Stanford (4th round/No. 113 overall) and spent two seasons with the club before splitting time with Philadelphia and San Francisco in 1997.

1997 Armour was waived August 24, 1997 by the Bills and picked up by Philadelphia Sept. 23, 1997. He was released four days later, then re-signed by the Eagles Sept. 30, spending six games on the inactive list. Armour was waived by Philadelphia Nov. 4 and signed by San Francisco Dec. 29. He spent the entire 1997 postseason on the 49ers inactive list. 1996 Armour was inactive for the first 11 games of the season with an injured left foot. Armour ranked second in the Pac-10 and ninth in the nation with 8.1 receptions per game in 1994 and was an All-Pac-10 second-team pick in 1993, leading the Cardinal with 51 receptions despite missing two games with a shoulder separation. As painful a season as 1997 was for Steve Atwater, it ended on a high note as he turned in one the best performances of his career in Denver's Super Bowl victory over Green Bay and solidified his place as one of the top safeties in franchise history. Atwater, who battled shoulder problems all season long, still managed to start 15 regular season and four postseason contests, helping lead a secondary that finished second in the AFC and fifth in the NFL in pass defense. A seven-time Pro Bowler (1990-96), Atwater has now played in 139 games (all starts) with 1,216 total tackles (763 solo), 82 passes defended, 12 forced fumbles, nine fumble recoveries, five sacks (-39 yards) and 23 interceptions (8th in franchise history) for 384 return yards (7th), tallying an impressive 44 turnovers in which he's been involved in his nine-year career. He has also played in 11 postseason contests (all starts), which is tied for eighth place in franchise history, posting 57 stops (40 solo), eight pass breakups, one forced fumble, one interception and one sack (-1 yard). Atwater's string of seven straight Pro Bowl appearances from 1990-96 is a franchise record. He was originally drafted in the first round (20th overall) by the Broncos in 1989.

1997 Atwater, selected defensive captain by his teammates for the first time in his career, started 15 of the 16 games at free safety and tied for fourth on the team with 83 tackles (61 solo), including one sack (-18), as well as two interceptions, eight passes defended and two fumble recoveries. His first interception came at San Diego (11/30) and was returned 22 yards for his first professional touchdown, and his next came in the season finale vs. San Diego (12/21) for a 20-yard return. In the regular season opener vs. Kansas City (8/31) he started at free safety and made eight tackles (6 solo), including a crucial stop of Chiefs fullback Kimble Anders at the Broncos 3-yard line late in the third quarter to help keep the Chiefs out of the end zone. The Broncos went on to win 19-3. Two weeks later vs. St. Louis (9/14) he made one solo tackle with two passes defended and suffered a partially dislocated right shoulder in the second half, missing considerable playing time. He was declared inactive on Sunday the following week against Cincinnati, breaking his string of 36 consecutive games played dating back to December of 1994. Atwater returned to action the next week at Atlanta (9/28). A week later vs. New England (10/5) Atwater posted six tackles (5 solo) and one fumble recovery in Denver's Monday Night Football victory. The recovery came after John Mobley snipped the ball from Patriots receiver Terry Glenn to end a game-opening New England drive that had reached the Denver 28-yard line. The Broncos responded with their first touchdown of the game en route to a 34-13 win. At Buffalo (10/26) he made four tackles (2 solo) with one fumble recovery in Denver's 23-20 overtime win on the weekend that would not end for the Broncos, overcoming a snowstorm in Denver that almost prevented the team's departure, as well as a furious fourth-quarter rally by the Bills. Atwater's fumble recovery came after Alex Van Petton lost the ball with the Bills driving inside the Broncos 10-yard line early in the fourth quarter. He followed that performance with 8-, 7- and 10-tackle efforts against Seattle (11/2), Carolina (11/9) and at Kansas City (11/16). Versus Oakland (11/24), he posted four tackles (3 solo) including his first sack of the season, as Denver defeated the Raiders 31-3 on Monday Night Football, the Broncos' fourth straight Monday Night win. He dropped Jeff George for an 18-yard loss on the Raiders' first series of the fourth quarter. Atwater left the game for several plays in the first half because of a hyperextended right elbow, but returned and played the rest of the way. In the preseason Atwater missed the Buffalo (7/26) and Miami (8/4) games because of soreness in his left knee following offseason surgery. Postseason Atwater started all four games at free safety and played with the brilliance that has distinguished him throughout his nine-year career. He recorded 15 tackles (10 solo), including one sack (-1), a forced fumble and five passes defended. His four starts moved him into a tie for sixth in career postseason games started by a Bronco (11). He capped a stellar postseason in Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay (1/25/98) by turning in a performance as spectacular as that of any Broncos defender, and any in his career, recording six solo tackles, two passes defended and a sack of Green Bay quarterback

Brett Favre on which he caused a fumble that was recovered by Neil Smith. The sack and fumble came early in the second quarter and set up a 51-yard Jason Elam field goal that gave Denver a 17-7 lead. He later recorded one of the game's biggest pass breakups on a 3rd-and-8 play from the Broncos' 39-yard line early in the fourth quarter, knocking away a Favre attempt intended for Robert Brooks that would have given Green Bay a first down inside the Broncos' 20-yard line with the score tied at 24-24.

1996. Atwater started all 16 regular season games at free safety and earned his franchise record seventh consecutive Pro Bowl berth while being named second-team Associated Press All-Pro, first-team UPI All-AFC and second-team Pro Football Weekly All-AFC. He ranked third on the team with 116 tackles (89 solo) in addition to three interceptions (11 yards in returns), nine passes defended and one forced fumble. Atwater also added two tackles on special teams. Versus Tampa Bay (9/15) Atwater started at free safety and made seven tackles (6 solo), while also knocking down two passes in Denver's 27-23 victory. The following week at Kansas City (9/22) he registered nine stops (7 solo), including several hard hits, one of which unfortunately ended Chiefs wide receiver Lake Dawson's season prematurely with a knee injury in the third quarter. This was the second game of an eight-week stretch in which Atwater had at least six tackles in every game, registering eight at Cincinnati (9/29), seven vs. San Diego (10/6), eight vs. Baltimore (10/20), six against Kansas City (10/27), six at Oakland (11/4) and 12 against Chicago (11/10). He also forced a key fumble against the Bears in the third quarter that prevented Chicago from taking the lead. The next week at New England (11/17) Atwater had five tackles (2 solo), knocked down a pass and registered his first interception of the season (11-yard return). The pickoff came on the first play of the Patriots' second possession and set up the score that put Denver ahead 14-0 en route to a 34-8 victory. A week later at Minnesota (11/24) he started at free safety and made a game- and season-high 15 tackles (13 solo) in Denver's 21-17 win. He picked off his second pass of the season at Green Bay (12/8) and notched his third against the Raiders (12/15). In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97) Atwater started at free safety and made six solo tackles. He had offseason surgery on his left shoulder and left knee Jan. 15, 1997. 1995. Atwater started all 16 games at free safety and led the team with 148 tackles (107 solo), three interceptions and three forced fumbles. His tackle total was his best since 1992, and his interceptions were his most since '91. Atwater surpassed the 1,000-tackle mark for his career Dec. 10 vs. Seattle. He earned his Broncos record sixth straight Pro Bowl berth, as well as second-team All-Pro honors from College & Pro Football Newsweekly and was voted by his teammates as the Broncos' Defensive MVP. Atwater began his outstanding season with a team-leading nine tackles (8 solo) in the opener against Buffalo (9/3), including a big third-quarter fourth-down stop at the Denver 12-yard line to thwart a Buffalo scoring threat. The following week at Dallas (9/10), Atwater registered 13 tackles (7 solo), an interception with an 11-yard return, and a pass defended. He recorded a team-leading 12 tackles (8 solo) at Seattle (10/1), but had to leave early with a hyperextended elbow. He posted a team-leading 11 tackles (9 solo) at New England (10/8), and forced his first fumble of the year. In Denver's 27-0 shutout of Oakland (10/16), Atwater made six tackles (2 solo), intercepted a pass and registered one pass defended. His interception of a Jeff Hostetler pass on the second play from scrimmage set up the Broncos at the Oakland 19-yard line after an 18-yard return, and led to a 3-0 Broncos lead. Atwater had 10 tackles (6 solo) and a forced fumble against Kansas City (10/22), despite missing the end of the first half and the beginning of the second half after going to the locker room for an examination on his right shoulder. Atwater also recorded a team-high 14 stops (9 solo) at Philadelphia (11/12), but suffered a bone bruise that was downgraded from an initial diagnosis of a hyperextension. His third interception came against Seattle (12/10), and was returned 25 yards. 1994. Atwater continued his stellar play in the Denver secondary despite a disappointing year for the team. He started 14 of the Broncos' 16 games at either free or strong safety and recorded 125 total tackles (72 solo) to earn his fifth straight Pro Bowl appearance. Atwater, who sat out at Los Angeles (12/11) and San Francisco (12/17) with an injured hamstring, also intercepted one pass (24-yard return), recovered two fumbles and forced one while registering eight passes defended. His two starts at free safety came on opening day against the Chargers (9/4) and at Buffalo (9/26). Atwater registered double figures in tackles six times and posted his best numbers against the Raiders at home (41 with 14 tackles (11 solo)). His lone interception came at Seattle (10/9) in perhaps his best overall performance. In addition to his interception that he returned 24 yards to set up Jason Elam for the Broncos' first points, Atwater recovered a fumble and returned it 17 yards to set up Denver's only touchdown in a 16-9 win. 1993. Atwater became the first player in franchise history to earn four consecutive Pro Bowl berths, and was named All-AFC (UPI and Football News). He started every game for the Broncos, leading the team in tackles with 141 (80 tackles and 61 assists). Atwater also posted one sack, two interceptions and two forced fumbles on the year. His big game came in a losing effort at San Diego (12/5), where he racked up 14 total tackles (nine solo and five assisted), which was one of six games in which he finished with double figure tackles. 1992. Atwater earned his third consecutive Pro Bowl berth in 1992, and was also named All-NFL (AP, NEA, PF/WPFWA, TSN,) and All-AFC (Football News). He led the secondary and was second on the team with 151 total tackles, (73 tackles and 78 assists), and also posted two interceptions, a sack, 12 passes defended, two fumble recoveries, and two forced fumbles. Atwater sat out the season opener against the Raiders (9/6) with a sprained ankle but rebounded to post 17 total tackles in week two against the Chargers (9/13), one of nine games in which he recorded double figures in tackles. Atwater had a big game at Buffalo (12/12), recovering a fumble and intercepting a pass. 1991. In 1991 Atwater earned his second straight Pro Bowl berth after a season in which he tied for the team lead with a career-high five interceptions and finished second on Denver's AFC-leading defense in total tackles with 150. Atwater was also named All-NFL (AP, Pro Football Weekly, College and Pro Football Newsweekly second-team) and All-AFC (Football News, Pro Football Weekly). For the season he registered 63 tackles, 67 assists, 11 passes defended, a sack, a forced fumble, and a fumble recovery. Atwater was named the AFC Defensive Player of the Week for his performance against the Seahawks (9/15) in which he had 10 total tackles, picked off a pass, and recovered a fumble. He was in double figures in total tackles nine times that year with a high of 14 vs. Phoenix (12/15). In post-season play Atwater had 17 total tackles and three passes defended, and he intercepted a pass vs. Houston (1/4). 1990. Atwater made his first appearance in the Pro Bowl after a tremendous 1990 campaign in which he finished second on the Broncos' defense with 173 total tackles, including a team-high 112 solo tackles, despite missing one game due to injury. For his efforts he was also named All-NFL (College and Pro Football Newsweekly 2nd team, Newspaper Editors Association - 2nd team) and All-AFC (UPI, Football News), and was voted by his teammates as Denver's most valuable defensive player. In addition, Atwater also posted two interceptions, four passes defended, two forced fumbles, and a quarterback sack, while also registering 10 total tackles on special teams. From his strong safety position Atwater posted five of Denver's top-10 single-game tackle totals, including a personal high of 18 vs. Pittsburgh (10/14), and had 12 or more total tackles in nine games. He cemented his reputation as a hard hitter after a thunderous collision with Kansas City's Christian Okoye in a nationally televised Monday night game (9/17). Atwater sat out the game vs. Seattle (9/23) with a rib strain and saw limited action against the Chargers (12/16) after suffering torn cartilage early in the first half. 1989. Atwater was named NFL All-Rookie (Pro Football Weekly, College and Pro Football Newsweekly) for a fine campaign. He made an immediate impact as the Broncos' first-round pick, taking the place of former defensive captain Mike Harden at free safety and combining with strong safety Dennis Smith to form one of the NFL's most physical safety tandems. Atwater started every regular season game and led the Broncos defense with 88 solos. He was second on the squad with 129 total tackles and also claimed three interceptions, 10 passes defended and a fumble recovery. Atwater had two interceptions in Week Three against the Raiders (9/24) the second setting up the game-clinching field goal. He had six games with 10 or more total tackles, including a high of 12 vs. San Diego (10/8).

COLLEGE. Atwater was a three-time All-Southwest Conference selection and two-time All-American at the University of Arkansas. He became the Razorbacks' all-time interception leader with 14 over his four active campaigns. He went to the school as a wishbone quarterback but was moved to the secondary as a redshirt freshman. Atwater closed out his college career with an appearance in the Senior Bowl, a game in which he had two interceptions.

PERSONAL: Steve and his wife Leitha reside in the Denver suburb of Aurora with their three sons, Stephen Jr., DiAndre and Paris. A native of Chicago, Ill., he was all-conference and league MVP as a wishbone quarterback at Lutheran North High School in St. Louis, Mo., where he was named the school's top scholar-athlete. Steve lettered three times in football, once each in baseball and track, and four times in basketball, garnering all-league, all-district, and All-America honors in that sport. He was selected to play in the McDonald's All-Star Classic, but missed the contest due to the chicken pox. He enjoys playing pool, fishing, basketball, and bowling. Steve has been involved with the Colorado Coalition for the Homeless and plays in charity golf tournaments across the country during the off-season. Stephen Dennis Atwater was born Oct. 28, 1966.

Even grueling seasons in the National Football League finally paid dividends for Tyrone Braxton in 1997, as he played a major role in Denver's first Super Bowl championship. Braxton, who had played in two previous Super Bowls with the Broncos, produced a key interception in the first quarter, as the Broncos went on to defeat the Green Bay Packers 31-24. For Braxton, 1997 was another stellar season at strong safety, as he finished third on the team in tackles and tied for first in interceptions. He has now appeared in 149 games with 111 starts, totaling 787 tackles (548 solo), 110 pass breakups and 35 interceptions (33 with Denver) for 551 return yards and four touchdowns, including one in 1997 (vs. Carolina, 11/9; 27 yds.). His others have come in 1989 (vs. Kansas City, 9/10; 52 yds.), 1991 (vs. Cincinnati, 9/1; 34 yds.) and 1996 (vs. Tampa Bay, 9/15; 69 yds.). He also has played in 14 postseason games (12 with Denver) with 63 stops (51 solo), nine pass breakups and three interceptions. Braxton's 11 postseason starts as a Bronco rank him in a tie for sixth-most in franchise history. Braxton is tied for fourth on the Broncos' all-time interceptions list, and stands fourth in interception return yards. He also owns the team record for most consecutive games with an interception with his four in games 12-15 of the 1996 season. The big-play maker, and former 12th-round draft pick (334th overall, 1987), has now been responsible for 49 takeaways as a Bronco.

1997 Braxton started all 16 games at strong safety and ranked third on the team with 90 tackles (74 solo), including a half sack (0.5), while also adding four interceptions (tied for team lead and eighth in the AFC), nine passes defended, a forced fumble and three fumble recoveries. Braxton's first interception came in the season-opener vs. Kansas City (8/31) when he thwarted a second-half Chiefs scoring opportunity and returned the interception 43 yards. He also had five tackles (four solo) and one pass breakup in the game. His second interception came in the second quarter at Buffalo (10/26) and was returned 23 yards to set up a Broncos field goal in a 23-20 overtime victory. He also had eight tackles (five solo) in the contest. Against Seattle on Nov. 2, he had half a sack and six tackles (five solo) in Denver's 30-27 win over the Seahawks. The sack, which he shared with Trevor Pryce, forced Warren Moon to fumble and set up a Broncos' field goal. Braxton's third interception of the season, vs. Carolina (11/9), was returned 27 yards for a fourth-quarter touchdown, the fourth time that Braxton has taken an interception back for a score in his 11-year career. He also had four tackles and two pass breakups during the game. On Nov. 24 vs. Oakland, he had seven tackles (all solos) and recovered a fumble that was forced by Ray

Crockett and returned it eight yards to set up Denver's first touchdown of the evening in a 31-3 victory. He added his fourth pickup at San Diego (11/30) and returned it 20 yards and also had four solo stops and three pass breakups in Denver's 38-28 win. The interception was the 35th of Braxton's career and his 33rd as a Bronco, moving him into a tie with Mike Harden for fourth place in franchise history. Braxton recovered his third fumble of the season at Pittsburgh (12/7) to set up Denver's first touchdown of the day in a 35-24 defeat. Postseason: Braxton started all four postseason games at strong safety to move into a tie for sixth-most postseason starts by a Bronco (11), and recorded 22 tackles (15 solo) with two interceptions and four passes defended. The two interceptions gave Braxton three in his postseason career, tied for first on the Broncos' all-time postseason interception list. In the AFC Championship Game at Pittsburgh (1/11/98) he came up with numerous big plays, tallying eight tackles (3 solo), three passes defended and his second career postseason interception, helping lead Denver back to the Super Bowl with a 24-21 victory. He picked off a Kordell Stewart bomb on the final play of the first half and returned it six yards. In Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay (1/25/98) he led the team with seven tackles (6 solo) and a pass defended, while also plucking his third career postseason interception, and second of the 1997 playoffs. The interception, which ended the Packers' second possession of the game and set up a Denver touchdown for a 14-7 lead, moved Braxton into a tie for most postseason interceptions by a Bronco (3) with Bob Swenson. Braxton was honored in early November for his generous charitable contributions in the Denver area by being named the Denver Broncos NFL/True Value Man of the Year.

1996 Braxton made big-play after big-play to earn his first Pro Bowl berth, as well as first-team Football News All-NFL and second-team UPI All-AFC honors. He finished fourth on the team with 102 tackles (78 solo), knocked down 19 passes, forced one fumble, recovered another and shared a team-leading nine interceptions, tying him with St. Louis' Keith Lyle for most in the NFL. The nine interceptions also exceeded his previous career high for a season (8 in 1989) and tied for the second-highest single-season total in franchise history (Willie Brown, 1964). The club record is 11 by Goose Gosson in 1960. For his efforts he received the Mackey Award for leading the league in interceptions. Braxton's first pick of the year (vs. Tampa Bay, 9/15) was returned 69 yards for a Broncos touchdown. The return for a touchdown was the third of his career, and his longest, as well as being the fourth-longest scoring interception return in franchise history and fifth-longest overall. His second interception thwarted a Cincinnati (9/29) scoring drive in the back of the end zone. The third ended any last threat that Baltimore might have had in the Broncos' 45-34 win Oct. 20. Always possessing a knack for the big play, Braxton's fourth interception was an end zone drive-killer vs. Kansas City (10/27) with the Chiefs trailing just 17-7 in the second quarter. On 11/10 vs. Chicago, Braxton started at strong safety and played as big a role in the Broncos' narrow 17-12 victory as any other defensive player. He finished with eight tackles (8 solo), recovered a fumble and returned it 20 yards, knocked down four passes and registered his fifth interception of the season. On the last play of the game, he knocked away a pass in the end zone that was intended for Curtis Conway, to preserve the victory. Two weeks later at Minnesota (11/24) Braxton turned in another big-play performance, posting eight tackles (5 solo), knocking down two passes and intercepting his sixth of the year, matching his previous best season (1989). The following week vs. Seattle (12/1) he finished with a team-high 12 tackles (7 solo), knocked down two passes and snagged his career-high seventh interception of the season. At Green Bay (12/8) he posted five tackles to go along with his team-leading eighth interception of the year, which he returned 14 yards. The following week vs. Oakland (12/15) he posted six solo tackles with one pass defended, as well as his ninth interception of the season. The pickup ended the Raiders' first drive of the game and set the tone for the afternoon. It was also his fourth consecutive game with a pick, a new team record. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97) Braxton led the team with 11 tackles (10 solo). 1995 Braxton started all 16 games at strong safety and finished tied for second on the team with 110 tackles (74 solo), 110 passes defended and two interceptions in his first season back in Denver after spending a year in Miami. He posted a season-high 10 tackles (7 solo) at Dallas (9/10), and turned in a fine all-around performance against Kansas City (10/22) breaking up three passes and making a touchdown-saving tackle, one of his seven (4 solo) on the day. Braxton had eight tackles (5 solo) vs. Arizona (11/5), including a first-quarter touchdown-saving solo tackle of Garrison Hearst at the Broncos' 5-yard line after a 39-yard pass play. The Cardinals were held to a field goal, and did not get into the end zone all day in Denver's 38-6 victory. Braxton matched his season-high of 10 tackles (9 solo) at Philadelphia (11/12), and recorded his first interception of the year against Jacksonville (12/3) along with 7 tackles (4 solo) on the day. His second interception came just a week later against Seattle (12/10).

and was returned 36 yards. 1994 Braxton played in all 16 games for a Miami team that advanced to the AFC Divisional Playoff before failing to San Diego. He recorded six tackles and two interceptions during the season, playing in nickel situations and on special teams. Braxton was signed by the Dolphins as an unrestricted free agent from Denver May 13, 1994, and was a teammate in Miami of current Bronco Aaron Craver. 1993 Braxton started all 16 games for the Broncos in his fifth straight season as the team's starting left cornerback. He finished second on the team in total tackles with 111 (79 solo), intercepted three passes for 37 yards in returns, had a team-high 19 passes defended, recovered two fumbles and forced two as well. 1992 Braxton started all 16 games at left corner and led the team with 16 passes defended, 99 tackles, 56 solo and two interceptions. He played well in week two against San Diego (9/13), notching 11 tackles and four passes defended. 1991 Braxton made a successful comeback from a knee injury that caused him to miss most of the 1990 campaign. He started at left corner and marked his return by intercepting a pass for a touchdown in the season-opener vs. Cincinnati (9/1). Braxton recorded 92 total tackles (57 solo), 12 passes defended, four interceptions, a sack, a forced fumble and a fumble recovery in regular season play. He had a big game against New England (12/1), posting six tackles, three passes defended and a sack in postseason play. Braxton had 14 tackles, 7 solo, and intercepted a pass in the AFC Championship Game at Buffalo (1/12). 1990 Braxton tore the medial collateral ligament in his right knee in the third game of the season and underwent surgery, thus ending his season. Up to that point he had registered 17 total tackles, an interception and two passes defended. 1989 Braxton had a tremendous campaign in his third NFL season, playing cornerback for the first time in his career. He started every game for the Broncos and ranked sixth in the AFC with a team-leading six interceptions, while also pacing Denver's defense with 14 passes defended. In regular season play Braxton posted 111 total tackles (77 solo), two forced fumbles and two fumble recoveries. He helped set the tone for the Broncos' defensive resurgence that season when on opening day vs. Kansas City (9/10) he intercepted a pass on the Chiefs' first play from scrimmage and returned it 34 yards for a touchdown. Braxton also set up a Denver touchdown with a 35-yard fumble return against Washington (11/20), and racked up 12 tackles and an interception at Seattle (10/22). 1988 Braxton had a good season as one of the leaders on Denver's special teams and as a reserve defensive back. He closed that campaign with a total of 49 tackles (38 solo), five passes defended, two interceptions, a fumble recovery and a quarterback sack. 1987 Braxton played in the final two regular season games and all three postseason contests, spending the first 13 weeks of the season on injured reserve with a shoulder injury suffered in the preseason. He played primarily on special teams in the regular season, then posted five total tackles (3 solo) in the postseason. The rookie was named Denver's special teams most valuable player for his performance in the divisional playoff game vs. Houston (1/10). Braxton was Denver's 12th-round draft pick in 1987, the second-to-last player taken.

COLLEGE Braxton was a defensive back and punt return specialist at North Dakota State, earning all-conference honors as a senior after posting 128 tackles, an interception, and two fumble recoveries. As a junior he led the conference with five interceptions and a punt return average of 15.0, earning him second-team all-conference honors. Braxton was a member of the North Central Conference champion outdoor 400-meter relay squad that competed in the national championship.

PRO YEAR: 12th • YEAR WITH BRONCOS: 2nd
NFL GAMES PLAYED/STARTED: 88/71

Bobby Brister returned to action in 1997 after a year off from pro football and served as a valuable reserve for the Broncos on their run to Super Bowl XXXII. He started the season as the third-string quarterback but was elevated to the second-team the week of the Broncos' Dec. 7 matchup at Pittsburgh. He continues to provide great leadership for the team and made tremendous progress in picking up the sophisticated but highly successful offense of head coach Mike Shanahan. Brister has played in 88 games (71 starts) in his 11-year career, throwing for more than 13,000 yards and 74 touchdowns. He has also rushed for over 400 yards and seven more scores. Brister has also participated in three postseason games (two starts), throwing for 356 yards and one score. He played for the Steelers from 1986-92, Philadelphia from 1993-94 and the Jets in 1995. Brister's career highs in passing yards (353) and his longest touchdown pass (90) both came against the Broncos in 1990. He was drafted in the third round (67th overall) by Pittsburgh in 1986 out of Northeast Louisiana.

1997 Brister spent the final three games of the regular season as the backup quarterback, moving into that position prior to the Pittsburgh game (12/7). He had previously been designated the Broncos' third quarterback for the first 13 games of the season. Brister's only action of the season came in the season finale vs. San Diego (12/21) when he replaced John Elway in the third quarter. His totals for the day — and the season — included six completions in nine attempts for 48 yards with a long of 15. He also rushed four times for 2 yards with a long of 2. Postseason Brister made one postseason appearance, finishing the Wild Card game vs. Jacksonville (12/27) for John Elway and piloting the Broncos on their final scoring drive capped by a Vaughn Hebronn 6-yard touchdown run. He served as the backup quarterback for the rest of Denver's playoff run.

1996 Brister was out of football. 1995 Brister played nine games for the Jets and started four (games 7-10), completing 93 of 170 passes (54.7%) for 726 yards, four touchdowns and eight interceptions. He was also sacked 16 times (122) in the season opener at Miami. Brister spelled Boomer Esiason and went 5-8 for 37 yards and one interception. In Week Two vs. Indianapolis he played but did not throw a pass. Brister completed 13 of 23 passes for 112 yards, one touchdown and one interception at Buffalo (10/8). The next week at Carolina he completed 17 of 41 passes for 143 yards with 3 interceptions. A week later against Miami (10/22) he was 15-26 for 152 yards with two touchdowns and one interception in New York's 17-16. He followed that at Indianapolis (10/29) by completing 19 of 31 for 154 yards, one touchdown and one interception. Brister's grid with the Jets as an unrestricted free agent Mar. 1, 1995. 1994 Brister played in seven games (two starts) for Philadelphia as the backup to Randal Cunningham. He was also the holder on field goals and PATs in Games 1-5. Brister started the final two games of the year, eclipsing the 300-yard passing mark for the fifth time in his career with a 26 of 37, 325-yard, one-touchdown performance in the season finale at Cincinnati. 1993 Brister started eight games with Philadelphia and finished fourth in the NFC (7th NFL) with an 89.4 passer rating. He led Philly to a 4-2 record over the final six games, completing 141 of 236 passes for 1,479 yards, 11 touchdowns and three interceptions. He threw for three touchdowns and 350 yards and led a 68-yard overtime drive that set up the game-winning field goal in the season finale at San Francisco on Monday Night Football. He also threw for three scores the previous week at New Orleans. Brister set career-highs for attempts (45) and completions (27) at Dallas (12/6), then topped that performance a week later with 28 completions on 48 attempts for 299 yards and a score vs. Buffalo. He led a 75-yard game-winning drive at Washington (11/28) that culminated with a two-yard pass to James Joseph with 46 seconds remaining in regulation to give the Eagles a 17-14 victory. He took over for Cunningham in Game Four against the Jets and started two games before missing the next five with neck and ankle injuries. 1992 Brister played in six games for Pittsburgh, starting the last four in place of injured Neil O'Donnell. He led the team to two comeback victories, including a 23-13 win over Cleveland that clinched a home playoff game for the Steelers. 1991 Brister started Games 1-5 for Pittsburgh before a sprained knee in Game Five forced him out of the next eight contests. He returned to the starting lineup for the final three games of the season and finished the year with 103 completions on 190 attempts for 1,350 yards, nine touchdowns and nine interceptions en route to a 5-3 record as a starter. 1990 Brister started all 16 games for the first time in his career and had his best year as a pro, setting career highs in attempts (387), completions (223), passing yards (2,725), touchdown passes (20) and passer rating (81.6). The 20 scores were the most by a Pittsburgh quarterback since Terry Bradshaw's 22 in 1981. Brister ranked sixth in the AFC and 10th in the NFL in passer rating. He had an outstanding day at Denver (10/14), completing 21 of 28 for a career-high 353 yards and four touchdowns in a 34-17 win, including a career-long 90-yard touchdown pass to Dwight Stone. He earned AFC Offensive Player of the Month honors for October. 1989 Brister started 14 games for the Steelers and finished the season with a 73.1 passer rating. He had a stretch of eight games without throwing an interception after throwing three on opening day vs. Cleveland. Brister set a Steeler record with 15 consecutive completions at Detroit and finished 21 of 27 for 267 yards and one touchdown to earn AFC Offensive Player of the Week honors. He sprained his left knee in Game Five vs. Cincinnati, forcing him to miss Games 6-7, but came back to lead the team to wins in five of their last six games. Brister was 15 of 33 for 127 yards in Pittsburgh's 26-23 overtime AFC Wild Card victory at Houston. He was 19 of 29 for 229 yards and a score the next week in the AFC Divisional Playoff loss at Denver. 1988 Brister won the Steelers' starting job over Todd Blackledge and Steve Bono and led the team with six rushing touchdowns. He won his first game as a starter in Pittsburgh's opening day win over Dallas. He missed three games with a dislocated finger on his throwing hand in Game Five vs. Cleveland. He threw the AFC's longest pass of the year (89-yard TD to Louis Lypps) vs. Philadelphia and earned AFC Offensive Player of the Week honors with his 17-of-36, 311-yard, three-touchdown performance in a 37-34 upset win at Houston. 1987 Brister played in two games for Pittsburgh and was 4 of 12 for 33 yards and three interceptions. 1986 Brister started two games for the injured Mark Malone and was 21 of 60 for 291 yards and two interceptions. He was a third-round selection by the Steelers out of Northeastern Louisiana (4th QB, 67th player overall).

COLLEGE Brister played collegiately at Northeastern Louisiana where he was a first-team All-Southland Conference selection and Louisiana's Most Valuable Player as a senior when he ranked seventh in the country with a 134.8 passer rating. Brister led the conference in passing and total offense as a senior. He transferred to Northeastern Louisiana from Tulane.

Glenn Cadrez continued to play a significant role in the Denver Broncos' defensive success in 1997 and could play an even more significant role in 1998 as he battles for a starting position alongside Bill Romanowski and John Mobley. Cadrez, who has now played in 91 career games (seven starts), has recorded 75 tackles (42 solo) and two sacks in his career. He came to the Broncos Sept. 27, 1995 after playing in the season-opener for the Jets. He had played under Broncos defensive coordinator Greg Robinson during his three-year stay in New York.

1997: Cadrez contributed at linebacker in all 16 games, making eight tackles (7 solo), and on special teams where he added six more and a forced fumble. His forced fumble came on the opening kickoff of the second half vs. Seattle (11/2) and was scooped up and returned six yards for a touchdown by Darnus Johnson. At Atlanta (9/28) he recorded one assisted tackle and one special teams stop in Denver's 29-21 victory. He also had two solo stops and a special teams tackle at Oakland (10/19) and followed that up with two solo tackles the next week at Buffalo. In the season finale vs. San Diego (12/21) he made one solo tackle, and played on special teams. Postseason: Cadrez saw action at linebacker in all four postseason games, making three tackles (2 solo) and also contributed on special teams. He had one assisted tackle at Pittsburgh and served as the "spy" on Steelers quarterback Kordell Stewart for most of the day, as Stewart only ran for 11 yards on two carries after his 33-yard touchdown in the first quarter. In Denver's 42-17 AFC Wild Card Playoff win over Jacksonville (12/21/97) Cadrez made two solo tackles and participated on special teams.

1996: Cadrez saw action in all 16 regular season games, both as a linebacker and on special teams. He made 15 tackles (7 solo), including half a sack on defense and six tackles on special teams. His most extensive action of the season came vs. San Diego (10/6) when he replaced an Injured John Mobley and played nearly half the game at weakside linebacker. He also replaced Mobley for a significant portion of the game at Oakland (11/4) on Monday Night Football, making two tackles (one solo). He participated on special teams in Denver's lone postseason contest, 1995 Cadrez, who had played in the season opener as a member of the New York Jets before being released Sept. 19, made his first Broncos' — and professional — start at left linebacker at New England (10/8) as a replacement for the injured Elijah Alexander. He took over that role full-time when Alexander was placed on injured reserve (11/22). Cadrez finished the season with 44 tackles (22 solo), two sacks and one fumble recovery on defense, and contributed two more tackles on special teams. Cadrez made his first appearance as a Bronco at Seattle (10/1), and started the following week at New England (10/8). He tore cartilage in his right knee during the latter contest, and underwent arthroscopic surgery Tuesday, Oct. 10. He was expected to miss two weeks, but did not return to action until Nov. 5 when the Broncos faced the Cardinals. Cadrez registered the first two sacks of his career on consecutive plays — third and fourth down — to thwart a late Jacksonville rally Dec. 3 in the Broncos' 31-23 win. He also made a key play in the fourth quarter of the Broncos' come-from-behind victory at Oakland in the season finale (12/24), recovering a fumble at Denver's 28-yard line with 3:52 remaining in the game and the score tied at 28-28. The recovery stalled the Raiders' potential game-winning drive and set up the Broncos' own game-winning drive that culminated with a Jason Elam 37-yard field goal. 1994 As a member of the New York Jets, Cadrez played in all 16 games, primarily on special teams, recording 11 special teams stops. 1993 Cadrez played in all 16 games, recording 11 special teams tackles and six tackles as a backup linebacker. 1992 As a rookie, Cadrez played in all 16 games, registering eight special teams tackles on the season. He was a sixth-round pick (154th overall) by the Jets in 1992.

COLLEGE Cadrez played collegiately at the University of Houston from 1990-91, where he was a teammate of Bronco linebacker Allen Aldridge. He earned All-Southwest Conference honors as a senior in 1991 when he led the Cougars with 12 sacks as a defensive end. For the season he recorded 63 tackles, one forced fumble and 14 tackles for loss. Cadrez transferred to Houston from Chaffey Junior College, where he led the team in tackles and sacks both seasons he was there.

PERSONAL Cadrez is a native of El Centro, Calif., where he attended Central Union High School and was an all-league selection in football. He and his wife, Betsy, and their two daughters, make their home in El Centro. Glenn was born January 2, 1970.

Dwayne Carswell continues to be one of the most valuable backups on the Broncos' roster, spelling All-Pro tight end Shannon Sharpe as well as providing outstanding special teams play throughout his four-year career. For that he was rewarded with a new contract this offseason with plans to be an even more integral part of the offense in 1998. Carswell has played in 45 career regular season and five postseason games with Denver after joining the team as a rookie free agent in 1994.

1997 Carswell contributed in a reserve role at tight end and on special teams in all 16 games, and made two starts as Denver opened the game in a two-tight end set at Buffalo (10/26) and Kansas City (11/16). For the year he recorded 12 receptions for 96 yards (8.0), and scored his first career touchdown on a career best 24-yard reception from John Elway vs. St. Louis (9/14). In that game, Carswell tied his career high for receptions (4), and set a new career high for receiving yards (47). He also injured tissue on the top of his left foot during the St. Louis game and was held out of practice the following week, but did not miss a game. Carswell made 12 special teams tackles on the season, and recovered a fumble on a kickoff at Buffalo (10/26). He was named the Broncos' special teams captain at midseason, joining offensive captains John Elway and Terrell Davis and defensive captains Steve Atwater and Bill Romanowski. Postseason Carswell saw action at tight end in all four postseason games and caught two passes for 30 yards (15.0) with a career high of 26 yards on a career best 26-yard reception on special teams in Denver's 31-24 victory in Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay (1/25/98). Carswell caught one pass for four yards, and also contributed on special teams. His other postseason grab, a 26-yarder, came in Denver's 14-10 AFC Divisional Playoff win at Kansas City (1/4/98).

1996 Carswell saw action in all 16 regular season games and started one at tight end in place of Shannon Sharpe (at San Diego 12/22). Most of his action during the regular season came on special teams and as the second tight end on offense. For the season he caught 15 passes for 85 yards, and made five special teams tackles according to unofficial press box statistics. He caught a career high four passes, 16 yards vs. Oakland (12/15) in the Broncos' 24-19 victory and also started at tight end in place of Shannon Sharpe (ankle) at San Diego (12/22). In Denver's regular season finale and caught three passes for 24 yards. Carswell started as the second tight end for Denver against the Chargers on Oct. 6, as the Broncos opened the game in a two-tight end set. He caught a three-yard pass and made one special teams tackle. He also saw plenty of action at tight end in Denver's regular season opener against the Jets, as Shannon Sharpe was nursing a slightly sprained ankle. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville, Carswell saw action as the backup tight end, catching two passes for 18 yards with a long of 10, and also contributed on special teams in his first career postseason game. 1995 Carswell was declared inactive for seven of the Broncos' first 13 games, before making his first career start against Seattle Dec. 10. He replaced the injured Shannon Sharpe, eye and Jerry Evans' knee, in the starting lineup and did so again the following week at Kansas City (12/17), when he caught two passes for 32 yards, including a career best 23-yarder. He sprained his ankle on the second play of the game, but played through it. For the year, Carswell caught three passes for 37 yards and made two special teams tackles. His first action of the season came at Seattle (10/1) when he played on special teams, and he made his first appearance on offense versus Arizona (11/5). Carswell's first career start came Dec. 10 against Seattle when he caught his first career pass, a five-yarder from John Elway in the second quarter. He was inactive for the first four games of the season. 1994 Carswell spent the first 11 weeks of the season on the practice squad before being moved to the active roster during the week of the Cincinnati game (11/27). He played on special teams during that game, and then saw his first duty at tight end the following week at Kansas City (12/4). Carswell again saw action in the following two games, recovering a fumble against the Raiders (12/11), but was inactive in the season finale against New Orleans (12/24).

COLLEGE Carswell finished his career at Liberty with 65 receptions for 511 yards and two touchdowns, and posted senior year totals of 32 receptions for 259 yards in 1993. He also played in the Flames' offensive backfield for two seasons, finishing 1991 with 435 yards rushing and five touchdowns. Carswell was coached at Liberty by former Cleveland Browns' head coach Sam Rutigliano.

Byron Chamberlain continued to show improvement in his game during the 1997 season, though with the loss of All-Pro Shannon Sharpe at his position, he did not receive a great deal of playing time. Chamberlain is expected to play a vital role in the Broncos' offense in 1998 as he continues to show great potential for the future. He was originally drafted by the Broncos in the seventh round (222nd overall) of the 1995 Draft out of Wayne State and is in his fourth year with the club. He spent the 1996 World League season with the Rhein Fire and led the league with 58 receptions for 685 yards (11.8) and a league-leading eight touchdowns.

1997 Chamberlain saw action in 10 of the 16 games as a reserve tight end and special teams performer, and caught two passes for 18 yards (9.0) with a long of 9, both coming against St. Louis on Sept. 14 in a 35-14 Broncos victory. He also returned one kickoff for 13 yards at Kansas City (11/16). Chamberlain was inactive at Atlanta (9/28) vs. New England (10/6) vs. Seattle (11/2) at San Francisco (12/15) and vs. San Diego (12/21) and was active but did not play at Pittsburgh (12/7). He returned a kickoff for 13 yards at Kansas City (11/16/97). His fumble at the end of the return was recovered by teammate Vaughn Henson. Postseason Chamberlain appeared in three of the four postseason games at tight end and on special teams (exception was Super Bowl XXXII).

1996 Chamberlain saw action in 11 regular season games on special teams and at tight end and caught 12 passes for 129 yards (10.8). He also returned three kickoffs for 49 (16.3) yards and made one special teams tackle. Chamberlain was inactive for the first three games while recovering from a ruptured tendon in his left ring finger. He returned to practice Sept. 18 after missing six weeks, then saw his first game action of the season at Kansas City (9/22). On Oct. 6 vs. San Diego, Chamberlain established a new career high with two receptions for 18 yards, including his first of the year — a 12-yarder on which he put a nice spin move on two San Diego defenders to gain several extra yards. His longest career reception was a 17-yarder vs. Seattle (12/1). Chamberlain set career highs in both receptions (5) and receiving yards (61) vs. Oakland (12/15). On Dec. 22 at San Diego, Chamberlain saw action at tight end, making three catches for 22 yards. In the AFC Divisional Playoffs vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97), he saw action on offense and also contributed on special teams, returning one kickoff for 15 yards. 1995 Chamberlain was signed to the active roster Nov. 24 after spending the first 11 games of the season on the practice squad. His first professional game came at Houston (11/26). Chamberlain was elevated to the second-string tight end position for the final three games of the season while Shannon Sharpe was out with an eye injury and Jerry Evans was placed on injured reserve with a knee injury. For the season, Chamberlain caught one pass for 11 yards (at Oak., 12/24) and had two special teams tackles. The reception, from John Elway, came during Denver's game-tying drive in the fourth quarter, as the Broncos went on to win 31-28.

COLLEGE Chamberlain set a school record for receptions at Wayne State with 161, and ranks third on the all-time list for receiving yards with 1,941. He began his college career at Missouri, where he was an All-Big Eight Conference honorable mention selection in 1991. Chamberlain started all 10 games as a senior at Wayne State in 1994, registering a school-record 83 catches for 926 yards (11.2 avg.), and seven touchdowns. He also rushed seven times for 100 yards (14.3) and one touchdown. Chamberlain was a Division II first-team All-America choice by The Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft. Chamberlain did not play collegiate football in 1992, following his transfer from Missouri where he had spent three seasons. He played in every game as a freshman in 1989, catching three balls for 92 yards (30.7) and one touchdown, before redshirting in 1990 and then returning for his sophomore season in 1991 when he earned All-Big Eight honorable mention. Chamberlain was a parks and recreation major at Wayne State.

PERSONAL Chamberlain was a third-team all-state selection as a wide receiver at Eastern Hills (Fort Worth, Texas) High School. He was also an all-district and All-Tarrant County first-team choice. He caught 34 passes for 645 yards (19.0 avg.) and seven touchdowns, adding 216 yards rushing with a pair of scores on 13 carries as a senior. He had 70 receptions for 1,390 yards (19.9) and 15 touchdowns during his career. Byron also lettered twice in track and three times in baseball. His sister Dhana, was the district champ in the triple jump at Eastern Hills in 1987. Chamberlain was born Oct. 17, 1971 in Honolulu, Hawaii. He and his wife, Robyn, make their home in Englewood, Colo.

Ray Crockett enjoyed the best season of his nine-year career in 1997, leading the Broncos in interceptions (4) and pass breakups (21), as he edged a secondary that jelled towards the end of the season and helped lead Denver to its first ever world championship. For his efforts, Crockett was rewarded with a five-year, $15 million contract this offseason, putting him among the highest paid defensive backs in the NFL. Now in his fifth year in Denver and 10th year in the NFL, Crockett has played in 140 games and started 114, in addition to seven postseason games (all starts). Signed by the Broncos as an unrestricted free agent in 1994, he was originally drafted by the Detroit Lions in the fourth round of the 1989 NFL Draft, 86th overall.

1997 Crockett started all 16 games at left cornerback and put in one of his finest years, in his ninth pro season, tying for fourth on the team with 83 tackles, 69 solo, as well as tying for the team lead with four interceptions (tied for eighth in AFC), a forced fumble and a team best 21 pass breakups. Crockett's four interceptions tied for eighth-most in the AFC and represented his highest single-season total since 1992 (4). His most notable pass breakup of the season thwarted a potential 33-yard scoring play by Kansas City in the season-opener (8/31). He also totaled five tackles on the day. Crockett picked two interceptions in a game for the first time in his career with a pair of thefts vs. Carolina (11/9), which came on back-to-back series in the third quarter. He added four stops, three solo, against the Panthers in a 34-0 shutout, Denver's first shutout since 1995. His first interception of the season came vs. St. Louis (9/14), when he picked off a Tony Banks pass in the fourth quarter, adding to five pass breakups he registered in the contest. His second interception came at Buffalo (10/26), deep in Broncos territory in the fourth quarter to complement his six stops against the Bills. Crockett's forced fumble early in the second quarter vs. the Raiders (11/24) was recovered by Tyrone Braxton and returned 8 yards to set up the Broncos' first touchdown. Crockett was also among Denver's leaders in tackles during the season, racking up at least four tackles in all but two games, two stops vs. New England (10/6) and two stops vs. San Diego (12/21). He had a season-high nine stops (seven solo) vs. Seattle on Nov. 2 and marched those numbers at Pittsburgh on Dec. 7. He also had seven stops, four solo, at Seattle (9/7) and at San Diego (six solo, 11/30). He closed out the regular season with a two-tackle, both solo, three-pass breakup effort against the Chargers (12/21). Postseason Crockett started at cornerback in all four postseason games and elevated his performance to match the occasion, making 19 solo tackles (third on the team), including a sack (-1), with an interception and three passes defended. He also recovered a fumble on special teams at Pittsburgh (1/11). After starting the postseason slowly with only one tackle against Jacksonville in an AFC Wild Card Game (12/27), Crockett had a four-tackle effort at Kansas City on Jan. 4 in Denver's 14-10 AFC Divisional Playoff win. Crockett was given the responsibility of covering Andre Rison, the Chiefs' best receiver, for most of the day, a task he would have to take the following week in Pittsburgh against Yawney Thigpen in the AFC Championship Game. He proved he was up to the task, holding Thigpen to six receptions for the game and no touchdowns (Thigpen scored three on Denver in December). He also added a sack of Kordell Stewart, two passes defended and a team-leading eight tackles (all solo). In Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay (1/25/98) he tied for second on the team with six solo tackles and a pass defended, as the Broncos defense forced three-time MVP Brett Favre into two critical turnovers during the game to lead to Denver's 31-24 victory.

1996 Crockett started 15 games at left cornerback, missing only the regular season finale (at S.D., 12/22) with a knee injury. He was solid all season and came up with numerous big plays in the Denver secondary, while putting up outstanding numbers with 68 tackles (56 solo), a career-best four sacks (-29), three forced fumbles, 15 passes defended and two interceptions (34 yards). He also added five special teams tackles. At Seattle (9/8) Crockett made five tackles (3 solo), including a sack of Rick Mirer for a seven-yard loss. He forced a fumble on the play, recovered by Bill Romanowski. It was Crockett's second straight game with a sack, following his eight-yarder against the Jets in Week One. At Kansas City (9/22) Crockett made seven tackles (6 solo), including a sack of Steve Bono for a four-yard loss. The following week at Cincinnati (9/29), he made two solo tackles while breaking up two passes. His second was perhaps the most important defensive play of the day, as he reached with his left hand to tip away a 60-yard bomb from Jeff Blake intended for Darnay Scott, at the Broncos' 10-yard line with just under two minutes remaining and the Broncos leading 14-10. He capped a brilliant three-week performance against San Diego (10/6) by registering six solo tackles and forcing two fumbles in Denver's 28-17 come-from-behind victory. Crockett had another big day vs. Kansas City (10/27), making four tackles (2 solo), knocking down three passes and plucking his first interception of the season. He had tipped an earlier ball that was intercepted in the end zone by Tyrone Braxton, then ended a Kansas City scoring threat in the fourth quarter with his own end zone interception. At Oakland (11/4) Crockett made three tackles (2 solo), including his fourth sack of the season (-10) to establish a new career high in Denver's thrilling 22-21 Monday Night victory. He also added two special teams stops on the evening. His second interception of the year came vs. Oakland (12/15) and ended the Raiders' final threat, preserving Denver's 24-19 win. He suffered a knee injury at the end of the 34-yard return, but an MRI the following day proved negative. He was declared inactive for the San Diego game (12/22) because of the injury. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97), Crockett made two solo tackles with one pass defended. 1995 Crockett started all 16 games at left cornerback and made 76 tackles (61 solo) with 16 passes defended and three sacks. He also made two special teams tackles. Crockett recorded sacks in consecutive games vs. Arizona (11/5) and at Philadelphia (11/12), to account for two of his three on the year. He sprained his right knee in the first quarter vs. San Diego (11/19), and had to leave the game for several series, but came back to play the rest of the game after having it wrapped in the locker room. Crockett scored his third career touchdown at Kansas City (12/17, after stripping the ball from Chiefs' quarterback Steve Bono on a sack, and racing 50 yards for the score). On the day he had seven tackles (6 solo), one pass defended and the aforementioned sack for 13 yards. 1994 Crockett joined the Broncos during the offseason as an unrestricted free agent from the Detroit Lions and immediately stepped in as a starter at right cornerback. He started all 14 games in which he played at that position, missing two games with a sprained ankle at Seattle (10/9) and vs. Kansas City (10/17). Suffered in the Broncos' 27-20 loss at Buffalo (9/26). He finished the season with 70 tackles (48 solo), tied for the team lead in interceptions with two (6 yards in returns), led the team in passes defended with 20 and scooped up two fumbles. He posted his season high in tackles with 10 (6 solo) in the Broncos' 20-17 overtime win at Kansas City (12/4). Crockett pulled down his first interception in a Denver uniform at San Diego (10/23) and recorded his second against Cincinnati (11/27) to set up a Broncos score. Among his other highlights was a fumble recovery against the Raiders (9/18) that he returned 43 yards before being tackled inside the Raiders' 10-yard line, setting up a Denver score. 1993 Crockett started all 16 games for the Detroit Lions and finished the season with 68 tackles (57 solo), two interceptions, one forced fumble and one fumble recovery. In Crockett's five seasons in the NFC he earned the reputation as one of the game's most physical cornerbacks. 1992 Crockett was slowed early in the season by injuries, but had a good outing versus Minnesota (9/13). He finished the game with a pass interception and four tackles (three solo). Two weeks later vs. Tampa Bay he picked off his second pass of the season, and was credited with four tackles. His best all-around performance came versus Chicago, where he recorded a sack, intercepted a pass, and made five solo tackles. He ended the season with 52 tackles (41 solo), four interceptions, one forced and one recovered fumble. 1991 Crockett tied for the NFC lead and finished second in the NFL in interceptions with six. His interception return of 96 yards was the NFL's longest of the season. Crockett's 141 return yards were the most by a Lion since 1967. He was named Defensive Player of the Week after recording a team-high eight tackles and the 96-yard interception return vs. the Dallas Cowboys (10/27). Crockett finished the year with 86 tackles (74 solo), six interceptions and one forced fumble. 1990 Crockett finished second on the team in interceptions with three. He played primarily in nickel situations, earning his first start against the Broncos on Thanksgiving Day (11/22). Crockett finished the game with five solo tackles and an interception. His best game came at Green Bay (12/22), finishing with eight tackles, one interception, and a 22-yard fumble return for a touchdown to tie the score at 17-17. For the season Crockett's numbers were 59 tackles (53 solo), three interceptions, two forced fumbles and two fumble recoveries. 1989 Crockett played as a nickel back in all 16 contests, finishing the season with 46 tackles (34 solo), one interception and one forced fumble. He was drafted by Detroit in the fourth round of the 1989 NFL draft, 86th overall.

COLLEGE Crockett finished his four-year career at Baylor with 169 tackles (120 solo), five interceptions and seven tackles for loss. He also returned five punts as a punter for 30 yards and earned first-team All-Southwest Conference honors with 62 tackles on the year and 13 passes defended. He also lettered in track. Crockett received his B.A. degree in computer science in May, 1992.

PERSONAL Ray was a first-team all-district choice at Duncanville (Texas) High School and was named to the Dallas Morning News' All-Academic team as an A student. He earned all-state honors as a tailback and cornerback and also earned all-state honors in track for Duncanville. In 1997 running back Terrell Davis took many huge steps towards being touted as the best running back the sport has seen in many years, putting up numbers never before reached by a Broncos running back — not even himself a year earlier. In just three short seasons, Davis has already accumulated 47 team records (19 in the postseason), including most rushing yards in a season (1,750), most rushing touchdowns in a season (15), most rushing attempts in a season (369), most 100-yard performances in a season (10) and most total yards from scrimmage in a season (2,037) — all numbers he accomplished in 1997. His postseason effort was also one to remember, as he posted four consecutive 100-yard games and scored an NFL-record eight touchdowns (all on the ground) to lead Denver to its first ever World Championship. Davis also added his second Pro Bowl appearance to his resumé as well as earning numerous individual awards, including Super Bowl XXXII Most Valuable Player honors. Among Davis' awards for his performance during the 1997 season were AFC Player of the Year by the KC 101 Club and Football News as well as first-team AFL-Pro honors from the Associated Press, Sports Illustrated, Pro Football Weekly, College and Pro Football Weekly, The Sporting News, Football News, Football Digest and USA Today. He was also given the Mackey Award by the NFL Players Association as the AFC's best running back. Davis has twice led the AFC in rushing (1996 and '97) and finished second in the NFL behind Detroit's Barry Sanders and in 1997 set the all-time NFL record for most rushing attempts (495) and rushing yards gained (2,331) in a regular and postseason combined eclipsing the previous standards held by John Riggins and Eric Dickerson, respectively. The greatest compliment earned by Davis to this point in his young career came the day after a 171-yard performance from the Denver running back on Oct. 6, 1997 against New England, after which Broncos' future Hall of Fame quarterback John Elway proclaimed "It's Terrell's team now. My job now is just picking up third downs." Here is a look at some of Davis' more prominent career statistical notes after three seasons:

- After only three seasons in the league (45 games, 45 starts) Terrell Davis already ranks fourth on the Broncos' all-time rushing yardage list (4,405), fourth in rushing attempts (951), third in rushing touchdowns (35) and first in career rushing average (4.63)
- Davis has 127 receptions for 964 yards (7.6 avg.) and three touchdowns
- Davis already holds or shares 47 team records (19 in postseason), including most total yards from scrimmage in a season (2,037 in 1997), most rushing yards in a season (1,750 in 1997), most rushing touchdowns in a season (15 in 1997) most touchdowns in a season (15 in 1997 and 1996), most rushing attempts (31) and rushing yards (184) in a postseason game, and most rushing and total touchdowns (3) in a postseason game
- Davis also has the most career rushing yards in postseason play by a Bronco (672) and the most rushing and total touchdowns in postseason play by a Bronco (9)
- Davis reached the 4,000-yard rushing plateau faster than any player in Broncos' history (fourth fastest in NFL history). He also reached 5,000 total yards from scrimmage faster than any player in Broncos' history and is only the eighth player in NFL history to reach this mark in his first three NFL seasons
- Davis also ranks No. 1 all-time in 100-yard rushing games by a Bronco with 20 reaching that milestone in just his 43rd NFL contest (11/30 at San Diego). Only four running backs in NFL history have tallied 20 100-yard rushing games quicker than Davis
- Davis is one of only nine players to rush for 3,500 yards in his first three seasons and currently ranks eighth in all-time rushing yards in the first three seasons of an NFL career
- Davis is one of only eight players to rush for 1,000 yards in his first three years in the league and he is also one of only seven players to rush for 2,500 yards in his first two seasons
- One of Davis' most impressive accomplishments was becoming the lowest drafted rookie to ever rush for 1,000 yards, doing so with his 1,117-yard performance in 1995

Davis' list of 1996 honors included Associated Press NFL Offensive Player of the Year, Sports Illustrated and LPI NFL Player of the Year, his first Pro Bowl selection, All-Pro selections from the

SUPER BOWL XXXII MOST VALUABLE PLAYER

Terrell Davis, a native of San Diego made history in winning the Pete Rozelle Award as Most Valuable Player of Super Bowl XXXII. He not only became the first player to be named Super Bowl MVP for a game played in his hometown, but also became the sixth-lowest drafted player to receive this honor. The other players who were drafted even later than Davis (6th round, 196th selection in 1995) were Richard Dent (Chicago 8th round, MVP in 1986), Jake Scott (Miami 7th round, MVP in 1973), Roger Staubach (Dallas, 10th round MVP in 1972), Larry Brown (Dallas 12th round MVP in 1996) and Bart Starr (Green Bay, 17th round, MVP in 1967 and '68). Davis and Marcus Allen (MVP 1984) have made Lincoln High School in San Diego the only high school ever to produce two Super Bowl MVPs. Davis' jersey No. 7 was retired at the high school in a special ceremony held Tues., Jan. 20, 1998 during Super Bowl week.

Associated Press, Sports Illustrated, The Sporting News, USA Today, Pro Football Weekly, Football Digest and College & Pro Football Newsweekly, All-AFC nods from UPI and Football News and a third-place showing in the AP NFL Most Valuable Player voting. Davis led the AFC and was second in the NFL in both rushing yards (1,538 yards on 345 carries 4.5) and total yards from scrimmage (1,848), and led the NFL in first downs earned (108). He was second in the AFC (3rd NFL) in both rushing touchdowns (13) and total touchdowns (15), and set franchise records in both categories. He also set franchise single-season records in rushing attempts, rushing yards and total yards, topping previous standards held by Sammy Winder (296 carries in 1984) and Otis Armstrong (1,407 rushing yards and 1,812 total yards in 1974). With 15 total touchdowns, Davis broke the franchise single-season record of 14 held by Sammy Winder (1986) and Anthony Miller (1995), and joined tight end Shannon Sharpe (10 TDs) to give the Broncos two players with double-figure touchdowns in the same season for the first time in franchise history. Davis teamed with QB John Elway and TE Shannon Sharpe to make the Broncos only the sixth team in NFL history to have a trio that had a 3,000-yard passer, 1,500-yard rusher, and 1,000-yard receiver. The trio along with WR Rod Smith, duplicated the feat in 1997 becoming the first team to do this in back-to-back seasons and only the third team to have two 1,000-yard receivers as part of the group. He also tied the NFL record for most two-point conversions in a year with three in 1997, a feat that has been accomplished seven times prior. In just two years of postseason play, Davis has already re-written the Broncos postseason record book, laying claim to 19 postseason franchise records (47 overall). Here is a look at Davis' postseason franchise records:

- Most rushing attempts (31) and yards (184) in a game, most rushing TDs and total TDs in a game (3), longest run from scrimmage (59); most rushing and total TDs for a career (9); most total yards from scrimmage in a game (195), most total yards from scrimmage in a career (734), most points scored in a single postseason (48), most points scored in a career (56), most rushing yards in a postseason (581); most rushing yards in career (672), most 100-yard rushing games (4); most consecutive 100-yard rushing games (4); most consecutive games scoring a touchdown (5); most two-point conversions in a postseason (1); most consecutive 20-carry performances (4), and most two point conversions in career (1)

What is most amazing is that it took him only four games to pass Sammy Winder's 461 rushing yards (11 games). Also, Davis became the first AFC rushing leader in the 32-year history of the Super Bowl to be on the winning side. A conference leader has only made it to the Super Bowl seven times, with Emmitt Smith (Dallas in 1992, '93 and '95) and Davis being the only leaders to win the game. Larry Brown (Washington in 1972), and Thurman Thomas (Buffalo in 1990, '91 and '93) are the only others to make it to the Super Bowl. Davis was drafted by Denver 196th overall in the sixth round of the 1995 NFL Draft.

DAVIS' PLAYOFF RUSHING AVERAGE RANKS SECOND ALL-TIME

Terrell Davis' 5.3-yards-per-carry career average in postseason play (672 yards on 126 carries) ranks first all-time among NFL running backs and ranks second overall behind San Francisco 49ers quarterback Steve Young.

1997 Davis, who started the first 15 games of the year, finished his third season in the NFL with 1,750 yards on 369 carries (4.7 avg.) and 15 rushing touchdowns, to go along with 42 receptions for 287 yards (6.8 avg.). All rushing numbers were career highs and franchise highs. He won the AFC rushing crown and finished second in the NFL, each for the second straight year, and was also second in the AFC and in the NFL in both rushing attempts and touchdowns scored, first in the AFC (2nd NFL) in total yards from scrimmage (2,037) and first in the NFL in rushing first downs and total first downs. Davis tied for first in the NFL in scoring by a non-kicker (96), and tied the NFL record for two-point conversions scored in a single season, recording three to match the effort of seven previous players. In the season-opener vs. Kansas City (8/31) Davis recorded the 11th 100-yard rushing performance of his brief NFL career, totaling 101 yards on 26 carries and one TD in Denver's 19-3 win. In that game he passed Bobby Humphrey (593) for sixth place in all-time rushing attempts by a Bronco. At Seattle (9/7) Davis rushed for 106 yards on 21 carries and one TD as the Broncos beat the Seahawks 35-14, and Davis notched his second straight 100-yard effort to mark the first time in his career he had back-to-back 100-yard games to start a season. Davis also tied Jon Keyworth for fifth place on the Broncos' list for rushing touchdowns with his 22nd. A week later vs. St. Louis Davis made it three straight 100-yard outputs by rushing for 103 yards on 21 carries in Denver's 35-14 victory, and he tied the franchise record for the second time in his career the following week by posting his fourth straight 100-yard effort. This was no ordinary effort, however, as Davis rushed 27 times for a franchise record 215 yards and one TD in Denver's 38-20 victory over the Bengals (9/21). He totaled a team-record 228 yards from scrimmage and topped the 3,000-yard rushing plateau in just his 34th game to establish another team record, and moved into third place in rushing touchdowns with his 23rd, passing Jon Keyworth. He also passed teammate John Elway for fourth place all-time in rushing yards, moving to 3,181. His efforts against the Bengals earned him AFC Offensive Player of the Week honors as well as Miller Lite NFL Player of the Week honors. A week later at Atlanta (9/28), Davis was held below 100 yards (23-79-1TD) for the first time all season in Denver's 29-21 victory, but still managed to pass Keyworth (1997) for fifth place all-time in career rushing attempts by a Bronco. His explosive start to the season earned him AFC Offensive Player of the Month honors for September, the second time he has won such an award (also in September of 1996). Davis stole the Monday Night spotlight in Week Six vs. New England (10/6), as he continued his mastery of the New England Patriots with a 32-carry, 171-yard, two-touchdown performance in Denver's 34-13 victory. During the contest, Davis became the fastest Bronco in franchise history to reach 4,000 total yards from scrimmage, moved into fourth place all-time in rushing attempts by a Bronco, rushed for 100 yards for the 15th time, tying the franchise record, and moved into fourth place all-time in rushing touchdowns by a Bronco. His efforts earned him Miller Lite NFL Player of the Week honors for the second time in three weeks. It also upped his rushing total in three career games against the Patriots to 422 yards. Two weeks later, after the bye, at Oakland (10/19) he rushed for 85 yards on 23 carries (two touchdowns) and added seven receptions for 70 yards in Denver's first loss of the season. During the contest, Davis became the ninth player in NFL history to rush for 3,500 yards in his first three seasons. He also reached the 100-reception plateau for his career, equaling his career high with seven catches, and set a career high with 70 receiving yards. Davis also tallied his third two-point conversion of the season, tying a single-season NFL record shared by seven other players. Davis broke new ground again at Buffalo (10/26) when he rushed for 207 yards on a franchise-record 42 carries and one touchdown in Denver's 23-20 overtime victory over the Bills. He also had five receptions for 29 yards, giving him 236 total yards from scrimmage, another franchise record. Also during the contest, Davis set franchise records for most 100-yard rushing games in a career (his 16th), most carries in a game (42, breaking Bobby Humphrey's record of 34 set in 1990 and the 4th-highest total in NFL history) and fewest games needed to reach 1,000 rushing yards in a season (eight, breaking his own record of 10 set in 1996). He handled the ball 47 times during the contest, one off the NFL record, and also passed William Andrews for the eighth-most rushing yards in the first three years of a career. Davis also became the eighth back in NFL history to rush for 1,000 in each of his first three seasons in the league (the first Bronco to ever do so) and the first Bronco to have three 1,000-yard rushing seasons in his career. The next week vs. Seattle (11/2) Davis reached the 100-yard plateau once again (21-101) to tie his own team record (1996, also Bobby Humphrey, 1990, Otis Armstrong, 1974) for 100-yard games in a season, as Denver won 30-27. It enabled Davis — in just the ninth game of the year — to pass his rookie rushing total of 1,117 yards, accomplished in 14 games. Davis also had six receptions for 17 yards in the game, making him the team's leading receiver for the second straight week.

DAVIS' 1997 REGULAR SEASON RUSHING TOTAL RANKS AMONG BEST ALL-TIME

Terrell Davis' 1997 season will be one to remember for a long time in Denver, as he produced more total yards from scrimmage, rushing yards, attempts and touchdowns than any player in a season in franchise history. His rushing total of 1,750 ranks 13th all-time in a single season by any back and fifth all-time by an AFC back.

DAVIS BECOMES BRONCOS' ALL-TIME POSTSEASON RUSHING LEADER

In just his second venture into the postseason, Terrell Davis in 1997 vaulted to the top of Denver's all-time postseason rushing chart. Here is a look at the top three Broncos postseason rushers of all time.

and passed Marcus Allen for the 10th-most total yards from scrimmage over the first three years of an NFL career, as well as passing Jim Brown for the seventh-most rushing yards in the first three years of a career. A week later Davis established a new franchise record with his eighth 100-yard game of the season, tallying 104 yards on 21 carries, and passed Walter Payton for the sixth-most rushing yards in the first three years of an NFL career. A week later at Kansas City (11/16) Davis ran his streak of 100-yard games to four as he tied Otis Armstrong's and Bobby Humphrey's franchise record for the third time in his young career. He also became the fourth-quickest player in NFL history (and the quickest in franchise history) to rush for 4,000 yards (41 games), and also passed Billy Sims and Thurman Thomas for eighth place in most total yards from scrimmage over the first three years of a career. He was held under 100 yards for just the second time all season vs. Oakland Nov. 24 on Monday Night Football, but tied his own franchise record with three touchdowns, and set a new standard with all three coming via the ground. Davis had twice previously posted two rushing and one receiving touchdown in the same game, but never three rushing. It marked the 19th time in franchise history that a player had scored three touchdowns in a game and the fifth time that all three scores were rushing touchdowns. During the contest, Davis also went over the 5,000-yard mark in total yards from scrimmage in his career faster than any player in franchise history (42 games). He also became just the eighth player in league history to accomplish this feat in the first three years of his career. Davis continued his assault on the record books the following week in his hometown of San Diego (11/30), rushing for more than 150 yards for the fourth time this season — and more than 100 yards for the 10th time — by totaling 178 yards on 26 carries and one TD in Denver's 38-28 victory over the Chargers. This was Davis' 20th 100-yard game in just his 43rd NFL contest, making him the fifth fastest player to reach 20 100-yard performances. He also set new single-season marks in rushing and total yards from scrimmage, surpassing his own team marks set in 1996 (1,538 rushing / 1,848 total). He also passed teammate John Elway (32) for third place in career TD runs, passed Emmitt Smith, William Andrews and Herschel Walker for seventh, sixth and fifth place, respectively in total yards from scrimmage during the first three years of a career, and passed Smith for fifth place all-time in rushing yards in the first three years of a career. His rushing touchdown was his 13th, tying his own team record (1996). Davis moved into third place all-time in rushing yards during the first three years of a career (4,333) with his 75-yard output at Pittsburgh (12/7), passing Barry Sanders and Otis Anderson, and also went over the 2,000-yard mark in single-season total yards from scrimmage (26th time in NFL history), broke his own team mark for rushing touchdowns in a season with his

CARRYING THE LOAD

In Denver's 23-20 overtime win at Buffalo Nov. 9, 1997, Terrell Davis totaled 47 attempts (42 carries, five receptions), setting a new club mark for attempts in a game. The number was also the second most ever in an NFL game, trailing only the NFL standard of 48 "touches" by James Wilder of Tampa Bay.

14th, and broke his own team record for rushing attempts in a season (345). It was only the fourth of five times in 1997 that he would fail to reach 100 rushing yards in a game. This was also Davis' 14th consecutive game with at least 20 carries, breaking the NFL record previously held by Terry Allen (1995-96). At San Francisco (12/15) on Monday Night Football Davis rushed for just 28 yards on 10 carries and caught two passes for zero yards in just over a quarter of Denver's 34-17 loss to San Francisco. He left the game in the second quarter due to a mild anterior cruciate sprain to his right shoulder, but not before registering his 15th rushing touchdown of the season, tying his own franchise record for total touchdowns in a season (13 rush / 2 rec., 1996). The injury forced him to be deactivated for the Broncos' regular season finale against San Diego. It was only the third game of his career that he had missed, including the two to end the 1995 regular season. In the preseason Davis looked sensational in limited duty, starting all five games at halfback and rushing 34 times for a team-leading 211 yards (6.2) with a long of 37 and two touchdowns. He also caught three passes for 48 yards (15.3) with a long of 20. Both rushing TDs came in the finale against San Francisco (8/23) on runs of 6 and 11 yards. 1997 Postseason In Davis' short NFL career, he has put up some astounding postseason numbers — most of the in 1997. He finished the 1997 postseason with 112 carries for 581 yards (5.2 avg.) and eight touchdowns in four games. At Broncos wins en route to the World Championship. Davis also had eight catches for 38 yards (4.8 avg.) in the postseason, bringing his career postseason numbers (5 games), to 126 carries for 672 yards (5.3 avg.) and nine touchdowns, plus 15 receptions for 62 yards. In Denver's 42-17 AFC Wild Card Playoff Game victory over Jacksonville (12/27/97), Davis had the longest run in a postseason game by a Bronco (59 yards), and also logged the most carries (31), rushing yards (184), rushing touchdowns (2) and total touchdowns (2) of any Broncos postseason performer ever. His 5.9 yards per rush average against the Jaguars was topped only in team postseason annals by teammate Derek Loville's 9.4-yard average in the same game (11-103) and his own 6.5 average in the 1996 playoff game against the Jaguars. During the contest, he also moved into third place all-time in both carries and rushing yards in the postseason by a Bronco, passing Gaston Green (36) and Bobby Humphrey (38) in attempts and Gene Lang (136) and Humphrey (169) in yards. In Denver's 14-10 Divisional Playoff win at Kansas City (1/4/98), Davis rushed for 101 yards and two touchdowns on 25 carries, third most ever in a postseason game by a Bronco, and added one reception for 17 yards, his longest postseason reception to date. This was Davis' second career postseason 100-yard game (second in a row), setting a new franchise record for postseason 100-yard games. He also set the franchise record for most rushing and total touchdowns by a Bronco in the postseason with five. For the second consecutive week he tied the team record for most rushing and total touchdowns in a postseason game with two. Davis showed his mettle again the following week in Denver's 24-21 AFC Championship Game victory at Pittsburgh (1/11/98), rushing for 139 yards on 26 carries, and added his fifth postseason touchdown of 1997. It was his third consecutive 100-yard game in the postseason, tying four other NFL players for third place all-time in consecutive postseason 100-yard rushing games. He also passed Freeman McNeil (349 in 1982), Natrone Means (358 in 1996) and Thurman Thomas (390 in 1990) for fifth fourth and third place respectively in most rushing yards in a single postseason. Teamwise, Davis surpassed David Treadwell (32) for the second-most points scored in franchise postseason his-

DAVIS' THREE-GAME RUN RANKS AMONG BEST IN '90s

Terrell Davis' three-game streak of 100+ rushing yards from Sept. 21 until his fifth 100+ yard run put together in a three-week span by a running back in the 1990's, surpassed only by three stretches from Barry Sanders and one by Emmitt Smith.

lory (38), passed his teammate John Elway (80) for second place in postseason rushing attempts (96), and passed Elway (410) and Sammy Winder (461) to move into first place in postseason rushing yards by a Bronco. Lastly, Davis' 26 carries equaled the second-most carries in a post-season contest by a Bronco, tying Sammy Winder and remaining eight carries behind his own record he set in the Wild Card Game against Jacksonville (12/27/97). The 141 total yards represented his second-highest total in the postseason (195 vs. Jax., 12/27/97) and placed him second all-time in postseason total yards from scrimmage by a Bronco to earn NFL Offensive Player of the Week honors. Davis then capped one of the most memorable individual seasons in NFL history by rushing for 157 yards on 30 carries and scoring three touchdowns to earn Most Valuable Player honors in Denver's 31-24 victory over Green Bay in Super Bowl XXXII, in his hometown of San Diego (1/25/98). Davis also had two receptions for eight yards during the contest. The three TDs (all on the ground) tied a Super Bowl record for most points scored and most touchdowns scored in a single game, and he also set a Super Bowl record with three rushing touchdowns in a single game. The 157 yards ranks fifth all-time in a Super Bowl and the 30 carries ties for fourth all-time in a Super Bowl. Even more remarkable is the fact that Davis missed the entire second quarter while trying to fight off the onset of a migraine headache. He returned to start the second half and helped Denver control the ball and clock the rest of the way. Davis recorded his fourth consecutive 100-yard rushing game in postseason play, tying Thurman Thomas for the second-longest postseason 100-yard game streak in NFL history, and notched his 24th career 100-yard rushing game (fourth in the postseason), with Denver posting a 21-3 mark in those games (4-0 in postseason). It was also Davis' 14th 100-yard performance of the entire season, tying Barry Sanders (14 in 1997) for the NFL record. Davis also set the single-season record for most postseason touchdowns (8) and most postseason rushing touchdowns (8), and passed Marcus Allen (466 in 1983) for second place all-time in rushing yards in one postseason with 581 (John Riggins, 610, 1982). His 56 points scored moved him past Rich Karlis (55) into first on the Broncos' all-time postseason scoring list. He also passed Sammy Winder and Vance Johnson to move into first place all-time in postseason yards from scrimmage by a Bronco (734 yards in five games, avg. of 146.7 per game), and passed Eric Dickerson and Riggins to move into first place all-time in rushing yards (2,331) and rushing attempts (495) for an entire season (regular and postseason). T.D.'s 50-YARD TDs regular and postseason total of 23 touchdowns (all on the ground) rank tied for fourth all-time. Davis, who had his high school jersey retired the Tuesday prior to the game, became the second player from San Diego's Lincoln High School to receive Super Bowl MVP honors (Allen in January, 1984), making him the sixth-lowest drafted player to win the MVP award (sixth round in 1995). He also became the first player in the 32-year history of the game to earn this award while playing the game in his hometown.

Terrell Davis' 50-yard touchdown run against Cincinnati Sept. 21, 1997 was his fourth scoring run of 50 yards or more in his three-year career, ranking him among the NFL's active leaders in touchdown runs of 50 or more yards.

1996 Davis got off to a quick start in '96, putting together a string of five 100-yard games over a six-game span — including four in a row — beginning with Week Two at Seattle when he tallied 111 yards on 28 carries in Denver's 30-20 victory. A week later vs. Tampa Bay (9/15) he posted the second-highest rushing total of his young career with 137 yards on 22 carries (6/2) despite missing more than a quarter due to symptoms of a migraine headache. He also finished with 23 receiving yards on four catches (5/8). Davis left the game late in the first quarter when his vision became blurred and he felt nauseous, but he returned to start the second half and carried the entire offense to the come-from-behind win. He rushed eight times for 39 yards on the Broncos' 14-play, 80-yard game-winning drive that consumed 8:11 in the fourth quarter. He capped the drive with a three-yard touchdown run to give Denver the 27-23 win. The following week at Kansas City (9/22) he put together his third straight 100-yard game, rushing for 141 yards (second-highest in his career at the time) and two touchdowns on 19 carries (7/4). He scored from six yards out in the first quarter, then topped that with a then-career-best 85-yard scoring run in the second. He had already tallied 130 yards on 14 carries by halftime. The following week at Cincinnati (9/29) he notched his fourth straight 100-yard game with 112 yards on 24 carries (4/7). His long carry was a 19-yarder. His fourth straight game over the century mark tied a Broncos record set by Bobby Humphrey in 1990 and Otis Armstrong in 1974. On Oct. 6 vs. San Diego he rushed 17 times for 50 yards, while suffering the effects of a migraine headache that kept him out of the game for much of the second quarter. The Broncos used primarily a one-back offense during the game due to a knee injury suffered by starting fullback Aaron Craver the week before at Cincinnati. He also caught a season-high six passes for 42 yards after not catching a pass in the previous two games. Davis had the best day of his young career on Oct. 20 vs. Baltimore, setting a franchise record with 194 yards on 28 carries (6/9), including a career-best 71-yard touchdown run in the first quarter of Denver's 45-34 victory. The run was the fourth-longest ever by a Bronco, and the longest since 1973 (Joe Dawkins at K.C., 10/7). He also scored later from four yards out, and caught three passes for 19 yards (6/3). His 213 total yards also were a career high. Davis' reached the 2,000-yard rushing mark for his career with his 77-yard effort vs. Kansas City (10/27), making

With his 207-yard performance against the Buffalo Bills on Oct. 26, 1997 Terrell Davis reached the 1,000-yard rushing mark for the third consecutive season, making him the eighth player in NFL history to rush for 1,000 yards in each of his first three years in the league, and the first Broncos running back ever to accomplish this feat. Here is a look at the exclusive company joined by Davis in 1997.

DAVIS ONE OF FASTEST IN NFL HISTORY TO REACH 4,000 CAREER RUSHING YARDS

On Nov. 16, 1997, at Kansas City, in his 41st NFL game, Terrell Davis reached the 4,000-yard rushing mark, and did so faster than all but three other backs in league history (Eric Dickerson — 33 games, Jim Brown — 38; and Walter Payton — 39). He is third all-time in rushing yards in the first three seasons of a career.

him the fastest to reach that milestone in Broncos history. It was his 22nd game, four earlier than Bobby Humphrey who reached the mark in his 26th game. Versus Chicago, 11/10, Davis' 65-yard run in the second quarter pushed him over the 1,000-yard mark for the season, the earliest a Bronco has ever done so (game 10, Otis Armstrong lopped 1,000 in the 12th game of the '74 season). Nov. 17 at New England he tallied his sixth 100-yard game of 1996, rushing for 154 yards on a career-high 32 carries, and adding 56 yards on four catches for 210 total yards in Denver's 34-8 victory. The performance earned him not only AFC Offensive Player of the Week honors for the second in 1996 (also Week Eight), but also the Miller Lite NFL Player of the Week award. His total yardage figure was second-best in his career, trailing only his 213-yard effort vs. Baltimore (10/20). He also tied his own (and several others') Broncos record with three touchdowns, rushing for two and catching another, matching his effort vs. Washington last year (9/17). Davis' 68 yards at Minnesota (11/24) allowed him to move past Bobby Humphrey (2,386 yards) on the franchise's all-time rushing list. Davis' touchdowns in the game came on a one-yard run and a one-yard pass reception, giving him five scores over a two-game stretch. On Dec. 1 vs. Seattle Davis tallied his seventh 100-yard game of the 1996 season, tying Otis Armstrong's franchise record set in 1974, during Denver's 34-7 division-clinching victory. Davis carried the ball 26 times for 106 yards and one touchdown, and caught two passes for 15 yards. The following week at Green Bay (12/8) he rushed for 54 yards on 14 carries to establish franchise single-season records in both categories, topping the previous highs of 1,407 yards (Otis Armstrong, 1974) and 296 carries (Sammy Winder, 1984). Davis' five-yard carry to end the first half was the run that put him over Armstrong's yardage record. Against the Raiders (12/15) Davis carried the ball 27 times for 80 yards with a long of 12 and one touchdown, to set a new Broncos single-season record for total yards in a season in Denver's 24-19 win. He topped the previous standard of 1,812 yards set by Otis Armstrong in 1974. His three-yard touchdown run in the first quarter staked Denver to an early 7-0 lead, and was his 14th of the season, tying a franchise record. At San Diego (12/22) he started at tailback but played only into the second quarter. He carried nine times for 21 yards and a touchdown, and caught one pass for nine yards. His one-yard touchdown run in the first quarter put Denver ahead 10-0. In the game Davis surpassed Jon Keyworth (2,653 yards) for fifth place on the Broncos' career rushing list and registered his 15th touchdown (13 rushing, two receiving) to establish a new franchise record. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97) Davis started at tailback and rushed 14 times for 81 yards (6.5) with a long of 47 yards and one touchdown while catching a game-high seven passes for 24 yards with a long of 6. His 47-yard run in the first quarter was the longest ever by a Bronco in the postseason, and set up Denver's first touchdown. Davis' 91 rushing yards were the second-most by Bronco in the postseason, trail-

Davis scored on a two-yard run with 7:37 remaining in the game to pull Denver within 23-20, and added the two-point conversion himself. Davis mildly sprained the medial collateral ligament in his right knee in the first quarter, and left the game for several plays before returning. 1995 Davis started 14 of the Broncos' 16 games, missing the final two (at Kansas City, 12/17 and at Oakland, 12/24) with a hamstring tear suffered in the first quarter vs. Seattle (12/10). For the season he led the team with 1,117 rushing yards on 237 carries (4.7) with seven touchdowns and a long of 60 yards (at Houston, 11/26) that went for a touchdown. Through the air, Davis caught 49 passes for 367 yards (7.5) with one touchdown and a long reception of 31. He was voted by his teammates as the club's Offensive MVP for '95, and finished second in the voting for NFL Offensive Rookie of the Year by a nationwide media panel. He garnered 16 votes, trailing only New England's Curtis Martin, who tallied 57, but was selected by Football Digest as its NFL Rookie of the Year. Davis was also voted to All-Rookie teams published by Pro Football Weekly and Football News, and was selected as a Pro Bowl alternate at running back. In 1995 Davis became the first Bronco to rush for 1,000 yards in a season since Gaston Green tallied 1,037 in 1991, and the first Broncos rookie to do so since Bobby Humphrey racked up 1,151 in 1989. He is also the lowest-drafted player in National Football League history to rush for 1,000 yards in his rookie season. The Chargers' Don Woods, who rushed for more than 1,000 in 1974, was also a sixth-round pick (by the Packers), but was selected earlier overall in the draft than Davis, the 196th pick in the 1995 draft. His season total of 1,484 total yards from scrimmage ranked fifth in the AFC and 16th in the NFL — despite missing two games — and were the most ever by a Broncos rookie. He finished third in the AFC in rushing (1,117 yards, 8th NFL) and fourth in total first downs (76, tied for 18th NFL). In the season opener vs. Buffalo, Davis started at tailback in his first professional game, carrying the ball a team-leading 20 times for 70 yards (3.5) with a long of 17, and catching two passes for nine yards (4.5) with a long of seven. He scored his first professional touchdown on a three-yard run with 3:22 remaining in the game to cap the Broncos scoring. Davis became the sixth Broncos rookie to start at tailback in a season opener and the first since Jeff Alexander in 1989. His statistics were the best of any of the six previous opening-day starters. Against Washington (9/17), Davis tied a Broncos' record with three touchdowns (2 rushing, 1 receiving) in a 13-carry, 68-yard performance, and caught a team-leading seven passes for 61 yards. Davis registered his first 100-yard performance in his fourth preseason game, rambing for 135 on 22 carries against Arizona (11/5), including a 34-yarder. Davis' 135 yards against Arizona were the most by a Bronco running back at Mile High Stadium since Dec. 8, 1974 (Otis Armstrong, 183 yards against Houston), and the most by a Bronco in any game since Sept. 29, 1991 (Gaston Green, 158 yards at Minnesota), as well as the highest single game total by a rookie in Broncos franchise history. His 34-yard run on the second play from scrimmage was the longest of his career up to that point, and highlighted an opening drive on which he carried the ball six times for 60 yards, capped by a 5-yard TD run that put the Broncos ahead 7-0. He also caught three passes for 25 yards, with a long of 18, to give him a then-career-best 160 total yards from scrimmage. He topped that effort in Game 11 vs. San Diego (11/19), when he powered his way to 176 yards on 30 carries — the third best rushing performance in club history at the time. It was the most yards by a Bronco since Bobby Humphrey gained 177 on 34 carries at Buffalo Sept. 30, 1990, and the most by a Bronco at Mile High again since Armstrong's alone mentioned effort in 1974. He gained 98 yards in the first half and also finished strong, carrying the ball six times for 53 yards on the Broncos' final drive, which was capped by a 32-yard game-winning field goal from Jason Elam with 0:02 remaining. Davis surpassed the 1,000-yard mark against Jacksonville (12/3) on his first carry of the day, a 13-yarder around left end, en route to a 21-carry, 84-yard performance. Davis strung together three 100-yard games in four outings late in the season, going for 135 vs. Arizona (11/5), 176 vs. San Diego (11/19) and 110 at Houston (11/26). His 60-yard scoring jaunt in the second quarter of the Houston game was the longest of his career, and the longest by a Bronco since 1992. He also caught a career-best seven passes for 30 yards. With his 140 total yards from scrimmage, Davis improved his season total to 1,348, surpassing Bobby Humphrey for the most total yards in a season by a Broncos rookie (Humphrey had 1,307 in 1989). Davis began training camp behind several players on the Broncos' depth chart at running back, but worked his way into the starting lineup by the final preseason game at Jacksonville (8/25/95).

FEWEST GAMES NEEDED TO REACH 1,000 YARDS IN A SINGLE SEASON

With his 207-yard rushing performance at Buffalo Oct. 26, 1997, Terrell Davis became just the sixth player in NFL history to rush for 1,000 yards in eight games or less, joining the likes of Hall of Famers Jim Brown and O.J. Simpson, as well as Eric Dickerson and Barry Sanders. Davis was also the first player since 1989 (Greg Bell, Rams) to have two 200-yard rushing performances in the same season (Barry Sanders also had two in 1997). Only Simpson (1973, three) and Houston's Earl Campbell (1980, four) have recorded more 200-yard games in the same season. Here is a look at the fastest men to 1,000.

COLLEGE Davis continued a strong tradition of standout tailbacks from Georgia throughout the '80s and '90s — following in the footsteps of Herschel Walker, Rodney Hampton, Garrison Hearst

THE EXCLUSIVE 3,000-1,500-1,000 CLUB

The Broncos' John Elway, Terrell Davis, Rod Smith and Shannon Sharpe proved to be one of the best quadruple threats in the NFL during the 1997 season. The quartet combined to pull off one of the rarest feats in NFL history, and now Denver is the only franchise in league history to do so in consecutive seasons. Denver is now one of only nine teams in NFL history to produce a 3,000-yard passer, a 1,500-yard rusher and a 1,000-yard receiver in the same season. Also, the four players combined to produce a 3,000-yard passer, 1,500-yard rusher and two 1,000-yard receivers in 1997, a feat that, along with Detroit in 1995 and '97, has been accomplished only three times in NFL history.

With his 178-yard effort at San Diego Nov. 30, 1997, Terrell Davis recorded his 20th career 100-yard rushing game in just his 43rd regular season contest, making him the fifth-fastest to reach that plateau among all-time NFL running backs. Here is a look at the top five.

and Tim Worley — after transferring from Long Beach State. He spent his first collegiate season playing under George Allen for the 49ers, until the program was eliminated following the 1991 season, in which Davis rushed for 262 yards and two touchdowns on 55 carries (4.8). He transferred to Georgia where he played three seasons — the first behind Garrison Hearst, who finished third in the Heisman Trophy voting in 1992. He finished his career at Georgia with 1,657 yards on 317 carries (5.2) and 15 touchdowns. Davis also caught 46 passes for 529 yards (11.5) and four touchdowns. As a senior in 1994 Davis played in eight games as a scatback and started seven. He missed three contests due to a groin injury, but still managed to lead the team with 445 yards and seven touchdowns on 97 carries (4.6 average), in addition to 31 receptions for 330 yards (10.7). He had his finest campaign as a junior when he played in all 11 games and started six at scatback, leading the team with 824 yards on 167 carries (4.9) and five touchdowns, along with 12 receptions for 161 (13.4) and three scores. Davis played behind Garrison Hearst as a sophomore in his first year at Georgia in '92, seeing action in 10 games, and finished the season with 388 yards on 53 carries (7.3) and three touchdowns, plus three receptions for 38 yards (12.7) and one score. He was a consumer economics major at Georgia.

PERSONAL Davis was an All-CIF second-team all-league first-team selection as a senior at Lincoln Prep in San Diego, Calif., where he played six different positions, including nose guard, and also lettered in track. His No. 7 was retired by the school Tues., Jan. 20, 1998 in a ceremony attended by Davis during preparations for Super Bowl XXXII in San Diego. He is an avid Sega

He added a 207-yard effort at Buffalo on Oct. 26, 1997, and now has the top three rushing marks — and 6 of the top 8 — for a game in franchise history. TOPPING THE CENTURY MARK — AGAIN AND AGAIN

Terrell Davis' 157-yard rushing performance in Super Bowl XXXII is the longest rushing play in his young career that he has tied the franchise record for consecutive 100-yard rushing plays. His first such streak in the postseason, following three in the regular season, breaking two in 1997. His record is also shared by Otis Armstrong (1974) and Bobby Humphrey (1990).

David Diaz-Infante epitomizes resiliency in pro football. After spending the first nine seasons of his career establishing himself with stints in the NFL, the World League and the Canadian Football League, Diaz-Infante finally got a chance for some valuable playing time in both 1996 and 1997, and showed that some players bloom later than others. In 1998 he will have a chance to take the final step on his arduous journey, entering training camp as the top contender to replace Brian Habib at right guard for the Broncos. Diaz-Infante, believed to be the oldest player to ever start his first NFL game (32 years of age at Minnesota, 11/24/96), has now played in 28 NFL games (nine starts). He was the Broncos' key backup on the offensive line in 1997, subbing for both Habib and Mark Schlereth at both guard spots when needed and snapping on all field goal and extra point attempts. His only prior playing experience in the NFL before joining the Broncos in 1995 was a three-game replacement stint with the San Diego Chargers during the 1987 players strike. From 1993-94 he played in the Canadian Football League with the Sacramento Gold Miners after having spent two seasons (1991-92) in the World League with the Frankfurt Galaxy.

1997 Diaz-Infante saw action in all 16 games and started seven. He took over for Mark Schlereth at left guard for the final five games of the season while Schlereth recovered from back surgery, after having started two earlier games at right guard in place of the injured Brian Habib (vs. Seattle, 11/2; vs. Carolina, 11/9). His other action came primarily on special teams and as a reserve on the offensive line. Diaz-Infante's most extensive action prior to his first start came at Buffalo (10/26) when he replaced Habib at right guard for more than three quarters after Habib left the game with back spasms. Diaz-Infante also handled the long-snapping duties on field goals and PATs throughout the season. Postseason. Diaz-Infante saw action on special teams in all four postseason games as the long snapper for field goals and PATs. He also saw action on the offensive line in Denver's 42-17 Wild Card win over Jacksonville (12/27/97).

1996 Diaz-Infante played in nine games and started two (at Minnesota, 11/24 and at San Diego, 12/22) at left guard in place of Mark Schlereth (knee). His start at Minnesota was the first of his NFL career, possibly making him the oldest first-time starter in modern NFL history, at age 33. He was active but did not play in the other seven games. Prior to his first start, Diaz-Infante's most extensive action of the season came at Cincinnati (9/29) when he replaced an injured Schlereth at left guard early in the first quarter. He also took Schlereth's place for the second half at New England (11/17). In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Jacksonville Diaz-Infante was active but did not play. 1995 Diaz-Infante spent the season on the Broncos' practice squad after being signed by the club March 30, 1994. Diaz-Infante was nominated for CFL Offensive Lineman of the Year while playing for Sacramento. 1993 Diaz-Infante started the season in the San Francisco 49ers training camp, but was released before the season. He then signed with Sacramento of the CFL where he played the entire season. 1992 Diaz-Infante played for the Frankfurt Galaxy of the World League. 1991 Diaz-Infante played for the Frankfurt Galaxy of the World League. 1990 Diaz-Infante was not with any team. 1989 Diaz-Infante began the season in the Los Angeles Rams training camp but was injured and released. 1988 Diaz-Infante was in camp with the Rams but was released during the last week of preseason camp. 1987 Diaz-Infante made his NFL debut by playing in all three replacement games for the San Diego Chargers.

COLLEGE Diaz-Infante played his college ball at San Jose State, where he was an honorable mention Associated Press All-American, a first-team all-conference pick (UPI and PCAA) and a four-year letterwinner. He was a social science major at SJSU.

PERSONAL David and his wife, Audra, have a son, Danté Antonio (10/3/97), and make their home in Parker, Colo. Diaz-Infante joined Broncos offensive linemen Tony Jones and Mark Schlereth for an appearance on NBC's Late Night with Conan O'Brien show in late January 1998, days after the Broncos' Super Bowl victory over Green Bay. David attended San Jose's Bellarmine Prep where he was the conference Lineman of the Year in 1981. He was born March 31, 1964 in San Jose, Calif.

BORN: June 14, 1967 in Neptune, N.J.
HIGH SCHOOL: Mulberry High School, Mulberry, Fla.
RESIDES: Orlando, Fla.
ACQUIRED: Free Agent, 1997
PRO YEAR: 7th • YEAR WITH BRONCOS: 2nd
NFL GAMES PLAYED/STARTED: 88/5

Dedrick Dodge was acquired by the Broncos during the 1997 offseason and he provided valuable depth to the Broncos' secondary, filling in for seven-time Pro Bowler Steve Atwater when called upon and performing at a superb level on special teams, helping lead Denver to its first Super Bowl championship. The Broncos' victory in Super Bowl XXXI placed Dodge in a distinguished group of just 30 players in NFL history to win Super Bowls with two different teams, his first having come with San Francisco in Super Bowl XXIX. Additionally, he is one of just 13 players to win titles in each conference. Dodge has now played in 88 regular season games (five starts), in his six year career and made 103 tackles (90 solo), including one sack. He intercepted five passes and knocked down 15 others. He has also played in nine postseason contests and recorded eight tackles (6 solo). Dodge entered the league in 1990 as an undrafted free agent with Seattle.

1997 Dodge played in all 16 games and started one (vs. Cincinnati, 9/21) at free safety in place of an injured Steve Atwater. For the year Dodge recorded seven tackles (6 solo) on defense and added one more plus a fumble recovery on special teams. He finished with five tackles, four solo, against the Bengals in Denver's 38-20 victory. He had played much of the fourth quarter at free safety the week before against St. Louis after Atwater went out of the game with an injured shoulder.

der. The special teams fumble recovery came in the first quarter at San Francisco (12/15) when the 49ers Iheanyi Uwaazuoke fumbled a punt at the 49ers 8-yard line and Dodge pounced on the ball at the six, setting up Denver's first touchdown. Postseason Dodge played in all four postseason contests on special teams, registering two tackles both in Super Bowl XXXI against Green Bay. With Denver's 31-24 win over the Packers, Dodge became just one of 30 players who have won a Super Bowl with two different teams (San Francisco, 1994), and one of 13 to win one in each conference.

1996 Dodge played in all 16 games (three starts) with the 49ers, registering 29 tackles (21 solo), six passes defended and three interceptions (27 yards). He also had one assisted tackle in two postseason contests. His starts came vs. Atlanta (9/29), at Atlanta (12/2) and against Carolina (12/8). Dodge had two assisted tackles and made a key interception late in the fourth quarter against Cincinnati (10/20) to set up the 49ers' game-winning score. He also returned an interception 26 yards and recorded two tackles and a pass defended at New Orleans (11/3). Dodge had five tackles, an interception and a pass defended in a start at Atlanta (12/2). In the postseason, he had one assisted tackle in San Francisco's 35-14 NFC Divisional Playoff loss at Green Bay (1/4/97). 1995 Dodge played in all 16 regular season games and one playoff contest. He started one game (vs. Atlanta, 9/10) and had the best statistical season of his career with 24 tackles (all solos), an interception and five passes defended. The aforementioned start was the first of Dodge's career and he responded with two solo tackles while being in on every defensive play. At St. Louis, he intercepted Chris Miller on the game's third play from scrimmage and returned it 13 yards to set up the 49ers' first touchdown in a 44-10 rout as the two teams battled for first place in the NFC West. Dodge also had three solo stops and a pass defended against the Rams. He forced a fumble with one of his two solo tackles at Miami on Monday Night Football (11/20) in a 44-20 victory, and notched three tackles (all solo) and a pass defended in the rematch with St. Louis (11/26). He had a big game in San Francisco's NFC Divisional Playoff loss to Green Bay (1/6/96), registering three solo tackles and one special teams stop. 1994 Dodge earned a spot on the 49ers' roster after an impressive performance during training camp. He saw action in 15 games and recorded 20 tackles (19 solo) during the season, and made 11 more on special teams. He had three solo stops against the Raiders on opening night (9/5), three special teams stops and a forced fumble vs. Atlanta (12/4), and three solo tackles vs. Minnesota (12/26). The only game he missed all season was at Detroit (10/9) when he was declared inactive. Dodge had two tackles in the 49ers' NFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Chicago (1/7) and one special teams stop in the NFC Championship Game vs. Dallas (1/15), a 38-28 win. A knee strain suffered against Dallas forced him to miss San Francisco's 49-26 victory in Super Bowl XXIX over San Diego. 1993 Dodge was out of football. 1992 Dodge played in the first 14 games of the season for Seattle before an injured knee ended his season. He had 16 tackles (14 solo), his first NFL sack (vs. Miami, 9/27) and his first NFL interception (at Pittsburgh, 12/6), and recorded nine special teams tackles. Dodge also played with the London Monarchs of the World League in the spring, earning All World League honors. 1991 Dodge began the 1991 season on the Seahawks' practice squad before being activated for the final 11 games. He finished the season with seven tackles on defense and seven more on special teams. Dodge also played for the London Monarchs of the World League in the spring of 1991, helping lead the Monarchs to the league's inaugural championship. He earned All-World League honors that year. 1990 Dodge joined the Seattle Seahawks as a rookie free agent, but was waived in training camp.

COLLEGE Dodge played collegiately at Florida State, where he was a four-year letterman and a two-year starter in the same defensive backfield with Deion Sanders. He shared the team lead in interceptions with Sanders in 1988 and finished his career with 171 tackles and 10 interceptions. Dodge had 85 stops as a senior in 1989. He majored in criminology.

PERSONAL Dodge finished his high school career at Mulberry High School in Mulberry, Fla., after starting out at Brunswick High in Brunswick, N.J., where he lettered as a wide receiver. He and his wife, Patrice, have three children, Nyla (4/11/97), Dedrick, Jr. (9/19/95), and Chante (8/23/85), and the family makes it home in Orlando, Fla. Dedrick Allen Dodge was born June 14, 1967 in Neptune, N.J.

JASON ELAM

KICKER

6-11 • 200 • 4TH YR. • HAWAII

BORN: March 8, 1970 in Ft. Walton Beach, Fla.
HIGH SCHOOL: Brookwood High School, Snellville, Ga.
RESIDES: Castle Rock, Colo.
ACQUIRED: Draft #3 (70th overall), 1993
PRO YEAR: 6th • YEAR WITH BRONCOS: 6th
NFL GAMES PLAYED/STARTED: 79/0

Best offensive forces after another stellar season in 1997 in which he finished second in the AFC in scoring (4th in the NFL) and led the AFC in PATs (2nd in NFL). He has firmly established himself as one of the top kickers in the league, having led the NFL in total points scored over the past five seasons (603 points) and led all kickers in field goals (108) during that time period. He also remains the NFL's fifth-most accurate kicker on field goals from inside 40 yards (95/103, .922), and has scored at least one point in each of his last 79 games, a team record. A Pro Bowl selection in 1995, Elam ranks second on the Broncos' all-time field goal percentage list (.770, behind David Treadwell's .780). He has also made 201 of 202 (.995) point-after attempts, the best career percentage in NFL history. Elam has made his last 177 regular season point after attempts, also a franchise record. He made the first 24 of his career before his only regular season miss, a block by Minnesota's Tim Irwin, Nov. 12, 1993. Elam became the third Bronco to surpass the 500-point plateau for his career with his last point-after attempt at Seattle in 1997. 9-7 and reached that milestone in the fewest games (66). His 51-yard field goal in Super Bowl XXXII was the second-longest in Super Bowl history (54 yds., Steve Christie, Buff. SB XXVII) as well as the longest in Broncos postseason history, and his 6-for-6 output on point-after attempts in the AFC Wild Card Game vs. Jacksonville (12/27/97) also set a Broncos postseason record. In the regular season Elam is 14-23 (.609) for his career on field goal attempts of 50 yards or more, including a 3-5 mark in 1997. His streak of three straight games with a field goal of 50 or more yards (last game of 1996 through second game of 1997) tied Elam with three other NFL players (Horst Muhlmann, 1970; Tom Dempsey, 1971; and Chris Bahr, 1981) for the longest such streak since the AFL-NFL merger in 1970. Elam was honored in October 1996 as one of the Broncos' three nominees for the True Value NFL Man of the Year Award. He was selected by the Broncos in the third round of the 1993 NFL Draft out of Hawaii.

1997 Elam converted 26 of his 36 field goal attempts — including three from beyond 50 yards (50, 51 and 53) — and tied his own franchise record (1996) for PATs in a season by going a perfect 46-46 in that department. His 124 total points on the season ranked second in the AFC (4th NFL) and his 46 PATs led the AFC (2nd NFL). Elam's three field goals from beyond 50 yards in 1997 gave him 14 for his career (23 att.), and a .609 percentage from that range. He also made one special teams tackle on the year. Elam surpassed the 500-point plateau with his final point-

ELAM ETCHES NAME IN SUPER BOWL RECORD BOOK

Jason Elam's second-quarter 51-yard field goal in Super Bowl XXXII not only gave Denver a 17-7 lead at the time, it was the second longest field goal in Super Bowl history, trailing only a 54-yarder by Steve Christie in Super Bowl XXVIII.

ELAM AMONG THE LEADERS

Jason Elam, who finished second in the AFC in scoring (4th in the NFL) in 1997, ranks among the league leaders in field goals made inside 40 yards since he entered the league in 1993.

after attempt at Seattle (9/7), becoming only the third Bronco in history to do so, and the fastest in terms of games played (66). He had a streak of three straight games with a field goal of 50+ yards snapped vs. St. Louis (9/14), a streak that dated back to the '96 season finale when he converted a 51-yarder at San Diego (12/22/96). In so doing, Elam became just the fourth kicker since the 1970 AFL-NFL merger to connect on field goals of 50 or more yards in three consecutive games. The others were Horst Muhlmann (1970), Tom Dempsey (1971) and Chris Bahr (1981). Elam was inactive for the New England game (10/6) because of groin and hip flexor injuries to his right leg suffered the previous week at Atlanta (9/28). He missed most of that game after sustaining the injury on the kickoff following the Broncos' first touchdown. The New England game was the first missed by Elam in his five-year NFL career. With his first point-after at Oakland (10/19) Elam set a new Broncos record for consecutive games scoring at least one point (70), surpassing Rich Karlis' team record, set from 1984-88. He has now scored at least one point in the last 79 games in which he has played. He kicked the game-winning 33-yard field goal in overtime at Buffalo (10/26), the second time in his career that Elam has won a game for the Broncos in OT. The first was at Kansas City (20-17) Dec. 4, 1994. Elam tied his own franchise record with five field goals at Kansas City (11/16), matching the standard achieved previously by himself (vs. Buffalo, 9/3/95). Rich Karlis (vs. Seattle, 11/20/83) and Gene Mingo (vs. San Diego, 10/6/83). In that game he also tied his career high for field goal attempts in a game (6). Postseason Elam was perfect in the postseason, converting all 15 point-after attempts and both field goal attempts, of 43 and 51 yards. The 51-yard field goal in the Super Bowl was the second-longest in Super Bowl history (54 yds., Steve Christie, Buff., SB XXVIII), as well as the longest in Broncos postseason history, and his 6-for-8 output on point-after attempts vs. Jacksonville (12/27) also set a Broncos postseason record, topping the previous mark (5 of 5) held by Rich Karlis (vs. Cleveland, 1/17/88).

1996 Elam converted 21 of 28 field goal attempts and all 46 point-after attempts to lead the team with 109 points. A hip flexor injury he suffered at Seattle in Week Two (9/8) hindered his performance during the middle of the season. The injury occurred when he was hit in the leg while following through on a kick. Elam's 109 points figured eighth among AFC kickers, and made him the first player in Broncos history to achieve four seasons with 100 or more points, having done so in each of his four professional seasons. He was also credited with one special teams tackle on the season. Elam converted three field goals in a game on two separate occasions, doing so at Seattle (9/8) in a 30-20 Denver victory and at Oakland (11/4) in Denver's 22-21 Monday Night win over the Raiders, their third of four consecutive wins over their arch-rival. Elam also tied the team record for most extra points in a game with six against Baltimore (10/20) in a 45-34 Bronco triumph. He connected on his only 50+ yard field goal of the '96 season at San Diego (12/22) in the regular season finale. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville he did not attempt a field goal and was 1-2 on point-after attempts, having his first try of the day blocked by the Jaguars' Clyde Simmons. 1995 Elam finished tied for third in the NFL in scoring — tied for second among kickers — with 132 points, and tied for second in field goals made with 31 as he was voted to his first

ELAM AMONG THE LEADERS (PART II)

Pro Bowl appearance. The 132 points are the second-most by a Bronco in a single season, and the 31 field goals broke Elam's own record of 30 set in '94. On the season he was 31-38 (.816) on field goal attempts and 39-39 on point-after attempts. His breakthrough season also included second-team All-Pro honors from both the Associated Press and College & Pro Football Newsweekly, as well as All-AFC honors from Pro Football Weekly. He also punted once for 17 yards and contributed two special teams tackles. Elam was 5-7 (.714) on field-goal attempts of 50 yards or longer — including one missed attempt of 66 yards versus Seattle (12/10) — to improve his career numbers from that distance to 10-16 (.625). His 66-yard attempt was the second-longest kick ever attempted by a Bronco, trailing only the 73-yard attempt (also missed) by Fred Steinfurt at New England in 1980 (9/29), and was the longest ever attempted at Mile High Stadium. His five field goals of 50 yards or more tied a Broncos single-season record, originally held by Fred Steinfurt (5-8 in 1980). Elam's 56-yarder at Houston (11/26) was the longest of his career, and the second-longest in franchise history, behind Steinfurt's 57-yarder vs. Washington, Oct. 13, 1980. At Oakland on Christmas Eve Elam scored 11 points, including the game-winning 37-yard field goal with 48 seconds remaining, in Denver's 31-28 win. It was the second time in '95 that Elam had kicked a game-winning field goal in the final minute, following his 32-yard effort that beat San Diego with 0:02 remaining (11/19). The San Diego game-winner was the third of Elam's career, and his first in the final seconds of regulation. Elam made a franchise-record 13 straight field goals during the middle of the season, beginning with a 30-yarder at Seattle (10/1), and ending with a 35-yarder against San Diego (11/19). Elam set the tone for his stellar season in the opener against Buffalo (9/3), tying a Broncos single-game record with five successful field goals in six attempts (22-52-20-38-37 missed from 38). 1994 Elam matched his rookie total of 119 points scored (fourth on the Broncos' all-time single-season scoring list) and set a Broncos record for successful field goals in a season with 30 (37 attempts). He also was a perfect 29-for-29 on point-after attempts, giving him a two-year accuracy of .986 (70-of-71). His two-year field-goal percentage of .778 moved him into second on the Broncos' all-time career list, just behind David Treadwell (.779 from 1989-92). His accuracy on kicks inside 40 yards was impeccable in '94, as he converted 22-of-22 kicks within that distance. Elam tied his NFL long and the fourth-longest kick in Broncos history with a 54-yard field goal at San Diego (10/23). He accounted for nine of the Broncos' 15 points in a 15-13 win over Cincinnati (11/27) by converting 3-of-5 attempts (34 yards, 33 and 37). He also connected for three field goals at New York (3-for-3) and at Seattle (3-for-4). Elam had just one field goal attempt blocked, a 50-yard attempt against Atlanta (11/20). 1993 Elam showed his leg strength on several long field goals during the 1993 season. His 119 points (fourth-highest figure in Bronco history) placed him fourth in the AFC and seventh in the NFL. Elam was successful on 4 of 6 field goal attempts longer than 50 yards. His 54-yarder in the week two game vs. San Diego (9/12) was the fourth-longest in team history. That came one week after he tied for the third-best single game performance at the New York Jets (9/5), in the season opener. In that game he went 4-4. For the year Elam made 26 field goals, tying for fourth-best in team history.

- Oct. 23, 1994 54-yard FG with 10:02 remaining in the fourth quarter put Denver up 17-15. He added a 25-yarder with 4:07 left to help Denver to a 20-15 victory at San Diego.
- Dec. 4, 1994 Booted a 34-yard FG with 2:48 remaining in overtime to give Denver a 20-17 victory at Kansas City.
- Nov. 18, 1995 Kicked a 32-yard FG with :02 left to give Denver a 30-27 win over San Diego.
- Dec. 24, 1995 Kicked a 37-yard FG with :48 remaining to give Denver a 31-28 victory at Oakland, knocking the Raiders out of the playoffs and enabling the Broncos to finish with a non-losing record (8-8).
- Oct. 28, 1997 Kicked a 33-yard FG with 1:56 remaining in overtime to give Denver a 23-20 victory at Buffalo in one of the longest weekends of the franchise's history, as the team had to overcome a blizzard in Denver that almost prevented them from leaving town and a 20-0 fourth-quarter flurry by the Bills.
- Nov. 2, 1997 Kicked a 22-yard FG with 7:28 remaining to give the Broncos a 30-27 victory over the Seattle Seahawks.

COLLEGE Elam was a superb combination kicker in college, holding virtually every school and conference scoring record at the University of Hawaii. He finished his career with 79 field goals, just one shy of the NCAA record held by Jeff Jaeger (80). Elam holds the Western Athletic Conference scoring record with 395 points, and made 30 of 43 field goals of 40 yards or more. Elam finished his collegiate career with a 79.0 field goal percentage, connecting on 79 of 100 attempts, with his longest being a 56-yarder. He finished 157 of 160 PATs for the Rainbows. As a senior, Elam was selected first-team All-America (Kodak and The Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft) and was first-team All-WAC. He made 16 of 25 field goals and 44 extra points, finishing with 92 points for the season. He also finished his collegiate career with a 43.5-yard average on 84 punts. Elam was a communication major.

JOHN ELWAY QUARTERBACK

BORN: June 28, 1960 in Port Angeles, Wash.
HIGH SCHOOL: Granada Hills High School, Los Angeles, Calif.

PRO YEAR: 16th • YEAR WITH BRONCOS: 16th

After 14 arduous seasons which all ended without the ultimate championship, one of pro football's greatest and most resilient players finally achieved in Year 15 what he had worked so hard for his entire career: A Super Bowl championship, the crowning achievement in the career of Broncos future Hall of Fame quarterback John Elway. After breaking every passing record imaginable in franchise history and earning innumerable individual honors, Elway led the Broncos to their first World Championship in 1997 by defeating the Green Bay Packers 31-24 in Super Bowl XXXII. His career numbers all but guarantee that he will enter the halls at Canton, Ohio on the first ballot that his name appears, five years after the end of his extraordinary playing career. In 1998, Elway can add even more individual records to his coffers, including reaching 50,000 passing yards (needs 1,331), 300 touchdown passes (needs 22), 4,000 pass completions (needs 87) and 7,000 pass attempts (needs 106). If he reaches 50,000 passing yards, he will become the only player in NFL history to amass 50,000 passing yards and 3,000 rushing yards in his career. Already the winningest quarterback in NFL history, Elway was voted to his eighth Pro Bowl in 1997 and his fifth as a starter. He was also named to the All-AFC team by Pro Football Weekly and Football News, and was named second-team All-Pro by College and Pro Football Newsweekly. Elway's NFL record for fourth-quarter game-saving or game-winning drives now stands at 45, with the most recent being the most memorable of all in Super Bowl XXXII.

The following is a look at Elway's most notable regular season career statistical notes.

- John Elway, the NFL's all-time winningest quarterback, currently ranks second in career passing yards with 48,669, second in career total offense (combined rushing and passing yards) with 51,982, second in career pass attempts with 6,894, second in pass completions with 3,913 (56.8%), and fifth in touchdown passes with 278.
- Elway is tied for first all-time for most 3,000-yard passing seasons with 12, same as Dan Marino. He is also one of only nineteen different quarterbacks in league history to throw for over 4,000 yards in a season, accomplishing the feat in 1993 with 4,030 yards.
- He has recorded more than 4,000 yards in total offense during his career on three different occasions (1985, 1993 and 1995).
- Elway is the only player in NFL history to pass for over 3,000 yards and rush for over 200 yards in the same season for seven straight years (1985-91). No other quarterback has ever strung together more than four straight. By doing so again in 1994, '96 and '97 he now has raised his total to 10 such seasons.
- He has been responsible for 311 touchdowns (278 passing, 32 rushing, 1 receiving) — third all-time — and has generated 4,431 of the 5,335 points scored by the Broncos since he joined the team in 1983 (83.1%).
- Elway has engineered 45 fourth-quarter, game-winning or game-tying drives, the highest career total documented for any quarterback, and the team has a record of 44-0-1 in the contests. Those games include 38 fourth-quarter or overtime, game-winning drives and seven fourth-quarter, game-tying drives. (See complete list of drives beginning on page 118).
- He has a career rushing average of 4.5, second-highest in Broncos history, and has rushed for 3,313 yards in his career, fourth-most all-time among quarterbacks. He has more rushing attempts than any quarterback in NFL history, surpassing Randall Cunningham in 1996.

With his five-yard touchdown pass to Rod Smith in the second quarter at San Diego, Nov. 30, 1997 QB John Elway moved past Johnny Unitas into third place all-time in total touchdowns. He now trails only Dan Marino and Fran Tarkenton in this very exclusive club of players with 300 or more career total touchdowns.

- He has completed 58 passes (123 attempts) for 792 yards, two touchdowns and seven interceptions in his four Super Bowl appearances to rank second all-time in pass attempts, fourth in pass completions and fourth in passing yards.
- He is now the only quarterback from the heralded "Class of 1983" to own a Super Bowl ring.

1997 Elway enjoyed yet another stellar season, quarterbacking the Broncos to the first World Championship in franchise history with a 31-24 win over Green Bay in Super Bowl XXXI. He was voted to his eighth Pro Bowl (fifth as a starter) and was named to the All-AFC team by Pro Football Weekly and Football News and was named second team All-Pro by College and Pro Football Newsweekly. Elway was also the recipient of the NFL Players Association's Mackey Award as the top quarterback in the AFC. For the year he completed 280 of his 502 pass attempts (55.8%) for 3,635 yards, 27 touchdowns and 11 interceptions. The 27 passing touchdowns set a new franchise record and his 28 total touchdowns (one rushing) were the second-most of his career (30 in 1996). Elway also had 50 carries for 218 yards rushing (4.4 avg.) on the season posted a quarterback rating of 87.5 (4th best in the AFC, 7th in the NFL) and was 10th in the AFC in completion percentage. His third-down passer rating of 87.7 ranked 3rd in the AFC (5th NFL) as did his 27 touchdown passes (4th NFL). Elway helped Denver lead the NFL in total offense (second straight season) and in scoring offense for the 1997 season. He was named AFC Offensive Player of the Week for Week 10 (Nov. 2) when he moved into second place all-time in passing yardage and eclipsed 50,000 yards in total offense for his career in a win over Seattle. Elway would later be named AFC Offensive Player of the Month for November (92-149, 61.7%).

1,231 yards, 8 TDs, 0 INT) as the Broncos went 4-1, marking his second such award ever (October 1996). In the regular season opener vs. Kansas City (8/31) Elway completed 17 of 28 passes for 246 yards in Denver's 19-3 victory over the Chiefs. He also rushed for 24 yards on four carries. A 78-yard completion to Rod Smith in the second quarter was the third longest non-scoring pass of his career. The next week at Seattle (9/7) he moved past Tobin Rote into fourth place all-time in rushing yards by a quarterback with his 14 yards on four carries. Elway tossed four touchdown passes for the seventh time in his career (personal high is five) in a Week Three win (35-14) vs. St. Louis, completing 16 of 28 passes for 247 yards with just one interception. He also passed Hall of Famer Fran Tarkenton for second place all-time in pass attempts during the contest, and passed Hall of Famers Sonny Jurgensen, Dan Fouts and future Hall of Famer Warren Moon in career touchdown passes (sixth). The next week vs. Cincinnati (9/21) Elway passed Fran Tarkenton (3,686) for second place all-time in pass completions with 14 on the day, and also tied Jon Keyworth (699) for fourth place all-time in rushing attempts by a Bronco. At Atlanta (9/28), Elway connected for three touchdown passes to move past Dave Krieg (261) for fifth place on the NFL's all-time list, and passed Jon Keyworth (699) for fourth place all-time by a Denver rusher in career attempts. Elway finished the Atlanta game tied for the hottest three-game stretch of his career in terms of touchdown passes (10), and also matched the hottest four-game stretch, going back to Week Two (12). Elway's high yardage game of the year came in the Broncos' first loss, a 28-25 decision at Oakland in Week Eight (10/19). He completed 26 of 46 passes for 309 yards and one touchdown, and rushed five times for 48 yards, in notching his 34th regular season 300-yard passing game, third among active players to Dan Marino and Warren Moon. A week later at Buffalo (10/26) Elway and the Broncos braved an incredible fourth-quarter comeback by the Bills after barely getting out of Denver because of a fall blizzard. Denver won in overtime, 23-20, as Elway notched his 42nd career game-winning or game-saving drive. The next vs. Seattle (11/2) Elway earned AFC Offensive Player of the Week honors for the 14th time in his career by completing 19 of 30 passes for 252 yards and two touchdowns in Denver's 30-27 victory. During the contest he eclipsed the 50,000-yard mark for total offense, gaining the necessary yardage on the third play of the game - a 15-yard completion to tight end Shannon Sharpe. Later in the contest Elway completed a 49-yarder to Sharpe, which pushed him past Fran Tarkenton into second place all-time in passing yards. The game also qualified as Elway's 43rd career game-saving drive and

THE EXCLUSIVE 3,000-1,500-1,000 CLUB

The Broncos John Elway Terrell Davis, Rod Smith and Shannon Sharpe proved to be one of the best quadruple threats in the NFL during the 1997 season. The quartet combined to put off one of the rarest feats in NFL history, and now Denver is the only franchise in league history to do so in consecutive seasons. Denver is now one of only nine teams in NFL history to produce a 3,000-yard passer, a 1,500-yard rusher and a 1,000-yard receiver in the same season. Also, the four players combined to produce a 1,000-yard passer, 1,500-yard rusher and two 1,000-yard receivers in 1997, a feat that, along with Detroit in 1995 and '97, has been accomplished only three times in NFL history.

JUST GETTING WARMED UP

John Elway has not only maintained his status among the league's elite quarterbacks in recent years, but has even more dramatically improved several key statistical categories over the past few seasons. The following compares the greatest of Elway's career averages for passing yards, touchdowns and interceptions over his first nine seasons as a full-time starter (excludes 1981, against his last five his second in as many weeks. In Week 11 vs. Carolina, (11/9) he completed 1 of 23 passes for 227 yards and one touchdown in Denver's 34-0 victory, and reached the 300 career total touchdown mark (rushing, passing, receiving and returns), becoming only the fourth player in NFL history to do so. At Kansas City a week later (11/16) moved into second place all-time in total offense, surpassing Fran Tarkenton (50,677), by passing for 232 yards (18-31-1TD) and rushing for 2 more on four carries. On Monday Night Football vs. Oakland (11/24) Elway completed 21 of 32 passes for 280 yards and one touchdown in Denver's 31-3 victory over the Raiders. It marked the fourth straight game in which Elway had not thrown an interception, his longest such stretch since the last game of the 1990 season and the first three games of the 1991 season. At San Diego (11/30) Elway completed 20 of 33 passes for 240 yards and three touchdowns in Denver's 38-28 win, as he surpassed Johnny Unitas for second place all-time in total career touchdowns. He stood at 305 after the game, third all-time behind Fran Tarkenton and Dan Marino. He had gone 159 consecutive pass attempts without an interception after this game, breaking his own franchise mark that he set in 1991. It marked the first time in his career that Elway had gone five straight games without throwing an interception. Elway's performance in a losing effort at Pittsburgh (12/7) was not without merit, as he topped the 3,000-yard passing mark for the season, making him the first player in NFL history to pass for more than 3,000 yards and rush for more than 200 in 10 different seasons. It was his 12th 3,000-yard passing season, tying Dan Marino for the most ever. He also passed Joe Montana (273) for fifth place all-time in touchdown passes. With Elway going over 3,000 yards and WR Rod Smith going over 1,000 yards receiving, Denver now had a 3,000-yard passer, 1,500-yard rusher (Terrell Davis) and a 1,000-yard receiver for an NFL-record second straight season. He closed the regular season on a high note at home vs. San Diego (12/21), throwing four touchdown passes in a 38-3 victory to give him 17 for the season, a new franchise record. It was also the eighth time in his career that Elway had thrown for four or more touchdowns in a game (second time in 1997); it marked his 83rd career multiple-touchdown game (Denver stood 64-19 in those games at the end of '97) and the 30th game in which he had thrown for three

ELWAY VS. HALL OF FAME QUARTERBACKS AFTER 15 SEASONS

After his first 15 seasons, John Elway has thrown and completed more passes, and thrown for more yards than the 18 quarterbacks currently enshrined in the Hall of Fame at the equivalent point in each of their careers. He is ranked first in rushing attempts and first in offense combined rushing and passing yards, second in rushing yards, tied for third in rushing touchdowns, second in completion percentage and second in touchdown passes. Among those enshrined in Canton, only Fran Tarkenton and Johnny Unitas have thrown more touchdown passes in their first 15 seasons than Elway, and only Tarkenton has more rushing yards.

or more touchdowns (Denver's 27-3). 1997 Postseason Elway started all four postseason games and engineered the Denver offense on its four-game run to the World Championship, completing 56 of 96 passes (58.3%) for 726 yards and three touchdowns, with two interceptions. He was sacked six times (-44) and carried the ball nine times for 25 yards (+28) with a long of 10 yards and one touchdown. Elway's postseason performance elevated him to the upper echelon of the all-time NFL playoff passing charts, leaving him second behind Joe Montana in passing yards (4,273) and attempts (565), third behind Montana and Jim Kelly in completions (310) and tied for fourth with Roger Staubach in touchdown passes (24). In addition, Elway enhanced his standing as the franchise leader in all-time postseason games played (19) and started (18) in the playoffs; he also increased his NFL record number of career fourth-quarter game-winning or game-saving drives to 45, with fourth-quarter wins at Kansas City (1/4) in the AFC Divisional Playoffs and vs. Green Bay in Super Bowl XXXII. In the AFC Wild Card round vs. Jacksonville (12/27/97), Elway completed 16 of 24 passes (66.7%) for 223 yards and one touchdown as Denver won 42-17. The 66.7 percent on percentage equaled his career best in a postseason contest, matching his numbers from his first postseason game at Seattle on Dec. 24, 1983. Elway also moved past the 4,000-yard total offense mark in postseason play, increasing his own Broncos record in that category. A week later in the AFC Divisional Playoff at Kansas City (1/4/98), he completed the 44th fourth-quarter game-winning drive of his career (NFL high) with a 10-19, 170-yard performance that helped propel Denver to a 14-10 win. It was his first road win in a playoff game since "The Drive" game back in January 1987 at Cleveland, representing the only two road playoff wins in franchise history at the time. Ironically, the head coach on the other sideline in both games was Marty Schottenheimer. Elway was 2-2 for 47 yards in his fifth postseason fourth-quarter game-winning drive. During the game, he became only the fourth quarterback in postseason history to reach 500 pass attempts. Elway also passed Terry Bradshaw (3,833) for third place and Jim Kelly (3,863) for second place all-time in postseason passing yards, and Troy Aikman (276) for fourth place all-time in postseason completions. The game also marked Denver's first postseason win (1-3) in which Elway did not throw a TD pass. In the AFC Championships Game at Pittsburgh (1/11/98), Elway completed 18 of 31 passes for 210 yards, two touchdowns and one interception, leading Denver to a 24-21 victory, raising his record at 4-1 in Conference Championship Games and leading Denver back to the Super Bowl for the first time in eight years. During the contest, he tied Roger Staubach (24) for fourth place all-time in postseason touchdown passes and became the second quarterback (Joe Montana) to reach the 4,000-yard postseason passing mark. It marked the 13th time in 18 postseason games that Elway had thrown for at least 200 yards, and the eighth time that he had thrown for at least two touchdowns. It was also Elway's fifth Conference Championship Game, tied for the fourth-most by a quarterback since the AFL-NFL merger in 1970. But Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay (1/25/98) turned out to be the crowning moment for which Elway had waited his whole career, as he led the Broncos to a 31-24 victory with his 45th fourth-quarter game-saving drive (sixth in postseason play). The victory was Elway's

GREATNESS MEASURED IN VICTORY

John Elway became the NFL's winningest all-time starting quarterback late in the 1996 season, leading the Broncos to a 13-1 record and a Super Bowl victory over the Oakland Raiders, passing Fran Tarkenton (125) and now boasts 138 wins to his credit during his magnificent career. Miami's Dan Marino's second with 132 included in that record is a remarkable 88-23-193 mark at home. Elway has at least a 500 record against 26 of the 30 other NFL teams he has faced, including all but two in the AFC (Oakland and Miami).

first in four Super Bowl appearances, and though he did not have a stellar passing performance (12-22, 123 yards, INT), Elway's scrambling (five rushes for 17 yards, TD, long run of 10 yards) and his leadership down the stretch helped Denver pull ahead of the Packers in the fourth quarter and secure the franchise's first World Championship. Elway, who tied a record by starting in his fourth Super Bowl and became the second-oldest QB to start a Super Bowl (Johnny Unitas in Super Bowl V), became the oldest player (37) to ever score a touchdown in a Super Bowl when he scampered around right end on a bootleg in the second quarter for a one-yard score and a 14-7 Broncos lead. His 8-yard scramble, late in the third quarter on a 3rd-and-6 play at the Packers' 12-yard line set up Terrell Davis' second of three TDs on the day and gave Denver a 24-17 lead, in the process igniting the team to victory. With 3:27 remaining in the fourth quarter, Elway took the Broncos 49 yards in five plays to produce a lead they would not surrender. One of the key plays on the drive was a 23-yard dump-off to fullback Howard Griffith (the same play on which Griffith scored two weeks before in the AFC Championship Game at Pittsburgh) that set Denver up at the Packers' 8-yard line with 2:00 remaining. After all was said and done, Elway had passed Jim Kelly (545) and Dan Marino (561) for third- and second-place all-time in postseason pass attempts. He also passed Marino (308) for third place all-time in postseason pass completions. Elway also passed Joe Montana (122, four games) for second place all-time in pass attempts in Super Bowl history. Unfortunately, he also tied Kelly and former Bronco Craig Morton for the most interceptions in a Super Bowl career with his seventh. The game was the second postseason contest that the Broncos had won in which Elway had not thrown a touchdown pass (KC on 1/4/98 was the other). 1997 Preseason Elway completed 15 of 25 passes for 154 yards in three preseason appearances. He suffered a torn biceps tendon in Game 2 against Miami in Mexico City Aug. 4th, but returned to practice Aug. 11 and was back in uniform for the team's preseason finale against San Francisco Aug. 23rd, completing 7 of 10 passes for 51 yards.

1996 John Elway put together one of the finest seasons of his phenomenal 14-year career in being voted to his seventh Pro Bowl (third as a starter), named second-team All-Pro by AP, College & Pro Football Newsweekly and Football Digest and first-team All-AFC by UPI, Pro Football Weekly and Football News, voted second in the AP NFL Most Valuable Player balloting, voted AFC Player of the Year by the Touchdown Club of Columbus, AFC Offensive Player of the Year by the Kansas City 101 Club, Mackey Award winner for highest quarterback rating in the AFC and AFC MVP by the NFL Players Association. Among his many career accomplishments in 1996, Elway topped his NFL record total of fourth-quarter game-saving drives to 41 with four more nail-biting finishes. He moved into first place all-time in victories by a starting quarterback, first place in rushing attempts by a quarterback (687), and became only the third player in NFL history to throw for 45,000 yards in a career (Dan Marino and Fran Tarkenton). He also moved into third place all-time in total offense (48,129 yards), passing yards (45,034), pass attempts (6,392) and pass completions (3,633) for a career percentage of 56.8. He started 15 of the 16 regular season games and completed 287 of 466 pass attempts (61.6%) for 3,328 yards and 26 touchdowns with 14 interceptions, and also rushed 50 times for 249 yards (5.0) with a long of 22 and four touch-

ELWAY HAS BRONCOS AMONG THE WINNERS

Since John Elway came into the league in 1983, the Denver Broncos boast the best record in the AFC and the second best record in the NFL with 147 victories. Elway has started in 138 of those victories, 93.9%, an NFL record for most wins by a starting quarterback.

TOP FIVE ALL-TIME RUSHING QUARTERBACKS

With his 14-yard rushing effort at Seattle, Sept. 7, 1987, John Elway moved into fourth place all-time rushing yards by a quarterback, passing former Broncos QB Tobin Rote. Elway still trails Randall Cunningham, Fran Tarkenton and Steve Young.

downs His 26 touchdowns tied a career high and franchise record set in 1995. He missed his only game of the year — and first since Dec. 24, 1994 (left knee strain) — at Green Bay (12/8) because of a sore left hamstring that he initially hurt at Oakland Nov. 4 and then re-aggravated Dec. 1 vs. Seattle. Elway led the AFC in quarterback rating (89.2; 4th NFL), was second in completion percentage (61.6; 5th NFL), third in touchdown passes (26; 4th NFL) and fifth in passing yardage (3,328; 7th NFL), completions (287; 8th NFL) and attempts (466; 9th NFL). His start at Seattle (9/8) marked the 192nd game he has played in his career, most by any player in Broncos franchise history, surpassing Tom Jackson who played in 191 games from 1973-86. He tied the record in Week One against the Jets (9/1) in Denver's 31-7 season-opening victory. Against the Buccaneers (9/15) Elway set a club record, throwing a touchdown pass for the 15th consecutive game, topping his previous standard of 13 games in 1985-86. The Buc contest will also go down as his 38th career fourth-quarter game-saving drive. He led the Broncos 80 yards in 14 plays over an 8:11 span to bring the Broncos back from a 23-20 deficit to a 27-23 win. He became one of just three players in NFL history to accumulate 45,000 yards of total offense with his 183-yard effort against Tampa Bay, joining Fran Tarkenton and Dan Marino. Two weeks later at Cincinnati (9/29) Elway broke out of a mini-slump with a spectacular performance, completing 23 of 37 pass attempts for 335 yards and two touchdowns. He was intercepted once and sacked five times, but came through in numerous crucial situations, spreading the ball around to eight different players. On Nov. 6 vs. San Diego, Elway moved into fourth place on the all-time NFL career passing list with one of his best passing performances of the season. He completed 32 of 41 for 323 yards and four touchdowns with just one interception, and also rushed eight times for 37 yards — more than any Chargers rusher tallied for the day — as the Broncos overcame a 17-0 first-half deficit to beat the Chargers 28-17. He moved into third all-time in career passing yards with his 326-yard effort vs. Baltimore (10/20), surpassing Warren Moon (43,787), becoming one of only three NFL players to throw for 45,000 yards in a career (Marino, Tarkenton). He also moved past Moon into third place in career pass attempts in the game. The two fourth-quarter touchdown drives on which he led the Broncos produced his 39th career fourth-quarter game-saving drive. It was also his third consecutive 300-yard passing game, the second time in his career he had accomplished this feat, tying his franchise record set in the last game of the 1993 season and the first two in '94. Elway was named AFC Offensive Player of the Month for October when he led the Broncos to three wins while completing 73 of 111 passes (65.8) for 935 yards and 10 touchdowns with three interceptions for a quarterback rating of 110.8. Against Kansas City (10/27) Elway surpassed the 3,000-yard career rushing mark with a then-career-high 62 yards, joining Fran Tarkenton as the only quarterbacks in NFL history to throw for more than 40,000 yards and rush for more than 3,000 yards in a career. He topped that effort with a new career high of 70 rushing yards at Oakland the next week (11/4). His two-week total of 132 yards rushing was his most ever in back-to-back games in his career. His 40th career fourth-quarter game-winning drive (3rd in '96) also came in that Monday Night contest when he rallied Denver from a 21-16 deficit in the final five minutes. He marched the Broncos 73 yards in six plays over a 47-second span, capped by a 49-yard touchdown pass to Rod Smith to give the Broncos a 22-21 lead that would hold up over the final 4:14. With his 37th comeback victory coming against the Raiders in December of 1995, this was the 1st time in Elway's career that he had consecutive come-from-behind victories against the same opponent. He played his 200th game in a Bronco uniform vs. Chicago (11/10) in a 17-12 Broncos win. Elway engineered his 41st career fourth-quarter game-winning drive (4th in '96) at Minnesota (11/24), moving the Broncos 84 yards in 11 plays for the go-ahead touchdown, which came on a 49-yard pass to Ed McCaffrey that was tipped three times before McCaffrey reeled in with 19 seconds remaining for a 21-17 win. Elway completed seven of nine passes for 82 yards on the final drive alone. The Viking contest was the 33rd NFL contest (four postseason) in which he had thrown for over 300 yards in a game. Elway threw his 250th career touchdown pass vs. Seattle (12/1), making him the ninth NFL player ever to do so (he finished 1996 at 251). He also went over the 3,000-yard passing mark against the Seahawks, marking the 11th time in his career that he has accomplished this feat, tying Dan Marino for the most all-time. With his four rushing attempts against Oakland (12/15), Elway surpassed Randall Cunningham (677 attempts) for most rushing attempts all-time by an NFL quarterback, and now has 687. With Denver's 24-19 win over the Raiders, Elway also surpassed Hall of Famer Fran Tarkenton as the winningest starting quarterback in NFL history (126 regular season wins) in his 202nd start. Tarkenton won 125 games in 240 starts. Marino stands third with 123 wins and Elway is at 126. The victory over the Raiders was also his 100th over an AFC opponent. On Dec. 22 at San Diego, Elway completed six of 11 passes for 46 yards with a long of 11 yards in limited play. He also ran once for three yards and was sacked once (-4), before leaving the game at the start of the second quarter. During the con-lest, he went over the 45,000-yard passing mark for his career, becoming only the third quarterback in NFL history to do so. Dan Marino and Fran Tarkenton are the others. Elway was a sophomore as offensive captain for the '96 season by his teammates. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1-4/97), Elway started and completed 25 of 38 passes for 226 yards and two touchdowns with a long of 18. He also rushed five times for 30 yards with a long of 19. Elway's first touchdown went 18 yards to Shannon Sharpe to put Denver ahead 12-0 in the first quarter and his second went 15 yards to Ed McCaffrey with 1:50 remaining in the game to put Denver within three. His 25 completions and 38 pass attempts are both second-most in Broncos postseason history, trailing only his 29 for 47 effort Jan. 4, 1994 at the Raiders. During the contest — his franchise record 15th in the postseason — Elway passed Terry Bradshaw for fourth place on the NFL's all-time postseason pass attempts list. He finished the season with 469 career postseason pass attempts. Elway had surgery on his right shoulder March 17, 1997 at the Steadman-Hawkins Clinic in Vail, Colo.

1995 Elway started all 16 games, completing 316 of 542 passes (58.3%) for 3,970 yards, a career best 26 touchdowns and 14 interceptions. He threw for more than 300 yards on five occasions, also a career best. It was the 10th time in his 13-year NFL career that he had topped the 3,000-yard mark, joining him with Dan Marino (11) as the only quarterbacks in NFL history to accomplish that feat 10 or more times. He also rushed 40 times for 179 yards, 4.5 and one touchdown with a long of 15. He led the AFC (tied for 5th NFL) in passing yards, finished third (8th NFL) in completions and was third (8th NFL) in pass attempts. Meanwhile, his fourth-quarter passer rating of 95.2 ranked third in the AFC and fifth in the NFL. With his 256 passing yards against Arizona (11/5), Elway pushed his career total to 40,008, making him just the seventh player in professional football history to surpass the 40,000-yard mark, and the fourth fastest to do so in terms of games played (183). He joined Fran Tarkenton, Dan Marino, Dan Fouts, Joe Montana, Johnny Unitas and Warren Moon — the latter surpassing 40,000 earlier the same day as Elway. The yardage to reach the milestone came on a 19-yard pass to Aaron Craver with 5:20 remaining in the game, giving Elway 40,008 to end the day. He passed for 290 yards two weeks later against San Diego (11/19) to move into sixth place ahead of Johnny Unitas (40,239) and then took over fifth place the following week at Houston (11/26) with a 332-yard performance that supplanted Joe Montana (40,551) and left Elway with 40,684. Elway's move into third on the NFL's all-time total offense list — surpassing Dan Fouts (43,516) — came vs. Jacksonville (12/31) when his 309 total yards raised his career total to 43,800. He completed 22 of 34 for 286 yards with a season-high four touchdowns and one interception in Denver's 31-23 victory. The four touchdowns — which included a season-best 62-yarder to Anthony Miller — were the most by Elway in a single game since Nov. 26, 1989 against Seattle, and the third time in his career he has thrown four TDs. His career best, five, Elway also gained 25 yards on one rushing play. His longest rush from scrimmage since 1989, Elway moved into fifth on the all-time NFL completion list against Seattle (12/10), passing Dan Fouts (3,297). He earned AFC Offensive Player of the Week honors for the 13th time in his storied career — and second time in '95 — Dec. 26 for his 24 of 41, 320-yard, two-touchdown performance in the Broncos' Week 17 win at Oakland (12/24), in which he also ran the ball into the end zone for a two-point conversion in the fourth quarter to tie the game at 28-28 in the second half alone. Elway completed 15 of 28 for 225 yards, one TD and one interception. His fourth-quarter numbers, which helped rally the Broncos from a 28-17 deficit, totaled 9-for-15 for 128 yards. Elway's 12th career Player of the Week honor had come Sept. 20 after his 30-of-47, 327-yard performance against Washington, capped by a game-winning 43-yard touchdown toss to Rod Smith on the game's final play. Elway's 30 completions tied for the fourth-most in a game by a Bronco, trailing his own 36 and 33 completion outings, and Mickey Slaughter's 34. That finish followed by the Broncos' 30-27 final drive win over San Diego (11/19) and their final-drive 31-28 win at Oakland (12/24) pushed Elway's career total for fourth-quarter game-winning or game-saving drives to 37. With his start against Oakland (10/16), Elway surpassed former Bronco defensive back Bruce Thompson for most career starts by a Bronco (179 — a figure he would push to 188 by season's end). Elway did not miss more than several plays in a game due to injury all season, with the exception of Game 10 at Philadelphia (11/12) when a concussion chased him on the first play of the second quarter and he did not return. The injury occurred on a hit from the Eagles' Mike Mamula and William Fuller. Prior to his removal, Elway had completed two of three pass for 54 yards, including a 46-yard touchdown strike to Anthony Miller.

TOUCHDOWN PASSES IN CONSECUTIVE POSTSEASON GAMES

John Elway has thrown at least one touchdown pass in 14 of the 19 postseason contests in which he has played. After not throwing one in his first playoff game, he threw at least one in his next nine, which ranks fourth all-time for consecutive playoff games with at least one touchdown pass.

1994 John Elway earned his sixth AFC Pro Bowl berth, showing all the skills that mark him as an all-time great despite a very disappointing season for the Broncos. He missed two of the last three games of the season (at Los Angeles and vs. New Orleans) due to a strained left knee. He finished the season second in the AFC and fourth in the NFL in passer rating with an 85.7, and his other season stats and rankings show 3,490 yards on 494 attempts and 307 completions with a 2.0 interception percentage, all figures ranking third in the AFC. His 62.1 completion percentage was second in the AFC and sixth overall. Elway went over the 3,000-yard mark for the season, his ninth 3,000-yard campaign, second only to Dan Marino's 10 in NFL history at that point, and Elway also went over the 40,000-yard mark in total offense. He rushed for 235 yards (second on the team and marking his ninth 200-yard season), giving him a season total offense figure of 3,725 in the 14 games he played. Elway enjoyed the third-best passing yardage day of his career vs. Atlanta (27 of 42 for 382 yards) and that was his second-best regular season yardage total ever, standing as his all-time high at Mile High Stadium. He had two games with over 350 passing yards (Elway threw for 371 vs. the Chargers on opening day). Elway scored four rushing touchdowns, marking the third time in his career to have four or more scores on the ground (six in 1991 and four in 1987). Elway completed 30 of 41 (73%) for 349 yards vs. Cleveland, including two touchdowns, an effort that resulted in his being named AFC Offensive Player of the Week for the 11th time in his storied career. He set a new Denver record with 36 completions vs. San Diego on opening day, the 20th all-time Denver record to be held by Elway. A sign of the Broncos' 1994 frustrations is seen in the fact that he became the first quarterback in NFL history to have three interceptions returned for touchdowns in the first three games of the season.

1993 Elway was named AFC Most Valuable Player (NFL Players Association), AFC Offensive Player of the Year (UPI, and the Kansas City 101 Club) and AFC Player of the Year (Football News) in 1993. Elway performed at an MVP-pace all year, earning all-AFC (UPI, Football News) and second-team All-NFL (AP, College and Pro Football Newsweekly, and Football Digest) and he was the starting quarterback in the 1994 Pro Bowl (fifth Pro Bowl berth) after a regular season that saw him lead the AFC in all six major quarterback stats categories. Elway's 1993 stats and rankings included a 92.8 rating (first in the AFC, third in the NFL), 551 attempts (first in the entire NFL), 348 completions (first in the entire NFL), a 63.2 completion percentage (first in the AFC and third in the NFL), 25 TD passes (first in the AFC and second in the NFL), 4,030 yards (first in the AFC). Elway's 1.8 interception avoidance percentage was fourth in the AFC, but stands as the best in Denver history for any quarterback with more than 75 single-season attempts. In 1993 he set new personal and Denver records for total yards offensively (4,183), completions (348), passing yards (4,030), TD passes (25), and completion percentage (that 63.2 mark led the figure set by Norm Weese in 1978). The 1993 season was Elway's first 4,000-yard campaign and his eighth 3,000-yard season. He also rushed for 153 yards. Elway was named the AFC Offensive Player of the Week twice and was named by his teammates as Denver's offensive MVP. In the regular season finale at Los Angeles he had his second highest passing yardage figure of the year (361, his third 300-yard game of the campaign), throwing three TD passes. His 382 yards of total offense in that same Raiders' game marked the sixth best Bronco figure in team history. Elway completed over 60% of his passes in 11 of the 16 games. At San Diego in game 12 (Dec. 5) his streak of consecutive games with at least one TD pass ended at 12 (it had begun with a TD pass in the last game of the 1992 campaign, and it ended one game short of his personal best of 13 straight), and he twice had long single-game completion streaks (Elway completed 13 straight

JOHN ELWAY BY STADIUM

In his 15-year career, John Elway has thrown at least one touchdown pass in 24 different stadiums, including 173 at Mile High Stadium. There are nine current NFL venues which he has not thrown a touchdown pass including Memorial Stadium, Soldier Field and the Superdome. In addition, he has never played at six other sites: Enron Stadium, Houlihan's Stadium (now closed), Municipal Stadium, Pro Player Stadium, the Trans World Dome and Jack Kent Cooke Stadium. Through the Broncos' day of the latter in 1998, Elway has also thrown 24 postseason TD passes in six different stadiums: 16 at Mile High Stadium, three at the L.A. Coliseum, two at Three Rivers, one at Cleveland Stadium, one at Jack Murphy Stadium (now Qualcomm Stadium) (Super Bowl XXII) and one at the Rose Bowl (Super Bowl XXI).

ELWAY NAMED 1992 EDGE NFL MAN OF THE YEAR

John Elway was named the 1992 Edge NFL Man of the Year for his work with the Elway Foundation, a non-profit organization which has raised over $1,000,000 that was directed toward the prevention and treatment of child abuse throughout Colorado.

Among the groups assisted by the Elway Foundation are Family Focus and the Kempe Children's Foundation. The Elway Foundation in 1991 alone raised over $400,000.

Elway is also a member of the Mayor's Council on Physical Fitness and has served as chairman of the National Kidney Foundation for the Rocky Mountain region.

The NFL Man of the Year award, now sponsored by True Value, is truly unique in that it is the only league-sponsored award that recognizes a player's off-the-field community service work as well as his playing excellence. Perhaps the most prestigious of all NFL awards, it has been in existence since 1970.

passes vs. Minnesota on Nov. 14 and hit on 10 straight at Seattle Nov. 28). That streak of 13 straight completions is Denver's second highest single-game total ever. Elway had 30 completions against the Vikings, one of two 30-completion games in 1993 for Elway. Elway at Green Bay (Oct. 10) set personal bests for attempts (59, a new team record), completions (33, the second highest ever by a Bronco), and set a new team record with 64 total plays from scrimmage, including 59 passes and five rushes. In addition, Elway's 394 yards of total offense at Green Bay were the fourth highest ever by a Bronco, and the second highest ever by Elway (he had 432 at Seattle 12/20/85). Elway utilized no fewer than six receivers in any game, with the high being nine on opening day vs. the Jets (Sept. 5). He threw TD passes to eight different receivers in 1993.

1992 Elway completed 174 of 316 passes for 2,242 yards, with 10 touchdowns and 17 interceptions. He gained 94 yards and scored twice on 34 rushing attempts. He missed games 11 through 14 because of a bruised tendon in his right shoulder, suffered while running for a first down against the Giants (11/15). Elway earned two AFC Offensive Player of the Week honors last year, grabbing the first one for his performance on opening day. Against the Raiders (9/6) he drove Denver 85 yards in seven plays to score the winning points with 55 seconds left, a score set up by a 48-yard pass to Arthur Marshall. His second player-of-the-week honors came after he threw two touchdown passes in the final two minutes to give Denver a 20-19 victory over Kansas City (10/4). Elway passed for 311 yards in that game, his only 300-yard effort of the season. In week two against San Diego (9/13) Elway threw two TD passes and scored on an eight-yard run. Against the Jets (11/8) he threw an 80-yard touchdown pass to Arthur Marshall, his longest regular season TD pass ever. He turned in a sterling performance against Houston (10/18), directing a three-play 80-yard drive for the winning score with less than two minutes remaining in the game.

1991 Elway completed 242 of 351 passes for 3,253 yards, a total ranked sixth in the AFC and ninth in the NFL, as he was voted to his fourth career Pro Bowl berth. He threw 12 touchdown passes and led a career low with just 12 interceptions. He had 36 pass completions of 20+ yards, nine of 40+, five of 50+, and four of 60+. Elway was third on the team with 258 yards rushing, and his six TDs led the team and set a new career single season high. He was bothered throughout the second half of the season by a shoulder problem that was corrected by arthroscopic surgery in the 1992 offseason. Against Cincinnati in the season opener (9/1), Elway threw for 262 yards and two touchdowns, scored two rushing TDs, and caught a 24-yard pass from Steve Sewell. Against Kansas City (10/20), he combined with Mark Jackson for a 71 yard gain on a fourth-and-13 play to set up the winning field goal. Elway had his only 300-yard passing performance of the year in Denver's loss at Houston (10/6), with 301 yards. His heroics were never more evident than in the Broncos' 26-24 Divisional Playoff Game victory over Houston (1/4). He rallied Denver from a 21-6 deficit, and on a drive in which he completed a fourth-down pass to Michael Young for a first down, he drove his team to a touchdown to cut the Oilers' lead to one point at 24-23. Houston's next drive stalled but a punt gave the Broncos the ball on the two. Twice Elway converted fourth down plays, first on a seven-yard run and later with a 44-yard pass to Vance Johnson, to set up Denver's winning field goal. For the game Elway completed 19 of 33 passes for 257 yards, with one TD and one interception, and rushed six times for 39 yards. In the AFC Championship Game loss at Buffalo (1/12) he completed 11 of 21 passes for 121 yards and an 1990 Elway completed 294 of 502 passes in 1990 (a .586 completion percentage that stood as the highest over the first 10 years of his career) for 3,526 yards, 15 touchdowns, and 14 interceptions. He gained 258 yards on 50 rushing attempts and scored three touchdowns on the ground. Elway turned in several gutsy performances last season and played some of his best games in the midst of Denver's six-game losing streak, including a 328-yard, two-TD performance at Kansas City (12/9). That performance was his 17th career 300-yard game and the 27th time in which he totaled over 300 yards of total offense. Denver is 18-8-1 in those games. Elway had three of his top six career completion percentages in 1990, with a high of .800 at Minnesota (11/4), and also tied his personal single game completion mark with 30 vs. Seattle (9/23). Elway and wide receiver Vance Johnson combined on Denver's most memorable play of the season when on fourth and 10 against Kansas City (9/17) they connected on a 49-yard pass that set up a last-second game-winning field goal attempt. He also set a new regular season rushing high with a mark of 52 yards against the Raiders (12/2).

1989 Elway in 1989 led Denver to its third AFC Championship in four years and earned his third career Pro Bowl invitation. He completed 223 of 416 passes for 3,051 yards with 18 touchdowns and 18 interceptions, and he rushed for 244 yards on 48 carries, scoring three times. Elway had one 300-yard passing game in the regular season, passing for 344 yards and two TDs in the Broncos' overtime win at Seattle (10/22). He led Denver to a 38-0 halftime lead against the Seahawks (11/26) after passing for 217 yards and four TDs. In the divisional playoff game vs. Pittsburgh (1/7/90) Elway completed 12 of 20 passes for 239 yards, including completions of 51 and 37 yards, and rushed for 44 yards, with one run of 32 yards. He had one of the best performances of his career in the AFC Championship Game against Cleveland (1-14), totaling over 300 yards total offense for the third time in a conference title game. He completed 20 of 36 passes for 385 yards and three TDs. Elway combined with Michael Young on a 70-yard scoring play, completed a 43-yard pass to Steve Sewell, threw a 39-yard TD pass to Sammy Winder, and gained 25 of his 39 rushing yards on one play. In Super Bowl XXIV (1/28) he completed 10 of 26 passes for 108 yards and scored Denver's only TD of the game on a three-yard run.

1988 In 1988 Elway threw for 3,309 yards and rushed for 234 yards despite being bothered for most of the season by several nagging injuries. He was voted by teammates as Denver's most valuable offensive player for the fourth straight year, sharing the award with running back Sammy Winder, following a campaign in which he completed 274 of 496 passes, with 17 touchdowns and 19 interceptions to earn his second straight Pro Bowl invitation. He had his only 300-yard passing game of the season against the Raiders (12/4) with 324 yards and two touchdowns.

1987 Elway was named the NFL's Most Valuable Player (AP) and the AFC's starting quarterback in the Pro Bowl after turning in a tremendous season in 1987, a year in which he became the first AFC signal-caller since Terry Bradshaw (1978-79) to lead his team to consecutive conference crowns. Elway was named All-NFL (The Sporting News, NEA, AP-second team) and All-AFC (UPI, Pro Football Weekly, The Football News) in addition to being tabbed as the AFC MVP (NFLPA), AFC Player of the Year (The Football News), AFC Offensive Player of the Year (UPI, Kansas City 101 Club), and Colorado Pro Athlete of the Year (Colorado Sports Hall of Fame), as well as earning his second Pro Bowl invitation. He was dynamic in the AFC Championship Game against the Browns, completing 14 of the 26 passes for 281 yards and three TDs, while also rushing 11 times for 36 yards. In Super Bowl XXII he completed 14 of 38 passes for 257 yards, ran for 32 yards on three carries, and became the first quarterback in Super Bowl history to catch a pass, a 23-yarder from Steve Sewell. Elway's 56-yard scoring strike to Ricky Nattiel on Denver's first play from scrimmage provided the earliest touchdown in Super Bowl history (elapsed time of 1:57). He was voted the Broncos' offensive MVP for a regular season performance in which he completed 224 of 410 passes for 3,198 yards, an average of 267 yards per game, with 19 TD passes. Elway had four 300-yard passing games that year, a team record he would later exceed in 1996. He led all AFC quarterbacks in rushing for the fourth straight season, was second on the team with a career-high 304 yards, scoring four times.

1986 Elway led the Broncos to their first AFC Championship in nine seasons in 1986, while earning his first Pro Bowl berth. He was honored with the Seattle Gold Helmet Award (Professional Football Player of the Year) and received the King of the Hill award from the Colorado Sports Hall of Fame, in addition to being named honorable mention All-NFL (AP) and All-AFC (UPI-second team). Along with his 18 TD passes that year, Elway also scored on an 11-yard run and a 23-yard pass reception from Steve Sewell that is the longest TD catch by a full-time starting QB in NFL history. His best statistical game of the season came against the Giants (11/23) when he passed for 336 yards and led the team with 51 yards rushing. Elway directed one of the greatest drives in NFL postseason history in pacing Denver to a 23-20 overtime win over Cleveland for the AFC title. He completed 22 of 38 passes for 244 yards and a TD, that coming on a five-yard strike to Mark Jackson that capped a 15-play, 98-yard drive that tied the game at the end of regulation. In overtime Elway drove the team 60 yards in nine plays to the winning field goal. In Super Bowl XXI Elway completed 22 of 37 passes for 304 yards and one TD, also scoring on a four-yard run.

1985 Elway took some spectacular steps forward in 1985 as the Stanford graduate rewrote the Denver record book. Elway set Broncos single season records for attempts (605, which led the NFL and fell just four passes short of the NFL record of 609 held by Dan Fouts), completions (327, second in the NFL), passing yards (3,891, second in the NFL), total rushing and passing plays (656, first in the NFL), and total offense (4,414, also first in the league).

1984 Elway led the Broncos to a 12-2 record in his 14 regular season starts in 1984. He completed 214 of 380 passes for 2,598 yards, with 18 TDs and 15 interceptions. Not only was his passing a factor in his leadership of the offense, but he finished third on the team in rushing with 237 yards.

1983 Elway started 10 games in 1983, including the first five before being replaced by Steve DeBerg, and five more after DeBerg was injured. While Elway did not have impressive stats as a rookie, finishing 17th among AFC passers, he carried a tremendous emotional burden, having come to the NFL as the most publicized college prospect since Joe Namath in 1965. Elway was the first player chosen in the 1983 draft and joined the Broncos by trade with Baltimore on May 2. The Broncos, in return, gave the Colts quarterback Mark Herrmann, the rights to OL Chris Hinton and a first-round pick in the 1984 Draft (G Ron Solt). He was also chosen by the Oakland Raiders in the 1983 USFL territorial draft.

COLLEGE John concluded his college career with five major NCAA Division I-A records and nine major Pac-10 marks. Elway completed 82.1 percent of his career passes (774 of 1,243, both NCAA highs) for 9,349 yards and 77 touchdowns, while setting an NCAA record for the lowest percentage of passes intercepted in a career (3.13 percent). As a senior, John was a consensus All-American and finished second in Heisman Trophy balloting while setting virtually every Pac-10 and Stanford career record for total offense and passing. A two-sport star, John played baseball for the New York Yankees' Oneonta (N.Y.) single-A farm club in 1982, hitting for a .318 average and knocking in a team-high 25 RBI in 42 games. John, who batted left-handed and threw right-handed, was the Yankees' first selection in the 1981 summer draft (June 8). John hit 349 with nine homers and 50 RBI in 49 games in his final college baseball season as a sophomore. Elway has a degree in economics from Stanford.

PERSONAL: John and his wife Janet have four children, including three daughters, Jessica (Gwen, 10/17/85), Jordan (Mare, 6/1/87), and Juliana (3/7/91), and a son, Jack (8/11/89). The family makes its home in Englewood, Colo. In addition to his considerable time spent on the football field, John and Janet have poured a great deal of energy into The Elway Foundation (an organization that contributes funds and resources to the prevention and treatment of child abuse). He also owned and operated seven automobile franchises in the Denver area until selling them in late 1997. A native of Port Angeles, Wash., Elway was the most highly recruited prep athlete in the nation in 1979 and was listed on Parade, Scholastic Coach, Football News, and National Coaches Association All-America teams. He had an unparalleled football-baseball career at Granada Hills High School. John was 129 of 200 for 1,837 yards and 19 TDs as a senior while leading the baseball team to the Los Angeles City championship with a .491 batting average and a 4-2 pitching record. He completed 60 percent of his high school passes for 5,711 yards and 49 TDs. The football field at Granada Hills High School was re-named in John's honor in a ceremony June 5, 1998. The Kansas City Royals selected him in the 18th round of the 1979 summer draft (June 5), although he already had signed a national letter of intent with Stanford. John's father, Jack, coached his son in the East-West Shrine contest in which John earned Offensive MVP laurels. Jack is currently in his fourth year as the Broncos' Director of Pro Scouting, and his sixth year overall with the Broncos. John made an appearance on CBS' The Late Show with David Letterman in the days following Denver's 31-24 victory over Green Bay in Super Bowl XXXII (1/25/98).

Leo Goetas comes to the Broncos from the Baltimore Ravens as a solid linebacker force for an offensive line that is regarded as one of the best in pro football. Goetas, now with his fourth NFL team, has played in 112 NFL games (81 starts) at guard, center and tackle during his career, making himself a valuable and versatile commodity. In Denver, he is reunited with one of his former offensive line coaches, Alex Gibbs (San Diego). Goetas entered the NFL in 1990 as a third-round (No. 60 overall) draft choice of the Chargers, with whom he played for three seasons before stints with the Rams (1993-96) and Ravens (1997).

1997 Goetas played in 11 games with the Ravens and started seven, six of which came at left guard and the other at center. His start at center in Week Three vs. Giants was the first of his career at that position. He suffered a pectoral muscle tear vs. Philadelphia (11/16) and was inactive for the next three games before being placed on injured reserve Dec. 14.

1996 Goeas started the final 13 games at left guard for the St. Louis Rams. He began the season backing up Bern Brostek but moved into the starting lineup when Brostek was moved to center. He played in his 100th career game against Atlanta (12/15). He also saw action at left tackle in one game (9/8 vs. San Francisco), replacing an injured Wayne Gandy. 1995 Goeas played in 15 games and started 14 at left guard for the Rams. He also backed up Bern Brostek at center and saw action there in two games. Goeas missed the Washington game (12/17) with the flu and won a game ball vs. Atlanta (10/12) after the Rams gained a season-high 451 total yards. 1994 Goeas started 13 games at right guard for the Rams. He missed three starts with an abdominal strain, snapping his streak of 25 straight starts (snapped 11/6 vs. Denver). 1993 Goeas started all 16 games in his first season with the Rams, one of only three St. Louis linemen to do so. 1992 Goeas played in all 16 games for San Diego and started five at right tackle after being inserted into the lineup for an injured Broderick Thompson. He also played in both of San Diego's post-season games (vs. K.C. and at Miami) but did not start either game. 1991 Goeas started the final four games for San Diego at left tackle, seeing action in six other contests. 1990 Goeas won All-Rookie honors from UPI, Pro Football Weekly, Football Digest, Football News, Pro Football Newsweekly, and the Pro Football Writer's Association, playing in 15 games and starting nine. The recipient of the Chargers' Ed Block Courage Award, Goeas made his first NFL start at Pittsburgh (10/7) after having suffered a fractured left foot during training camp. He was the Chargers' second third-round selection and the 60th player chosen overall.

COLLEGE Goeas earned second-team All-America honors and first-team All-WAC honors his senior year at Hawaii, starting every game at left tackle. Among his teammates at Hawaii was Broncos' placekicker Jason Elam. Goeas was an economics major.

PERSONAL Goeas was an all-state selection as a senior at Kamehameha High School in Honolulu, Hawaii. He has had acting parts in two different television series, "Jake and the Fatman" and "Magnum P.I." Goeas raises and trains German Shepherds and Rottweilers, and also breeds horses. The youngest of five children, Leo and his wife, Kathy, have four children: Matthew (2/12/87), Colton Lee (5/16/94), Alixandra (7/1/91) and Rebecca (4/6/98). The family resides in Larkspur, Colo. Leo Douglas Goeas was born August 15, 1966 in Honolulu.

Darrien Gordon proved to be one of Denver's key offseason acquisitions in 1997, playing an instrumental role in Denver's run to its first World Championship. A cornerback who started all 16 regular season games and four more in the post-season, Gordon was electrifying in his additional role as punt returner, taking three back for touchdowns to increase his NFL total to six, tied for fifth-most in league history. He ranks No. 1 in NFL history in career punt return average, with a mark of 13.6. Gordon in 1997 joined an elite group of nine players all-time who have returned two punts for touchdowns in the same game (vs. Carolina, 11/9/97), and is one of only four to do so in the same quarter. In his five professional seasons,

Gordon has amassed 239 tackles (215 solo), including four sacks (-9), and added 11 interceptions (156 yds.), 31 passes defended, one forced fumble and six fumble recoveries. He has returned one interception for a touchdown (32 yds. at Seattle, 9/7/97). Gordon's punt return totals include 143 returns for 1,950 yards (NFL-best 13.6) with 69 fair catches, a long of 94 yards (TD) and six touchdowns. The five-year veteran has now played in 64 NFL games (45 starts) and seven post-season contests (all starts). Gordon began his NFL career in San Diego in 1993 as a first-round draft pick (No. 22), and played four seasons for the Chargers. He started at cornerback for the club in Super Bowl XXIX vs. San Francisco (1/29/95) and made five tackles. Gordon's single-game career highs include: 10 tackles (vs. Raiders, 11/21/93), two interceptions (at N.E., 11/20/94), a long interception return of 32 yards (TD at Seattle, 9/7/97), six punt returns (vs. Rams, 11/27/94), 168 punt-return yards (vs. Carolina, 11/9/97), two punt returns for touchdowns (vs. Carolina, 11/9/97) and a long of 94 yards (TD, St. Louis, 9/14/97). 1997 Gordon started all 16 games at right cornerback and performed superbly after winning the job in training camp. For the year he recorded 62 tackles (50 solo), including two sacks (-2), 11 pass breakups, one fumble recovery, one forced fumble and four interceptions (at Pittsburgh, 12/7, at Kansas City, 11/16, at Atlanta, 9/28, at Seattle, 9/7) — the first of which he returned 32 yards for a touchdown — to tie for the team lead and tie for eighth in the AFC. His forced fumble came in the first quarter at Pittsburgh (12/7) and set up Denver's first touchdown of the day. Gordon also handled the punt return duties in stellar fashion, earning first-team All-NFL honors as a return specialist by Sports Illustrated, The Sporting News, USA Today and Pro Football Weekly, second-team All-NFL by Football Digest and College & Pro Football Newsweekly, and All-AFC by Pro Football Weekly and Football News, as well as winning the Special Teams Player of the Year Award from the NFL Alumni Association. Gordon ranked second in the NFL with an average of 13.6 yards on 40 returns with three touchdowns (one shy of the team record: Upchurch, 4, 1978), including a 94-yarder (vs. St. Louis, 9/14) that was the longest in the NFL since Oct. 23, 1994 when the Rams' Robert Bailey returned one 103 yards for a touchdown. Gordon tied an NFL record with two punt return touchdowns in the first quarter vs. Carolina (11/9), joining Jack Christensen (Detroit, 3rd qtr.; 11/22/51), Vai Sikahema (Philadelphia, 2nd qtr.; 12/21/86) and Jermaine Lewis (Baltimore, 2nd qtr.; 12/7/97). Just one of 11 times in NFL history that a player has returned two for touchdowns in the same game, Gordon's first went 82 yards and the second 75. He is one of nine players to accomplish this feat (Christensen and Eric Metcalfe each did it twice). Gordon's 94-yard return broke the previous franchise record of 92 yards held by Rick Upchurch (10/3/76), and eclipsed his own previous long of 90 yards in 1994 while with San Diego. It was also the first punt return for a touchdown by a Bronco since Dec. 27, 1987 when Kevin Clark turned the trick vs. San Diego. Gordon is the second Bronco ever to return two for TDs in a game, matching Upchurch's total vs. Tampa Bay, 9/28/76, and making Denver one of only two NFL teams to have the feat happen twice (Christensen, Detroit, twice in 1951). His 168 punt-return yards set personal and franchise

NFL PLAYERS WITH TWO PUNT RETURN TOUCHDOWNS IN A GAME

Nine players have combined to return two punts for touchdowns in the same game a total of 11 times in the history of the NFL, a list joined by the Broncos' Darrien Gordon in 1997. Even more remarkable, Gordon is one of just four players who have performed the feat in the same quarter. Here is a look at the 11 occasions on which a player has returned two punts for touchdowns in a game:

records, topping his own previous best of 128 yards and the franchise best of 167 (Upchurch 11/6/77). After his first season as a Bronco he already laid claim to three of the seven longest punt returns in franchise history — 94 (1st, 9/14/97), 82 (4th, 11/9/97) and 75 (7th, 11/9/97) — and maintained his status as the NFL's all-time leader in career punt return average (13.6). Gordon's first punt return for a score and his interception return for a score came in back-to-back games in Weeks Two and Three, and his fumble recovery came vs. Seattle (11/2) after Tyrone Braxton stripped the ball from Warren Moon on a sack. Gordon was named both AFC Special Teams Player of the Week and Miller Lite/NFL Player of the Week for his two-touchdown performance vs. Carolina (11/8). For the year he also has one special teams tackle. His high tackle games of the season came at Seattle (7; 6 solo) Sept. 7, vs. Cincinnati (6; 4 solo) Sept. 21 and at Kansas City (6; 3 solo) Nov. 18. He also had a sack for 0 yards on opening day vs. Kansas City and one for minus-two yards at Atlanta (9/28). Postseason Gordon started all four postseason games at right cornerback and recorded 18 tackles (17 solo), including a sack (-8), with one interception (vs. Jacksonville, 12/27/97) and eight passes defended. He also returned four punts for 69 yards (17.3) with three fair catches and a long of 36 yards (at K.C., 1/4/98), the longest postseason punt return in Broncos franchise history. In the AFC Wild Card Playoff vs. Jacksonville, Gordon posted a solid all-around game, making five solo tackles, including a sack (-8), knocking down four passes and notching the first postseason interception of his career. Gordon's pickoff came in the fourth quarter with Denver leading 28-17, as Mark Brunell launched a bomb from the Denver 39-yard line into the end zone, and into the waiting hands of Gordon, who outran Jacksonville wide receiver Keenan McCardell to the ball. In Denver's 14-10 AFC Divisional Playoff victory at Kansas City (1/4/98) he had an outstanding day, posting five solo tackles and two passes defended. He also turned in the longest punt return in Broncos' postseason history, taking his only return back 36 yards late in the second quarter. In the AFC Championship Game at Pittsburgh (1/17/98) he made five tackles (4 solo) with one pass defended, and returned two punts for 19 yards (9.5). In Super Bowl XXXI vs. Green Bay (1/25/98) he made three solo tackles with one pass defended, and recorded two fair catches on punt return duty.

1996 Gordon started Games 7-9 (vs. Oakland, at Seattle and at Indianapolis), 12 at Kansas City and 14-15 (at Pittsburgh and at Chicago) of the 1996 season at cornerback for the Chargers. He played in all 16 games and finished the campaign as the leading punt returner in the AFC with a 14.9 average, including an 81-yard return for a touchdown against Kansas City (9/29). Gordon had 36 returns for 537 yards and one touchdown on the season. He had three tackles in San Diego's regular 16-10 season-ending win vs. the Broncos. Gordon recorded 47 tackles, two sacks, two interceptions and seven passes defended on the year, and also added eight special teams tackles. He was selected as a first alternate to the Pro Bowl. 1995 Gordon was on San Diego's active roster but was declared inactive for all 16 regular season games and San Diego's one postseason contest while recovering from rotator cuff surgeries performed in the 1995 off-season. He originally underwent surgery on his right rotator cuff following the 1994 season before undergoing a second procedure on the same shoulder after experiencing soreness during 95 training camp. 1994 Gordon started every game for the Chargers, including all three postseason contests, as the team advanced to play in the franchise's first Super Bowl. He finished the regular season second on the team with a career-high 89 tackles (75 solo), and his career high four interceptions tied for the team lead. He also recovered two fumbles and knocked down eight passes. Gordon finished the postseason ranked third on the team with 17 tackles, 15 solo. He also led the AFC with a 13.2 punt return average and became only the second player in franchise history to return two punts for touchdowns in the same season, running one back 90 yards at the Raiders (9/25) in San Diego's 26-24 victory and also running one back 75 yards against the Rams (11/27) in another San Diego win, 31-17. He recorded nine tackles in each of San Diego's first two games (at Denver 9/4 and vs. Cincinnati 9/11). Along with his 90-yard return against the Raiders, Gordon recorded seven tackles. He had eight stops and an interception in the Chargers' 30-6 win over Kansas City (10/9) and he had seven tackles in the rematch with Denver. San Diego's first loss of the season (10/23). He had a single-game career high two interceptions at New England (11/20), and also had a season high with nine tackles in the 23-17 loss. To go along with his punt return against the Rams, Gordon had one interception and four tackles. He tied his season high in tackles again with nine against San Francisco (12/11) in what turned out to be a Super Bowl preview. Gordon registered four stops in San Diego's 22-21 come-from-behind victory over Miami in an AFC Divisional Playoff Game (1/8/95). In the AFC Championship Game victory at Pittsburgh (1/15/95) Gordon had a postseason career-high eight tackles, followed by a five tackle performance in Super Bowl XXIX (1/29/95) which San Diego lost to San Francisco 49-26. 1993 Gordon played in all 16 games, starting seven and becoming a major contributor in the Chargers' secondary in his first NFL campaign. He took over the starting right cornerback position in Game 11 at the Indianapolis Colts on Monday Night Football and started the final six games of the season. He had seven stops in the Colts game. Gordon's first NFL start came against Houston's four-wide-receiver attack (9/19). He finished the season with 41 tackles, one interception, one fumble recovery and five passes defended. He grabbed his first career interception in the regular season finale at Tampa Bay (1/2/94). Gordon's 10 tackles vs. the Raiders (11/21) was a personal single-game high. He also handled the Chargers' punt return duties in '93, averaging 12.7 a return (395 yards on 31 returns) to rank second in the AFC and third in the NFL. Six of his returns went for 30 or more yards, including a 54-yarder against Kansas City (10/17). He had 38- and 36-yard returns against Pittsburgh (10/10) and a 37-yard return against Denver (12/5). Gordon was originally a first-round pick in the 1993 NFL Draft by the Chargers (22nd overall).

COLLEGE Gordon was a second-team All-Pac-10 pick as a senior at Stanford in 1992. He recorded 63 tackles and led the Cardinal with 17 pass breakups and also had four interceptions that year. Gordon also started as a junior in 1991 and earned All-Pac-10 honorable mention. He played every game as a sophomore, starting the last seven and also earned a letter as a freshman wide receiver, even though he made no receptions. He was a psychology major at Stanford.

Willie Green provided valuable depth for the Broncos as the team's third wide receiver in 1997 and figures again to play a prominent role in 1998. Having developed a reputation for being a proficient third-down receiver, Green also has a knack for making the big play. The seven-year veteran has played in 99 regular season games (53 starts) and participated in nine more in the postseason (four starts). Green has caught 221 passes for 3,526 yards (16.0 avg.) and 25 touchdowns in the regular season, and added 27 receptions for 357 yards (13.2 avg.) and four TDs in postseason play. He has posted seven 100-yard games in his career, the first of which came in a postseason contest while with Detroit (vs. Dallas, 1/5/92). Green joined the Broncos in 1997 as an unrestricted free agent from Carolina where he had provided solid veteran play during the franchise's first two seasons. He began his career in 1990 as an eighth-round draft choice of the Lions (194th overall) and played four seasons with the club before moving on to Tampa Bay (1994) and Carolina (1995-96). He was one of the original Carolina Panthers, signing with the club along with 10 other free agents Dec. 15, 1994. 1997 Green contributed at wide receiver in all 16 games and made one start (at Pitt., 12/7), catching 19 passes for 240 yards (12.6) with a long of 31 yards and two touchdowns as the third receiver. He had a breakout game at Kansas City (11/16), tying his season high with three receptions for a season-high 58 yards (19.3), all of which came on clutch fourth-quarter receptions. Green's previous high game had come at Atlanta (9/28) when he caught three passes for 28 yards, including his first touchdown as a Bronco on a 10-yard reception from John Elway on a 4th-and-3 play in the first quarter. His second touchdown also went for 10 yards, vs. Seattle (11/2). Green drew his first start as a Bronco at Pittsburgh (12/7) in place of the injured Ed McCaffrey (hamstring) and responded by tying his season-high for receptions with three for 54 yards. Postseason Green saw action in all four postseason games as the third wide receiver and caught three passes for 51 yards (17.0) with a long of 22. His first two receptions came in the AFC Wild Card win over Jacksonville (12/27/97) for a total of 32 yards. His first reception, a 10-yarder, came on a 3rd-and-7 play deep in Jacksonville territory, and helped keep alive Denver's first touchdown drive. His 22-yard catch in the second quarter also produced a first down, coming on 3rd-and-9 from the Jacksonville 47, setting up Denver's third touchdown to produce a 21-0 lead. His other postseason reception came at Kansas City (1/4/98), a 19-yarder in Denver's 14-10 Divisional Playoff win over the Chiefs.

1996 Green started 11 of the 15 games in which he played for Carolina, falling one catch short of his career high set in 1995. For the year he had 46 receptions for 614 yards (13.3 avg.). Green's 20 receptions for 260 yards in third-down situations attest to his ability to make the clutch catch. Green suffered a lower back strain in the second half of the Panthers' 23-7 Week Three victory vs. San Francisco (9/22). He set a franchise single-game record for receptions with nine for 96 yards at Atlanta (11/3) and had four receptions for 35 yards against the Giants (11/10), with three of the receptions coming on third down. Green enjoyed one of the finest performances of his career at San Francisco (12/8) in a pivotal NFC West game that helped put Carolina in position to wrap up its first-ever divisional title two weeks later. He had seven receptions for 157 yards and a touchdown in Carolina's 30-20 victory, their third over the 49ers in four tries. He had five receptions in each of the last two regular season games against Baltimore (12/15) and Pittsburgh (12/22). Green had five catches for 53 yards and a score in the Panthers' 26-17 NFC Divisional Playoff win over Dallas (1/5/97) and had a team-high five catches for 51 yards in the NFC Championship Game at Green Bay (1/12/97) to produce team-leading postseason totals of 10 receptions for 104 yards. 1995 Green played in all 16 games in Carolina's inaugural season and made seven starts. He was the team's second leading receiver with 47 catches for 882 yards (18.8), and his career-best four 100-yard games led the Panthers. His 17.9 yards per catch on third down was tops in the NFL for the season, while his 18.8 yards per catch was first in the NFC and second in the NFL (Chris Sanders, Houston, 23.5). Green also led the Panthers with six touchdowns, including scores from 89 and 60 yards. Though second on the team in receiving, Willie's 882 yards bested the previous NFL record for a player on an expansion team set by Minnesota's Jerry Reichow (859) in 1961. Green was one of the original 10 players signed by the team, of whom only he and guard Matt Campbell (then a tight end) were on the active roster for all of 1995. Green's 157 receiving yards at St. Louis (11/12) set a team single-game mark. His four touchdowns in the fourth quarter were second in the NFC, and his 448 yards on third down placed him third in the NFL. Green set career marks in receptions (47), yards (882), 100-yard games (4), average yards per catch (18.8), third-down conversions (25), third-down yardage (448) and third-down average yards per catch (17.9), while also having the longest touchdown of his career (89 yards). He made starts at Atlanta (9/3), at Buffalo (9/10), vs. St. Louis (9/17), vs. Tampa Bay (10/1), at Chicago (10/8), vs. Atlanta (12/17) and at Washington (12/24). At Atlanta (9/3) he had a game-high 121 yards on seven receptions, including an improbable 44-yard touchdown reception from Frank Reich to force the game into overtime. At New England (10/28) Green gave the Panthers a 17-3 lead when he grabbed a 33-yard touchdown pass from Kerry Collins. His 31-yard reception in the closing seconds of regulation set up a potential game-winning field goal. On the day, he had four catches for 87 yards. At San Francisco (11/5) Green had five receptions, all for third-down conversions, for 58 total yards. At St. Louis (11/12) Green set a personal-best and season-best team mark for yards with 157 on six acrobatic receptions, including a 17-yard touchdown grab. He had his second 100-yard game of the season at New Orleans when he hauled in four passes for 105 yards, including a 60-yard touchdown in the second quarter. Mark Carrier's 132 yards the same day made it the first time two Panther receivers posted 100-yard outings in the same contest. Versus Atlanta (12/17) Green had a game-high 147 yards receiving on four catches, including an 89-yard game-winning touchdown, the Panthers' longest scoring play of the season and the third-longest offensive touchdown in the NFL in 1995. He signed as a free agent Dec. 15, 1994. 1994 Willie signed with Tampa Bay as a free agent in July. He had nine receptions for 150 yards (16.7) and no touchdowns in five games. He was inactive at Atlanta (10/9), before his release October 11. Green signed with the Panthers as one of the team's first 10 players Dec. 15, 1993. Green led Detroit in average yards per catch with a 16.5 mark and started in six of the Lions' 16 contests. He posted the fourth regular season 100-yard game of his career vs. Phoenix (9/26) with a 102-yard effort, and led the Lions with three catches for 88 yards vs. Tampa Bay (10/3). He had touchdown receptions at Green Bay (11/21) and Phoenix (12/12). Versus Green Bay (1/8/94) in the playoffs he had two catches for 33 yards. 1992 Willie played in 15 games with 13 starts and led the Lions with five touchdown receptions. At Chicago (9/6) he had 114 yards on five receptions, including a touchdown. After touchdown catches at Minnesota (9/13) and Washington (9/20) he posted 115 yards on six receptions at Pittsburgh (11/15), including a 73-yard touchdown. 1991 Green played in all 16 games for Detroit, starting 15 and tallying 39 receptions for 592 yards and seven touchdowns. His first NFL start came vs. Washington (9/1) when he posted one reception for 16 yards. His first NFL touchdown came the next week vs. Green Bay (9/8) on a 12-yard reception from Erik Kramer. That catch began a five-game stretch in which he had a touchdown reception in each contest, ending with a seven-reception, 73-yard performance with a touchdown vs. Minnesota (10/6). Green added his sixth score vs. Dallas (10/27) and a seventh versus the Jets (12/8) in the NFC Divisional Playoff vs. Dallas (1/5/92). Green had eight catches for 115 yards and two touchdowns in the NFC Championship (1/12/92) he had four receptions for 54 yards and the Lions' only score in a loss to the Redskins. 1990 An eighth-round draft choice of the Lions (194th overall), Green spent the season on injured reserve with a shoulder injury but practiced as part of the developmental squad for the second half of the season.

COLLEGE Green ranks second all-time at Mississippi in receptions (127) and touchdown receptions (22) and set an Ole Miss record with at least one reception in 36 consecutive games. A four-time letterwinner, Green was named second team All-SEC by the Associated Press and earned All-America honorable mention by The Sporting News his senior year (1989) on the strength of 41 catches for 826 yards and three touchdowns. His junior season (1988) Green led the team in receiving with 38 catches for 648 yards and four touchdowns. Starting six games as a sophomore (1987) he posted a team-high 588 yards. As a freshman (1986) he was selected to the Football News Freshman All-America team with 13 receptions for 122 yards and two touchdowns.

PERSONAL Willie lettered twice in football and baseball at Clarke Central High School in Athens, Ga., before transferring to Tennessee Military Academy his senior year to post school records with 92 receptions for 1,875 yards and 17 touchdowns. Broncos linebackers coach Frank Bush also attended Clarke Central. While at Mississippi, Willie helped found a chapter of the Big Brothers/Big Sisters program. A frequent contributor to the community, Willie developed and sponsored an essay contest for 4-8th graders through the Charlotte-Mecklenburg (N.C.) Recreation Department, giving student winners tickets to home games. Willie Aaron Green was born April 2, 1966 in Athens, Ga. He is single and resides in Shelby, N.C.

Among the most significant offseason acquisitions made by Broncos' head coach Mike Shanahan in 1997 was that of fullback Howard Griffith, who lived up to his reputation as being the best blocking fullback in pro football. Griffith paved the way for a Broncos running attack that finished third in the AFC and fourth in the NFL, and produced the most prolific single-season rushing totals by a player in franchise history (Terrell Davis: 1,750 yards and 15 touchdowns). Griffith also proved to be a reliable receiver out of the backfield and showed his true grit a season missing only one game, though he battled knee, finger and shoulder injuries all season. Griffith has now played in 77 NFL games (44 starts) and rushed for 268 yards on 95 carries with two touchdowns. His receiving statistics include 65 catches for 460 yards and three scores. Griffith has also participated in six postseason games (all starts) with 11 rushing yards and 82 receiving yards (two TDs). A testament to his incredible blocking skills is the fact that Griffith has paved the way for 1,000-yard rushing seasons by three different backs in his career (Jerome Bettis in '94, Anthony Johnson in '96 and Davis in '97). Originally drafted by Indianapolis in 1991 (237th overall), Griffith was waived after training camp and spent the '91 season on Buffalo practice squad, followed by a stint on San Diego's practice squad in '92. He then played for the L.A. Rams (1993-94) and Carolina (1995-96) before signing with Denver as an unrestricted free agent Feb. 18, 1997.

1997 Griffith played in 15 of the 16 games and made 13 starts at fullback in his first year in Denver, opening holes for Terrell Davis while also shouldering his share of the offensive load. For the year he rushed nine times for 34 yards (3.8) with a long of 9 yards (vs. K.C., 8/31), and caught 11 passes for 55 yards (5.0) with a long of 20 (at Oakland, 10/19). He had a season-high four receptions at Pittsburgh (12/7) for 18 yards. Griffith did not start vs. Oakland (11/24) and at Kansas City (11/16) because the Broncos opened both games in a two-tight end set (Dwayne Carswell), and he was inactive for the Buffalo game (10/26) because of soreness in his right knee resulting from a medial collateral injury originally suffered at Atlanta (9/28), which kept him out for most of that game. Griffith's injury was initially thought to be a second-degree tear that might keep him out for 3-5 weeks, but an MRI proved negative and he was back in the starting lineup a week later vs. New England (10/6). He re-injured the knee in the third quarter at Oakland (10/19) and missed the remainder of that game, as well. His best rushing performance of the season came against St. Louis (four carries) in Week Three and Kansas City (two carries) in Week One, gaining 13 yards on the ground in each game. He paved the way for a franchise record 10 100-yard rushing games by backfield mate Terrell Davis, including two 200-yard efforts (vs. Cinc., 9/21 and at Buff., 10/26). Postseason Griffith started all four postseason games at fullback and rushed five times for 11 yards (2.2) with a long of 4 yards, and caught five passes for 58 yards (11.6) with a long of 23 and one touchdown. He also earned recognition for the lead-blocking he provided for Super Bowl MVP Terrell Davis, who rushed for more than 100 yards in all four postseason games. In the AFC Wild Card Playoff win vs. Jacksonville (12/27) Griffith put forth a stellar effort, helping power Denver's running game to 310 yards on the day, courtesy of two 100-yard rushers, Terrell Davis (184) and Derek Loville (103). Griffith did not run the ball himself, but provided powerful lead-blocking, and caught two passes for 9 yards with a long of 8. In Denver's 14-10 AFC Divisional Playoff victory at Kansas City (1/4/98) he rushed four times for nine yards (2.3), while providing exceptional lead-blocking for Terrell Davis, who finished the day with 101 yards. Griffith's touchdown reception in the AFC Championship Game at Pittsburgh (1/11/98) put Denver ahead to stay at 17-14, and helped propel the Broncos to the Super Bowl. His other reception for 11 yards came earlier on the same drive. In Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay (1/25) Griffith rushed once for 2 yards and caught one pass for 23 yards, while paving the way for Super Bowl MVP Terrell Davis' 157-yard rushing effort. His 23-yard reception on the Broncos' game-winning drive in the Super Bowl gave Denver a first down at the Green Bay 8-yard line in the closing minutes. The play was identical to the one on which he scored his only touchdown of the season two weeks prior in Pittsburgh.

1996 Griffith started 14 of 16 games for Carolina, with his only two non-starts coming in games where the Panthers opened in a three-receiver formation (12/1 at San Francisco and 11/17 at St. Louis). For the season he rushed 12 times for seven yards (0.6) with one touchdown and set career highs for both receptions (27) and receiving yards (223) and scored one receiving touchdown. Perhaps his greatest contribution, however, was the devastating blocking he provided for tailback Anthony Johnson, who logged 1,120 yards on the year. Griffith had 36 yards receiving on four catches vs. the NY Giants (11/10), including a touchdown reception, and added a touchdown run three weeks later vs. Tampa Bay (12/1) for his two scores on the year. He also had 24 receiving yards on five catches in the 1996 postseason, including Carolina's only touchdown of the NFC Championship Game at Green Bay (1/12/97) on a three-yard reception. On the day he had four catches for 23 yards against the Packers. The previous week against Dallas in an NFC Divisional Playoff Game he had one reception for one yard. 1995 Griffith set career highs in rushing yards and attempts with 197 yards on 65 carries while highlighting his ability as a blocker and serving as an important part of the Panthers offense. After serving as a reserve for the first five games of the year, Howard took over full-time starting duties vs. the Jets (10/15), gaining five yards on three carries and hauling in two catches for 14 yards. Versus New Orleans (10/22) Griffith became the first Panther to score two touchdowns in a game, scoring on a two-yard run and a one-yard reception from Kerry Collins. At New England (10/29) Griffith aided in Derrick Moore's 119-yard rushing day with key blocks while adding three carries for 11 yards and a reception for 15 yards. At the Rams (11/12) he led the team with 13 carries for 46 yards and two catches for five yards. Versus Arizona (11/19) in a start at RB, he had the best rushing performance of his career with a team-leading 88 yards on 25 carries and was part of a running game that amassed a team-high 180 yards rushing. At New Orleans (11/26), he started at running back before spraining his right ankle in the first quarter. After a week inactive vs. Indianapolis (12/3), he saw brief time vs. San Francisco (12/10) but did not record a carry. Griffith was the 16th player selected in the expansion draft from the Los Angeles Rams, February 15, 1995 (8th round). 1994 Griffith started 10 games at fullback for the Los Angeles Rams where he helped clear the way for All-Pro Jerome Bettis who rushed for more than 1,300 yards for the second consecutive season. A capable receiver Howard caught 16 passes, including his first career touchdown in a game vs. the Denver Broncos (11/6), a three-yard pass from Chris Chandler that gave the Rams a 27-21 victory. His nine rushes for 30 yards were the first of his career. 1993 Griffith signed as a free agent with the Rams, for whom he contributed on special teams, returning eight kickoffs for 169 yards (21.1), second-best on the squad. 1992 Griffith signed on the Chargers practice squad October 23 where he remained for the rest of the season. 1991 Drafted by the Indianapolis Colts in the ninth round (237th overall), Griffith was waived in training camp and was signed to the Bills practice squad where he was a part of Buffalo's 1991 AFC Championship.

COLLEGE Howard finished his career at Illinois with school records for career touchdowns (33), touchdowns in a season (15) and single-game rushing yards (263), among others. During his senior season (1990) Howard set an NCAA record with eight touchdowns vs. Southern Illinois. As a junior (1989) he ranked second on the team with 39 catches for 287 yards and earned Sporting News All-America honorable mention.

PERSONAL An all-conference running back at Percy Julian High School in Chicago, Ill., Griffith also lettered three years in baseball. He is an avid Sega video game player, particularly in Madden Football. Howard Thomas Griffith was born Nov. 17, 1967 in Chicago. He and his wife Kim, have a son, Howard II (9/21/96) and the family makes its home in Chicago.

Courtney Hall returns to the NFL in 1998 as a member of the AFC West. In his time with the Broncos, as he looks to rekindle what has been an extremely productive career thus far, Hall spent eight seasons with San Diego (1989-96), starting all 118 games in which he played, including every game from 1989-93, and in '95. He also started both postseason games in 1992, all three in 1994 (including Super Bowl XXIX vs. San Francisco), and the Chargers lone postseason contest in 1995. Hall holds the distinction of being the youngest player chosen (20) in the 1989 NFL Draft. In Denver he is reunited with former offensive line coach Alex Gibbs, who coached Hall from 1990-91 in San Diego. Hall has been voted as an alternate on the AFC Pro Bowl squad in 1991, 1992, 1994 and 1995. He entered the NFL in 1989 as San Diego's second-round selection (37th overall) out of Rice.

1997 Hall was out of football

1996 Hall started seven games before shoulder and knee injuries forced him to miss the remainder of season. He was placed on injured reserve Nov. 20. 1995 Hall started all 16 regular season games and the Chargers' lone postseason contest against Indianapolis (12/31). It marked the sixth time in seven years that he had started every game. 1994 Hall started 15 games, missing his first career start at the Raiders (9/25) one week after tearing his left biceps muscle at Seattle. He returned to the starting lineup Oct. 9 vs. Kansas City. Hall also started all three of San Diego's postseason games, as the Chargers went on to make their first-ever Super Bowl appearance. 1993 Hall started all 16 games for the fifth consecutive season, becoming the only Chargers' lineman to start every game from 1991-93, and was voted the Chargers' Lineman of the Year. 1992 Hall started all 16 games for the fourth consecutive season, as well as both playoff contests, as the Chargers won their first divisional crown since 1981. 1991 Hall started all 16 games for the third consecutive season and shared the Chargers' Lineman of the Year Award with current Broncos teammate Harry Swayne. 1990 Hall started all 16 games for the second consecutive season, but this time at left guard. The offensive line, coached by Alex Gibbs, allowed only 16 sacks all season (one per game). 1989 Hall started every game as a rookie (one of only two Chargers to do so that year) - the only NFL rookie offensive lineman to do so - replacing 14-year veteran Don Masek in the starting lineup. He was the first of two players selected by the Chargers in the second round of the 1989 NFL Draft (No. 37 overall), and was the youngest draft eligible player that year at age 20.

COLLEGE Hall, who has started every game he has played in both his NFL and collegiate career, started all 44 games at Rice. He was a consensus first team All-Southwest Conference selection as a senior in 1988 and was the first lineman to be named the team's Most Valuable Player in 20 years. He set the standards at the 1989 NFL combine with 36 reps in the bench press. At 16, he was the nation's youngest college player and played all across the line throughout his college career. Hall was the 1989 recipient of the American Sport Award presented by American Airlines and the Southwest Conference Radio Network, in recognition of outstanding leadership character and athletic ability. He was a USA Today academic All-American, as well as a National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame scholar-athlete. Hall earned degrees in economics and business at Rice.

PERSONAL Hall is a native Los Angeles where he played his high school ball for Banning High School, earning two letters and All-South Bay honors. He helped lead his school to the Class 4A city championship his senior season. Hall was identified as a gifted child by the state of California after attending nursery school by the age of two, kindergarten at four, high school at 12 and college at 16. He was also a National Merit Scholarship semifinalist. Courtney has a son, Terence Caesar (11/2/95) and resides in Denver, Colo. Courtney Caesar Hall was born Aug. 26, 1968 in Los Angeles.

Harald Hasselbach proved once again to be a valuable component of the Broncos' defensive line in 1997 and continues to provide quality depth to one of the league's most talented defenses. In his four years with the Broncos he has played in 64 games (23 starts) and recorded 137 tackles (95 solo), including 9.5 sacks (66.5), with six passes defensed, three forced fumbles and four fumble recoveries. Hasselbach began his professional career in 1990 with the Calgary Stampeders of the Canadian Football League, for whom he played four seasons before signing with the Broncos in 1994.

1997 Hasselbach played in all 16 games and made strong contributions on the defensive line in a reserve role, recording 23 tackles (19 solo), including a 1.5 sack (14.5) and one pass breakup. He made three starts at left defensive end, replacing an injured Neil Smith (Inceps) vs. Seattle (11/2), Carolina (11/9) and Oakland (11/24). In his first start, Hasselbach responded with his first solo sack of the season for a 10-yard loss, and then posted a season-high five solo tackles vs. Oakland. He also had three stops against Carolina (11/9) and two each against St. Louis (also half a sack, 9/14) and at Buffalo (10/26). Postseason Hasselbach played in all four postseason games as a reserve on the defensive line and recorded seven tackles (4 solo), including an assist in the Wild Card Game (12/27), two solos in the Divisional Playoff Game (1/4/98), three tackles (two solo) in the Championship Game, and one solo in Super Bowl XXXII.

1996 Hasselbach played in all 16 regular season games and started one at left defensive end at Green Bay (12/8). For the season he recorded 17 tackles (14 solo), including two sacks (20), as well as two passes defensed and two forced fumbles as a key contributor on Denver's defensive line rotation. On opening day vs. the Jets (9/1), Hasselbach had two solo tackles and one sack in Denver's 31-6 victory. He added another sack the following week in Denver's 30-20 win at Seattle (9/8). He had a season-high four tackles (two solo) in Denver's 34-7 victory vs. Kansas City (10/27), and added two tackles (one solo) at Green Bay (12/8) in his only start of the season in Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97). Hasselbach saw action on the defensive line and made one solo tackle. 1995 Hasselbach saw action in all 16 games and made 10 starts in place of the injured Dan Williams (knee). Finishing the season with 31 tackles (22 solo), four sacks, two passes defensed and four fumble recoveries. He took over the starting left defensive end position at Seattle (10/1) and continued to start at New England (10/8), vs. Oakland (10/16) and vs. Kansas City (10/22). After returning to his backup role for two games, Hasselbach returned to the starting lineup against San Diego (11/19) when Williams suffered another knee injury. His four sacks on the season came at Seattle (10/1) vs. Kansas City (11/22), vs. San Diego (11/19) and at Oakland (12/24), a game in which he posted his highest tackle total of the year (6, 4 solo). 1994 Hasselbach turned some heads after spending the previous four seasons with the Calgary Stampeders of the Canadian Football League. He played in all 16 games for the Broncos, including the final nine in a starting role at defensive right tackle. For the season Hasselbach accounted for 66 total tackles (40 solo) — including two sacks (-13) — one pass defended and one forced fumble. He was given his first start against Cleveland (10/30) and responded with five total tackles (2 solo), then posted his best numbers of the season the following week with 10 tackles (3 solo) against the Rams (11/6). Hasselbach went on to start the final nine games of the season and recorded his first NFL sack against Cincinnati (11/27). His impressive play allowed the team to rest previous starter Dan Williams who was slowed by injury. Hasselbach was an instant hit in training camp, then progressed slowly during the regular season before jumping into the starting lineup. 1990-93 Hasselbach spent four seasons with the Calgary Stampeders of the CFL, emerging as one of the league's top defensive stars. He posted four-year career totals of 72 tackles and 14 sacks, seven of which came in his final season, 1993.

COLLEGE Hasselbach lettered one season (1988) at the University of Washington as a reserve defensive lineman for a Husky team that defeated Florida 34-7 in the 1989 Freedom Bowl. He made four solo tackles during his senior season (1989), his second consecutive as a backup to All-American and former San Francisco 49ers defensive end Dennis Brown. Hasselbach red-shirted in 1985 and spent the next three seasons as a non-letterman squad member with great physical attributes and potential.

PERSONAL A native of Amsterdam, Holland, Hasselbach has also lived in Suriname, Indonesia, Kenya and Canada. He is fluent in Dutch and has also spoken French, German, Japanese, Swahili and Indonesian. His father is a retired agronomist whose job took the family all around the world before settling in British Columbia. Hasselbach grew up playing soccer, cricket, rugby and field hockey as well as swimming, and did not begin to play football until his final two years at South Delta High School in Tsawassen, B.C., where he was a two-year letterman offensive and defensive tackle. He was named to the Fraser Valley All-Star team and was an All-British Columbia choice. Harold, his wife Aundrea and their son, Terran, make their home in Aurora, Colo.

Since he joined the Broncos just prior to the start of the 1996 regular season, Vaughn Hebronn has solidified the team's kick return game and provided a much needed break on occasion for Pro Bowl cornerback Terrell Davis as his top backup. Hebronn has shown flashes of his extraordinary talent when given an opportunity to shine, and has proven himself as the steadiest kickoff returner the franchise has seen since Rick Upchurch. Hebronn has now played in 64 career games (seven starts) with 1,106 rushing yards on 264 carries (4.2 avg.) with six touchdowns and a long of 47. He also has 298 receiving yards on 39 catches (7.6 avg.) with a long of 29. Hebronn has totaled 2,566 kick return yards in his career, of which

2,108 have come as a Bronco, already ranking fifth all-time in team annals. Hebronn has also played in five postseason games, all with Denver. He was originally signed by the Eagles as a rookie free agent out of Virginia Tech in 1993 and opened some eyes in his first two seasons with his elusive running style and sure hands as a receiver. He then missed the entire '95 season with a knee injury and was attempting a comeback with Philadelphia in '96 before being cut at the end of training camp, clearing the way for his acquisition by the Broncos.

1997 Hebronn proved to be an outstanding backup halfback and formidable special teams performer much as he did in his first season as a Bronco in 1996. He tied for fifth in the AFC (12th NFL) in kickoff return average at 23.5 on 43 returns (1,009 yds.) with a long of 46. Hebronn was the team's second-leading rusher with 49 carries for 222 yards (4.5) with a long of 46 and one touchdown, and caught three passes for 36 yards (12.0) with a long of 21. His 1,009 kick-return yards are the fifth-most in a single season in franchise history, two spots behind his No. 3-ranked showing of 1,099 yards in 1996. Hebronn had eight kick returns during the regular season of 30 yards or more, including two of 40 yards or more (both 46). The others went for 39 yards (vs. K.C. 8/31), 37 and 38 yards (at K.C., 11/16), 35 yards (at Oak., 10/19), 33 yards (vs. Oak., 11/24), 31 yards (vs. Sea., 11/2) and 30 yards (vs. N.E., 10/6). Hebronn made one start at running back, cracking the lineup for the season finale vs. San Diego (12/21) in place of the injured Davis (shoulder) and responded with 47 yards on 12 carries (3.9) and 21 more on two receptions. His high rushing game came a week earlier at San Francisco (12/15) when he replaced Davis in the second quarter of a Monday Night contest, after Davis injured his right shoulder. Hebronn filled in capably rushing 12 times for 64 yards, including a season-best long of 46 yards early in the second half and his only touchdown of the year, which put Denver up 17-14 at that point in the game. His previous high game came vs. Carolina when he rushed nine times for 42 yards (4.7), and his high for return average came in the opener vs. Kansas City (8/31) when he returned two kicks for 85 yards (42.5) with a long of 46. He matched that long return a week later at Seattle (9/7) to solidify his season-best. Hebronn also made one fumble recovery on the season, scooping up a Byron Chamberlain fumble at Kansas City (11/16) on special teams. Postseason Hebronn played in all four postseason games as the backup to Super Bowl MVP Terrell Davis and rushed 11 times for 28 yards (2.5) with a long of 9 yards (TD) and one touchdown while also catching two passes for 13 yards (2.3) with a long of 4. He averaged 22 yards on 13 kickoff returns (286 yds.) with a long return of 51 yards (vs. Jax., 12/27/97) that ranks as the second-longest kickoff return by a Bronco in franchise postseason history behind Rick Upchurch's 67 yarder vs. Dallas in Super Bowl XLI. In Denver's AFC Wild Card Playoff win vs. Jacksonville (12/27) Hebronn averaged 29 yards on three kick returns, including the aforementioned long of 51 yards, and rushed six times for 23 yards (3.8), with a touchdown run of six yards in the fourth quarter to seal the 42-17 win. He was slowed during the week by a hamstring strain suffered in practice the Tuesday before the game, but he played through it in Denver's 14-10 AFC Divisional Playoff win at Kansas City (1/4/98), he averaged 25.5 yards on two kickoff returns with a long of 28, and also saw action as a reserve running back. In the AFC Championship Game at Pittsburgh (1/11) Hebronn averaged 17.3 yards on two kickoff returns with a long of 28 yards, carried the ball twice for 2 yards (1.0), and caught one pass for one yard in Denver's 24-21 victory in Super Bowl XXXI vs. Green Bay (1/25). He carried the ball three times for three yards with a long of 2 yards and caught one pass for five yards as the backup to Davis in Denver's 41-21 victory. He also returned four kickoffs for 79 yards (19.8) with a long of 32 yards. He saw considerable time in the backfield in the second quarter when Davis was forced out of the game for one quarter with a migraine headache.

1996 Hebronn played in all 16 games, primarily on special teams as the No. 1 kick returner for the Broncos after being signed as a free agent Aug. 28. He returned 45 kickoffs for 1,099 yards (24.4) with a long of 59 and rushed 49 times for 262 yards (5.3) with a career best long of 47 vs. Kansas City (11/27). He also caught seven passes for 43 yards (6.1) with a long of 11. Hebronn's 59 yard kickoff return vs. Seattle (12/1) was the longest of his career, and his 24.4 yard kickoff return average ranked third in the AFC (7th NFL) while his 1,099 return yards represent the third-highest single season total in franchise history. Hebronn had the best rushing day of his career vs. Kansas City (11/2) carrying 73 yards in seven carries, including a career-best 47 yarder in the fourth-quarter of the Broncos' 34-7 domination of the Chiefs. He also had two special teams tackles in the year, according to officiating press box statistics, in the season opener vs. the N.Y. Jets (9/1). Hebronn rushed seven times for 39 yards (5.6) in his first game as a Bronco, highlighted by a 22 yard fourth-quarter punt. He also contributed on special teams, returning a kickoff 12 yards in week two at Seattle (9/8), he returned four kickoffs for 84 yards (21.0) including a long return of 40 yards, the longest of his career. On Sept. 17 vs. Tampa Bay, Hebronn carried the ball twice for one yard, returned two kickoffs for 58 yards with a long of 35 and caught two passes for 14 yards. He handled the No. 1 tailback duties for all of the second quarter while Terrell Davis was out of the game with migraine headache symptoms. In Denver's 34-7 division-clinching win vs. Seattle (12/1), Hebron had a fine all-around day, totaling 100 yards on just two kickoff returns — including a career-best 59-yarder on the opening kickoff — and rushed eight times for 60 yards with a long of 27. In the season-finale at San Diego (12/22) Hebron averaged 26.3 yards on four kickoff returns (105 total) with a long of 44. He also rushed six times for nine yards and caught three passes for 13 yards. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97) Hebron rushed twice for five yards with a long of four and one touchdown, and returned three kickoffs for 85 yards with a long of 38. He replaced Terrell Davis for several plays in the first quarter after Davis sprained his medial collateral ligament, and scored on a one-yard run to put Denver ahead 6-0. 1995 Hebron missed the entire season for the Eagles after suffering a torn anterior cruciate ligament in training camp. He was placed on injured reserve Aug. 22, and underwent surgery Sept. 11. 1994 Hebron played in all 16 games and made two starts in his second season with Philadelphia. He was the Eagles' third-leading rusher with 325 yards and two touchdowns on 82 carries (4.0), and added 18 receptions for 137 more yards (7.6) with a long of 29. Hebron made his first start of the season vs. Cleveland (11/13) and responded with career highs of six catches and 93 yards of total offense, including a 15-yard touchdown run. He then started the season finale at Cincinnati (12/24) and led the team with 58 rushing yards. Hebron did not see backfield action in games 11-14 due to a sprained ankle. 1993 Hebron finished his first preseason as the club's leading rusher with 234 yards and one touchdown on 34 carries (7.0), and in the regular season went on to lead the team in rushing touchdowns (3) and rank third in rushing yards (297). He had a game-high 66 yards rushing, including a five-yard TD after a 33-yard jaunt earlier on the drive, in his first NFL game vs. Arizona. Hebron earned his first starting assignments in games 11-13, and in that span had two key runs against Washington. The first was a one-yard TD jaunt, and the other a 16-yard tackle-breaking jaunt to the Washington 3-yard line on the game-winning fourth-quarter drive. He was acquired by the Eagles as a rookie free agent.

COLLEGE Hebron finished sixth on Virginia Tech's all-time rushing charts with 2,327 yards and 15th on the school's all-time receptions list with 60 (first among running backs). As a senior injuries forced him to miss four games but he still led the Hokies in rushing with 579 yards, and saw action as a kickoff returner, posting a 19.2-yard average on six returns. Hebron majored in housing, interior design and resource management.

PERSONAL: A native of Baltimore, Hebron earned All-America honors at Cardinal Gibbons High School where, in addition to school marks for career rushing yards (3,003) and touchdowns (62), he also holds track records in the 100 & 200 meters and long jump. Vaughn Harlen Hebron was born Oct. 7, 1970 in Baltimore.

A late signee during the 1997 season, Jon Hesse looks toward a season of opportunity in 1998 and a chance to demonstrate the skills that persuaded the Broncos to sign him to the active roster from Green Bay's practice squad for the playoffs last season. The former Nebraska Cornhusker has good size to go along with a solid work ethic, which should give him ample opportunity as he enters his first training camp as a Bronco. Hesse was originally drafted by Jacksonville in 1997 (7th round/No. 221 overall), but was waived Aug. 19 and signed shortly thereafter to Green Bay's practice squad. He was signed to Denver's active roster Dec. 19.

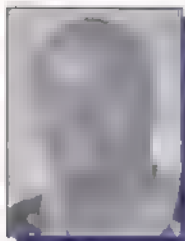

1997 Hesse was signed by the Broncos Dec. 19 to provide help on special teams and depth at the linebacker position. He was declared inactive for his only regular season game on the roster (vs. S.D., 12/21). Hesse came to the club from Green Bay where he had spent the majority of the regular season on the practice squad after being waived by his original team Aug. 19. He was drafted by the Jaguars (7th round/No. 221 overall) and went through most of training camp with the club before being waived. Postseason Hesse was declared inactive for all four postseason games.

COLLEGE Hesse was a standout at inside linebacker and on special teams during his career at Nebraska, where he was a part of two national championship teams. He played in 38 games and started 12 — all during his senior season ('96) — and registered 130 tackles (56 solo), including three sacks, one fumble recovery, two forced fumbles, 19 tackles-for-loss and two passes defensed for his career. He was named first-team All-Big 12 by the Associated Press and Academic All-America as a senior, when he finished second on the team in tackles (85). Hesse was a finalist for the NACDA postgraduate scholarship and deposited $10,000 to the UNL General Scholarship Fund when he was named a Burger King Scholar-Athlete. Hesse redshirted in 1992. He holds a bachelor's degree in psychology from Nebraska.

PERSONAL: Hesse was regarded as the top high school prospect in Nebraska in 1991 as a senior at Lincoln Southeast High School, where he played five positions. He was named Nebraska Player of the Year as a senior, when he helped lead his team to the state Class A (largest) title, and was twice named all-state, playing both running back positions, wide receiver and wingback, while also returning punts and handling placekicking and punting duties. Hesse, also a standout on the basketball team, was an Academic All-State pick. Jonathan Andrew Hesse was born June 6, 1973 in Lincoln. He is single and makes his home in Lincoln, Neb.

Randy Hilliard is in his ninth NFL season and fifth with the Broncos, providing veteran experience in the secondary and outstanding special teams play. Hilliard, who has filled in very effectively on numerous occasions as a starter, continues to show improvement in his game with each passing season. For his career he has tallied 235 tackles (176 solo), including three sacks (-22), as well as four interceptions (81 yds. in returns), 51 passes defended, five forced fumbles and two fumble recoveries. He entered the NFL in 1990 as Cleveland's sixth-round draft choice (No. 157 overall), and spent four seasons with the club before signing with Denver as an unrestricted free agent in 1994.

1997 Hilliard played in 14 of the 16 games for Denver, contributing in a reserve role in the secondary, as well as on special teams. For the year he made five tackles (2 solo) and recorded two passes defended, while also leading the team with 23 tackles on special teams. He was inactive vs. Oakland (11/24) and at San Diego (11/30) because of a fractured right orbital bone suffered at Kansas City (11/18). Hilliard's first two solo tackles came in Week Three vs. St. Louis (9/21), and his high game for special teams tackles came vs. Seattle (11/2) with four. He closed the regular season on a high note vs. San Diego (12/21), making one assisted tackle and knocking down two passes on defense, and providing three tackles on special teams. Postseason Hilliard contributed in the defensive secondary and on special teams in all four postseason contests, recording two tackles (1 solo) on defense and three more on special teams. Both defensive stops came in the AFC Championship Game at Pittsburgh (1/11/98), while his three special teams stops came in the Wild Card win over Jacksonville (2; 12/27/98) and the Divisional Playoff clash at Kansas City (1; 1/4/98).

1996 Hilliard played in 13 of the 16 regular season games on defense and special teams and made three starts (at Oakland, 11/4, vs. Chicago, 11/10 and at San Diego, 12/22). The first two starts came at right cornerback in place of Lionel Washington (knee) and the third was at left corner in place of Ray Crockett (knee). He was inactive for the New England (1; 10/7) and Minnesota (11/24) and Green Bay (12/6) games because of a fractured rib and a cracked rib suffered at Chicago (11/10). For the season he made 30 tackles (25 solo) and knocked down five passes, while adding seven more tackles on special teams according to national press box statistics. Hilliard was the nickel back for the first seven games. On opening day against the Atlanta Falcons he had five tackles (four solo) and two passes defended in the Broncos' 31-7 victory. The following week at Seattle, Hilliard had four stops (all solo) and two special teams tackles. He made his first start of the year at Oakland (11/4) in a Monday Night contest and made three tackles (two solo). The following week vs. Chicago (11/10), Hilliard had his best game of the season, registering five solo tackles and his only interception of the year, which he returned 27 yards. He also had one pass break up against the Bears in Denver's gut-wrenching 17-12 victory. During the game he fractured a rib and cracked another rib, forcing him to miss the next two games. In the regular season finale at San Diego (12/22), he started in place of Ray Crockett and had one solo stop and one pass defended in Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (14-9). Hilliard handled the nickel back duties, making one solo tackle, and contributed two tackles on special teams.

1995 Hilliard played in 12 of 16 games as a nickel back and special teams player. For the season he recorded 20 tackles (15 solo), with four passes defended and a forced fumble on defense, and contributed 10 more tackles on special teams. He missed the Arizona game (11/5) with a groin injury and the San Diego (11/19), Houston (11/26) and Jacksonville (12/3) games with cartilage damage in his right knee, suffered at Philadelphia (11/12). Hilliard returned from the knee injury against Seattle (12/10). He enjoyed one of his finest games on Monday Night Football against Oakland (10/16) finishing with three solo tackles, one pass defended, one forced fumble and one special teams tackle. His highest tackle total came at New England (10/8) when he posted four solos on defense and two more on special teams. 1994 Hilliard joined the Broncos as an unrestricted free agent in the offseason after four years with the Cleveland Browns. He used the momentum of an outstanding preseason to move up the depth chart and play in 15 games, making four starts. He finished the season with 51 tackles (46 solo), tied for the team lead in interceptions with two (for eight yards in returns), had 14 passes defended and forced two fumbles. Hilliard made his first start at Seattle (10/9) in place of injured right cornerback Ray Crockett and responded with five tackles (4 solo), two passes defended and his first interception of the year, which he returned for eight yards. He posted his best tackle numbers of the season in a start the following week against Kansas City (10/17) in a Monday Night game, recording 14 total (11 solo). Hilliard missed the Cleveland contest (10/30) with an injured hamstring but returned to start the next two games on the left side in place of Ben Smith, at the L.A. Rams (11/8) and against Seattle (11/13). He recorded his second interception of the season and had three passes defended in the Rams game, and followed that with a 10-solo tackle performance against Seattle. 1993 Hilliard played in 12 games for the Browns and started five, recording 41 total tackles, including 26 solo and 15 assists. Hilliard knocked down 10 passes, fourth-best among Cleveland defenders, and had one interception that he returned 54 yards. He was a valuable special teams performer in addition to his defensive backfield duties. 1992 Hilliard had 27 tackles, seven passes defended, forced one fumble and recovered another for the Browns, as he played in every game and started four. He started in the six-DB alignment vs. Houston (12/20) and recorded six stops, including an 11-yard quarterback sack, forced a fumble which he also recovered. 1991 Hilliard started 10 of 14 games and recorded 59 tackles, with two sacks, nine passes defended, one interception and a fumble recovery. He started at right cornerback for the final six games. He posted his first career interception to thwart a Patriots' drive in a Cleveland win over New England. 1990 Hilliard's rookie season was spent mostly on special teams, making five tackles on kick coverage and two more in the Cleveland secondary. Hilliard was the Browns' sixth round selection in the 1990 draft.

COLLEGE Hilliard returned three of his 10 career interceptions for touchdowns, earning first-team All-Southland Conference and second-team All-American honors as a senior at Northwestern Louisiana. He was honorable mention All-Conference as a junior and second-team All-Southland as a sophomore. His longest touchdown run was on a 73-yard interception return as a freshman.

PERSONAL: Randy was a three-time all-district choice at East Jefferson High School in Metairie, La., where he won MVP honors as a senior. Randy also lettered in track as a prep athlete. A journalism major at Northwestern Louisiana, Randy hopes to get into broadcasting after his playing career. He makes his home in New Orleans, La.

WHERE DID THE NAME DENVER BRONCOS COME FROM?

The name "Denver Broncos" was chosen from 500 entries in a name-the-team contest in January, 1960. The name was suggested by Ward M. Vining of Lakewood. But the football team isn't the first Denver Broncos. Denver's 1921 entry in the Midwest Baseball League was also called the Broncos.

The 1997 season was supposed to be a coming-out party for Broncos cornerback Tory James, but a severe knee injury suffered in Denver's first preseason game (vs. Buffalo, 7/26/97) abruptly cut his season short. James, however, has bounced back nicely through a vigorous rehabilitation program and appears ready in 1998 to accomplish the goals he was unable to attain in 1997. He seeks to build upon his 1996 rookie campaign in which he showed that the Broncos chose the right man for their future with the 44th pick of the 1996 NFL Draft, as the Louisiana State product showed signs of becoming a dominating force at the cornerback position for years to come. In 1998, he will battle Darrien Gordon for the starter's role at right cornerback, opposite Ray Crockett, a role he likely would have filled for the entire 1997 season were it not for his injury.

1997: James was placed on injured reserve Aug. 18 following surgery to repair a torn patellar tendon in his right knee. The injury occurred in the first quarter of the Broncos' initial preseason game of the year, July 28, vs. Buffalo at Mile High Stadium.

1996: James saw action in the secondary and on special teams in all 16 regular season games and made two starts (at New England, 11/17, at Minnesota, 11/24) at right cornerback in place of the injured Lionel Washington (knee) and Randy Hilliard (ribs). He had already taken over the nickel back duties vs. Kansas City (10/27), and when Washington was hurt in that game James continued as the nickel back while Hilliard started at Oakland (11/4) and vs. Chicago (11/10). Hilliard was then hurt in the Chicago game, opening the door for James to start at New England and Minnesota while Washington eased back into play. For the season James posted 22 tackles (17 solo) and seven passes defended, and proved to be a big-play guy, snagging two interceptions, forcing a fumble and recovering a fumble. The forced fumble, the recovery and the first of his two interceptions all came vs. Seattle (12/1) in the contest in which Denver clinched its first AFC West title since 1991. James also made nine special teams stops, according to unofficial press box statistics. Versus Kansas City (10/27) James saw action as the nickel back for the first time, making two solo tackles, and also contributed on special teams in Denver's 34-7 win. In Game 11 at New England (11/17) James made his first career start, taking over the right cornerback spot with Lionel Washington just coming back from a knee injury and Randy Hilliard out with injured ribs. He responded with two tackles (1 solo) and two pass breakups, and added another tackle on special teams. The following week at Minnesota (11/24) James started for the second straight week and made five solo tackles in Denver's 21-17 victory. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97) James saw action in a reserve role in the secondary, making two solo tackles, and also contributed on special teams. James was the Broncos' second overall selection in the 1996 draft from LSU, chosen in the second round (44th overall).

COLLEGE: In his four years at Louisiana State, James played in 39 games (started 29) and made 117 tackles (81 solo), recovered three fumbles, caused one fumble, intercepted 11 passes, broke up 20 more, made two sacks (-9) and added five other tackles-for-loss (14). He returned one interception for a touchdown, and also played wide receiver as a freshman in 1992, catching six passes for 78 yards (13.0) with a long of 35 yards and one touchdown. He earned first-team All-Southeastern Conference honors as a junior in '94, and closed his career by being named to the All-America Dream Team by the Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft.

PERSONAL: James was All-District 10-5A as a defensive back and kick returner in his senior year at Archbishop Shaw High School in Marrero, La. He also starred in track and basketball during his prep career. James was criminal justice major at LSU. Tory Steven James was born May 18, 1973 in New Orleans, La. James is single and makes his home in Englewood, Colo.

Patrick Jeffers continues to show signs of becoming a reliable, sure-handed receiver for the Broncos as he contributed in an even greater fashion as the 1997 season progressed. He has now played in 14 career regular season games and five more in the postseason. All three receptions of his career came during the '97 season when he saw considerable time as the fourth receiver on the team. Jeffers was a fifth-round pick of the Broncos' (No. 159 overall) out of Virginia in the 1996 NFL Draft.

1997: Jeffers played in 10 games and was inactive for the other six in his second pro season. He was inactive for the first three games, then played in three, before being inactive again at Oakland (10/19) because of a hamstring injury suffered in practice (10/16). For the year he made three catches for 24 yards (8.0), including a career-best two for 19 yards at Pittsburgh (12/7), after making his first career reception at Atlanta (9/28). His career long is a 10-yarder recorded in the Pittsburgh game. Jeffers also made two tackles on special teams. Postseason: Jeffers played in all four postseason games, primarily on special teams.

1996: Jeffers saw action in the first three games of the season, but was then inactive for the next 12 before playing in the season-finale at San Diego (12/22). His playing time came primarily on special teams, but he also saw action on offense. Jeffers strained ligaments in his left thumb in practice Nov. 2, and did not return to practice until the week of the New England game (11/17). He saw action on special teams and registered his first career kickoff return for an 18-yard gain as Denver defeated Tampa Bay 27-23 in Week Three (9/15). In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97) Jeffers saw action on special teams and returned one kickoff for nine yards.

COLLEGE: Jeffers progressed from a walk-on at Virginia to fourth on the school's all-time receiving charts by the time his career ended, catching 108 passes for 1,785 yards and 15 touchdowns in his four seasons with the Cavaliers. Over his final three years he averaged 33 receptions and 552 yards per season, and earned honorable mention All-Atlantic Coast Conference honors as a sophomore in 1993 and a senior in '95. Jeffers majored in psychology.

PERSONAL: Jeffers was a two-time All-Southern Preparatory Conference selection at Fort Worth Country Day School in Fort Worth, Texas, and was selected to the Top 100 squad by the Dallas Morning News. He also starred in soccer and track, and earned the school's Bill Curtis Award in 1990, given to the outstanding undergraduate male athlete. His brother, Rich, played football and ran track at Menlo College. Patrick Christopher Jeffers was born February 2, 1973 in Fort Campbell, Ky. He is single and makes his home in Greenwood Village, Colo.

Darrius Johnson has progressed remarkably in each of his first two seasons in Denver and has made himself an ever more vital cog in the Broncos' defensive future. He showed in 1997 that he can be depended upon to carry his weight in the defensive backfield, after beginning the year contributing mostly on special teams. By mid-season he was promoted to the role of nickel back and performed admirably, helping solidify a Denver defense that reached its peak during the 1997 postseason. Johnson has now played in 29 NFL games and has 26 tackles (25 solo) with nine pass breakups. He has also participated in five postseason games with four tackles (all solo) and one pass breakup. Johnson's special teams play also continues to be stellar, as he finished second on the team in 1997 with 16 stops. He added two more during the postseason. He joined the Broncos in 1996 as a fourth-round (No. 122 overall) draft choice out of Oklahoma.

1997: Johnson provided youth and talent in the secondary, and also made strong contributions on special teams, playing in all 16 games. The only game in which he did not see any defensive action was at Oakland (10/19) Denver's first loss of the season. He took over the nickel back duties vs. Seattle (11/2), and finished the year with 17 solo tackles and seven passes defended, the first four of which came in the Seattle contest. Johnson ranked second on the team in special teams tackles (16), and also forced two fumbles, recovered a fumble and scored a touchdown. He recovered a fumbled kickoff return on the opening play of the second half vs. Seattle (11/2) when Glenn Cadrez knocked the ball away from Ronnie Hams, and dashed six yards into the end for his first professional score, giving Denver a 20-10 lead en route to a 30-27 victory. He finished the day with three solo tackles and four pass breakups on defense. Just one week earlier he had distinguished himself by forcing a fumble on a kickoff return, which was recovered by Dwayne Carswell to start the second half in Denver 23-20 overtime victory (10/26). His second forced fumble came vs. Carolina (11/9) when he stripped Winslow Oliver on a punt return in the third quarter. His high tackle game of the season came on Monday Night Football vs. Oak and (11/24) when he posted four solos. He also three stops (all solo) each vs. Seattle (11/2) and at San Diego (11/30).

Postseason: Johnson contributed as the nickel back in all four postseason games and made four solo tackles with one pass defended, as well three tackles on special teams. He had one pass breakup and two special teams stops vs. Jacksonville in Denver's 42-17 AFC Wild Card victory (12/27). In Denver's 14-10 AFC Divisional Playoff win at Kansas City (1/4/98), Johnson posted one tackle as the nickel back, and then added two stops (both solo) and a special teams tackle in the AFC Championship Game victory at Pittsburgh (1/11/98). In Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay (1/25/98), Johnson recorded one solo tackle as the nickel back in Denver's 31-24 victory.

1996: Johnson played in 13 regular season games, both on defense and special teams. He missed Weeks 2-4 (at Seattle, 9/8, vs. Tampa Bay 9/15; and at Kansas City, 9/22) after suffering a knee injury in the season-opener vs. the Jets (9/1), but returned to action in Week Five at Cincinnati (9/29). Johnson began the year as the No. 1 kickoff returner but was set back by the injury and played behind Vaughn Hebron for that role throughout the rest of the regular season. For the season Johnson made nine tackles (8 solo), knocked down two passes and forced a fumble on defense, and added 13 special teams tackles according to unofficial press box statistics. Versus Kansas City (10/27) he made two solo tackles on defense and added two more on special teams. At Oakland (11/4), in his first Monday Night Football game, Johnson saw action on special teams and made two tackles. At New England (11/17) Johnson played in the defensive secondary where he made three solo tackles, knocked down two passes and caused a fumble, while also contributing two special teams tackles. He made three tackles (2 solo) at Green Bay (12/8) and added three more on special teams. Johnson also played in Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97).

COLLEGE: Johnson was a three-year starter in the secondary at Oklahoma, was twice named All-Big Eight first team, and finished his career with 208 tackles (149 solo), 12 interceptions, 30 pass break-ups, two forced fumbles and one fumble recovery. He played in two bowl games — John Hancock (after 1993) and Copper (after '94) — and figures seventh on the Sooners' all-time punt return list with 497 yards. Johnson also excelled in track and field, earning All-America honors in 1993 as a member of the Sooners' 1600-meter relay team. He ran the third leg of the relay squad that clocked a 39.03 at the NCAA Championships in New Orleans, La.

PERSONAL Johnson was a Class 4A first-team all-state selection at Terrell High School in Terrell, Texas, where he lettered three times as a cornerback, running back and kickoff returner. He recorded 2,014 rushing yards in his career and also excelled in track and field in the long jump (23'-2"), 100 meters (10.5) and 200 meters (21.5). An organizational communications major at Oklahoma, Johnson was born Sept. 17, 1972 in Terrell, Texas.

The Broncos organization received a tremendous Valentine's Day gift in 1997 with the acquisition of tackle Tony Jones via trade from Baltimore. A move that paid huge dividends throughout the '97 season. The Broncos sent their second-round pick in the '97 Draft to Baltimore for the rights to Jones, who stepped right in and helped the Broncos form the most effective offensive line in the NFL. Jones has proven over his 10-year career to be one of the top offensive linemen in the game, and also showed his versatility to the Broncos by starting the season at left tackle and then flipping with Gary Zimmerman after the Broncos sixth game, moving to right tackle and not missing a beat. Jones has also shown tremendous durability throughout his career, starting 130 of the 139 regular season games in which he has played, including a string of 105 starts in a row between 1989 and '96. He has started all but one game since the latter part of the 1989 season, and has also played in nine postseason games and started eight, four at right tackle, two at left tackle and two at right guard. Jones entered the NFL as an undrafted rookie free agent with the Cleveland Browns in 1988.

1997 Jones started all 16 games in his first year with the Broncos, after being acquired in a trade with the Ravens during the offseason (2/14/97). He helped the Broncos produce the NFL's 4th-ranked running game (3rd in AFC) and the top-rated offense in the NFL, averaging 367 yards per game. Denver also scored a league-high and franchise record 472 points on the season, as they claimed the first Super Bowl championship in the team's 38-year history. He and the rest of the offensive line opened holes that enabled Pro Bowl running back Terrell Davis to rush for a franchise-record 1,750 yards and 15 touchdowns. That unit also allowed only 35 sacks on the season and helped QB John Elway set a franchise record with 27 touchdown passes. The offense ran for more than 100 yards in 14 of 16 games and broke the 400-yard total offense number three times. Jones started the first six games at left tackle before moving to right tackle prior to the Oakland game (10/19), where he started the final 10. He missed a portion of the San Francisco game (12/15) after suffering a bruised right knee in the fourth quarter. An MRI done the following day proved negative. Postseason Jones started all four postseason games at right tackle as part of an offensive line that dominated opponents and allowed the Broncos to control games with a powerful rushing attack that averaged 187 yards per game. The offensive line was named NFL Offensive Player of the Week for the Wild Card win over Jacksonville (12/27/97). They also enabled Denver to rush for more than 100 yards in all four postseason contests — including five individual 100-yard performances in four games — culminating with 179 in Denver's 31-24 victory over Green Bay in Super Bowl XXXII (1/25/98).

1996 Jones played in and started 15 games for the Ravens, running his streak of consecutive starts to 105. Jones' streak was ironically snapped when he missed the Ravens' Oct. 20 matchup with the Broncos at Mike High Stadium due to a knee injury suffered the week before at Indianapolis (10/13). A sprained knee also had forced him to miss most of the second half against New England (10/6). The Ravens' offense, which ranked third in the AFC (357.7), accumulated over 450 yards of total offense twice (vs. Jacksonville, 11/24 and vs. the Rams, 10/29) during the '96 season thanks in part to Jones' play at left tackle. His 100th career start came against a team that he will now be seeing twice a season, the Oakland Raiders (9/1). 1995 Jones started all 16 games at left tackle for the Browns in their final season in Cleveland, before the franchise's move and transformation into the Baltimore Ravens in 1996. His 100th consecutive start (including postseason) came at San Diego (12/3). He played in his 100th NFL game and his 91st career start in a 29-26 overtime Browns win at Cincinnati (10/29). Jones extended his consecutive start streak to 86 in a game at Houston (9/17), despite a sore groin. 1994 Jones, who started all 16 of Cleveland's games for the fifth consecutive season, earned second-team All-Pro honors from the Associated Press, UPI (AFC), College & Pro Football Newsweekly and Tom Jackson's Pro Football Update. During that season the team set a franchise record by allowing just 14 sacks. He also started both playoff games at left tackle (vs. New England, 1/1/95, and at Pittsburgh, 1/8/95).

1993 Jones started all 16 of Cleveland's games for the fourth consecutive season, missing just two quarters the entire season. In a 19-16 win at the Raiders (9/19) Jones held AFC sack leader Anthony Smith sackless after Smith had racked up four the previous week against Seattle. 1992 Jones started all 16 of Cleveland's games for the third consecutive season, despite having to play through a bad ankle he suffered Nov. 8 in a 24-14 Cleveland victory over Houston. He held Richard Dent and William Perry (Michael Dean's brother) to no sacks and four tackles combined in a 27-14 win vs. Chicago (11/29). Jones held Chris Doleman to no sacks at Minnesota (11/22). He played his 50th game vs. Green Bay Oct. 18, 1991. Jones was one of four Cleveland offensive linemen to start all 16 games, the second consecutive season he had done so. He held Kansas City's Derrick Thomas sackless Nov. 24, 1990. Jones started all 16 games at right tackle, taking over for Cody Risien who retired prior to the start of training camp. 1989 Jones played in eight games, starting the final three of the regular season and both playoff contests at right guard. He started his second NFL game at right guard vs. Minnesota (12/17), then switched to right tackle when Cody Risien left the game with an eye injury late in regulation. Jones was activated from injured reserve before the Seattle game (11/12) after spending seven weeks on IR nursing a toe injury suffered in a Week Two win over the Jets (9/17). 1988 Jones played in the final four games of the season and one playoff game. He had been placed on injured reserve Aug. 29, 1988 with a toe injury. Jones was activated Oct. 22 and played in his first NFL game at Phoenix Oct. 23. He also played in Cleveland's Wild Card Game vs. Houston (12/24). Jones was a rookie free agent pickup by Cleveland May 20, 1988.

COLLEGE Jones was a four-year letterman at Western Carolina University, garnering Most Improved Lineman and second-team All-Conference honors as a senior. He also ran track for the Catamounts. Jones returned to Western Carolina during the 1989 offseason to finish requirements for his degree (B.S.) in management (May '89).

PERSONAL Jones played football, softball, basketball and ran track at Franklin County High School in Royston, Ga., winning MVP honors in football and basketball. He hails from the same hometown as baseball immortal Ty Cobb, however Jones has a street named after him in Royston (Tony Jones St.) and Cobb does not. Tony is involved in many off-the-field projects, such as Concern II, a sports carnival to help fund cancer research for children. He has also participated in the Diabetes Association "Swim for Diabetes" event and the American Lung Association's Celebrity Waiters' Luncheon. He has also headed a drive to increase adoption of minority children. Jones was married to Kamilla Orr on Valentine's Day 1992. They own two huge Rottweiler dogs. The couple's first child, Tony, Jr., was born May 27, 1995, three days after Tony, Sr.'s 29th birthday. Jones enjoys swimming, softball, tennis and basketball. He wants to own a restaurant and clothing store after his playing career is finished. Jones is renowned for being one of the sharpest dressers in the NFL. He earned his nickname "T-Bone" in college when he would steal steaks from the younger players on the team during Wednesday "steak nights." Jones joined Broncos offensive linemates David Diaz-Infante and Mark Schlereth for an appearance on NBC's Late Night with Conan O'Brien show in late January 1998, days after the Broncos' Super Bowl victory over Green Bay. Anthony Edward Jones was born May 24, 1966 in Royston, Ga.

Matt Lepsis, a versatile athlete who can play both tight end and offensive line, will line up as an offensive tackle with the Broncos in 1998 after excelling at that position this past spring in the NFL Europe League. Injuries from his college career at Colorado relegated him to the reserve/non-football injury list in 1997, but after a productive offseason, he is ready to make the jump to NFL-caliber play.

1997: Lepsis spent the season on the reserve/non-football injury list due to a college knee injury.

COLLEGE Lepsis played in 36 games for Colorado (including bowl games), with 16 starts. He caught 45 passes for 519 yards and 3 touchdowns, including a two-yard reception for a score in the 1996 Cotton Bowl win over Oregon, capping a junior season in which he earned second-team All-Big Eight honors. Lepsis graded out as a 90+ blocker during his career at CU and added seven special teams tackles to his credit. He also lettered three times in track at CU and was a two-time All-American in the discus with a collegiate best of 196 feet. Lepsis was a history major.

PERSONAL Lepsis was an All-Southwest selection at Frisco (Texas) High School, where he was the Class 3A Defensive Player of the Year and a two-time state discus champion. He had the second-best discus throw in the country in 1992 (204'-6"), and was also a member of the National Honor Society. Lepsis also bench presses more than 400 pounds and squats more than 600 pounds. He and teammate K.C. Jeff Lewis enters the 1998 season seeking to come back from off-season knee surgery, as he re-joins a competitive mix at the quarterback position. He underwent reconstructive surgery to repair a torn anterior cruciate ligament in his left knee Feb. 25. Lewis has shown significant progress in his first two NFL seasons, combining tremendous foot speed with an accurate and strong arm, as well as a knack for improvisation. Lewis saw considerable action in the preseason in both 1996 and '97, and has played in five regular season games, completing 10 of 19 passes (52.6%) for 79 yards with one interception, a long of 17 yards and one sack (-7). His regular season totals also include nine rushing attempts for 41 yards (-6), with a long of 18. Lewis joined the Broncos in 1996 as a fourth-round draft choice (No. 100 overall) out of Northern Arizona.

1997 Lewis served as Denver's backup quarterback for the first 13 games of the season before moving to the No. 3 role, behind veteran Bubba Brister, before the Pittsburgh game (12/7). He played in three games (vs. St. Louis, 9/14; vs. Carolina, 11/9 and vs. Oakland, 11/24), completing 1 of 2 passes for 21 yards (to Anthony Lynn vs. Carolina, 11/9) and was sacked once (-7), to record a passer rating of 87.5. He also rushed five times for 2 yards (0.4). Against St. Louis (9/14) he saw action in the closing minutes and was credited with one carry for -1 yard, as he took a knee to run out the clock. Lewis also played in relief of John Elway against Carolina (11/9), coming into the game with 6:49 remaining. He completed his first pass of the year, going 1 for 1 with a 21-yard toss to Anthony Lynn on a 4th-and-1 play to keep the Broncos' game-ending drive alive. The 21-yard completion was the longest of his career. Lewis also rushed four times for 3 yards, with a gain of five on one play and three kneel-downs to kill the clock. Lewis played in reserve of Elway for the Broncos' final two offensive series against the Raiders (11/24) but his only pass fell incomplete. During the preseason Lewis saw a great deal of action, playing in all five games and starting two (at Carolina, 8/9; at New England, 8/17) in place of Elway (ruptured biceps tendon). He completed 53 of 85 passes (62.4%) for 527 yards with five touchdowns and no interceptions, for a quarterback rating of 99.5. Lewis also rushed seven times for 63 yards (9.0), including a 14-yard touchdown in the opener vs. Buffalo (7/26). Postseason Lewis was designated the Broncos' third quarterback for all four postseason games. Following the season (2/25) Lewis had reconstructive surgery on his left knee to repair a torn anterior cruciate ligament.

1996 Lewis was designated the Broncos' third quarterback for 15 of the 16 games in his rookie season. He saw his first action of the year at Green Bay (12/8) in the fourth quarter, followed by another fourth-quarter appearance in the season finale at San Diego (12/22). At Green Bay he replaced Bill Musgrave on the Broncos' final possession and completed 1 of 3 passes for 5 yards while rushing once for four yards. At San Diego he piloted the club for the entire fourth quarter and mounted a 15-play drive that took the Broncos from their own 19-yard line to the Chargers' eight — nearly erasing a 16-10 San Diego lead — before being intercepted in the end zone. On the drive Lewis rushed three times for 35 yards, twice converting on third-and-long with runs of 18 and 14 yards, respectively. Though coming up empty in the scoring category, Lewis' drive did accomplish one major task that will mean the most in the long run — securing the No. 1 offensive ranking in the NFL for the Broncos in '96 — the first time the franchise has held that distinction in its 37-year history. Denver needed 184 yards to eclipse Jacksonville's total yardage mark and maintain its league-leading ranking, but had gained just 131 yards through three quarters prior to Lewis' insertion at the start of the fourth quarter. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville, Lewis — elevated to second-string quarterback after Bill Musgrave's season-ending shoulder injury at San Diego (12/22) — was active for the game but did not play. In the preseason, Lewis made an impressive showing in his four appearances, completing 28 of 42 pass attempts (66.7%) for 251 yards, with two touchdowns and one interception. He led the Broncos to a win at San Francisco (8/3) with a 7-play, 68-yard touchdown drive in the final minutes for a 20-17 win and his first fourth-quarter comeback victory, then preserved the Carolina win (8/10) by directing a 10-play, 95-yard touchdown drive that began at the Broncos' 5-yard line with a 33-28 lead and 6:50 remaining.

COLLEGE Lewis finished his impressive career at Northern Arizona ranked second on the school's all-time lists for passing yards (9,855), touchdowns (67), completions (785) and attempts (1,316). His 59.7 pass completion percentage ranks second in Lumberjack annals, and was the end result of a four-year progression in completion percentage — 52.8%, 56.4%, 60.4% and 66.8%. He holds the NCAA Division I-AA career record for interception avoidance with a figure of 1.82. His leadership skills were also displayed by his three-time selection as NAU's team captain — a first in school history. Lewis was coached at NAU by Steve Axman, who had previously tutored NFL quarterbacks Troy Aikman (UCLA) and Neil O'Donnell (Maryland). Lewis earned third-team All-America and second-team All-Big Sky honors as a junior in 1994. He redshirted in 1991.

PERSONAL Lewis was an all-city and all-conference selection in football, basketball and baseball at Horizon High School in Phoenix, Ariz. He gained over 1,000 yards rushing in each of his final two seasons in football, and batted .492 while compiling a 3-1 record as a pitcher in his senior season on the diamond, and also starred in basketball. Lewis also quarterbacked the Arizona squad in the Down Under Bowl, played in Australia. An education major at Northern Arizona, Lewis maintains aspirations of entering the coaching profession after his playing career is finished. Jeffrey Scott Lewis was born April 17, 1973 in Columbus, Ohio. He is single and makes his home in Greenwood Village, Colo.

Mike Lodish returns for his fourth year in Denver — and his ninth in the NFL — as a strong, veteran force on the defensive line. He re-signed with the Broncos Aug. 5, 1997 as an unrestricted free agent, resuming his career in Denver, where he had spent the 1995-96 seasons, and immediately helped to upgrade a defensive line that had been severely depleted by injury during the preseason. He also helped to produce one of the biggest plays of the season with his fumble recovery in the third quarter of the AFC Championship Game at Pittsburgh (1/11/98). Lodish has appeared in 124 career games (28 starts) and amassed 122 tackles (87 solo), including seven sacks (-48), with four passes defensed and four fumble recoveries, one of which he returned for a touchdown. He has also appeared in 18 postseason games, and started one (with Denver, vs. Jacksonville, 1/4/97), recording 11 solo tackles. He holds the distinction of being one of only nine players in NFL history to play in five Super Bowls having played in four with Buffalo (1990-93) before earning his first Super Bowl ring last year with Denver. Lodish entered the NFL in 1990 as a 10th-round draft choice (No. 265 overall) of the Buffalo Bills, with whom he spent his first five NFL seasons.

1997 Lodish played in all 16 games on the defensive line and made 14 tackles (9 solo), including one sack (7.5) to go along with a fumble recovery. He was credited with a half a sack each vs. Carolina (11/9) and St. Louis (1/14). Lodish's fumble recovery came in the third quarter vs. Oakland (11/24) after John Mobley stripped the ball from Napoleon Kaufman and set up a Broncos tied game. He had three tackles each against Carolina (11/9) and at Pittsburgh (12/7) with two solos in each game. He also had two solo stops in Denver's 34-13 Monday Night Football win over New England (10/6). Postseason Lodish played in all four postseason games as a reserve defensive tackle and recorded three solo tackles, including two in Super Bowl XXXII, as he tied an NFL record by becoming the ninth player in league history to play in five Super Bowl games. He was instrumental in the Broncos' AFC Championship Game victory at Pittsburgh (1/11), recovering a Steelers fumble after Neil Smith sacked quarterback Kordell Stewart on the last play of the third quarter, killing another Steelers' drive and helping the Broncos hold on for a 24-21 victory. His other solo tackle came in the AFC Divisional Playoff at Kansas City (1/4/98).

1996 Lodish started all 16 games for the Broncos at left defensive tackle, making 30 tackles (14 solo), including 15 sacks (-8.5). His season high of five solo tackles came in the finale at San Diego (12/22). Lodish had half a sack each at Seattle (9/8), at Oakland (11/4) and vs. Seattle (12/1). He started in Denver's lone playoff contest, vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97). 1995 Lodish played in all 16 games, contributing four solo tackles, in his first year with the Broncos after signing in the offseason as an unrestricted free agent from Buffalo. At New England (10/8), Lodish saw action on the defensive line, and finished with two solo tackles. In the season finale at Oakland (12/24), Lodish saw action on the defensive line, making one solo tackle. 1994 Lodish played in all 16 of the Bills' games, starting five. He had 17 tackles (nine solo), three quarterback pressures, and one fumble recovery. He started the first five games of the season in place of an injured Jeff Wright. In Week Two vs. New England (9/11), Lodish recovered a fumble in the end zone for Buffalo's only second half touchdown (and the second of his career) against the Patriots in a 38-35 victory. Cornerback Mickey Washington and Bruce Smith forced the fumble by Drew Bledsoe. Lodish played in a reserve role for the remainder of the regular season. 1993 Lodish played in all 16 games, including one start, and registered seven stops (all solo), one half of a sack and two quarterback pressures. He also played in all three playoff games, registering two stops (both solo). On 10/11 he combined with Mickey Washington for a sack of Warren Moon in a 35-7 Monday night victory. On 11/1, he saw extensive action vs. Washington, recording one quarterback pressure in a 24-10 win. He recorded his second career fumble recovery at Miami (12/19) as the Bills came from behind to beat the Dolphins 47-34. He had one unassisted stop in both the AFC Championship Game vs. Kansas City (1/23) and Super Bowl XXVIII vs. Dallas (1/30). 1992 Lodish played in all 16 games and in all four playoff games. He was part of a defensive line that helped the Bills finish tied for second in the NFL in defense against the run. He had seven stops on the year (five solo), one half of a sack, four quarterback pressures, one pass defended, and a fumble recovery on which he scored his first NFL touchdown. He scooped up a fumble by Hugh Miller and rumbled 18 yards for a score at New England (9/27) in a 41-7 victory. He also had a half a sack at New Orleans (12/20) in a 20-16 victory. 1991 Lodish played in all 16 games, starting six, and also played in all three playoff games. He finished the regular season with 37 tackles (28 solo), one and a half sacks, four quarterback pressures, two passes defended and one forced fumble. Lodish also added two stops in postseason play. He filled in admirably in the absence of both Bruce Smith and Jeff Wright during the season. Lodish received his first NFL start vs. Miami (9/1) in place of Smith, and then received another start the next week at nose tackle in place of Wright vs. Pittsburgh (9/8). He recorded his third career sack and his first career forced fumble at the Jets in a 23-20 win. He recorded two solo stops in Super Bowl XXVI vs. Washington (1/26). 1990 Lodish played in 12 games as a rookie, as well as all three playoff games. He registered six tackles (all solo), a career-high two sacks, two QB pressures and one pass defended in the regular season, and added two solo stops in three postseason games. Lodish was part of a defense that ranked eighth in the league in total defense in 1990. He recorded his first career sack against Randall Cunningham and the Eagles (12/2). His second career sack came against Dan Marino vs. Miami (12/23). Lodish also had two solo stops in Super Bowl XXV vs. the New York Giants (1/27). Lodish was Buffalo's 10th-round selection in the 1990 NFL Draft, the 265th player taken overall.

COLLEGE Lodish was an All-Pac-10 performer at UCLA, where he and his Bruin teammates went to a bowl game in each of his first three seasons there (Freedom, Aloha and Cotton). In 1987, his Bruins tied for the Pac-10 Conference title with USC. Lodish was a candidate for the Outland Trophy and Lombardi Award as a senior when he earned second-team All-Pac 10 honors. Lodish was an extraordinarily strong athlete at Westwood, squatting over 650 pounds for the school record in that category. He recorded 193 tackles with 14 sacks and three interceptions in his Bruin career. In 1987 and '88 he was part of a defense that ranked in the Top 10 in the nation against the run, allowing just 95 yards per game over those two seasons. The defensive line coach at that time was current Broncos defensive coordinator Greg Robinson. Mike was a history major with a specialization in business administration.

PERSONAL Lodish lettered three years in football at Brother Rice (Birmingham, Mich.) High School, where he led his team to the Michigan State Class A title in 1983. He also lettered in lacrosse and hockey. Lodish was named All-America by Adidas-Scholastic Coach. Lodish is single and makes his offseason home in Birmingham, Mich. Michael Timothy Lodish was born Aug. 11, 1967 in Detroit, Mich.

Derek Loville was a 1997 offseason acquisition who played a key role on offense and special teams last season, as he not only proved he was a capable backup, but even proved he could shine when the spotlight was landed directly on him. He signed as a free agent with Denver May 2, 1997, and has teamed with Pro Bowler Terrell Davis and Vaughn Hebronn to form arguably the best 1-2-3 punch from the running back position in the NFL. A hard runner who hits the hole quickly and uses his blockers well, while also excelling as a receiver out of the backfield, Loville has played in 85 career games (23 starts) with 1,256 yards rushing and 13 touchdowns. He has also caught 107 passes for 836 yards and five more scores, and can also be used as a kick returner when called upon, as his 61-yard kickoff return at San Francisco (12/15) and his 22.1-yard career average attests. Loville has also played in 10 postseason games and owns two Super Bowl rings, one with Denver in 1997 and one with San Francisco in 1994, placing him among an elite group of just 30 NFL players to win a ring with two different teams, and one of only 13 to win one in each conference. Loville entered the NFL with Seattle in 1990 as a rookie free agent out of Oregon.

1997 Loville played in all 16 games, contributing both on offense and special teams. He carried the ball 25 times for 124 yards (5.0) with a long of 17 and one touchdown and caught two passes for 10 yards, while contributing five kickoff returns for 136 yards (27.2) — including a career-long of 61 yards (12/15) at San Francisco — and making one tackle. He had five carries for 14 yards, long of 9, in Denver's 35-14 victory over Seattle in Week Two (9/7) and did not have another carry until Nov. 24 against Oakland, when he had six for 36, season-long of 17. His high rushing game of the season came in the finale vs. San Diego (12/21) when he led the team with 14 carries for 66 yards (4.7), and scored his only touchdown of the season on a 6-yard run in the fourth quarter. Postseason Loville played in all four postseason games and posted 13 carries for 103 yards (7.9) and two touchdowns with a long of 44 yards, and one reception for 10 yards. He was instrumental in securing Denver's Wild Card victory over Jacksonville (12/27/97) when he took over for an injured Terrell Davis (ribs) in the second half and went on to rush for a career-high 103 yards on 11 carries (9.4) and score two touchdowns, while also recording his one pass reception. The rushing total represented Loville's first career 100-yard rushing game, and, at the time, was one of three 100-yard games posted by a Bronco in the playoffs. It now ranks fourth on the Broncos' all-time postseason single-game rushing list, and his 9.4-yards per carry average in the game is the best by a Bronco in the postseason. With Loville's 103 yards and Davis' 184, the Broncos became just the third team in NFL playoff history to boast two 100-yard rushers in the same game. His 44-yard gallop in that game is the third-longest run from scrimmage by a Bronco in the postseason, and his career 7.9-yards per carry average as a Bronco in the postseason is the best in franchise history. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff win at Kansas City (1/4/98) Loville carried the ball twice for zero net yards and returned one kickoff 20 yards. He also had a special teams tackle in the AFC Championship Game at Pittsburgh (1/11).

1996 Loville played in 12 games with San Francisco, starting six at tailback. He also played in both postseason contests, returning four kicks for 86 yards and rushing twice for minus three yards. When discussing consistency at the wide receiver position the name Ed McCaffrey automatically comes to mind. The eighth-year pro who signed with Denver as an unrestricted free agent in 1995 continues to be one of the most stable performers in the league at his position, showing that he is a reliable target for the Broncos to count on in clutch situations with his toughness and durability. McCaffrey, one of the best route-runners in the league, has played in 110 games (38 starts) over his seven-year career, catching 235 passes for 2,842 yards (12.1) and 25 touchdowns. He has also played in 10 postseason games (five starts) and caught 23 passes for 289 yards (12.6) with a long of 43 and two touchdowns, winning World Championships with the Broncos and 49ers (1994). McCaffrey is one of just 30 players in NFL history to win a Super Bowl with two different teams, and one of only 13 to win one in each conference. He entered the NFL in 1991 as a fourth-round draft choice of the New York Giants (No. 83 overall) out of Stanford.

1997 McCaffrey started 15 of the 16 games at wide receiver and ranked fourth on the team in receptions, with 45 for 590 yards (13.1), a long of 35 yards and a career-best eight touchdowns, tied for fifth-most receiving touchdowns in the AFC. McCaffrey missed his only game of the season in Week 15 at Pittsburgh (12/7) when he was declared inactive because of a strained hamstring. His first big performance of the 1997 season came at Seattle (9/7) in Week Two when he was matched up with rookie CB Shawn Springs and produced one of the biggest days of his career, catching eight passes for 93 yards and two touchdowns in Denver's 35-14 victory. Against St. Louis the next week (9/14) he had just one reception, but it was a 23-yard touchdown in the third quarter that put Denver ahead 35-7 en route to a 35-14 victory. The following week he caught his third touchdown of the season, a 32-yarder against Cincinnati (9/21) in Denver's 38-20 victory. He finished the day with four receptions for 62 yards. At Oakland (10/19) McCaffrey had three receptions for 61 yards and a 28-yard touchdown that brought Denver to within 28-25 in the fourth quarter, the score by which Denver would drop its first game of the season. In Denver's next matchup with the Raiders (11/24), he had four catches for 51 yards, including a diving 35-yard reception that set up Denver's first touchdown of the game en route to a 31-3 win on Monday Night.

Football: The next Sunday at San Diego, McCaffrey caught seven passes for a career-high 111 receiving yards (the second 100-yard game of his career) in Denver's 38-28 win. In that game he caught two touchdown passes (4 and 21 yards) to raise his total to seven, ending a five-game scoring drought since catching his fifth in the fourth quarter at Oakland (10/19). He closed the regular season with a four-catch, 32-yard performance that included his eighth touchdown of the year to set a new personal high. The touchdown came on a 1-yard reception from John Elway in the second quarter to put Denver ahead 21-3 en route to a 38-3 victory. Postseason McCaffrey started at wide receiver in all four postseason games and tied for the team lead in receptions (12) with Shannon Sharpe, covering 171 yards (14.3), with one touchdown, as he joined a list of just 30 players in NFL history to win a Super Bowl with more than one team (San Francisco SB XXXI). In the Wild Card Game against Jacksonville (12/27) he caught two passes for 35 yards, including a 25-yarder on the Broncos' first possession on third-and-15 that kept the drive alive and set up their first score of the day. In Denver's 14-10 AFC Divisional Playoff win at Kansas City (1/4/98), McCaffrey caught three passes for 56 yards, including a 43-yarder on third-and-five early in the fourth quarter that set up Terrell Davis' game-winning touchdown with 12:32 remaining. In the AFC Championship Game at Pittsburgh (1/11) he caught five passes for 37 yards, including a one-yard score right before the half to give Denver a 24-14 advantage. The Broncos held on to win 24-21 and advanced to their first Super Bowl in eight years. In Super Bowl XXXII against Green Bay, McCaffrey caught two passes for a team-high 45 yards, including a 36-yarder in the third quarter on Denver's 13-play, 92-yard drive (the longest of the game) that put them ahead 24-17. He also threw a crushing block on Packers linebacker Brian Williams to free Howard Griffith for the bulk of his yardage on a 23-yard pass play from Elway that set up Denver's game-winning touchdown late in the fourth quarter.

1996 McCaffrey started 15 of the 16 regular season games at wide receiver opposite Anthony Miller and posted the second-best totals of his career with 48 receptions for 553 yards (11.5) and a long of 39 yards with a career-high seven touchdowns. He missed the Chicago game (11/10) when he was declared inactive because of a lower-back bruise. McCaffrey established a career high and tied a Broncos franchise record with three touchdown receptions against Baltimore (10/20). Easily his most dramatic touchdown catch of the year came at Minnesota (11/24) when he hauled in a five-yard John Elway pass that was tipped in the air three times by Vikings players, catching it at the one-yard line and diving backwards into the endzone for the score with 19 seconds left in the game. His longest reception of the year was a 39-yard touchdown from Elway in the season opener against the Jets (9/1), and his most historic was his catch of Elway's 250th career touchdown pass in the second quarter vs. Seattle (12/1). McCaffrey sprained his ankle in practice Sept. 11 but was able to play four days later against Tampa Bay (9/15). In the season-opener vs. the Jets (9/1) McCaffrey started at wide receiver and caught a team-high four passes (tied with Shannon Sharpe) for 61 yards (15.3), including a 39-yard touchdown to put the Broncos ahead 14-0. In week five at Cincinnati (9/29) he caught five passes for 80 yards in a true iron-man performance. He was the victim of several vicious hits, but managed to return to the game each time, earning high praise from his teammates in the lockerroom after the Broncos' 14-10 victory. Versus San Diego (10/6) McCaffrey caught five passes for 58 yards with one touchdown (9 yards) and a long of 31 yards. His touchdown came with 8:22 remaining in the game and put Denver ahead by the eventual final margin of 28-17. Two weeks later vs. Baltimore, McCaffrey tied a Broncos franchise record with three touchdown receptions, coming on passes of 4, 6 and 8 yards from Elway. In all he caught seven passes for 76 yards. His third TD of the day, a 6-yarder with 10:57 remaining, put the Broncos on top 38-34 en route to a 45-34 win. He had one of his best games of the year at Minnesota (11/24), catching six passes for a season-high 83 yards and one touchdown. His touchdown provided the winning points in Denver's 21-17 come-from-behind win, as he hauled in a third tipped five-yard pass from Elway with 19 seconds remaining in the game and lunged backwards into the end zone for the score. It was his sixth touchdown of the year, surpassing his previous best of five as a New York Giant in 1992. Versus Seattle (12/1) he caught a team-high five passes for 43 yards with a long of 12 and one touchdown. His four-yard touchdown reception in the second quarter was the 250th touchdown pass of Elway's career, ninth-most in NFL history. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97), McCaffrey started his first playoff game and caught five passes for 54 yards, including a long of 15 yards for his one touchdown on the day. His score came with 1:50 remaining in the game and pulled Denver to within 30-27. 1995 McCaffrey played in all 16 games and made four starts (vs. Buffalo 9/3, at San Diego 9/24, at Seattle 10/1 and vs. Kansas City 10/22). He had, at the time, the second-most productive season of his career, catching 39 passes for 477 yards (12.2), with a long of 35 yards and two touchdowns, and also rushed once for -1 yard. In his debut as a Bronco vs. Buffalo (9/3), McCaffrey started in place of the injured Anthony Miller and caught four passes for 52 yards. He hauled in a 35-yarder from John Elway on the Broncos' final scoring drive to set up Terrell Davis' three-yard, game-sealing touchdown run. In Week Three vs. Washington (9/17) McCaffrey caught a season-high five passes for 70 yards (14.0), including a clutch 19-yarder from Elway during the Broncos' game-winning 80-yard drive. Denver won the game on the final play 38-31. Against Arizona (11/5), McCaffrey caught one pass, a 23-yarder in the fourth quarter for his first touchdown as a Bronco and the 10th of his career. Against Jacksonville (12/3), McCaffrey saw action as the third receiver and made three catches for 48 yards, including a 24-yarder. He also rushed once on a reverse for -1 yard. In the season finale at Oakland (12/24), McCaffrey — who started in the Broncos' four-wide receiver set — caught a career-high nine passes for 99 yards and one touchdown, with a long of 27 yards, to help lift the Broncos to a 31-28 win. McCaffrey's four-yard, one-handed touchdown reception with 5:46 remaining in the game tied the score at 28-28. McCaffrey was acquired by the Broncos as an unrestricted free agent from San Francisco March 7, 1994. McCaffrey played in all 16 regular season games for the 49ers and in all three postseason games. He had 11 catches for 131 yards (12.0 average) and two touchdowns in the regular season and one reception for five yards in the playoffs. He also had eight special teams tackles in the regular season. McCaffrey caught one pass for eight yards, recorded two special teams tackles and forced a fumble at Detroit (10/9). He had three receptions for 34 yards, including a 34-yard touchdown versus Tampa Bay (10/23), and recovered an on-side kick late in the fourth quarter of the 49ers' 21-14 victory over Dallas (11/13). He caught five passes for 59 yards, including a one-yard touchdown in the regular season finale at Minnesota (12/26). His one reception against San Diego in the Super Bowl (1/29/95), a five-yarder, came in the second quarter. McCaffrey was acquired by the 49ers July 25, 1994 as a free agent after being waived by the Giants July 18, 1993. McCaffrey played in all 16 regular season games with one start for the New York Giants, and also played in both New York playoff contests. He finished fourth on the team with 27 receptions for 335 yards and two touchdowns. He had touchdown receptions vs. Philadelphia (10/17) and Phoenix (11/28). McCaffrey's one start came against the Jets (10/31) when he replaced an injured Mike Sherrard in the lineup. His most productive game of the season was the NFC Divisional Playoff Game at San Francisco (1/15/94) when he caught five passes for 59 yards. 1992 McCaffrey played in all 16 games with three starts and led the Giants in receiving with career-best numbers of 49 catches for 610 yards. The 1997 season proved to be a coming-out party for John Mobley the latest in a long line of extraordinary Broncos linebackers like former Broncos greats Randy Gradishar and Tom Jackson. Mobley has an incredible knack for finding the football and is a devastating hitter once he does. Now in his third NFL season he has started all 32 games and posted 255 tackles (180 solo), including 5.5 sacks (-26), with 12 passes defended, three forced fumbles, one fumble recovery and two interceptions (21 yds.) Mobley has scored one NFL touchdown, on a 13-yard interception return in 1997 (vs. N.E., 10/8), and earned his first All-NFL honors last season with selections by the Associated Press, The Sporting News, Pro Football Weekly, Football Digest and College & Pro Football Newsweekly. Mobley has one AFC Defensive Player of the Week award on his resume, winning the honor for Week Six of the 97 season. He was named to the NCAA Division II Football Team of the Quarter Century (1973-1997), in 1998 joining the likes of Pro Football Hall of Famer Walter Payton and All-Pro performers Brent Jones, John Randle, Darrell Green and Greg Lloyd. Mobley entered the NFL in 1996 as the Broncos' first-round draft choice (No. 15 overall) out of Kutztown.

1997: Mobley — named first-team All-NFL by the Associated Press, The Sporting News, Pro Football Weekly and Football Digest; and second-team by College & Pro Football Newsweekly — started all 16 games at weakside linebacker and continued to blossom in his second NFL season, putting together a performance as outstanding as that of any other linebacker in the NFL. He led the team with 162 tackles (113 solo), including four sacks (-23), one interception which he returned for a touchdown (13 yds.), three forced fumbles, one fumble recovery and eight pass breakups while also adding seven tackles on special teams. He posted double-figure tackles a remarkable nine times in 16 games. In the regular season opener vs. Kansas City Mobley led the team with nine tackles (6 solo) in Denver's 19-3 victory. The game held extra significance for Mobley, as his father, Lee, watched him play in person for the first time since his sophomore year in high school (1990). Lee has been in a nursing home for seven years since suffering a stroke.

The following week at Seattle (9/7) he made five tackles (3 solo) and one pass defended in Denver's 35-14 win. The next week vs. St. Louis (9/14) he recorded his first sack of the year (-4), among seven tackles (5 solo) he made on the day. In Week Three vs. Cincinnati (9/21) Mobley registered a career-high 15 tackles (11 solo) in an outstanding performance that included his second sack of the season (-3) and a pass breakup. On Monday Night Football vs. New England (10/6) he had the best all-around game of his young career, tying a personal best with 15 tackles (12 solo, career high), snaring his second career interception and returning it 13 yards for a touchdown for a 14-0 lead, causing a fumble, breaking up a pass and making a tackle on special teams in Denver's 34-13 victory. His efforts were recognized with AFC Defensive Player of the Week honors from the NFL. He wasted no time making an impact on the game, ending the Patriots game-opening drive at the Broncos' 28-yard line when he knocked the ball loose from Terry Glenn after a 19-yard reception, setting up the Broncos' first touchdown. He then scored the second himself when he picked off a Drew Bledsoe pass and watched 13 yards into the end zone for his first professional touchdown, igniting a fired-up Mile High Stadium crowd of 75,821. On Nov. 2 vs. Seattle he posted a team-high 13 tackles (11 solo) while also adding another on special teams in Denver's 30-27 victory. On Nov. 9 vs. Carolina he had another line all-around day with seven tackles (3 solo), including a sack (-12), and the first fumble recovery of his career. His sack of Kerry Collins came in the first quarter, and early in the second quarter he pounced on a fumble caused by Allen Aldridge, halting a Panthers scoring threat at the Denver 10-yard line. The next Sunday at Kansas City (11/16) he posted his fifth double-figure tackle total of the season, recording 10 including a team-high eight solos in Denver's 24-22 loss. Against Oak and on Monday Night Football (11/24) Mobley had another outstanding performance in prime time, posting 10 tackles (8 solo), including his fourth sack of the year (-4), to go along with two pass breakups. He also forced a fumble by Napoleon Kaufman early in the third quarter after he chased down the speedy Kaufman from behind in the backfield, setting up a recovery by Mike Lodish at the Raiders' 28. The Broncos responded with a field goal to up their lead to 24-3. The next Sunday at San Diego (11/30) he tied for the team lead with nine tackles (6 solo), while adding a forced fumble and a pass breakup. He posted a team-high 12 tackles (5 solo) with one pass defended at Pittsburgh (12/7), and led the team again the following week at San Francisco on Monday Night Football (12/15) with 10 tackles (8 solo) while also adding one more on special teams. He closed out the regular season vs. San Diego (12/21) by posting a team-high 12 tackles (8 solo) while also adding one more on special teams. Postseason: Mobley started all four postseason games at weakside linebacker and led the team with 24 tackles (21 solo) in addition to two passes defended and one special teams tackle. In the AFC Wild Card Playoff vs. Jacksonville (12/27), Mobley started at weakside linebacker and led the team with six tackles (4 solo) in Denver's 14-10 AFC Divisional Playoff at Kansas City (1/4/98). He led the team with seven solo tackles in the AFC Championship Game at Pittsburgh (1/11) he posted five tackles (4 solo) with one pass defended, and also added one tackle on special teams in Denver's 24-21 victory. In Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay (1/25) Mobley posted six solo tackles with one very huge pass defended in Denver's 31-24 victory. The pass breakup occurred on fourth and six from Denver's 31-yard line with 32 seconds remaining. Mobley stepped in front of Brett Favre's aerial that was intended for Mark Chmura and knocked it to the ground to seal Denver's first ever world championship.

1996: Mobley turned in an outstanding rookie season, starting all 16 regular season games and the Broncos' one playoff contest at weakside linebacker. He was named to NFL All-Rookie teams selected by Pro Football Weekly, Football News and College & Pro Football Newsweekly, finishing fifth on the team with 93 tackles (67 solo) and 1.5 sacks (-2). Mobley also broke up four passes, intercepted another (at Minnesota 11/24), and added four tackles on special teams. He registered a season-high 12 tackles (9 solo) at Cincinnati (9/29) including his first career sack as he dropped Bengals quarterback Jeff Blake. He also came up big at New England (11/17), leading the team with eight solo tackles to spearhead a defensive effort that halted the Patriots' rushing attack to 17 yards in a 34-8 win. At Green Bay (12/8), Mobley made seven tackles (3 solo), knocked down two passes and combined with Michael Dean Perry for the Broncos' only sack of Brett Favre. Mobley remained injury-free much of the season, missing significant time only during the San Diego game (10/6) when he strained a groin muscle in the first half. He started his first postseason game against Jacksonville (1/4/97) and came up with eight tackles (6 solo) and one pass defended. Mobley entered training camp second on the depth chart at weakside linebacker, but quickly cemented a starting position after producing a 14-tackle performance (12 solo) in the preseason opener at San Francisco (8/3). In that game, Mobley was all over the field in the second half and delivered a hit on Gino Torretta that knocked the 49ers' signal-caller out of the game. He finished the preseason with 19 tackles (16 solo), one interception and three pass breakups.

COLLEGE Mobley was a two-time Division II All-American (first team 1995, second team 1994) and was named Division I Player of the Year as a senior at Kutztown in 1995 by The Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft. He started all 41 games during his four-year career and made 36 tackles (198 solo), recovered eight fumbles, forced four, made eight interceptions with 22 pass deflections, registered 20 sacks (169), and made 21 tackles-for-loss (91). Tom Nalen's hard work and persistence finally paid off in 1997, as he was recognized by his peers and selected to his first Pro Bowl. He helped to anchor an offensive line that produced one of the most prolific single-season offensive outputs in NFL history, as Denver had a 3,000-yard passer, 1,500-yard rusher and two 1,000-yard receivers in 1997, becoming only the second team (Detroit in '95 and '91) to accomplish that feat. Nalen is viewed by many as one of the up-and-coming stars of the league on the offensive line and figures to only improve with age. He has started 48 of the 54 games in which he has played - including 47 straight - and all five postseason contests he has participated in. Nalen entered the NFL in 1994 as the Broncos' third choice in the seventh round (No. 218 overall) of the draft.

1997 Nalen started all 16 games at center and had a breakout season, being selected to his first Pro Bowl and earning second-team All-NFL honors from College & Pro Football Newsweekly. He provided not only youth, but also tremendous talent, to a veteran offensive line regarded among the league's best. He made his first career pass reception at Oakland (10/19), catching a John Elway pass for 1 yard after it was batted at the line of scrimmage by the Raiders' Chester McGlockton. The Broncos' offense set a team record by scoring 472 points in one season and led the NFL in total offense (367 yards per game) for the second straight year, leading the AFC for the third straight year. Nalen was part of a unit that powered Broncos running backs to 15 individual 100-yard performances over the 20-game regular and postseason slate. Postseason Nalen started at center in all four postseason games as part of an offensive line that dominated opponents and allowed Denver to control games with its rushing attack. The Broncos averaged 187 rushing yards per game in the postseason, and the offensive line was named NFL Offensive Player of the Week for Denver's Wild Card win over Jacksonville (12/27/97). Nalen, starting at center, playing an integral role in the offensive unit piling up club postseason records of 511 total yards and 42 points in Denver's 42-17 win over the Jaguars. The line played a key role in running back Terrell Davis earning MVP honors in the Super Bowl with 157 rushing yards and three rushing touchdowns.

1996 Nalen started all 16 regular season games at center, playing a key role on a unit that cleared the way for AFC rushing leader Terrell Davis (1,538 yards) and allowed just 31 sacks. He suffered a partial tear to his medial collateral ligament early in the Minnesota game (11/24) and was listed as questionable for the Seattle game (12/1) but did start. He also started Denver's one playoff contest. The Broncos rushed for over 100 yards in a game on 10 occasions during the 1996 season, and topped the 200-yard mark on four of those occasions. Overall, the Broncos' offense was the most productive in football in 1996, averaging 361.9 yards per game. 1995 Nalen started 15 of the Broncos' 16 games, missing only the Week Four matchup at San Diego (9/24) while recovering from arthroscopic surgery to repair a lateral meniscus tear in his left knee suffered in the Washington game (9/17). He underwent arthroscopic surgery at the Steadman Hawkins Clinic in Vail, Colo., Sept. 18, and was expected to miss three to four weeks, but returned to his starting position at Seattle (10/1). Behind the blocking of Nalen and the rest of the offensive line, Denver was able to rush for over 100 yards in a game 11 out of 16 times during the 1995 season and produce a 1,000-yard rusher in rookie Terrell Davis (1,117). 1994 Nalen played in seven games for the Broncos, including a start at left guard in his first NFL appearance against the Rams (11/6). Nalen continued to make appearances on the offensive line over the remainder of the season. Nalen entered camp in July as a rookie draft choice out of Boston College, was waived just prior to the start of the regular season and then re-signed to the practice squad Sept. 6. He was signed to the active roster the week of the Rams game to start in place of an injured Jon Melander.

COLLEGE Nalen was a three-year starter in his five seasons at Boston College, earning numerous honors that included third-team Associated Press All-America, second-team All-Big East, and first-team ECAC citations. He closed out his outstanding college career with appearances in the East-West Shrine and Senior Bowl games. In 1993 Nalen was an honorable mention All-American and a Big East second-team pick by The Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft, starting all year and leading the way as the Eagles ranked fourth in the nation in total offense (506.4 yards per game). Nalen's blocking was a key factor in the Boston College upset win over Notre Dame in South Bend. Nalen started every game from 1991-93 after serving as the deep snapper, backup center and then starting center for the last three games in 1990. He redshirted in '89.

PERSONAL A native of Foxboro, Mass., Nalen lettered three times each in football and basketball and twice in track at Foxboro (Mass.) High School. He was All-Hockamack League and an all-state selection by the Boston Globe, Boston Herald, Sun Chronicle, and Patriot Ledger, adding state Lineman of the Year honors as a senior. Tom led the team to a pair of Division III titles and played in the Shrine All-Star Game, serving as team captain in both football and basketball. An all-conference and team MVP in basketball, he was named to the Academic All-State team by the Massachusetts Basketball Coaches Association. Tom has his degree in accounting from Boston College and would like ultimately to become a certified public accountant. Tom likes golf, basketball and video games. He and his wife, Denise, have a daughter, Delaney, and make their home in Wrentham, Mass. Thomas Andrew Nalen was born May 13, 1971, in Foxboro, Mass.

Trevor Pryce, in 1997, showed flashes of the talent that made him the Broncos' first-round draft choice a year ago, selected 15th overall out of Clemson. Pryce's package of size, strength and speed gives him incredible burst off the ball, which figures to make him a force for years to come as he matures into a complete defensive player. His progress was rapid in his rookie season as he ascended from the inactive list for the first eight games to a solid contributor who started three games.

1997 Pryce played in the final eight games of the season and started three (at San Diego 11/30, at Pittsburgh, 12/7 and vs. San Diego, 12/21) at right defensive tackle in place of Maa Tanuvasa (injury). He was declared inactive for the first eight games. For the season he posted 28 tackles (20 solo), including two sacks (-9.5), as he notched a half a sack in each of his first two NFL appearances (Seattle 11/2 and Carolina, 11/9) and his first solo vs. San Diego (12/21). He split the two sacks with Tyrone Braxton and Mike Lodish, respectively. Pryce saw his first professional action vs. Seattle (11/2) and responded with two tackles, including half a sack (-0.5). He made his first NFL start at San Diego (11/30) and performed well with three solo tackles. Pryce started his second straight contest at Pittsburgh (12/7). His high-tackle games on the season came vs. Oakland (11/24) and at San Francisco (12/15), posting seven stops (5 solo) in each. Postseason Pryce played in all four postseason games as a reserve defensive tackle and recorded two tackles (1 solo), including a sack of Jacksonville quarterback Mark Brunel in the Wild Card game (12/27/97) and an assisted tackle at Pittsburgh (1/11) in the AFC Championship Game.

COLLEGE Pryce played one season (1996) at defensive end for Clemson, starting all 11 games and earning first-team All-Atlantic Coast Conference honors after transferring from Michigan where he played linebacker in 1993-94 (20 games/8 starts). He sat out the 1995 season due to NCAA transfer rules. Pryce finished his collegiate career with 118 tackles (72 solo), including 11.5 sacks (105 yards) and 24 tackles for loss (-127), as well as 31 quarterback pressures, three forced fumbles, three fumble recoveries and two passes defended. He was a communications major.

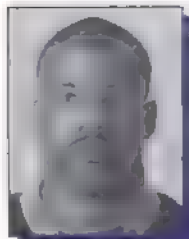

PERSONAL Pryce was a consensus All-American and the top-rated defensive line prospect in the country by The Sporting News at Lake Howell High School in Casselberry, Fla. He earned All-Florida, All-conference and all-district accolades and also excelled in track, finishing second in the district finals in the 110-meter high hurdles (15.0). He was born Aug. 3, 1975 in Brooklyn, N.Y. Trevor is single and resides in Casselberry, Fla.

Richie signed with Denver as a rookie free agent out of Washington and has played in two games in his young career.

1997: Richie was declared inactive for 14 of the 16 games, seeing his first professional action vs. Carolina (11/9) and playing again in the season finale vs. San Diego (12/21). Bill Romanowski continues to prove what a valuable ingredient he is to the Broncos' defensive success as he produced another fantastic season in 1997 and was an integral part of Denver's run to the first World Championship in franchise history. He has led the team in tackles over the two-year span that he has played in Denver (245) and, besides being the signal-caller on defense, is also one of the emotional leaders of the ballclub. Romanowski is also one of the most durable athletes in the sport, having never missed a game due to injury during his 10 seasons in the league (160 games), which includes 48 consecutive starts (139 overall). He has compiled 914 tackles (675 solo), including 15 sacks (123) with 10 interceptions (41 yds.), 42 passes defended, 10 forced fumbles and 12 fumble recoveries. Romanowski also now holds the distinction of being one of only 30 players to win a Super Bowl ring with two different teams (also San Francisco, 1988-89), and is one of just 13 to win one in each conference. He has played in 19 postseason games and started 13, including three Super Bowls (all victories) and six conference championship games, among eight total playoff appearances. (5 NFC/1 AFC). His postseason numbers include 78 tackles (68 solo), including one sack (8), with one interception and five passes defended. Romanowski was voted to his first Pro Bowl in 1996. He was chosen in the third round (80th overall) of the 1988 draft by San Francisco, following an outstanding career at Boston College.

1997: Romanowski started all 16 games at strongside linebacker and ranked second on the team with 117 tackles (77 solo), including two sacks for 18 yards lost (at Atlanta 9/28 and vs. Cincinnati 9/21), and also posted one interception, two passes defended and two forced fumbles. He posted his first of three double-figure tackle performances vs. St. Louis (9/21) with 12 stops (5 solo). His others came at Buffalo (10/26), with a season-high 15 (9 solo), and at San Francisco (12/15) with 15 again on Monday Night Football. His first sack of the season came vs. Cincinnati (9/14) in a 38-28 Broncos win, and his second came two weeks later at Atlanta (9/28). His interception came at Oakland (10/19). Romanowski was named a defensive team captain at mid-season, joining Steve Atwater. Postseason: Romanowski started all four postseason games at strongside linebacker and joined a list of just 30 NFL players who have won a Super Bowl with more than one team (San Francisco, SB XXIII, SB XXIV), and one of just 13 to win one in each conference. In the postseason he recorded 18 tackles (15 solo) with one pass defended. In the AFC Wild Card Playoff vs. Jacksonville (12/27) he posted four tackles (3 solo) and then the next week in Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff Game at Kansas City (1/4/98) he posted five more solo tackles in Denver's 14-10 win. In the AFC Championship Game at Pittsburgh (1/11) Romanowski posted four tackles (3 solo) in Denver's 24-21 triumph. He posted five tackles (4 solo) with one pass defended in Denver's 31-24 defeat of Green Bay in Super Bowl XXXII (1/25/98).

1996: Romanowski started all 16 games at strongside linebacker and made a tremendous impact on the Broncos' defensive unit, earning his first trip to the Pro Bowl, second-team All-Pro honors from College & Pro Football Newsweekly and second-team All-AFC kudos from AP. His veteran leadership elevated the play of the entire defense to reach a No. 4 ranking in the league, as he led the team with 128 tackles (94 solo), three sacks (10), three interceptions, three fumble recoveries and 12 passes defended. Romanowski's three sacks tied his previous best (1991) while his three interceptions established a new career high. Romanowski had a sack in his debut in a Broncos uniform vs. the Jets (9/1), one of nine stops (8 solo) he made in Denver's 31-6 win. The first two of his three fumble recoveries on the season and his first interception all came at Seattle (9/8) in a 30-20 Broncos win. Two weeks later at Kansas City (9/22) he came up big again, snaring his second interception of the season, and eighth of his career, while also leading the team with 12 tackles (9 solo). Versus San Diego (10/6) he led the team with 11 tackles (9 solo) in a spirited performance that sparked the Broncos' defense to a second-half shutout en route to a 28-17 win. The following week vs. Baltimore (10/20) Romanowski made a team-high 10 tackles (8 solo), including a half sack (4) on which he combined with Jumpy Geathers to drop Ravens quarterback Vynny Testaverde in the fourth quarter. He followed that performance with 10 tackles (7 solo) and two passes defended in Denver's 34-7 rout of Kansas City (10/27), then made 11 tackles (8 solo), one sack (5) and one pass defended at Oakland on Monday Night Football as the Broncos prevailed over the Raiders 22-21. Three weeks later at Minnesota (11/24) Romanowski finished with 10 tackles (9 solo) and one pass breakup in Denver's 21-17 win. His career-best third interception of the season came in the season-finale at San Diego (12/22). Romanowski started at strongside linebacker and made two solo tackles in Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97). He signed with the Broncos Feb. 23, 1996, the first free agent signed by the franchise in '96. 1995: Romanowski started all 16 games at left linebacker for the Eagles, finishing second on the team in tackles with 127 (77 solo), and adding two interceptions and one sack. He put together three straight 10-tackle outings against the Giants, at Washington and at Seattle in Weeks 11-13. In Week 14 against Dallas, Romanowski had an outstanding afternoon, recording a season-high 15 tackles and one pass defended. He made the biggest play of the game when he put a huge hit on Cowboy's running back Emmitt Smith to stuff him at the line of scrimmage on the Cowboy's 29-yard line on a fourth-and-inches play with the game tied at 17. That stop allowed Gary Anderson to kick a 42-yard game-winning field goal and gave the Eagles a 20-17 victory. He recorded nine stops (six solo) and forced a critical fumble by Arizona's Garrison Hearst in Week 15. Romanowski had an amazing season-finale at Chicago, registering a mind-boggling 24 tackles (17 solo) and intercepting a pass as well as recovering a fumble. On Dec. 30 in an NFC Wild Card Game vs. Detroit, Romanowski had one tackle in Philadelphia's 58-37 victory. He did not see much action because the Eagles played primarily in a nickel defense with a substantial lead. The following week in an NFC Divisional Playoff Game at Dallas, Romanowski had 11 tackles (10 solo). 1994: Romanowski was acquired by the Eagles on draft day '94 from the 49ers when the Eagles traded the third- and sixth-round choices to San Francisco. He started 15 games at left linebacker, a spot that was previously occupied by perennial All-Pro Seth Joyner. "Romo" finished fifth on the team with 96 tackles, including 25 sacks. He started 72 consecutive regular season games until the Eagles started their Oct. 24 game against Houston with five defensive backs. He also had two interceptions on the season. 1993: Romanowski had his finest season as a pro, leading the 49ers in tackles for the third time in four years with a career-high 105 stops (82 solo), including three sacks. He led the team in tackles eight times, including 15 stops and a forced fumble against Cincinnati (12/5). In two playoff games he totaled 11 tackles (10 solo). 1992: Romanowski started all 16 games for San Francisco, leading the team in tackles with 80 (65 solo). He started 14 games at outside linebacker and two at inside linebacker. Romanowski also had three special teams tackles on the season. In two playoff games, he had seven tackles (six solo) and one sack. 1991: Romanowski started all 16 games and finished the year with 76 tackles (67 solo), one sack, one interception and two fumble recoveries. He posted a then career-high 10 tackles at the L.A. Rams (11/25). 1990: Romanowski started all 16 games for San Francisco and finished as the team leader in tackles with 79 (68 solo), leading the team in tackles six times. In two playoff games he had 12 stops (11 solo) and three special teams tackles. He had his best game of the year in the NFC Championship Game vs. the New York Giants, when he registered a team-high eight stops. 1989: Romanowski played in all 16 games and made four starts. He had 53 stops on the year (47 solo), two fumble recoveries and one interception. He also had eight special teams stops. In three playoff games he had 12 stops (ten solo) and six special teams tackles as the 49ers won their second consecutive Super Bowl title, this one over the Broncos 55-10. 1988: Romanowski played in all 16 games, starting eight of them, including his first professional game at New Orleans, in which he earned a game ball for his efforts. He finished the season with 53 tackles (38 solo), three forced fumbles and seven special teams tackles. In three playoff games he had four solo stops and one interception, which came in Super Bowl XXII against Cincinnati off of Boomer Eason, as the 49ers went on to defeat the Bengals 20-16. Romanowski was a third-round pick (80th overall) by the 49ers out of Boston College.

COLLEGE: Romanowski was among the finalists for the Butkus Award as a senior in 1987 at Boston College, given annually to the top linebacker in the nation, as he led the Golden Eagles with 156 tackles. He was the Defensive MVP of the 1985 Cotton Bowl against Houston with 13 tackles, as he and QB Doug Flutie helped lead the Eagles to a 45-28 victory and a final ranking of No. 4 in the national polls. He had at least seven tackles in every game of the 1986 season as a junior and intercepted four passes for 44 yards. He also registered a team-high 150 tackles as a sophomore in 1985. Romanowski earned a bachelor's degree in general management from Boston College.

PERSONAL: Romanowski resides in Parker, Colo., with his wife Julie, son Dalton James (3/15/94) and daughter Alexandra (4/4/97). In addition to playing football, he lettered twice in basketball and was a standout on the baseball squad at Rockville High School in Vernon, Conn. He was the No. 2 rated linebacker in the state as a senior. In 1994 he donated $100 for each of his 96 tackles to The Caring Foundation of the Blue Cross and Blue Shield. William Thomas Romanowski was born April 2, 1966 in Vernon, Conn.

PUNTER

Tom Rouen continues to be a steady performer for the Broncos, and this season will look to improve upon his numbers from 1997. He has also been impeccable as Jason Elam's holder on field goals and extra point attempts for five seasons. Rouen has played in 80 career games since signing with the Broncos as a free agent in 1993.

1997 Rouen averaged 43.3 yards on 60 punts with a net of 38.1, ranking fourth in the AFC (5th NFL). His 43.3-yard average ranked sixth in the AFC (10th NFL). Rouen placed 22 punts inside the 20-yard line and recorded just four touchbacks, with a long of 57 (at Pitt., 12/7). He tied a career-high with eight punts at Buffalo (10/26), matching his previous high set at the Raiders in 1994 (12/11). Rouen closed the regular season on a high note, averaging 48.5 yards (net of 43.8) on four punts with a long of 54 yards at San Francisco (12/15), including three placed inside the 20-yard line, and followed that with a 53-yard average on two punts vs. San Diego (12/21), with a long of 56. Postseason: Rouen averaged 36.4 yards with a long of 53 yards on 17 punts, and placed six punts inside the 20-yard line with just one touchback. He had one attempt blocked, and posted a net average of 31.4 yards. In the AFC Wild Card Playoff vs. Jacksonville (12/27), Rouen averaged 49.5 yards on two punts with a long of 53 (his postseason best), and placed one punt inside the 20-yard line. His third punting attempt of the day was blocked by the Jaguars' Travis Davis and returned 29 yards for a touchdown to cut the Broncos' lead to 21-17 in the third quarter. In Denver's 14-10 AFC Divisional Playoff win at Kansas City (1/4/98), he averaged 36.2 yards on six punts with a long of 51. He placed two inside the 20-yard line and recorded one touchback, while posting a net average of 34.5. In the AFC Championship Game at Pittsburgh (1/11), he averaged 31.4 yards on five punts, and placed one inside the 20-yard line. He closed out the post-season in Super Bowl XXXI vs. Green Bay (1/25/98) by averaging 36.5 yards with a long of 47 yards on four punts, and placed two punts inside the 20-yard line.

1996 Rouen averaged 41.8 yards on 65 punts with a net of 36.2 yards during the regular season, ranking among the top punters in the AFC in the latter category. He had five touchbacks and placed 16 punts inside the 20 with a long of 57 (vs. Tampa Bay 9/15). Rouen had a 56-yarder against Chicago (11/10), and played a huge role in Denver's 28-17 win vs. San Diego (10/6). He placed two of his five punts inside the Charger 20-yard line to help the Broncos gain the vital field position they needed to overcome a 17-0 first-half deficit in Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97). Rouen averaged 42.6 yards on five punts with a long of 52. He placed three punts inside the 20 and had one touchback. 1995 Rouen averaged 42.2 yards on 52 punts with a net of 37.6. He placed 22 punts inside the opponent's 20-yard line with just three touchbacks, fewest in the NFL. His 42.2-yard average ranked eighth in the AFC (tied for 15th NFL), while his net average of 37.6 was third in the AFC (5th NFL). At San Diego (9/24), Rouen punted five times for 199 yards (39.8) and put three inside the 20-yard line with no touchbacks. Two weeks later at New England (10/8), Rouen placed four of his five punts inside the Patriots' 20-yard line, and followed that a week later vs. Oakland (10/16) with three punts for an average of 56.0, and placed two inside the Raiders' 20-yard line. His first punt — kicked from the back of his own end zone — travelled 61 yards, shy of his career-best of 82 yards. 1994 Rouen enjoyed an outstanding season, leading the entire NFL in net punting average at 37.1 yards. His overall average of 42.9 yards-per-punt tied him for third in the AFC. Rouen had just one punt in the season-opener, but served notice of the type of year he would have by booming a season-best 59-yarder. He matched that effort again later in the year at San Diego (10/23). His best average per punt (excluding the one-punt, 59-yard effort in the opener) came at Buffalo (9/26) when he covered 100 yards with his two punts (52, 48) for a 50.0-yard average. He was busiest in the game at the L.A. Raiders (12/11) with eight punts for 337 yards (42.1 average). For the season Rouen placed 23 of his 76 punts inside the opponents' 20-yard line. 1993 Rouen punted exceptionally well after earning a roster spot in training camp and preseason. He finished second in the AFC and second in the NFL with a 45.0-yard punting average, fourth-best in Bronco history, and a 37.1-yard net average. Rouen's best game came at San Diego where he averaged 50.5 yards on six punts. 1992 Rouen played for the World League of American Football's Ohio Glory, and participated in the training camp of the L.A. Rams. Rouen earned All-World League honors with a 41.5-yard punt average. 1991 Rouen was a free agent in the New York Giants' training camp.

COLLEGE: Rouen finished his collegiate career with a 42.8-yard average, playing for both Colorado (1988-90) and Colorado State (1987). As a junior, Rouen led the nation in punting with a 45.9-yard average, earning him All-America honors.

PERSONAL: Tom is single and makes his offseason home in Aurora, Colo. He attended Heritage High School in Littleton, Colo., playing both football and baseball. Tom is heavily active in the community, frequently speaking at schools and functions in the metro Denver area. Thomas Francis Rouen was born June 9, 1968 in Hinsdale, Ill.

Steve Russ received a long awaited opportunity in 1997 to show what he can do on the football field, and he did not disappoint, showing great potential for the future as a linebacker and special teams performer. A 1995 seventh-round pick by Denver (218th overall), Russ spent two years fulfilling his commitment to the United States Air Force before being able to join the Broncos full time. Second Lt. Russ was stationed at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in Dayton, Ohio, where he served as a program manager for the Aeronautical Systems Center Contracting Directorate. During both years he was able to accrue enough leave time to gain permission to participate in the Broncos' mini-camps and training camp, but was unable to stay for the regular season. He spent both seasons on the Reserve/Military list.

1997 Russ saw action in 14 of the 16 games on special teams and made 11 tackles. He was declared inactive vs. Oakland (11/24) and at San Diego (11/30) because of a strained hamstring suffered at Kansas City (11/16). He recorded a season-high three special teams tackles at Oakland (10/19). Postseason Russ was declared inactive for all four postseason games.

1996 Russ participated in mini-camp and training camp — and played in two preseason games (Carolina and Dallas) — but returned to Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in August to resume his commitment to the U.S. Air Force. He spent the season on "reserve/military" status. 1995 Russ participated in the first three weeks of training camp, and played in the first two preseason games — including the American Bowl game vs. San Francisco in Tokyo — but spent the season on the reserve/military list while fulfilling his Air Force commitments.

COLLEGE Russ finished his football career at the Air Force Academy with 201 tackles (105 solo) in 36 games, 22 of which were starts. As a senior in 1994, Russ started all 12 games at inside linebacker and earned third-team All-America honors from The Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft. He was also a second-team All-Western Athletic Conference pick. He led the team with 113 tackles (59 solo), two sacks, five tackles for loss (-13), one interception and four passes defended. His interception came against Colorado State, and was returned 21 yards. He had a career-high 17 tackles (10 solo) in a 10-6 Falcons win over Army, and added nine stops, an eight-yard sack and a three-yard loss vs. Notre Dame. Russ played in all 12 games and made 10 starts at inside linebacker as a junior, after seeing action in 11 as a sophomore and just one as a freshman. He received his bachelor of science degree in management in May 1995.

PERSONAL Russ was an all-conference selection as a defensive end and tight end at Medford High School in Stetsonville, Wisc. He was all-district, all-state and conference Defensive Player of the Year as a senior. Russ was also a three-time all-conference and two-time all-district performer in basketball, earning all-state and Conference Player of the Year honors in the latter as a senior, averaging 24.5 points per game as a forward. He lettered all four years in track and won the state title in the 300-meter dash. He also set school records in the 100, 200, and 300-meter dashes, the 110-meter high hurdles and the triple jump. Russ was born Sept. 16, 1972 in Stetsonville, Wisc.

When one thinks of the word persistence and how it equates to football, the image of Mark Schlereth immediately comes to mind for the toughness and ability to overcome adversity that he has shown throughout his nine years in the NFL. Despite having 20 surgeries to various parts of his anatomy over his playing career, he continues to perform at an All-Pro level, as his 1997 All-NFL selection by Sports Illustrated attests. Schlereth, one of only 30 players to win a Super Bowl with two different teams — and one of just 13 to win one in each conference — has played in 116 games (100 starts) and has started all 12 postseason games in which he has played, including Super Bowl XXVI for Washington and Super Bowl XXXII for Denver. He was named to the 1991 NFC Pro Bowl squad as a member of the Redskins, and at one point in his career had started in 43 consecutive games. The nine-year NFL veteran, who came to Denver as a free agent in 1995, is one of only four Alaskan-born players in the league. He was originally a 10th round pick (263rd overall) out of Idaho by the Redskins, and joined the Broncos as an unrestricted free agent in 1995.

1997 Schlereth — named All-NFL by Sports Illustrated and winner of the Halas Award by the Pro Football Writers of America — started the first 11 games of the season at left guard before being sidelined by a disc injury in his back. He underwent surgery on the herniated disc Nov. 20, and missed the final five weeks of the regular season. Schlereth returned to practice during the final week of the regular season, in preparation for the AFC Wild Card Playoff game vs. Jacksonville (12/27/97). The surgery was the 20th he has endured, the majority of which have been performed on his knees (16). Postseason Schlereth started at four postseason games at left guard as part of an offensive line that dominated opponents and allowed the Broncos to control games with its rushing attack. Denver averaged 187 rushing yards per game in the postseason, and the offensive line was named NFL Offensive Player of the Week for the Wild Card weekend. Schlereth joined a list of just 30 NFL players who have won a Super Bowl with more than one team (Washington, SB XXVI), and is one of just 13 to win one in each conference. In Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay (1/25/98), Schlereth started at left guard on his 32nd birthday and became the seventh player to start in a Super Bowl on his birthday and the sixth to be on the winning team. He is the first to do so since Lester Hayes started at cornerback for the Los Angeles Raiders in Super Bowl XII. The other five players to start in Super Bowls on their birthday are Washington LB Neal Olkewicz (Super Bowl XVII), Cincinnati FS Brian Hicks (Super Bowl XVI), Dallas OT Randy White (Super Bowl XII), Miami DE Bill Stanfill (Super Bowl VIII) and Green Bay T Ron Kostelnik (Super Bowl II). All were winners except for Hicks.

1996 Schlereth started 14 of the 16 regular season games at left guard for a unit that cleared the way for the AFC's leading rusher (Terrell Davis, 1,538 yards) and allowed just 31 sacks. He missed the Minnesota contest (11/24) because of a left knee injury and then missed the season finale at San Diego because of a right knee injury. Schlereth underwent arthroscopic surgery on his left knee Nov. 18 and missed just one game (at Minn., 11/24) before returning to action vs. Seattle (12/1). He felt the irritation to his cartilage during the New England game (11/17), and sat out the second half. He suffered an irritation to his right knee vs. Oakland (12/15) and underwent his fifth arthroscopic surgery on that knee Dec. 17, while also undergoing the 10th arthroscopy on his left knee the same day. He added the 11th surgery to his left knee following the season-ending playoff loss to Jacksonville (1/4/97) on January 6, 1997. Schlereth also missed most of the Cincinnati game (9/29), after suffering an ankle sprain on the Broncos' first possession. The injury kept him out the rest of the game, and put his status in question for the San Diego (10/6) game, but he started and played the whole contest. Schlereth also underwent arthroscopic surgery on his left knee in the preseason and missed three weeks, but still managed to play in the final two preseason contests to tune up for the opener. Overall, Schlereth underwent five surgeries (two knees and one ankle) between the start of training camp and the end of the regular season, but missed just two regular season starts. 1995 Schlereth started at 16 games at left guard, helping the Broncos' offense improve from 10th in the NFL in 1994 to 3rd in 1995 (1st in AFC). Schlereth suffered a slight impingement in his knee at Kansas City (12/17) and underwent an MRI (12/18) that proved negative. Schlereth was a big part of a Broncos offensive line that paved the way for a 240-yard rushing day against Seattle (12/10), the most by a Denver team since Dec. 8, 1974, when the Broncos racked up 243 yards against Houston. Displaying his toughness, Schlereth started at left guard vs. Oakland (10/16) and played the entire first half despite having undergone surgery to remove a kidney stone less than 24 hours before the game. He sat out the second half after the Broncos had built a 14-0 halftime lead. 1994 Schlereth played in all 16 games, including five starts at right guard for the Redskins and participated in 607 of a possible 1,016 snaps (60%). He played in every game despite having to recover from various physical problems that hampered his success in 1992 and '93. He played all of the season opener vs. Seattle (9/4), and a Week 15 (12/18) matchup vs. Tampa Bay. He also started the season finale at the Rams (12/24). 1993 Schlereth played in nine games, starting eight. In week one, he and his offensive linemates helped Brian Mitchell to a 116-yard rushing performance vs. Dallas (9/6). They sealed the 35-16 victory over the defending world champions with a 99-yard drive late in the third quarter. He had started 43 consecutive games until he injured his left knee before a week three matchup at Philadelphia (9/19). He came back the following week and started every game until week nine at the Giants, when he was diagnosed with Guillain-Barre syndrome, a neurological condition that involves the destruction of the outside covering around nerves or the extensions of the nerve cells that carry signals. It strikes one out of every 100,000 people. Guillain-Barre syndrome short-circuits the route between the impulses sent from the brain and the body's muscles and produces weakness in the body's extremities, and can be life-threatening. The syndrome tends to move up the body, from the feet to the legs to the thighs to the hands. It forced Mark to be placed on injured reserve for the rest of the season. 1992 Despite playing in constant pain on a left knee sprain and a right elbow sprain that required surgery on the same day following the season, Mark was the only Redskin offensive lineman to start every game at the same position, including both playoff games. 1991 Schlereth enjoyed the finest season of his career, starting all 16 games and being selected to the Pro Bowl for the first time in his career. He also started all three playoff games as the Redskins went on to win Super Bowl XXVI over Buffalo 37-24. He also earned three Redskin offensive player of the week honors (11/3 vs. Hou.; 11/17 at Pitt.; 12/15 vs. Giants). He was one of the reasons the Redskins allowed a league-low nine sacks (team record) and had the league's seventh-best rushing attack (128.1 yards per game). The Redskins' offensive line also helped to produce a 1,000-yard rusher that season in Earnest Byner, who finished the season with 1,048 yards on 274 carries (3.8 avg.) and five touchdowns. 1990 Schlereth played in 12 games, starting seven, and also started both playoff games. He started the first four games of the season, then suffered a sprained ankle at Detroit (11/4) that sidelined him for four weeks. He returned to the starting lineup in a 25-10 victory at New England (12/15). Schlereth started at Philadelphia in an NFC Wild Card Game (1/5) and at San Francisco in an NFC Divisional Playoff Game (1/12). 1989 Mark started all six games in which he played during his rookie campaign. He got his first career start at right guard in a 10-3 victory at Philadelphia (11/12). He had to move into the starting lineup due to various injuries to the starters.

COLLEGE Mark played nose tackle, defensive tackle and center before settling in at guard in his junior season at Idaho. Despite being hampered by knee and elbow injuries, Mark came back his senior season to help the Vandals to the I-AA semifinals and a school record 11 victories (11-2).

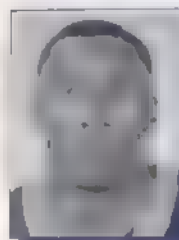

PERSONAL Mark attended Robert Service High School in Anchorage, Ak., where he won the state heavyweight wrestling title despite being the lightest competitor at 210 pounds. He was one of the most active players in community and charity appearances as a member of the Redskins, and has continued that commitment in Denver. Schlereth has talked to many children about his battle with dyslexia, and was named the Professional Athlete of the Year in the state of Idaho in 1991, edging out college teammate and current Seahawks quarterback John Friesz. Mark and his wife Lisa have three children: daughters Alex and Avery, and son Daniel. Mark and his wife are also involved in Ronald McDonald House, and he is a past honorary co-chairman of Camp Dynamite, working with disadvantaged children in Southeast Washington, D.C. The one week camp in Lancaster, Pa., exposes children to sports, singing, arts and crafts and other activities not available in Southeast Washington. During the season, Schlereth opens his home to players and staff members for a Monday Night Blue study which is usually attended by about 20-25 people and led by Team Chaplain Bill Rader. Schlereth joined Broncos offensive linemates David Diaz-Infante and Tony Jones for an appearance on NBC's Late Night with Conan O'Brien show in late January 1998, days after the Broncos' Super Bowl victory over Green Bay. Schlereth is also the first native born Alaskan to play in the NFL. His teammates refer to him by a nickname given to him by his former Redskin teammates, Stinky, after stinkheads, an Eskimo delicacy made from rotting fish heads.

The numbers being put up on a yearly basis by Broncos All-Pro tight end Shannon Sharpe are not only beginning to make a lot of noise in Denver's record books, but they are beginning to reach Hall of Fame proportions. The eight-year veteran has produced three 1,000-yard receiving seasons (tied for 1st in NFL history by a tight end), six straight 50-catch seasons (tied for the franchise record) and has been selected to six straight Pro Bowls. Sharpe entered the NFL in 1990 as the Broncos' seventh-round selection (192nd overall) out of Savannah State. Here is a look at some of Sharpe's more prominent career statistical notes after eight seasons.

- Shannon Sharpe has now played in 123 games (90 starts) with 485 career receptions (third all-time in franchise history), 5,991 receiving yards (6th) and 34 touchdown receptions (6th).
- He shares the team record for most receptions in a game (13) and most touchdown receptions in a game (3), and holds the record for most receptions in a postseason contest (13), which is also tied with Kellen Winslow (1981) and Thurman Thomas (1989) as an NFL postseason record.
- Sharpe ranks third in franchise history with 15 games of 100 or more receiving yards (including one in the postseason).
- He has played in eight postseason contests — all starts — and ranks second in franchise playoff history in receptions (33) and third in receiving yards (396), for an average of 12.0 with two touchdowns.
- Sharpe has been selected to six straight Pro Bowls, tied for fourth-most in club history.
- He is one of only four tight ends in NFL annals to post more than one 1,000-yard receiving season (3), and has more receptions and yards than any tight end in the NFL since he entered the league in 1990.

1997 Sharpe started all 16 games and was selected to his sixth straight Pro Bowl, named All-NFL by the Associated Press for the fourth time in his career (third time as a first-teamer) and also named first-team All-NFL by The Sporting News, USA Today, Pro Football Weekly and Cowboys & Pro Football Newsweekly. He was also named second-team All-NFL by Football Digest and All-AFC Pro Football Weekly. Sharpe ranked second on the team with 72 receptions for 1,107 yards (15.4 career best) with three touchdowns, posting the third 1,000-yard season of his career to tie Todd Christensen for the NFL tight end record. He began his milestone pursuit in Week One by moving into third place on the Broncos' all-time receiving list, catching four passes to raise his career total to 397. The second-quarter 15-yard catch moved him past Riley Odoms, and also made him the leading pass-catching tight end in franchise history. Two weeks later vs. St. Louis (9/14), he caught two passes for 20 yards in the first quarter to top the 5,000-yard career mark before a twisted left ankle forced him from the contest. He returned to the starting lineup a week later vs. Cincinnati (9/21). Sharpe's 11th regular season 100-yard game came the following week in his return to his native Georgia to take on the Atlanta Falcons (9/28). He caught six passes for 119 yards on the day, including a then-career-best 65-yard touchdown from John Elway on the fourth play from scrimmage in Denver's 29-21 win. Sharpe had 93 receiving yards by the half, and his three first-half receptions put he and his brother Sterling at over 1,000 receptions for their careers, a first by a brother combination. His one TD reception tied A. Denson (32) for sixth place in all-time touchdown receptions by a Bronco. Sharpe passed Vance Johnson (416) on the Broncos' all-time receptions list at Oakland (10/19), catching eight passes for 94 yards. His highest yardage output of the season came in Denver's 34-0 shutout of Carolina (11/9), as he caught eight passes for 174 yards, the second highest total of his career, topped only by the 180 he had in Week One of 1995 vs. Buffalo (9/3). It was also his second eight-catch game of the season. This was the 13th 100-yard receiving game of Sharpe's career and the 12th such game in the regular season, third most in franchise history behind Lamon Taylor (24) and Steve Watson (15 regular season). He also moved past Haven Moses (5,450) for fifth place in club history in receiving yards during the contest. The next week at Kansas City (11/16), he caught three passes for 27 yards and a touchdown in Denver's 24-22 loss. The TD was the 33rd of Sharpe's career, moving him into sixth place in franchise history, passing A. Denson. In Denver's 31-3 Monday Night Football win over Oakland (11/24), he caught 10 passes for 142 yards, the fifth 10-catch game of his career, one off the NFL record for tight ends (Kellen Winslow). He also became just the second player in franchise history to record six total and consecutive 50-catch seasons, joining Lamon Taylor (1960-65). He closed the regular season vs. San Diego (12/21) on a high note with eight receptions for 162 yards and a 68-yard touchdown, the longest of his career. It marked his 15th career 100-yard game, the 14th in the regular season. He and his brother Sterling have now combined for 99 career touchdowns, the most ever by a brother combination. Postseason Sharpe finished the postseason with a team-high tie 12 receptions for 149 yards (second on team), for a 12.4 average with a long of 23. In Denver's 42-17 Wild Card victory over Jacksonville (12/27/97), Sharpe moved into sixth place in postseason receiving yards by a Bronco, passing Ricky Nattier (251) and Michael Young (255). He also passed Mark Jackson (21), for third place in postseason receptions by a Bronco. He added two receptions for 33 yards (long of 22) in Denver's 14-10 Divisional Playoff win at Kansas City (1/4/98). In Denver's 24-21 AFC Championship victory at Pittsburgh (1/11/98), Sharpe caught three passes for 49 yards, including an 18-yarder on third-and-six with 2:00 remaining in the game to all but wrap up Denver's fifth Super Bowl appearance.

RAZOR SHARPE (PART II)

On Dec. 21, 1997, vs. San Diego, Shannon Sharpe went over the 1,000-yard mark in receiving yards for the season, the third time he has topped the 1,000-yard plateau in his career. He is now one of only four tight ends in NFL history to have multiple 1,000-yard seasons, and one of just three to post three 1,000-yard seasons posted by tight ends in league annals.

During the game he passed Haven Moses (314) for fifth place and tied Steve Watson (358) for fourth place on the Broncos' all-time postseason list for receiving yards. In the Broncos' 31-24 victory over Green Bay in Super Bowl XXXII (1/25/98), Sharpe was Denver's leading receiver, receiving five passes for 38 yards with a long of 12. He also did a magnificent blocking job on Green Bay LB Seth Joyner, enabling teammate Terrell Davis to rush for 157 yards (the team ran for 179) and earn MVP honors. During the contest, Sharpe moved past Steve Watson (358), for fourth place and Steve Sewell (375) for third place on the teams' all-time postseason receiving yardage list. He also passed Sawell (31) for second place all-time in postseason receptions by a Bronco.

1996 Sharpe - selected to his fifth consecutive Pro Bowl and named first-team All-Pro by the Associated Press, Sports Illustrated, The Sporting News, Pro Football Weekly, Football Digest and College & Pro Football Newsweekly - started 15 of the 16 regular season games at tight end, missing only the season finale at San Diego (12/22) when he was declared inactive to rest a sore ankle for the playoffs. He was also named All-AFC by UPI and Football News. For the year he tied for eighth in the AFC in receptions (80, 16th NFL) and was ninth in receiving yards (1,062, 15th NFL) for an average of 13.3 yards per catch with 10 touchdowns (8th AFC/13th NFL), establishing a new career high. His 1,062 receiving yards also represented a career high, topping his 1,010-yard effort in 1993. Sharpe led all NFL tight ends in receptions, receiving yardage and receiving touchdowns. With his 10 touchdowns, Sharpe joined Terrell Davis (15 TDs) to give Denver two players with double-figure touchdowns in the same season for the first time in franchise history. Sharpe had a seven-game stretch early in the year (9/22-11/10) in which he topped the 100-yard mark three times and was over 90 twice, for an average of 107.6 yards per game. His four-catch, 21-yard, one-touchdown performance vs. Seattle (12/7) gave him career single-season bests in receiving yardage, finished at 1,062, and receiving touchdowns (10, previous best was nine in '93). Sharpe's longest reception was a 51-yarder vs. Chicago (11/10), and he also had a 46-yard touchdown to his credit vs. Kansas City (10/27). He, along with Davis and quarterback John Elway, made the Broncos just the fifth team in NFL history to have a 3,000-yard passer, 1,500-yard rusher and a 1,000-receiver in the same season. Sharpe's 1,000-yard effort was the second of his career, making him one of only four tight ends in league annals to have more than one 1,000-yard receiving seasons. He left the season-opener vs. the Jets (9/1), in the third quarter with a mid ankle sprain after recording four receptions for 55 yards and a touchdown, but was well enough to start at Seattle a week later (9/8). In Week Four at Kansas City (9/22) Sharpe had his first big breakout game of the season, hauling in a game-high nine passes for 131 yards, followed by a game-high six passes for 60 yards and one touchdown the following week at Cincinnati (9/29). The next week vs. San Diego (10/6) Sharpe had a career day hauling in a franchise record (tie) 13 passes for 153 yards and three touchdowns in Denver's 28-17 come-from-behind victory. The three touchdowns tied his previous best, which he shares with several other players as the franchise record. Sharpe's touchdowns came on passes of 20, 20 and 3 yards from John Elway. In the game, Sharpe also moved ahead of Al Denson (4,150) into eighth place on the Broncos' career receiving yardage chart, and moved into seventh all-time on the touchdown reception chart, surpassing Mark Jackson, Bob Scarpitto and Rick Upchurch. He was named the Miller Lite/NFL Player of the Week for his performance. Versus Baltimore (10/20), Sharpe caught a game-high nine passes for a season-high 161 yards, with a long of 32 yards, his longest of the season. It was his third 100-yard game in the past four outings. The following week vs. Kansas City (10/27) Sharpe continued his midseason onslaught by catching a game-high six passes for 99 yards with two touchdowns. Both scores came in the first quarter: the first a season-best 46-yarder and the second a 10-yarder in Denver's 34-7 win. Against Chicago (11/10) he caught five passes for a game-high 92 yards, and hauled in his ninth touchdown pass of the year to tie his previous career high set in 1993. Two weeks later at Minnesota (11/24) Sharpe caught four passes for a game-high 90 yards to move ahead of Mark Jackson (4,746) into sixth place on the Broncos all-time receiving yardage chart. He took a vicious blow under his chin in the second quarter from Orlando Thomas, but remained in the contest and helped lead Denver to a 21-17 come-from-behind win. The next week vs. Seattle (12/1) Sharpe moved past his previous single-season yardage best of 1,010 set in 1993, and topped his previous single-season touchdown best of nine (also '93). His one-yard touchdown reception in the first quarter put Denver ahead 7-0 en route to a 34-7 win. Two weeks later vs. Oakland (12/15) he was hit hard after making his one catch on the day and sustained an injury to his hip that kept him out of the rest of the game. In the regular season finale at San Diego (12/22) Sharpe missed his only game of the year when he was declared inactive to rest a sore ankle. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97) he started at tight end and caught two passes for 31 yards, including an 18-yard touchdown from John Elway to put Denver ahead 12-0 in the first quarter. 1995 Sharpe, who was selected as a Pro Bowl reserve (fourth straight Pro Bowl), played in the first 13 games and started 12, despite continuing to be bothered by sore ankles. He was named second-team All-Pro at tight end by the Associated Press. Sharpe's 63 receptions were the 12th-most in the AFC, while his 756 receiving yards

The Broncos' John Elway, Terrell Davis, Rod Smith and Shannon Sharpe proved to be one of the best quadruple threats in the NFL during the 1997 season. The quartet combined to pull off one of the rarest feats in NFL history and now Denver is the only franchise in league history to do so in consecutive seasons. Denver is now one of only nine teams in NFL history to produce a 3,000-yard passer, a 1,500-yard rusher and a 1,000-yard receiver in the same season. Also, the four players combined to produce a 3,000-yard passer, 1,500-yard rusher and two 1,000-yard receivers in 1997, a feat that, along with Detroit in 1995 and '97 has been accomplished only three times in NFL history.

SHARPE JOINS THE 400 AND 5,000 CLUBS

Shannon Sharpe went over the 400-reception plateau on Sept. 7, 1997, with a four-catch, 62-yard effort against the third Broncos with 400 receptions and 13th tight end in NFL history to reach that milestone. Sharpe also went over the 5,000-yard receiving mark for his career in Denver's 35-14 win over St. Louis Sept. 14, 1997, making him the sixth Bronco to accomplish the feat and the 19th tight end to do so.

ranked 16th, despite missing three games entirely, and playing spaningly in three others due to injury. He was second among all NFL tight ends in both receptions and receiving yards. In the season opener vs. Buffalo (9/3), Sharpe made a magnificent 1995 debut, tying a regular season career best with 10 receptions, and establishing a new career high with 180 yards, fourth-most all-time by a Bronco in a single game. It was the seventh 100-yard game of his career, and the most receiving yards by a Bronco since Steve Watson accumulated 183 on 10 catches at the L.A. Raiders on 12/12/82. Sharpe suffered an ankle sprain against Washington (9/17) and missed the final three quarters of that game, but was back in the lineup — though not at 100% — the following week at San Diego (9/24). His first touchdown reception of the year came at New England (10/8). Sharpe's second-best game of the year came vs. San Diego (11/19) when he caught a game-high eight passes for 137 yards and one touchdown, with a long of 40. Sharpe's fourth and final TD of the season came Dec. 3 against Jacksonville, before he took a blow to the face and suffered an orbital fracture to his left eye in the second quarter. He underwent surgery on the eye Dec. 7, forcing him to miss the final three games of the season (against Seattle, 12/10, at Kansas City, 12/17; and at Oakland, 12/24), but he was not placed on the injured reserve list. 1994 Sharpe was selected to his third straight Pro Bowl as he posted career-best numbers in receptions (87) and yardage (1,010), though he did not play in the Pro Bowl game because of ankle and knee injuries. His 87 catches were the most by any Bronco since 1961 (Lionel Taylor, 100) and the third-most all-time for a Denver player. He ranked fourth in the AFC and eighth in the NFL in receptions. His 1,010-yard total was second-best on the team as well as ninth in the AFC, and gave Sharpe his first 1,000-yard season after just missing with 995 in 1993. He joined Anthony Miller (1,107 yards) to give Denver two 1,000-yard receivers in the same season for the first time in franchise history. He scored four touchdowns and had six or more catches on eight occasions. He and his brother Sterling (Green Bay Packers) remain the only brother combination to lead their teams in receptions in the same year, as they have now done for three straight seasons. Sharpe matched his career high with 10 receptions (95 yards) in Denver's dramatic overtime victory at Kansas City (12/4), and followed that a week later with nine catches for 89 yards at the Raiders (12/11). His career high in yardage came in game seven at San Diego (10/23) when he gained 121 yards on six catches, including a 44-yard pass from Elway for his longest reception of the year. Sharpe played in 15 of the Broncos' 16 games and made 13 starts. After an outstanding opening day (9/4) on which he caught nine passes for 87 yards against San Diego, he was placed on the inactive list for game two at the N.Y. Jets (9/11) because of a knee injury suffered in the opener. He was expected to miss up to five weeks, but returned for spot duty the next weekend at the L.A. Raiders and went without a catch for the first time since Nov. 30, 1992. He returned to the starting lineup in game five at Seattle and stayed there the rest of the season, playing through the pain of aching knees and ankles. He did not practice at all the week of the Cleveland game (10/30), but showed up on Sunday to lead the team in receptions (9) and yards (85). 1993 Sharpe was named to his second straight Pro Bowl, along with being named to virtually every All-NFL team. He led the Broncos in receptions with 81, which ranked third in the AFC and eighth in the NFL. His 81 receptions ranked fourth in Bronco history, and were at the time the most since Lionel Taylor's 85 in 1965. Sharpe was also on the receiving end of nine TD passes, which tied for second in the AFC. He accounted for at least two receptions in every game in 1993, with his season high coming against Kansas City (12/12). In that game Sharpe recorded 10 receptions for 65 yards and three touchdowns. His best game yardage-wise came in the season finale at the L.A. Raiders (1/2)

when he accounted for 115 yards on six receptions with two touchdowns. The next week in the wild card matchup with the same Raiders (1/9), Sharpe tied a playoff record with 13 receptions. 1992 Sharpe led all Denver receivers in 1992 with a career-high 53 receptions for 640 yards and two touchdowns. Shannon and his brother Sterling of the Green Bay Packers became the only brother combination in NFL history to lead their respective teams in receiving in the same season. Sharpe had two 100-yard receiving games in '92, catching seven passes for 109 yards at Buffalo (12/12) and nine for a career-high 118 yards vs. Kansas City (10/4). He also had nine receptions at Washington (10/12) and had seven in the season finale at Kansas City (12/27). Sharpe, who was in the starting lineup 12 times in 1992, also set a new career high with a 55-yard reception at Cleveland (9/27). 1991 Sharpe was converted from wide receiver to H-back in 1991 and had a fine season, catching 22 passes for 322 yards and a touchdown and also gaining 15 yards on a reverse. He made half of his receptions in the final three weeks of the campaign, with 11 catches for 159 yards. Sharpe established new career highs at Cleveland (12/8) with four receptions for 59 yards, and had four catches the following week vs. Phoenix (12/15). On special teams he posted a team-high 12 tackles, with five assists and two knockdown blocks. Sharpe appeared in Denver's starting line-up nine times during the regular season. He closed out the postseason with six catches for 60 yards, with three for 20 against Houston (1/4) and three for 40 at Buffalo in the AFC Championship Game (1/12). 1990 Denver's seventh-round draft choice in 1990, Sharpe saw more playing time as the season progressed and closed out the year with seven receptions for 99 (14.1) yards and a score. He had his top receiving game at Kansas City (12/9) with three catches for 41 yards and his first professional touchdown. Sharpe was also one of the Broncos' top special teams performers, netting 16 total tackles, six knockdown blocks, and a forced fumble.

COLLEGE Sharpe had a tremendous career at Savannah State College, where he was a three-time All-American, All-Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, and all-state selection, as well as the three-time conference Offensive Player of the Year. Sharpe closed out his college play with 192 receptions for 3,744 yards, a 19.5 average, and 40 touchdowns. He ended his career with appearances in the East-West Shrine and Blue-Gray all-star games. He set school records for most consecutive games with a reception (39), with a touchdown (14), and for most games with over 100 yards receiving (17). As a senior Sharpe caught 61 passes for 1,312 yards and 18 TDs, and had three games with more than 200 yards receiving and one game with four touchdown catches. Sharpe was a criminal justice major.

PERSONAL: Sharpe hails from Glennville, Ga., where he was all-county, all-region and all-area in football at Glennville High School. In addition to four letters in football, Sharpe lettered three times in basketball and four times in track, setting a Georgia state Class A record in the triple jump (48-3) as a junior, and breaking that mark as a senior (49-5). He won the regional triple jump title three straight years and the regional discus throwing title twice. Shannon was also a two-time all-area selection in basketball, scoring more than 1,000 points in three seasons and averaging 30 points and 15 rebounds as a senior. He once scored 52 points in a game and once grabbed 27 rebounds in a game. His brother Sterling was an All-American at South Carolina who earned All-Pro status in five of his seven NFL seasons with the Green Bay Packers. Sterling is now a reporter for ESPN television, and a studio host for the network's award-winning NFL Countdown and Prime Monday programs. Shannon has several cousins who played college football, and he lists his hobbies as fishing, basketball, weight lifting, and his two Rottweilers, Kane and Killian. Shannon is single and makes his home in Glennville, Ga.

BORN: February 25, 1974 in Dallas, Texas

PRO YEAR: 3rd • YEAR WITH BRONCOS: 3rd

In 1997 Detron Smith became more than just a backup fullback as he proved to be a valuable commodity in the backfield as well as a stalwart on special teams. The third-year pro gave Howard Griffith a breather when needed and was Denver's main wedge-buster on kickoffs, as well as starring on other special teams units. He has now played in 29 regular season and four postseason contests, rushing four times for 10 yards (2.5), catching four passes for 41 yards (10.3) and a touchdown, and returning one kickoff for no yards. Smith was the Broncos' third-round draft choice (No. 65 overall) in 1996 out of Texas A&M.

1997: Smith contributed in all 16 games at fullback, catching four passes for 41 yards (10.3) and a touchdown (at Atlanta, 9/28), while rushing four times for 10 yards (2.5). He was also a stalwart on special teams, where he made seven tackles and fielded a kickoff for no return, while also serving as the wedge-buster on kickoff coverage. Smith played most of the Atlanta game (9/28) at fullback after Howard Griffith went down with a knee injury on the first series. He recorded his first career rush for one yard in the first quarter, and later snagged his first career reception for a 17-yard touchdown from John Elway in the third quarter to give Denver a 29-14 lead. He also recorded one kickoff return for no yards. After catching one pass for seven yards against the Raiders (10/19), Smith also replaced the injured Griffith at fullback at Buffalo (10/26), but did not start the game as the Broncos opened in a two-tight end set. He rushed once for -2 yards and caught one pass for eight yards. In the regular season finale vs. San Diego (12/21) he rushed twice for 11 yards and caught one pass for 9 yards, and made one tackle on special teams. Postseason: Smith played in all four postseason games as the backup fullback, and also contributed on special teams. He filled in admirably for Griffith in the Wild Card win over Jacksonville (12/27/97), as Denver racked up over 300 yards rushing in the game. His crushing block on Jaguars' linebacker Bryan Schwartz sprung Terrell Davis on his postseason franchise-record 59-yard jaunt late in the third quarter. Smith narrowly missed recovering a Tamarck Vanover fumble near the end of the first half at Kansas City (1/4/98) in Denver's 14-10 AFC Divisional Playoff victory.

1996: Smith played in 13 of the 16 regular season games in his rookie season, missing only the Cincinnati (9/29), Seattle (12/1) and Oakland (12/15) contests when he was declared inactive. He saw some action at fullback, but played primarily on special teams, where he made three tackles according to unofficial press box statistics. Smith, bothered early in training camp by a sprained ankle, suffered July 25, played in all four preseason games both on offense and special teams. He did not have a rushing attempt, but did catch six passes for 33 yards (5.5) with a long of 11. Smith was declared inactive for Denver's lone playoff contest vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97).

COLLEGE: Smith was primarily a blocking back during his career at Texas A&M, creating holes first for Greg Hill and then Leeland McElroy. He rushed 57 times for 184 yards (3.2) and one touchdown, while catching 33 passes for 300 yards (9.1) with a long of 35 yards. Smith also returned five kickoffs for 54 yards (10.8) with a long of 15. In his first two years at A&M (1992-93) Smith's running backs coach was Broncos offensive coordinator Gary Kubiak.

PERSONAL: Smith was a consensus Texas Top 100 selection at Lake Highlands High School in Dallas, and rated the second-best fullback prospect in the Southwest, receiving a perfect score of 10 points on Max Emfinger's Blue Chip List. He carried the ball 181 times for 1,351 yards (7.5) and scored 15 touchdowns. Smith was a wildlife and fisheries major at Texas A&M. Detron Negi Smith was born Feb. 25, 1974 in Dallas. He is single and makes his home in Austin, Texas.

As questions were answered along the Broncos' defensive front when the club acquired Neil Smith during the 1997 offseason, Smith, who had spent nine years chasing a championship in Kansas City before finally reaching his goal last year with Denver, provided a major boost to a line that had made steady improvement in recent years. Smith — who Denverites knew best for hunting down John Elway — helped push Elway and the rest of the Broncos to new heights in '97, as Denver's defense ranked No. 1 in the AFC and No. 5 in the NFL, including a No. 2 AFC ranking against the pass (5th NFL), en route to the franchise's first World Championship. Now in his 11th season out of Nebraska, Smith has been voted in to six Pro Bowl appearances (three starting assignments) the most recent coming last year, his first in a Broncos uniform. He tied with Maa Tanuvasa and Alfred Williams for the team lead in sacks (8.5). He has now played in 152 regular season games (140 starts) and accumulated 592 tackles (441 solo), 26 pass breakups, 30 forced fumbles, 13 fumble recoveries, three interceptions, 66 yards) and a staggering 95 sacks (682 yards). Smith is just five sacks shy of the century mark for his career, a feat accomplished by only 15 players in NFL history. He ranks fifth in the NFL in sacks since 1992 with 67.5. Smith has posted four double-digit sack seasons in his career (1992-95), and has accumulated 19 career multiple sack games. Smith has also played in 13 postseason contests (all starts) with 57 stops (45 solo), six fumble recoveries, three forced fumbles, three pass breakups and 9.5 more sacks (63.5 yards). The nine postseason sacks rank seventh all time and fifth among active players. Smith entered the NFL in 1988 as Kansas City's No. 1 draft choice, going second overall.

1997: Smith started 14 of the 16 games at left defensive end in his first year in Denver and earned his sixth career Pro Bowl invitation (third as a starter). For the year he made 46 tackles (38 solo), including 8.5 sacks (39.5), tied for the team lead and tied for tenth in the AFC — while also adding a forced fumble and four passes defended, despite missing two games due to a torn right triceps muscle. Smith started the season opener at left defensive end against his former team, Kansas City, and recorded one solo tackle in Denver's 19-3 victory. The next week at Seattle (9/7), he made four solo tackles, including his first sack as a Bronco for a 2-yard loss in Denver's 35-14 come-from-behind victory. He missed several plays due to back spasms but returned to finish the game. Smith picked up his sack pace a week later vs. St. Louis (9/14), accumulating two (1.8) among his five tackles (4 solo) to record his first multi-sack game as a Bronco, and his first since Oct. 22, 1995. The following week vs. Cincinnati (9/21) Smith made two solo tackles, including an 11-yard sack of Jeff Blake, on which he forced a fumble that was recovered by Alfred Williams and returned 51 yards for a coffin-lining touchdown in the final minute of a 38-28 win. His season-high for tackles (6; 5 solo) came in Week Six vs. New England (10/6) on Monday Night Football. Smith posted a half a sack at Oak and (10/19), then recorded his second multi-sack game of the season at Buffalo (10/26) with two for 12 yards in losses. He also suffered a partially torn right triceps in the contest, which was expected to keep him out for a minimum of 10 days. He missed Denver's next two games with the injury but returned to the starting lineup at the Chiefs (11/16) for his first game back in Kansas City and posted four tackles (3 solo) in Denver's 24-22 loss. On Monday Night Football vs. Oakland (11/24), Smith did not start but saw significant action at left defensive end and made four tackles (3 solo), including a sack of Jeff George to raise his season total to 7.5. The sack came in the final minute of the first half, deep in Broncos territory, and helped limit the Raiders to a field goal on the drive, their only score of the night. Smith's final sack of the regular season came at San Diego (11/30), dropping Craig Whelihan among his four tackles (3 solo). In that same contest his tipped pass just before half-time allowed Steve Atwater to make an interception, which he returned 22 yards for a Broncos score. Postseason Smith started all four postseason games at left defensive end and recorded 10 tackles (8 solo), including a team-high three sacks (-26), as well as one pass defended, two forced fumbles and a fumble recovery in the AFC Wild Card Playoff win over Jacksonville (12/27/97). Smith started at left defensive end and posted three tackles (2 solo) with one pass defended in Denver's 42-17 victory. His first two sacks came in the Divisional Playoff at Kansas City (1/4/98) against his former teammates, as he posted four solo tackles and forced a fumble in Denver's 14-10 triumph. His first sack came early in the second quarter when he dropped Elvis Grbac for an 8-yard loss, and his second came on the final play of the first half as he got to Grbac for a 12-yard loss and forced a fumble that was recovered by the Chiefs' Glenn Parker. His third post season sack came a week later in the AFC Championship Game at Pittsburgh (1/11/98), forcing a fumble by Kordell Stewart on the final play of the third quarter that teammate Mike Lodish recovered, squelching yet another attempt by the Steelers to cut into Denver's 24-14. Denver went on to win the game 24-21. Smith also forced a critical holding penalty near the end of the first half against Steelers' tight end Justin Strzelczyk that put Pittsburgh in a deep hole and forced them to punt the ball back to Denver, who would go in and score their second TD late in the quarter and take a 10-point lead to the locker room. In Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay (1/25/98), Smith recovered a fumble caused by Steve Atwater early in the second quarter, setting up a Jason Elam field goal that gave Denver a 17-7 lead en route to a 31-24 win.

1996: Smith started all 16 games and had 54 tackles (40 solo), six sacks (31.5 yards lost), a club-high 77 quarterback pressures, two pass deflections and one forced fumble. He had his first sack of the season in an opening day victory at Houston (9/1). He racked up nine QB pressures the following week vs. the Raiders in another Chiefs victory, and added seven QB pressures to go with his second sack of the season vs. Seattle (9/15). Smith added his third sack of the season against his new teammate John Elway in Kansas City's 17-14 win over Denver (9/22), the Broncos only loss in their first 13 games. He had eight tackles (four solo) and five QB pressures vs. Pittsburgh on Monday Night Football (10/7), then had four tackles (three solo), one sack and two QB pressures vs. Seattle (10/17). His season high of 10 QB pressures came vs. Green Bay (11/10), in a game in which he also recorded a sack and a forced fumble when he stripped Brett Favre while tackling him for a loss. He blocked a 28-yard John Carney field goal attempt against San Diego (11/24), tying him for most in Chiefs history with five. Smith posted his sixth sack of the season at Oakland on Monday Night Football (12/9), 1995 Smith played in all 16 games for Kansas City with 14 starts, earning his fifth consecutive Pro Bowl appearance, second as a starter. For the year he registered 64 tackles (48 solo), a team-high 12 sacks, a team-high five forced fumbles, one fumble recovery, three batted balls and 59 QB pressures. Smith was a first-team All-NFL pick by UPI and Pro Football Weekly, and a second-teamer by AP and College & Pro Football Newsweekly. He led the team in sacks for the third year in a row and his sack total ranked fourth in the AFC while tying for sixth in the NFL. He had two multi-sack games, getting 2.5 at Denver (10/22) and two vs. San Diego (10/9). Smith was named the AFC Defensive Player of the Month for October when he had 20 tackles, 5.5 sacks and 14 QB pressures, leading the Chiefs to four wins. He blocked the fourth field goal of his career against the Chargers (11/12) and had a season-high nine tackles vs. San Diego (10/9) and at Miami (12/11). In the playoff loss to Indianapolis Smith had seven tackles, a sack, a forced fumble and six QB pressures. 1994 Smith played in 14 games (13 starts) for the Chiefs, despite battling ankle, tricep and thumb injuries throughout the season. He still managed to earn his fourth consecutive Pro Bowl berth, the Ed Block Courage Award and a second-team All-AFC nod from UPI. He had surgery on both thumbs during the season. Smith did not start the Denver game (12/4), and missed entire games against Cleveland (11/20) and Seattle (11/27), due to the tricep injury. The first games he had missed since 1989, a string of 84 consecutive games. Smith led the team in sacks for the second straight season with 11.5, a total that ranked third in the AFC and sixth in the NFL. The 1997 season proved to be a breakout for Rod Smith, who ascended from relative anonymity to status as one of the brightest young stars in the game today. Smith, who had only started two of his prior 26 games in the league before the '97 season, started all 16 games and became the deep threat that coach Mike Shanahan had hoped he would be, hooking up with John Elway on numerous occasions to help Denver spread the ball over the field and keep defenses off balance. Smith posted one of the best statistical seasons in franchise history and seeks to climb to new heights in 1998, as he will attempt to take his game to the next level. The fourth-year pro has now played in 42 games and started 18, catching 92 passes for 1,569 yards, 17 TDs, with 15 touchdowns and a long of 78 yards. He has a 16.9-yard average for a 12.3-yard average (295 yds.) with a long of 36 and five kickoffs for a 16.6-yard average (83 yds.) with a long of 29. Smith's first NFL touchdown in 1995 - on his first NFL reception - may always be his most memorable, as he outleaped Washington Redskins All-Pro Darrell Green to haul in a 43-yard John Elway pass in the end zone as time expired, giving Denver a 38-31 victory. Smith entered the NFL in 1994 as a rookie free agent with the Broncos out of Missouri Southern. He spent that season on the practice squad before making the 53-man roster in '95.

1997 Smith started all 16 games at wide receiver and finished second on the team in receptions with 70 for a team-leading 1,180 yards (16.9) with a long of 78 yards and 12 touchdowns in his first year as a full-time starter. The yardage and touchdown totals both represented the third highest single season totals in franchise history. He also carried the ball five times on reverses for a net total of 16 yards rushing (3.2) with a long of 21 (at San Diego, 11/30). Smith's 16.9 yards per catch average ranked third in the NFL, and he also ranked fourth in the AFC (T8th NFL) in receiving touchdowns, tied for third (T5th NFL) in total touchdowns and points scored by a non-quarterback (T6th NFL) and 11th in total yards from scrimmage (1,143). Smith posted six 100-yard receiving performances in 1997, the second highest total in franchise history behind Lorne Taylor's seven in 1960. He posted back-to-back two touchdown games in Weeks Four and Five, and added two more multi-TD games (at Pittsburgh, 12/7 and vs. San Diego, 12/21). Smith posted nine receptions of 30 yards or longer during the regular season (30, 37, 40, 41, 43, 47, 59, 72 and 78) plus two more in postseason play (43 and 40). His 72- and 78-yard receptions represent the two longest completions by Elway to the same receiver in a single season. Smith also returned one punt for 12 yards against St. Louis (9/14). It all began on opening day for Smith vs. Kansas City (8/31) when he set then-career highs with five receptions for 122 yards to lead both teams. His total included a career-best 78-yard reception from John Elway late in the second quarter to set up a Denver field goal. It was the third-longest non-scoring reception in Broncos history. Versus St. Louis (9/14), he caught four passes for 126 yards and two scores (from 72 and 38 yards out) in Denver's 35-14 victory. Smith set a career high for receptions (7) in Week Four vs. Cincinnati (9/21) — a feat he would match at Kansas City on 11/16 — on 82 receiving yards in Denver's 38-20 victory. He also caught two touchdowns in the game from 1 and 8 yards out for his second straight two-TD game. Smith posted a new career high with 130 yards on five receptions in the Broncos' 34-13 Monday Night win over New England in Week Six (10/6). He registered his first NFL rushing attempt at Oakland (10/19), gaining 14 yards on a reverse, to go along with five passes for 58 yards (11/6). His next 100-yard game came vs. Seattle (11/2) when he caught five passes for 114 yards (22/8), including a 59-yard touchdown reception from Elway in the third quarter to put Denver ahead 27-20. It was Smith's fourth 100-yard game of '97, the most by a Bronco since Anthony Miller had five in 1994. Smith also earned once on a reverse and gained three yards. The next Sunday vs. Carolina (11/9), Smith caught four passes for 40 yards (10/0), including his sixth touchdown of the season on a 20-yard pass from John Elway in the third quarter of Denver's 34-0 romp at Kansas City (11/16). He tied his career high with a game-high seven receptions for 114 yards, including a long of 43, to notch his fifth 100-yard game of the season, tied for second-most in franchise history. His 43-yarder in the first quarter will likely be remembered as one of the most outstanding the league has seen in recent years, as Smith showed remarkable concentration while drawing a pass interference call and nearly being tripped as the ball landed in his hands. Smith's seventh touchdown (15 yds) came vs. Oakland (11/24) on Monday Night Football, and he added his eighth the following week at San Diego (11/30) on a 5-yard reception from Elway, in addition to a career-best 21-yard rushing gain on a reverse. Smith came up big at Pittsburgh (12/7), catching four passes for 115 yards with a long of 41 and two touchdowns, his third two-touchdown game of the season. His scores came on a 37-yard pass play from Elway in the first quarter and a 25-yard play from Elway in the second, as he eclipsed the 1,000-yard receiving mark for the season. He closed the regular season on a high note vs. San Diego (12/21)

THE EXCLUSIVE 3,000-1,500-1,000 CLUB

The Broncos' John Elway, Terrell Davis, Rod Smith and Shannon Sharpe proved to be one of the greatest quartets in the NFL. Joining the 1997 season, the quartet combined to produce 1,000+ yards in NFL history. At now, Denver is the only franchise in league history to do so. In the past, only four players have achieved this feat. In NFL history, only three players have produced a 3,000+ yard passer, a 1,500+ yard rusher and a 1,000+ yard receiver in the same season. Also, the four players combined to produce a 1,000+ yard passer, 1,500+ yard rusher and two 1,000+ yard receivers in 1997, a feat that, along with John Elway in 1995 and '97 has been accomplished only three times in NFL history.

with his fourth two-TD game, catching four passes for 53 yards and scoring on tosses of 11 and 15 yards from Elway. Postseason Smith started at four postseason games at wide receiver and caught 11 passes for a team-leading 205 yards (18.6) with a long of 43 yards, which accounted for his only postseason touchdown. The play came in the first quarter of Denver's Wild Card win over Jacksonville (12/27/97) and gave the Broncos a 14-0 lead. He would catch three passes for 99 yards and one TD on the day. All three receptions came in the first half, and came on third down, including a later 40-yard reception on 3rd-and-6 from the Broncos' 12 yard line. That kept the drive alive as Denver went on to score for a 21-0 lead. His and Ed McCaffrey's blocking from the wide receiver position helped turn reasonable gains on the ground into long ones as Denver ranked up 310 yards rushing in the contest, a franchise postseason record and the fifth most ever in a playoff game. In Denver's 14-10 AFC Divisional Playoff win at Kansas City (1/4/98), he caught two passes for 19 yards. His longest reception of 17 yards came on a 3rd-and-7 play late in the second quarter and spotted the Broncos at the Chiefs' 4 yard line from which they would punch it in to produce their first touchdown of the day and take a 7-0 lead. In Denver's 24-21 AFC Championship Game victory at Pittsburgh (1/11/98), he caught a career playoff high six passes for 87 yards to lead all Broncos receivers. His longest catch covered 20 yards. Smith started at wideout in Super Bowl XXXI vs. Green Bay (1/25/98), but he did not catch a pass, only recording a fair catch on a punt in the ballgame.

1998: Smith handled the role of No. 3 receiver for much of the season and caught 16 passes for 337 yards (14.8) and two touchdowns, returned 23 punts for 283 yards (12.3) with a long of 36 and posted one special teams tackle after beginning his season late (vs. Baltimore 10/26) because of injury. Smith's 12.3-yard punt return average was second-best in the AFC and fourth in the NFL. His first touchdown of the year was the game winner in Game 9 at Oakland as he nailed in a 49-yard John Elway pass with 4:14 remaining to give the Broncos a 22-21 win on Monday Night Football. On the night he finished with a career high four receptions for 72 yards. It was the second time in his two seasons that Smith had caught a game-winning pass, following the dramatic final play 43 yard touchdown grab from Elway to push the Broncos over the Redskins 38-31 (9/17/95) during his rookie season. His other 95 touchdown came against Oakland in Denver's 24-19 victory Dec. 15. Smith was inactive for the first six games of the season while recovering from a broken collarbone suffered in the preseason at Dallas (8/17). He saw his first action of the regular season vs. Baltimore (10/20), catching one pass for 35 yards and returning a kickoff for 29 yards. Smith regained his No. 1 punt return job prior to the Kansas City game (10/27) in which he fielded seven punts for 99 yards, including a 36-yarder in the first quarter. He also caught two passes for 22 yards against the Chiefs. Smith began throwing and catching again during the week of the Tampa Bay game (9/15). Prior to his injury, Smith was pushing Ed McCaffrey in competition for a starting wide receiver spot, and was the No. 1 punt returner. In Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Jacksonville, Smith caught one pass for 15 yards, returned two punts for 12 and made two special teams stops. 1995: Smith was used in all 16 games both at wide receiver and on special teams, where he recorded six tackles and forced a fumble. On the season he had six catches for 152 yards (25.3) with a long of 43 and returned four kickoffs for 54 yards (13.5) with a long of 17. Smith's spectacular game-ending 43-yard touchdown reception from John Elway in Week Three gave the Broncos a 38-31 win over Washington (9/17) and was the first of his NFL career. Smith out-jumped and out-duelled Redskins All-Pro Darrell Green for the ball before landing just inside the end zone as time expired. He recorded his first career kickoff return for 16 yards at New England (10/8) and forced a fumble on special teams coverage vs. San Diego (11/19). Smith had his best all-around performance in the season finale at Oakland (12/24), starting at wide receiver as the Broncos opened in a four-wide receiver set. He caught two passes for 56 yards, including a 26 yarder in the fourth quarter on a third-and-10 play, helping the Broncos continue their game-tying drive en route to a 31-28 come-from-behind victory. 1994: Smith spent the season as a member of the Broncos' practice squad, showing steady improvement each week.

COLLEGE Smith enjoyed a stellar career at Missouri Southern, finishing with league records in career receiving yards (3,043) and touchdowns (34). He also broke the school's reception record (153), and was named first-team All-America by AP, Kodak, Football Gazette, and NCAA Div. II sports information directors after his senior year. In his final season, Smith caught 63 passes for 986 yards and 13 touchdowns, and was a finalist for the Harlon Hill Award, given annually to the top football player at the Division II level. He was named Missouri Southern's Outstanding Graduate in 1994, after completing his collegiate studies with degrees in economics and finance, general business, as well as marketing and management.

PERSONAL Smith was all-league, all-area, all-state and an Arkansas all-state game choice as a senior at Texarkana High School in Texarkana, Ark. He lettered twice in football and basketball and once in baseball. Smith was born May 15, 1970 in Texarkana, Ark. He is single and makes his home in Aurora, Colo.

Harry Swayne provided the type of veteran leadership and backup capabilities that assist head coach offensive line Alex Gibbs seek in his first 1997. Swayne, who has played in 138 regular season (77 starts) and 10 postseason, figures to contribute the same steady, veteran play in 1998, providing starters Gary Zimmerman and Tony Jones, as well as performing admirably. Swayne entered the NFL in 1987 as a defensive end and drafted in the seventh round by Tampa Bay, with whom he played his first four NFL seasons. His conversion to offensive tackle came in 1990. Swayne then spent six seasons with San Diego — starting at left tackle in Super Bowl XXIX vs. San Francisco (1/29/95) — before signing with Denver as an unrestricted free agent in 1997.

1997 Swayne played in seven games on special teams and as a reserve on the offensive line. He was inactive for games 3-10 before being activated again for the Kansas City game (11/16). He saw his most extensive action of the season at San Francisco (12/15) when he replaced an injured Tony Jones (knee) at right tackle in the fourth quarter. Swayne's first non-special teams action came at Seattle (9/7) when he spelled Jamie Brown at left tackle. Postseason Swayne played in all four postseason games, primarily on special teams.

1996 Swayne played in all 16 games for San Diego, starting the first three at left tackle before being replaced by Vaughn Parker. 1995 Swayne started all 16 regular season games at left tackle for San Diego for the second consecutive season. He also started the Chargers' AFC Wild Card Game against the Indianapolis Colts (12/31/95). 1994 Swayne started all 16 regular season games at left tackle, as well as all three playoff games, including Super Bowl XXIX vs. San Francisco. A mistake that Swayne made in the AFC Championship Game at Pittsburgh (1/15/95) ended up being a gift in disguise for the Chargers. Late in the fourth quarter Swayne was called for a false start on third-and-nine at the Steelers' 38-yard line and San Diego trailing in the game 13-10. The Steelers ended up stopping San Diego short of a first down on the play, but because of the penalty, the play did not count. On the ensuing play, with San Diego now in a third-and-14 hole, Stan Humphries connected with Tony Martin for a 43-yard touchdown that gave the Chargers a 17-13 lead that they never relinquished. 1993 Swayne started 11 games and was one of the line's top performers. He did not play in Games 1-3 due to a shoulder injury. Swayne suffered a concussion and damaged eye orbit in the third quarter at Indianapolis (11/29) and missed the remainder of the game. He missed Games 12-13 (vs. Denver and Green Bay) due to the eye starts) and seven postseason contests (four starts) with 173 tackles (113 solo), 37 pass breakers and 5.5 sacks in regular season play. A unique athlete, Traylor began his career as a wide receiver with the Broncos in 1991, but grew into the current force he is in the middle of the defense without losing any of the quickness he brought with him from Central State (Okla.) as a third-round draft choice (61st overall) in 1991. At 6-2, 304 lbs., Traylor is not only one of the quickest linemen in the NFL, he is also one of very few who can dunk a basketball.

1997 Traylor was outstanding in starting all 16 games at left defensive tackle and leading all Denver defensive linemen with 51 tackles (39 solo), including two sacks (-20), two passes defended and one interception. The pickoff — the first of his career — came at Buffalo (10/26) and was returned 62 yards for his first professional touchdown. He began the regular season against one of his former clubs, as he registered three tackles (one solo) in Denver's 19-3 victory over the Chiefs. He had six stops (four solo) the next week at Seattle (9/7) and registered his first sack of the season (-12) to go along with four solo tackles in Denver's 35-14 win over St. Louis on Sept. 14. Traylor missed several series in the Cincinnati game (9/21) with a bruised right shoulder, but did return to limited action and had one solo stop in Denver's 38-20 win. He tied a season-high with six tackles (four solo) the next week at Atlanta in a 29-21 victory. His action was limited against Seattle (11/2) because of a deep thigh bruise, but he came back the next week against Carolina (11/9) and recorded four solo tackles in Denver's 34-0 victory. Postseason Traylor started all four postseason games at left defensive tackle and recorded 11 stops (9 solo), including one sack (1) with two passes defended. In the AFC Wild Card Playoff vs. Jacksonville (12/27), Traylor started at left defensive tackle and posted four tackles (3 solo) with one pass defended. The next week in Denver's 14-10 AFC Divisional Playoff win at Kansas City (1/4/98), he posted three solo tackles, two of which came behind the line of scrimmage just two days after the death of his mother. After the game, he was awarded the game ball in the locker room by head coach Mike Shanahan. In the AFC Championship Game at Pittsburgh, he made a big impact with two tackles (1 solo), including a sack (1) and a pass defended as Denver advanced to the Super Bowl with a 24-21 victory. In Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay (1/25/98), Traylor started at left defensive tackle and posted two solo tackles in Denver's 31-24 win over the Packers.

1996 Traylor shared time on the defensive line for the Chiefs and posted a career-high 42 tackles (31 solo) with one sack, 11 quarterback pressures, one forced fumble and one pass defended. He played in 15 games, including a start against Indianapolis (12/15/96) at right defensive tackle, in which he made four tackles (3 solo). Traylor's one sack came against Detroit (11/28) for a three-yard loss. He also blocked a field goal against the Raiders (9/8) in a Kansas City victory, and had a season-high six tackles with two quarterback pressures vs. Pittsburgh (10/7) on Monday Night Football. 1995 Traylor was a steady backup at defensive tackle, playing in the NFL for the first time since 1993. He played in all 16 games, contributing 19 tackles (13 solo), 1.5 sacks, one forced fumble, one fumble recovery, four passes defended and 33 quarterback pressures. Traylor's best game was a three-tackle, one-sack effort vs. San Diego (10/9). He had two tackles in the Chiefs' playoff loss to Indianapolis (1/7/96). In the spring of 1995 Traylor was with the Barcelona Dragons of the World League, playing in eight of 10 games, three starts, and posting 16 tackles, including 14 solo stops, and recovering a pair of fumbles. 1994 Traylor was signed by Kansas City Feb. 9 and was waived during the final roster cutdown Aug. 28. He did not sign with any other team that season. 1993 Traylor was signed by the Raiders as a free agent July 19 after the Broncos chose not to re-sign him. He was waived by the Raiders Aug. 30, then signed with Green Bay Sept. 14 and played in five games, making one tackle. He was released by the Packers Nov. 9 and signed with Kansas City Jan. 5, 1994, in time to be active for the Chiefs' playoff loss to the Steelers (1/9/94). Traylor was then released two days later. 1992 Traylor saw action in all 16 games with Denver (one start), making 39 tackles (21 solo), one fumble recovery and one sack. He notched his first NFL sack vs. Seattle (12/20). 1991 Traylor earned all-rookie honors from Pro Football Weekly and Football Digest as a linebacker for the Broncos. He played in all 16 games and started two. Traylor was a backup to Michael Brooks and Karl Mecklenburg at inside linebacker and made 27 tackles (12 solo) on defense, as well as 16 more (nine solo) on special teams. He started for Brooks vs. Seattle (9/15), making nine stops, and vs. San Diego (9/22), recording 10 tackles. Traylor was also used at the fullback position in several postseason and line situations, such as the Bears' William "Refrigerator" Perry. Traylor played in both playoff games with the Broncos. He was picked by Denver in the third round (61st overall) of the 1991 NFL Draft.

COLLEGE Traylor played collegately for two seasons at Central State (Okla.) after transferring from Coffeyville (Kan.) Junior College. At Central State he made 146 tackles, five sacks, two interceptions, three forced fumbles and two fumble recoveries. Traylor played in just four full games and parts of two others as a senior because of a leg injury, but still managed 67 tackles and three forced fumbles. He was a first-team All-Lone Star Conference pick as a junior when he amassed 79 stops, five sacks, two fumble recoveries and two interceptions. Traylor's two years as a starter at Coffeyville included an MVP performance in the 1988 JUCO Championship Game. He had 229 tackles, 14 sacks and nine interceptions at Coffeyville.

PERSONAL A native of Little Rock, Ark., Traylor was a two-time all-state and all-conference linebacker at Malvern (Ark.) High School. He was also a standout on the basketball court and the baseball diamond, earning all-state and all-conference honors in both sports. Traylor was rated among the 10 best prospects in the state of Arkansas. In his spare time he enjoys playing basketball and pool. Keith has one son, Brandon (3/4/87). Entering his third season in Denver and second on the active roster — safety Tony Veland's role will no doubt expand, as he continues to be groomed to step into a starter's role sometime in the near future. Veland, a multi-talented athlete who played quarterback and defensive back in college, figures to be a major part of the Broncos' future defensive plans. He has now played in 12 career games, primarily on special teams. Veland entered the NFL in 1996 as the Broncos sixth-round draft choice (181st overall) out of Nebraska, and spent his first season on the practice squad.

1997 Veland played in 12 games, mostly on special teams, and was inactive for the other four. He played in his first professional game vs. Cincinnati in Week Four (9/21), contributing on special teams. For the year he posted one solo tackle and one pass defended, and added five more tackles and a fumble recovery on special teams. Veland saw his first defensive action vs. Oakland (11/24), then posted his pass defended at San Diego (11/30) and his only tackle vs. San Diego (12/21). His fumble recovery came at San Francisco on Dec. 15 after teammate Derek Loville had the ball knocked loose on a kickoff return. Postseason Veland played in all four postseason games and made one special teams tackle, and forced a fumble on a kickoff return by Antonio Freeman of the Packers in Super Bowl XXXII, which was recovered by teammate Tim McKyer at the Green Bay 22-yard line, with Denver leading 24-17.

1996 Veland spent the entire season on the practice squad. He was chosen in the sixth round and went through training camp with the club before being waived on the final cutdown Aug. 25. He was signed to the practice squad two days later.

COLLEGE Veland began his career at Nebraska as a quarterback but suffered a collarbone injury and was replaced by Tommy Frazier. He played behind Frazier in '92 and '93 before being converted to safety for his final two seasons. He completed 6 of 9 passes for 176 yards and a touchdown in '93, and rushed 15 times for 15 yards in 1992-93. After switching to safety Veland started 21 of 23 games and recorded 64 tackles (35 solo), four interceptions, three passes defended, two fumble recoveries and one forced fumble.

PERSONAL: Veland was a second-team all-state selection as a quarterback at Benson High School in Omaha, Neb., where he completed 54.2% of his passes and threw just two interceptions. He gained 700 yards through the air, rushed for 704 more and averaged 39.1 yards per punt in final campaign. Veland also led the basketball team to the No. 1 ranking in the state during the regular season, and lettered three times each in football, track and basketball. He placed fifth in the state Class A finals in the 100 meters (11.03) and third in the discus (162'-2") in 1991. An engineering major at Nebraska, Veland was the keynote speaker at the 1992 National Education Week, as well as serving as a volunteer speaker at Cueller Junior High. His last name is pronounced VEE-land. Tony was born March 11, 1973 in Omaha, Neb. He and his wife, Brooke, make their home in Parker, Colo.

Marvin Washington was arguably the Broncos' biggest hit during the 1998 free agency period, as he brings to the team another quality pass rushing defensive end to go along with All-Pro Neil Smith and Alfred Williams, and reserves Harald Hasselbach and Ernest Jones. Washington, now in his 10th NFL campaign, has played in 130 games (89 starts) with 451 career tackles (299 solo), 38.5 sacks, eight forced fumbles, one fumble recovery and one interception. He has also played in and started one postseason game (1991 with New York) in which he recorded two tackles (both solo). The Broncos will be his third NFL team, having previously played with the New York Jets and the San Francisco 49ers. When he left the Jets he ranked seventh all-time on their career sacks list and had recorded seven career multiple-sack games. One of his coaches in New York was Broncos defensive coordinator Greg Robinson. Washington entered the NFL in 1989 as a sixth-round draft choice (151st overall) of the Jets.

1997 Washington played in 10 games (one start) for San Francisco, posting six tackles (3 solo) and one sack before being placed on injured reserve Nov. 12 (right ankle). He signed with San Francisco just before the start of the regular season (8/21) after being released by the Jets (8/12).

1996 Washington played and started in 13 games with the Jets, registering 61 tackles (44 solo), 2.5 sacks, eight passes defended and one forced fumble. He suffered rib cartilage damage in the opener at Denver (9/1) and was subsequently inactive at Miami two weeks later after trying to play with the injury. He had two solo tackles and a forced fumble of Rodney Hampton against the Giants the next week. However, he re-injured his ribs in the game and missed the contest the next week at Washington. He moved to DT in game seven and started there for the rest of the season. Washington had 11 tackles vs. Buffalo (10/20), and had nine stops in the season finale against Miami (12/22). 1995 Washington started all 16 games at three different positions (LDE, RDE, LDT), totaling 89 tackles (65 solo), six sacks, six pass breakups and three forced fumbles. His sack total ranked second on the team and his tackle total was fifth on the team and highest among defensive linemen. Seven of the stops and one sack came in a Week 12 win at Seattle. He had six tackles, a sack and a forced fumble against Jacksonville. He had nine stops (two for loss) and a sack vs. Indianapolis in game two. 1994 Washington played and started in 15 games at left defensive end, with 58 tackles (36 solo), three sacks, six passes defended and one interception, which he returned for seven yards at Houston. He was third on the team with nine tackles for loss and 4th in sacks. He earned a game ball for his five-tackle (three for loss), two-sack performance in the season opening victory at Buffalo. 1993 Washington started every game, finished second on the team with 5.5 sacks and led the team with 24 QB pressures. He also had 71 tackles (48 solo), five passes defended and three forced fumbles. He had a season-high eight tackles and three QB pressures in the second-to-last game of the season at Buffalo. 1992 Washington started all 16 games and led the team with a career-high 8.5 sacks. He was also sixth on the team with 62 tackles (39 solo) and fourth in pass breakups with eight. Washington started the final 14 games at RDE after Jeff Lageman injured a knee and was out for the season. Washington earned a game ball at Buffalo (12/6) with an eight-tackle, live-QB pressure game that also included a pass defended. He recorded the fifth multiple-sack game of his career with two against New England in game five. 1991 Washington played and started in 15 games at LE, finishing third on the team with six sacks among 45 tackles (33 solo), as well as two pass breakups and a forced fumble. He had two multiple-sack games (game five vs. Miami and game eight at Indy), and also had a season-high seven tackles in game 13 at Buffalo. He was awarded the game ball for his efforts against Indianapolis. 1990 Washington played in all 16 games (no starts), finishing with 4.5 sacks

(3rd on team) 48 tackles (25 solo), one pass breakup and one blocked field goal. He also had two special teams tackles. 1989 Washington played in all 16 games, no starts, at both DE and DT, finishing the season with 15 sacks, 11 tackles, six solo, two pass breakups, one fumble recovery and four special teams tackles. He was a sixth-round pick of the Jets in 1989. He's covered out of the University of Idaho, where he was a teammate of current Bronco Mark Schlereth. The Jets acquired the selection from the Raiders in exchange for Russell Carter.

COLLEGE Washington played right end for the Big Sky champions at Idaho as a senior in 1985. He led the team and set a school record with 14.5 sacks. He started off collegiately at the University of Texas-El Paso, where he was a reserve on the basketball team. Washington started his college football career at Hinds (Miss.) Community College in 1987 and transferred to Idaho in '88. A criminal justice major at Idaho, Marvin also played basketball, seeing action in 19 games.

PERSONAL Washington was a highly recruited basketball star out of Kimball High School in his hometown of Dallas, Texas. Marvin Andrew Washington was born Oct. 22, 1965 in Denver, Colo. and raised in Dallas. A very active speaker to children at schools and hospitals, he still resides in Dallas during the offseason.

Watkins has played in 16 regular season games and three postseason games, all with Dallas in 1995, when the Cowboys won their third Super Bowl title in four years.

1997 Watkins was out of football after being released by the Cowboys July 11.

He was officially placed on injured reserve Aug. 22. 1995 Watkins played in all 16 games at tight end for Dallas, earning a Super Bowl ring when the Cowboys defeated Pittsburgh 27-17 in Super Bowl XXX. He caught one pass for 8 yards from Troy Aikman against Arizona (9/24) for his first pro reception. In his pro debut, the Cowboys dismantled the Giants on a Monday Night 35-14 as the offense rolled up 459 yards, including 230 on the ground, their highest total since October 1993. Alfred Williams continued last season the success he enjoyed in 1996. And with an injury-free 1998, figures to put up even more impressive numbers. Williams, who came to Denver as an unrestricted free agent in 1996 from San Francisco, has tallied 21.5 sacks over the past two seasons, leading the club over that period. He has played in 111 regular season games, 86 starts, with 295 tackles (247 solo), 19 pass breakups, 12 forced fumbles, five fumble recoveries and 52.5 sacks, 386 yards, and played in six postseason contests (five starts) with 12 tackles (nine solo), one pass breakup and two sacks (-14 yards). Williams played in the Pro Bowl following the 1996 season, and earned several All-NFL honors. The former University of Colorado All-American was drafted 18th overall in 1991 by Cincinnati, with whom he spent his first four NFL seasons before signing with San Francisco in 1995. He signed with the Broncos Feb. 26, 1996, fulfilling a quest he had made known since leaving CU after his collegiate career.

1997 Williams started all 16 games at right defensive end and made 48 tackles (39 solo), including 8.5 sacks (-74) to tie for the team lead and tie for 10th-most in the AFC, as well as one forced fumble and one fumble recovery which he returned 51 yards for a touchdown against Cincinnati (9/21). The recovery and touchdown came with 57 seconds remaining in the game after Neil Smith had sacked Jeff Blake and forced the ball loose in the season opener vs. Kansas City (8/31). Williams returned to the starting lineup after missing the final three preseason games with a left triceps tear and recorded two tackles, 1 solo. Williams had returned to practice Monday Aug. 25. The next week at Seattle (9/7), he made six tackles, 5 solo, in Denver's 35-14 victory. Williams' first two sacks came in Week Five at Atlanta (9/28), both in the fourth quarter against Billy Joe Toler. He added his third at Oakland (10/19), with his fourth coming at Buffalo (20 yards) on 10/26. Williams added six tackles, four solo, against the Raiders and a forced fumble against Buffalo. He earned the sack by tracking down Andre Reed as the Browns wide receiver took the ball on a reverse and attempted to pass, but was thrown for a 20-yard loss in overtime. That set up Jason Elam's 33-yard game-winning field goal versus Carolina (11/9), he posted two solo tackles, including a half sack of Kerry Collins (-2) in the fourth quarter of Denver's 34-0 win. On Monday Night Football vs. Oakland (11/24), Williams made four solo tackles, including a sack of Jeff George for a 9-yard loss on the Raiders' first possession of the second half in Denver's 31-3 victory. The next Sunday at San Diego (11/30), he slightly tore his right triceps muscle, but the injury was not believed to be as serious as the tear of his left triceps during the preseason. Williams notched his second two-sack game of the season at San Francisco (12/15) to raise his season total to 7.5, and closed with an 8-yard sack vs. San Diego (12/21) to reach 8.5. Postseason Williams started all four postseason games at right defensive end and recorded 10 tackles, including two sacks (14), both of which came in the AFC Divisional Playoff win at Kansas City (1/4/98). His initial sack came in the first quarter, resulting in a 4-yard loss, and his second came on the Chiefs' final possession of the game, resulting in a 10-yard loss. In the AFC Championship Game at Pittsburgh (1/11/98), Williams posted five tackles (3 solo) and helped to harass Kordell Stewart all day, as Denver advanced to the Super Bowl with a 24-21 victory. In Super Bowl XXXII vs. Green Bay (1/25/98), Williams started at right defensive end and posted two tackles (1 solo).

1996 Williams proved to be one of the league's most valuable free-agent acquisitions of 1996, earning selection to his first Pro Bowl in addition to first-team All-Pro nods from the Associated Press, The Sporting News, Pro Football Weekly and Football News, second-team mention from College & Pro Football Newsweekly and first-team All-AFC kudos from UPI and Football News. Williams started all 16 regular season games at right defensive tackle and ranking among the league leaders in sacks. Overall he made 65 tackles (55 solo) and tied for third in the AFC (15th NFL) in sacks with 13 (-102), the highest figure put up by a Bronco since Simon Fletcher had 13.5 in 1993. The franchise record is 16 by Fletcher in 1992. He also knocked down four passes, forced five fumbles and recovered one. On opening day vs. the Jets (9/1) Williams started at right defensive end in his first game as a Bronco and made a big impact with 4 tackles (3 solo) — including 1.5 sacks for 12.5 yards in losses — and two forced fumbles. Williams was named AFC Defensive Player of the Week for Week Three when he recorded two sacks, recovered two fumbles and forced another in a 27-23 Broncos defeat of Tampa Bay (9/15). The following week at Kansas City (9/22) Williams switched sides with Dan Williams to start at left defensive end, and harassed Chiefs quarterback Steve Bono all day, making five tackles (4 solo) and knocking down two passes. The next week at Cincinnati (9/29) Williams started at right defensive end and had a big day against his former teammates, recording a sack (-10) among his six total tackles (4 solo) in Denver's 14-10 victory. He posted a two-sack day and forced his fifth fumble of the season vs. Baltimore (10/20). Versus Chicago (11/10) he recorded a season-high 10 tackles (7 solo) with one pass defended and his league-leading 10th sack of the season (-9) in Denver's 17-12 victory. Williams also had two sacks at Minnesota (11/24) in a Broncos win, giving him 13 for the season, which led the league at the time. He started Denver's AFC Divisional Playoff vs. Jacksonville (1/4/97), posting one solo tackle with two passes defended. 1995 Williams played in all 16 games with San Francisco, starting one. He recorded 4.5 sacks and 28 tackles (21 solo) for a 49ers defense that finished the season ranked number one in the National Football League. Williams saw action in the 49ers' NFC Divisional Playoff Game vs. Green Bay, a 27-17 loss (1/6/96), in which he made one solo tackle. 1994 Williams started all 16 games for Cincinnati and led the team in sacks with 9.5. He also had 47 tackles (40 solo), one fumble recovery and one forced fumble. Williams had a single-game high of four sacks at Pittsburgh (10/16), tying the NFL's single-game high for the 1994 season. He also had a season-high seven tackles (all solo) against the Steelers. Williams sacked Seattle QB Rick Mirer for a safety in a Nov. 6 victory over the Seahawks. He also had two sacks at Houston (9/25) and one-and-a-half sacks at Denver (11/27). 1993 Williams started all 16 games for the Bengals, recording 28 tackles (22 solo), four sacks — second-most on the team — and one forced fumble. He also tied for the team lead in QB pressures with 18. Williams had an eight-yard sack, a QB pressure and a season-high six tackles at Kansas City (10/10), as well as a six-yard sack for a safety against Steve Young at San Francisco (12/5). 1992 Williams played in 15 games and made six starts for the Bengals in his second NFL season. He had 43 stops (38 solo), a career single-season high 10 sacks and three forced fumbles. He missed most of training camp that season as doctors worked to resolve an irregular heartbeat problem. He required two surgeries for the condition, which was declared cured in mid-August. Williams had two sacks for 26 yards in the season-opener at Seattle. One of the sacks included a fumble by Seahawks quarterback Kerry Stauter which was recovered by Bengal teammate Fernandez Vinson and returned 22 yards for a touchdown. Williams had two-sack games vs. Minnesota (9/27) and vs. Cleveland (11/1). He had a season-high seven tackles at Houston (10/25). 1991 Williams played in all 16 games and made 15 starts. He had 38 tackles (33 solo), three sacks, two fumble recoveries and one forced fumble. He signed with the Bengals August 18 after Cincinnati drafted him in the first round (18th overall) of the 1991 draft.

Gary Zimmerman is in his 13th NFL season and his sixth with the Broncos, having re-signed with the club Sept. 9, 1997 after determining that his left shoulder had healed sufficiently from offseason surgery to allow him to compete again at an All-Pro level. His play during the 1997 season was as outstanding as ever, as he and his offensive linemates were instrumental in leading Denver to its first World Championship. The shoulder, operated on in December of 1996 and again in January of 1997, had given Zimmerman problems throughout the 1996 season. Despite the excruciating pain, he showed once again last year why he is one of the most respected offensive linemen in the National Football League. The seven-time Pro-Bowler has now started all 184 games in which he has played in his 12-year career and has been a major reason that Denver's offense has been able to post the most prolific three-year totals in franchise history over the course of the 1995-97 seasons. He had a streak of 169 consecutive starts before being forced to the sideline at Green Bay (12/8/96) following surgery on his left shoulder. A consummate professional year in and year out, he has been named All-NFL four times (1986-88, 1996), NFL Lineman of the Year in 1987, and second-team All-NFL of the 1980s. Zimmerman was originally drafted by the Los Angeles Express of the United States Football League (2nd round, 36th overall) in 1984, and played two seasons with the club before joining the Minnesota Vikings in 1986. He had been chosen by the New York Giants in the first round of the 1984 supplemental draft, third overall, and then had his rights traded to Minnesota for two second-round picks (CB Mark Collins and S Greg Lasker).

1997 Zimmerman missed the first two games of the season before re-signing with the club Sept. 9. He started at right tackle in the first four games after his return, then switched to left tackle before the Oakland game (10/19) and didn't miss a beat all season, anchoring an offensive line that allowed only 35 sacks on the season and led the way for a rushing attack that finished third in the AFC and fourth in the NFL. Postseason Zimmerman started all four postseason games at left tackle as part of an offensive line that dominated opponents and allowed Denver to control games with its powerful rushing attack. The Broncos averaged 187 yards per game on the ground in the playoffs, and the offensive line was named NFL Offensive Player of the Week for the Wild Card weekend.

1996 Zimmerman started all 14 games in which he played, including the first 13 of the season to run his streak of consecutive starts to 169. That streak was snapped at Green Bay (12/8) when he was declared inactive following surgery on his left shoulder. He played with pain in both shoulders during the course of the season, but was still voted to his seventh Pro Bowl (third as a Bronco) and earned first-team All-Pro honors from the Associated Press, Sports Illustrated, The Sporting News, Pro Football Weekly, Football Digest and College & Pro Football Newsweekly. Zimmerman also earned first-team All-AFC nods from UPI and Football News. His streak of 169 consecutive starts made him the only active player in the NFL to have started every game since the beginning of the 1986 season. 1995 Zimmerman started all 16 games at left tackle, earning his second straight Pro Bowl selection, and the sixth of his career. He suffered a shoulder and biceps injury at Houston (11/26), but started the next week against Jacksonville (12/3) despite not practicing much during the week. He also started with a sore ankle against Washington (9/17) in Denver's 38-31 last-second victory. Zimmerman had off-season surgery to repair the torn rotator cuff and torn biceps in his right shoulder on January 15, 1996. The surgery was performed by Dr. Richard Hawkins at the Steadman-Hawkins Clinic in Vail, Colo. 1994 Zimmerman did not miss a game as the starter at left tackle, and was one of the few bright spots on an offensive line that struggled at times. He was recognized for his outstanding play with selection to the Pro Bowl, his fifth such selection. 1993 Zimmerman was acquired by the Broncos in a trade with Minnesota prior to the last preseason game in 1993 and was immediately inserted into the starting lineup. He started every game at left tackle for the Broncos, solidifying an offensive line that allowed time for quarterback John Elway to post career numbers. He was a major factor in the success of the Broncos offensive line, and was named an alternate for the Pro Bowl. 1992 Zimmerman was named to the Pro Bowl as a starter, his first trip since 1989. 1991 Zimmerman anchored a Minnesota line that helped the Vikings lead the NFC in rushing. 1990 Zimmerman started all 16 games despite being hampered by various injuries. He underwent surgery on his ankle and elbow at the end of that season. 1989 Zimmerman was selected to his third Pro Bowl appearance, starting 16 games for Minnesota. 1988 Zimmerman started all 16 games for Minnesota and earned his second straight Pro Bowl appearance. 1987 Zimmerman started all 12 non-strike games for Minnesota, earning his first invitation to play in the Pro Bowl. 1986 Zimmerman started all 16 games and earned All-NFL honors for Minnesota in his first season in the league. He was originally obtained by the Giants in the first round of the 1984 supplemental draft (third overall) and then had his rights traded to Minnesota for two second-round picks (CB Mark Collins and S Greg Lasker) in the 1986 draft. 1984-85: He began his pro career as a second-round pick, 36th overall, by the Los Angeles Express of the USFL in 1984.

COLLEGE Zimmerman was a first-team All-Pac-10 selection and earned Sporting News second-team and Associated Press third-team honors as a senior in 1983. He was a part-time player as a freshman, and played both ways in 1981 before becoming a starter as a junior.

PERSONAL Zimmerman was an all-league middle linebacker at Walnut (Calif.) High School. He and his wife Lisa have two daughters, Lindsay Rae (2/9/88) and Kelsey Marie (1/14/92), and the couple makes their offseason home in Bend, Ore. His hobbies include hunting, fishing, working with computers and flying. Gary Wayne Zimmerman was born Dec. 13, 1961 in Fullerton, Calif.

BIRTHDATE February 1, 1976

12

A strong and fast deep threat who's blessed with exceptional hands and leaping ability, Marcus Nash possesses the type of natural ability that should make him one of the staples of the Broncos' offense for years to come. With 4.4 speed, Nash figures to be one of Denver's main deep threats in 1998 as he makes the adjustment from the college game to the NFL. He ranks second on the University of Tennessee career-record charts with 177 receptions for 2,347 yards and 20 touchdowns, topped only by Joey Kent (183 for 2,814 and 25 touchdowns from 1993-96). 1997 Nash was an All-America choice by The Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft and an All-Southeastern Conference first-team selection, leading the team school-record setting totals of 77 receptions for 1,170 yards (15.4) and 13 touchdowns, topping the previous marks of 69 catches (1995) and 1,080 yards (1996) by Joey Kent and 11 scores by Cory Fleming (1993). He opened the season with seven catches for 112 yards and a pair of scores vs. Texas Tech and hauled in eight passes for 117 yards and a touchdown in a 30-24 decision over UCLA. Nash caught nine passes for 127 yards and a score vs. Mississippi and made six catches for 69 yards and a touchdown in a 38-13 triumph over Georgia. He also had a career-high 10 receptions for 110 yards and 2 touchdowns vs. Southern Mississippi and snatched five passes for 126 yards and a pair of scores in a 30-22 win over Arkansas. Nash caught seven passes for a career-high 195 yards with touchdowns of 59, 31 and 66 yards in a 59-31 defeat of Kentucky. His three touchdowns in that game tied a school game-record and his 195 yards were the most by a Volunteer receiver since Carl Pickens had 201 yards vs. Kentucky in 1990. He added 125 yards on nine grabs — including a game-winning 73-yard score — in a 30-28 victory over Auburn in the SEC Championship game. Nash caught five passes for 53 yards vs. Nebraska in the Orange Bowl. 1996 Nash started every game at flanker, finishing second on the team with 53 catches for 688 yards (13.0 avg.) and three touchdowns. He gained 103 yards on six grabs vs. Nevada-Las Vegas and 135 yards on four catches vs. UCLA. He also had six grabs for 106 yards, including a five-yard score in a 29-17 win over Georgia. Nash made three catches for 42 yards vs. Northwestern in the Citrus Bowl. 1995 Nash moved into the starting lineup in the fourth game at flanker vs. Mississippi State, and for the year caught 43 passes for 512 yards (11.9) and four touchdowns. He picked up 97 yards on seven receptions vs. Arkansas and hauled in six passes for 100 yards with scores of 25 and 30 yards in a 41-14 trouncing of Alabama. BRIAN GRIESE

QUARTERBACK • 6-3 • 215

BIRTHDATE: March 18, 1975

DRAFT CHOICE: 3rd Round (91st overall)

One of the Broncos' most talked-about selections of the 1998 Draft was quarterback Brian Griese. Son of Pro Football Hall of Famer Bob Griese, Brian has been in the spotlight for most of his life, and has performed well in that situation. Griese is a very smooth player who has an aggressive approach to the game every time he steps on the field, one of the qualities that helped him lead the Michigan Wolverines to their first national championship in 49 years as a senior in 1997. Griese shows excellent zip on his intermediate passes and has the touch to lay the ball over defensive backs' heads. He can also fill in as an emergency punter. 1997 A first-team All-Big Ten Conference selection, Griese led the Wolverines to a 12-0 mark and a share of the national championship with Nebraska, defeating Washington State in the Rose Bowl with an MVP performance. He was a finalist for the Davey O'Brien Award and the recipient of the National Football Foundation & Hall of Fame Scholar-Athlete Award. During the season he earned Big Ten Player of the Week honors vs. Colorado, ESPN Player of the Week honors vs. Indiana, ABC Sports/Chevrolet Player of the Game accolades vs. Penn State and Burger King Athlete of the Game recognition vs. Ohio State. He completed 193 of 307 passes (62.9%) for 2,293 yards, 17 touchdowns and only six interceptions, breaking the previous school single-season records of 189 completions of 296 passes by Todd Collins in 1993. Only Collins (2,509 in 1993 and 2,518 in 1994) and Jim Harbaugh (2,729 in 1986) threw for more yards in a season for the Wolverines. Griese's interception percentage of 1.95% was the fourth-lowest in school annals. 1996 Griese was an Academic All-Big Ten Conference pick, playing mostly in a reserve role. On the season he completed 35 of 61 passes for 513 yards, three touchdowns and two interceptions. He also punted 12 times for 429 yards (33.0 avg.). In the Wolverines' 13-9 road victory over previously unbeaten Ohio State, he completed 8 of 13 passes for 120 yards, including a 69-yard touchdown to Tai Streets. 1995 Griese started the last nine games, completing 193 of 307 passes for 2,293 yards, 17 touchdowns and six interceptions. In his first career start against Miami (Ohio), he completed 14 of 24 passes for 192 yards and two touchdowns. Griese threw for a career-high 323 yards on 24 of 46 passing with one score against Penn State. His 46 attempts ranks third on the school's all-time single-game list. 1994 Griese saw action only as a holder for placekicks and field goals for the last nine games of the season. 1993 Griese redshirted.

HIGH SCHOOL Griese was a Prep Football Report All-Southeast, Miami Herald all-city second-team and all-state third-team selection as a senior at Columbus High School in Miami, Fla., completing 101 of 183 passes for 1,367 yards and seven touchdowns in his final year. He hit on 194 of 335 attempts for 2,356 yards and 19 scores during his career. Griese also lettered in basketball, averaging 10 points per game, and added another letter in golf.

CURTIS ALEXANDER

RUNNING BACK • 6-0 • 204

BIRTHDATE: June 11, 1974

DRAFT CHOICE: 4th Round (122nd overall)

Curtis Alexander is a tough, determined runner who figures to fit nicely into the Broncos' offensive scheme for years to come. With good knee-bend and body lean, Alexander has excellent change of direction ability and impressive speed, with times as low as 4.47 in the 40-yard dash. Denver hopes to strike the same type of success with Alexander as they did with the last running back they selected from a Southeastern Conference team, Terrell Davis from Georgia in 1995. 1997 Alexander started eight games, coming off the bench vs. Kentucky, Arkansas and Vanderbilt. He led the team with 155 carries for a career-high 720 yards (4.7 avg.) and six touchdowns, and also caught 16 passes for 133 yards (6.3 avg.) and a pair of scores. Alexander opened the season with 88 yards on 15 attempts with touchdowns of 11 and 18 yards, adding 50 yards and a 43-yard score on two catches in a 42-17 drubbing of Houston. He went over the top for a one-yard touchdown plunge in the fourth quarter to seal a 27-13 victory over Southern Mississippi, and also picked up 120 yards on 15 tries — including a 58-yard score — to go along with a six-yard touchdown reception vs. Kentucky.

Alexander rushed 16 times for a career-high 141 yards with a 58-yard score in a 29-20 defeat of Mississippi, and followed with 18 carries for 79 yards and a 3-yard touchdown vs. Louisiana Tech, as well as 95 yards on 24 carries vs. Louisiana State. 1996 Alexander appeared in seven games, starting the first four, and ran for 240 yards and a pair of touchdowns on 61 carries (3.9 avg.), while adding seven receptions for 105 yards (15.0 avg.) and a score. Alexander hauled in a 63-yard scoring bomb from Freddie Kitchens as the Tide downed Auburn 24-23. 1995 Alexander saw limited action in six games due to an assortment of injuries. He finished with 75 yards on 22 carries (3.4 avg.) He ran 8 times for 19 yards in a 10-3 decision over Louisiana State and followed that with a season-high 42 yards on 8 rushes in a 14-9 victory over Mississippi State. 1994 Alexander appeared in three games as a reserve tailback, gaining 75 yards on 19 carries (3.9 avg.). He rushed 12 times for 57 yards vs. Tennessee-Chattanooga and scored his first career touchdown on a 2-yard run vs. Vanderbilt. 1993 Alexander redshirted as a freshman.

HIGH SCHOOL: Alexander was an All-America selection by Prep Football Report as a senior at Whitehaven High School in Memphis, Tenn. He was rated the fourth best player in the South (seventh-best running back in the country) by Super Prep magazine.

PERSONAL: Alexander was a public relations major at Alabama. He was born June 11, 1974.

1997 GAME SUMMARIES - WEEK-BY-WEEK

DENVER VS. KANSAS CITY

Aug. 31, 1997 • Mile High Stadium • Denver

Weather: Partly Cloudy, 82°, Wind S 10 mph • Attendance: 68,601 • Time: 3:05

The Broncos kicked off the 1997 regular season with a 19-3 victory over the Kansas City Chiefs at Mile High Stadium on (from 75,500). The win left Denver all alone in first place after the first week of the regular season (for the first time since 1973).

After setting for three field goals from Jason Elam to supply all of their points through the first three quarters, the Broncos finally scored their first touchdown of the 1997 season in the fourth quarter on a 10-yard run by Terrell Davis, who rushed for 10 yards on 26 carries. It was Davis's 11th 100-yard rushing performance of his career.

The third of Elam's four field goals was set up by John Elway's 78-yard connection with wide receiver Raul Smith, the third longest non-scoring pass play in franchise history and the longest reception of Smith's career. The Broncos went to the locker room with a 9-0 lead, holding the Chiefs to 72 total yards in the first half.

In the third quarter, the Broncos defense put up a goal-line stand that kept the Broncos up by a touchdown, and then the offense finally clicked. Vaughn Hebronn returned the Chiefs ensuing kickoff 46 yards to the Kansas City 49-yard line, setting up a 6 play, 49-yard touchdown drive, capped by Terrell Davis's 10-yard touchdown scamper. Davis ended up with 101 yards on 26 carries on the day. Elam closed out the scoring with a 53-yard field, tied for the seventh longest kick in team history.

Smith's five receptions and 122 receiving yards were both career highs. Elway completed 17 of 28 passes for 246 yards and also rushed for 24 yards on the day. Tight end Shannon Sharpe recorded his 197th career reception to move into third place in franchise history, passing Riley Odorn, and also became the franchise's all-time leader in receptions among tight ends. Denver's defense held the Chiefs to 241 total yards and added three sacks and one interception.

DENVER 35, SEATTLE 14

Sept. 7, 1997 • Kingdome • Seattle, Wash.

Weather: Indoors • Attendance: 55,859 • Time: 2:49

The Broncos improved to 2-0 on the season with a 35-14 victory against the Seattle Seahawks (their largest win since a 55-17 rout of the Redskins in 1992). The Broncos were enabled to start the season 2-0 for the second consecutive season, the first time they have done that since 1992-93.

Denver got off to a quick start, scoring 10 points on their first two drives, including a 14-yard touchdown connection from John Elway to Ed McCaffrey. The Seahawks, however, battled back to take a 14-10 lead in the second quarter on a Warren Moon touchdown pass and a 26-yard fumble return for a score by former Colorado linebacker Chad Brown. In the third quarter, the Broncos' defense took over the game, holding Seattle to 131 total yards in the second half and actually outscoring the Seahawks offense 6-0, thanks to a 32-yard interception return for a touchdown by Darren Gordon.

Denver had already taken a 21-14 lead on Jason Elam's second field goal of the game to end the first half, coupled with McCaffrey's second touchdown catch of the game. The game was tied 14-14 at halftime. McCaffrey ended the day with 11 catches (8), yards (93) and touchdowns (2). The Broncos put the game away in the fourth stanza with a 5-play, 62-yard drive that ended with a 1-yard scoring run by Terrell Davis, the 22nd of his career, in the run with Jon Keyworth for fifth place on the franchise's all-time list for rushing touchdowns.

Elam moved past the 500-point mark for his career, the third Bronco to ever reach that milestone, an Elway, who threw for 197 yards on 18-of-26 passing, supplanted Tobin Rote for fourth place all-time in rushing yards by a quarterback, Shannon Sharpe, who caught four passes for 62 yards on the day, moved past the 400-reception mark for his career as well.

DENVER VS. ST. LOUIS

Sept. 14, 1997 • Mile High Stadium • Denver

Weather: Sunny, 82°, Wind E 10 mph • Attendance 74,338 • Time 2:58

In a day of record-setting, the Broncos ran their record to 3-0 with a 35-14 victory over the St. Louis Rams in front of 74,338 at Mile High Stadium. The victory gave Denver its first back-to-back 3-0 starts in franchise history, and also marked the first time in team history that the Broncos have won games by the same score in back-to-back games, beating Seattle by the same score last week.

The Broncos got on the scoreboard first, as John Elway — who threw for 247 yards and four touchdowns on the day — connected with Rod Smith for their second 70-yard-plus hookup of the season, this one a 72-yarder for a 7-0 advantage. The Rams evened the score at 7-7 on a 23-yard touchdown run by Lawrence Phillips, but the home team took over from there.

A 24-yard touchdown pass from Elway to Dwayne Carswell sent Denver to the locker room with a 14-7 lead. Carswell, subbing for an injured Shannon Sharpe, tied his career high in receptions (4) and set a new career high in yards (47). Darnell Gordon then became the first Bronco to return a punt for a touchdown in 10 years, taking one back 94 yards in the third quarter, the longest return in team history. Two more Elway touchdown tosses — to Smith and Ed McCaffrey — pushed the margin to 35-7.

The Broncos defense gave up two touchdowns in the same game for the first time this season, but still held an opponent under 20 points for the fifth straight regular season game and forced two key interceptions of Rams quarterback Tony Banks, one by Tim McKyer to save a touchdown, and one by Ray Crockett to set up a touchdown.

During the contest, Elway passed Dan Fouts, Sonny Jurgensen and Warren Moon in career touchdown passes, moving into sixth place all-time, and also passed Fran Tarkenton in pass attempts, moving into second place all-time. Tight end Shannon Sharpe went over the 5,000-yard receiving mark for his career, and Terrell Davis rushed for 100 yards again, the 11th time in his career and the third straight this season, one off his own team record for consecutive 100-yard performances. The win improved Denver's home mark since 1974 (regular and postseason) to 141-47-1, best in the NFL over that time period. It was also Denver's 10th straight regular season home win, second longest streak in franchise history.

The Bronco is improved to 5-1 for the third time in franchise history (1977 and '80 being the others) with a 21 victory over the Atlanta Falcons to turn a record at 48-11 at the Georgia Dome. The win also helped LA finish in a perfect September for the first time since 1984.

The Broncos opened out the gate to a 23-advantage, thanks to a career-long 55-yard touch-down pass by tight end Shaheen Sharpe in the fourth play from scrimmage. A forward touch-down pass by the Broncos set the series and a forward scoring run by Terrell Davis. Brown's reception was John Elway's 20th and career touch-down pass, surpassing Dave Krieg's fifth place in total time but lost Elway completed 18 of 23 passes, or 243 yards, three touch-downs and one interception on the day.

The two now closed the gap to 24-14 in the third quarter but Deon Smith's short career hit a bad week, and his kick with 1:11 was pushed the advantage back to 24-4 before Alida's Jamal Anderson closed out the scoring by taking a screen pass 47 yards for a score.

Sharpe, returning to his native Georgia, produced his first 100-yard rushing game of the season, catching 10 passes for 134 yards and a score, moving him and his brother Sterling to the top of the Atlanta Braves' all-time NFL list. Davis was the 10th player for the first time this season, rushing for 100 yards and scoring twice down on 23 carries. He passed for key yards in the game, then rushing 41 yards by a Brian Dawkins interception, fired two injuries in the contest, with fullback Howard and running back Keith Lee and kicker Lisa. Howard injured his right groin and hip flexor, the latter of which forced the Broncos to attempt two-point conversions on each of their final three field-goal drives.

Nov. 2, 1997 • Mile High Stadium • Denver

Weather: Mostly Sunny, 46°, Wind N 14 mph • Attendance: 74,212 • Time: 3:05

The Broncos improved their AFC West record to 8-1 with a 30-21 victory over the Seattle Seahawks at Mile High Stadium. This was Denver's 10th consecutive win in the AFC West, a record that dates back to 1977.

After a punt from Peterson led to no gain, Seattle's 14-yard drive in the first quarter, Denver scored the next 17 points, including a 10-yard touchdown pass from John Elway to Willie Green, and took a 13-0 lead into the locker room.

The Broncos came out strong in the second half when, on the opening kickoff, Glenn Cadrez forced a Ronnie Harris fumble that Darius Johnson ran in from six yards out to push the Broncos lead to 20-0. The Seahawks would tie the 20-20 on a Tim Peterson 41-yard field goal and a Mack Strong 4-yard touchdown pass from Warren Moon. The game was tied 20-20 on a fumbled exchange between Elway and center Tom Nalen, and the second came on the kickoff return following the Peterson field goal.

The Broncos struck back with an Elway-to-Rod Smith 59-yard touchdown hookup to give Denver another scoring advantage. The lead would be short lived, however, as Warren Moon's third touchdown pass of the day, this one an 8-yarder to Brian Blades, tied the score at 27 with 12 minutes to play.

Elway, who went over the 50,000-yard total offense mark earlier in the game with a completion to tight end Shannon Sharpe, then hooked up with Sharpe again, this time for 49 yards, to set up Jason Elam's third field goal of the day, this one from 22 yards out, to provide the winning margin. On that play Elway passed Fran Tarkenton for second place all-time in passing yards, finishing the game at 470.9.

Fernell Davis rushed for 101 yards on 21 carries, his seventh 100-yard effort of the season, tying his own team record he set in 1996 along with Otis Armstrong, who accomplished the feat in 1974. Smith finished with 114 yards on five catches.

The Broncos improved to 9-1 for the third time in franchise history (1977, 1996) on a history-making day for the Denver defense and special teams. The Broncos blanked the Carolina Panthers 34-0 in front of 71,408 at Mile High Stadium, extending their franchise-record home winning streak to 14 games.

The first quarter was quite simply the Darrien Gordon show, as the Broncos' starting right cornerback and punt returner took back two punts for touchdowns (82 and 75 yards) to stake the home team to a 14-0 advantage. It marked only the ninth time in NFL history that a player had run back two punts for touchdowns in the same game and only the third time in NFL annals that a player had done so in the same quarter. Former Bronco Rick Upchurch is one of the other eight players to accomplish the feat.

The game, for all intents and purposes, was over at this point, as the Broncos' defense held Carolina to just 147 yards of total offense, seven total first downs (fifth-fewest in franchise history), zero or minus yardage on 51 percent (24 of 47) of the Panthers' plays and zero rushing first downs, the third time in franchise history that an opponent has been blanked in that category. All three occasions have happened during the Mike Shanahan era (1995 against Oakland and 1996 against Kansas City).

The defense also produced three interceptions, two by Ray Crockett and one by Tyrone Braxton that he returned 27 yards for a touchdown to push the margin to 34-0 in the fourth quarter.

Gordon's 168 yards in punt returns set a new team record and produced his third and fourth scores on returns for the season, tying the franchise record set by Upchurch in 1976. Lost among Gordon's accomplishments was the franchise-record eighth 100-yard performance of the season by Terrell Davis (21-104) and an eight-catch, 174-yard performance by tight end Shannon Sharpe, the second-highest yardage total of his career.

John Elway was 14 of 23 for 227 yards and one touchdown, as he connected with Rod Smith for a 20-yard score in the third quarter. The touchdown was the 300th of his career (passing, rushing and receiving), a total matched only by Dan Marino, Fran Tarkenton and Johnny Unitas. The Broncos also scored 30 or more points for the 19th time in Shanahan's two-plus seasons as head coach, and raised their record to 18-1 in such games. It was their first shutout since blanking the Raiders 27-0 on Oct. 16, 1995 and their first shutout of an AFC team since 1989.

KANSAS CITY 24, DENVER 22
Nov. 16, 1997 • Arrowhead Stadium • Kansas City, Mo.

Weather: Clear/Cold, 31° (wind chill 26°), Wind W 7 mph • Attendance: 77,963 • Time: 3:19

The Broncos suffered a heart-breaking defeat at the hands of the Kansas City Chiefs 24-22, when Pete Stoyanovich kicked a 54-yard field goal to tie the game with 1:00 left. Denver's last play was a 10-yard pass to R. Gannon, who was intercepted by the Chiefs. It was their third straight loss at Kansas City and their fifth in the past six years.

After jumping to an early 13-0 lead, the Broncos' offense shut down for the remainder of the first half and the Chiefs took a 14-13 lead to the locker room at halftime.

After Marcus Allen's second touchdown run of the day gave Kansas City a 21-13 advantage in the third quarter, the comeback to tie the game. Allen and kicker Elway tied the game at 21-21. In the fourth quarter, the Broncos' offense came with 1:00 remaining in the contest to put Denver ahead 22-21. It appeared to be enough to push Denver to a three-game lead in the division, but Gannon completed four of five passes on the Chiefs' final drive to put Stoyanovich in position to win the game.

During the contest, Elway, who completed 18 of 31 passes for 231 yards and one touchdown, passed Fran Tarkenton for second place all-time in total offense. Also, RB Terrell Davis, who rushed for 127 yards on 34 carries, surpassed the 4,000-yard rushing mark in just his 41st NFL game, faster than any player in team history by 25 games, and fourth fastest in NFL history. Elam tied his own franchise record for the shares with Rich Karlis and Gene Mingo with five field goals in the contest. Rod Smith added 114 receiving yards on seven receptions, his fifth 100-yard game of the season. Both of Denver's losses have come in games where the opposing quarterback has not thrown for 100 yards in the game.

The Broncos maintained their one-game lead in the AFC West by avenging one of their two earlier defeats with a 31-3 mauling of the Oakland Raiders before a raucous crowd of 75,307. The win also gave Denver back-to-back 10-win seasons for the first time since 1986-87 and the 12th 10-win season in franchise history.

After a scoreless first quarter the Broncos' running game started to take over the game, as Terrell Davis (21 carries, 94 yards, 3 TDs) scored from three yards out and then from 19 to give Denver a 14-3 halftime lead.

The second half was almost a carbon copy of the first for the Raiders' offense, which was held without a touchdown after scoring 38 points the week before against San Diego. Davis added a third touchdown, this one on a two-yard run, to make the score 21-3.

John Mobley — who led the team with 10 tackles — then forced a Napoleon Kaufman fumble to set up Jason Elam's 36-yard field goal, which increased the margin to 24-3. A John Elway-to-Rod Smith hookup for 15 yards closed out the scoring late in the third quarter. Elway finished the day completing 21 of 32 passes for 280 yards and one touchdown, and went without an interception for the fourth straight game, his longest such stretch since the last game of the 1990 season and the first three games of the 1991 season. His favorite target on this night was tight end Shannon Sharpe, who caught 10 passes for 142 yards. It was Sharpe's fifth 10-catch game of his career, one off the NFL record for tight ends (Kellen Winslow).

Davis' three rushing touchdowns established a career high and tied the team record, making him the fifth Browns player to do so, joining Gaston Green, Otis Armstrong, Jon Keyworth and Floyd Little. The three total touchdowns tied a team record he has accomplished twice previously, and he also went over 5,000 total yards from scrimmage for his career on the right. In reaching that plateau in his 42nd game, Davis did so faster than anyone in team history and became only the eighth player in league history to accomplish this feat in his first three NFL seasons.

The Broncos clinched a playoff spot with a 38-28 win over the San Diego Chargers in front of 54,245 at Qualcomm Stadium, in a Sunday night matchup on ESPN. Denver's win was crucial in its drive for the postseason, as the Broncos maintained their slim one-game lead over division-rival Kansas City in the AFC West standings.

Denver came out sharp, moving the ball downfield with ease on their opening drive, but came up empty when Elway's 35-yard field goal attempt was blocked by Chargers linebacker Brian Sipe. Safety Jerome Brumfield intercepted a Chargers' punt, however, when he intercepted a Cruz. Who then pass threw away and returned it to the Chargers 43 yard line. The Broncos closed a very puny scoring drive with a 1-yard touchdown pass from John Elway. Ed McCaffrey Denver increased its lead to 14-0 in the second quarter when Elway found Rod Smith for a 5-yard score. The Chargers would answer with a touchdown of their own in the third quarter.

The Chargers would answer with a touchdown if the Browns had a 4-yard touchdown pass to receiver Steve Swanner in the third quarter. The Browns lead 4-0, but Denver responds with two touchdowns in a 4-yard span late in the third quarter. Tommy Stinson receives a 28-yard pass from Terrell Davis on a 4-play drive with a 5-yard scoring run, then Steve Swanner receives a Whelan pass on the first play of the Chargers' next drive and reeds 22 yards for his first NFL touchdown.

San Diego would make things interesting with Eric Metcalfe's 53-yard punt return for a touchdown early in the first quarter but a 17-yard pass from McDaniel set the stage for a 32-yard punt return by Denver to outdistance the Chargers for the 38-28 win.

Davis rushed 26 times for 178 yards (sixth-most by a Bronco) and caught four passes for 36 yards, to break his own franchise single-season records for rushing yards (1,538) and total yards (1,848) set last year. Elway's three touchdown passes gave him 305 total touchdowns for his career, moving him past Johnny Unitas for third in NFL history, while Braxton's interception was his 13rd as a Bronco, tying him with Mike Harden for third on the franchise's all-time list.

PITTSBURGH 35, DENVER 24

Dec. 7, 1997 • Three Rivers Stadium • Pittsburgh, Pa.

Weather: Cloudy Snow Flurries 33 wind chill 10; Wind W 17 mph • Attendance 59,749 • Time 1:59

The Broncos suffered their third defeat of the season in a 35-24 loss to the Pittsburgh Steelers in front of 59,749 at Three Rivers Stadium. The loss dropped Denver into a tie for first place in the AFC West with Kansas City.

The contest began on a positive note for the Broncos, as they scored on three of their first four possessions to open up a 21-0 lead. The first touchdown was set up when cornerback Darren Gordun stripped the ball from Pittsburgh's CeeDee Lamb after a reception, and Tyrone Braxton recovered the fumble, putting Denver in business at the Steelers' 47-yard line. From there, Elway connected with Rod Smith for a 37-yard touchdown pass to put Denver up 21-0 and put the Broncos on a 14-7 advantage.

The lead grew to 21-0 in the second quarter as Elway hooked up with Smith for the 10th time this season. The drive culminated in Smith over the 1,000-yard receiving mark, putting Denver at 3,000 yards passing. Elway and Smith are the only Broncos to reach the 3,000-yard mark in a single season, and only the eighth time in NFL history. But the Steelers' offense took over at that point, as Stewart and Thigpen connected twice more for scores before the end of the half (69 and 21 yards) to knot the score at 21-21 at the break. In the second half, Pittsburgh answered Denver's field goal with two more touchdowns, as Kordell Stewart runs of four and nine yards, and held the Broncos without a touchdown in the second half.

During the game, Davis moved into third place all-time in rushing yards during the first three years of a career and went over the 2,000-yard mark in total yards from scrimmage. Elway reached the 3,000-yard passing mark and the 200-yard rushing mark for a NFL record 10th time and Denver set a new franchise record for touchdowns in a season with 14 after only 14 games. Smith finished the contest with four catches for 115 yards and two touchdowns, while Thigpen had six catches for 175 yards and three touchdowns and Stewart completed 18 of 29 passes for 303 yards and three touchdowns. Jerome Bettis added 25 yards on 24 carries for the Steelers.

AFC WILD CARD GAME:
DENVER 42, JACKSONVILLE 7
Dec. 27, 1997 • Mile High Stadium • Denver

Weather: Partly Cloudy 44° (wind chill 19°), Wind N 30 mph • Attendance: 74,481 • Time: 3:02

The Denver Broncos advanced to the AFC Divisional playoffs by literally running the Jacksonville Jaguars out of town, as they piled up a club postseason-record 310 rushing yards en route to a 42-17 victory in front of 74,481 at Mile High Stadium. The Broncos set numerous other postseason records during the contest, including new standards for rushing attempts (49), total yards (511), points in a quarter (21, 4th qtr.), total points (42), first downs (28), rushing first downs (18) and third-down efficiency (75%), while the 237 yards allowed by the defense was the second-lowest total in Denver's 21-game playoff history.

The Broncos scored touchdowns on each of their first three possessions, racking up a 21-0 lead on 32 offensive plays, during which time the Jaguars ran only six. Terrell Davis capped Denver's opening drive with a two-yard touchdown run and Rod Smith punctuated the neat when he reeled in a 43-yard touchdown pass from John Elway. The lead was increased to 21-0 when Davis -- who set franchise postseason records for rushing attempts (31), rushing yards (184) and longest run from scrimmage (59) before leaving in the third quarter with bruised ribs -- tied the franchise records for rushing touchdowns and total touchdowns in a postseason game with his second of the day, this one from five yards out.

The Jaguars answered by scoring the game's next 17 points, courtesy of a 1 yard Natrone Means touchdown run before the half, a 38-yard Mike Hollis field goal early in the third quarter and a blocked punt by Travis Davis, which the Jacksonville safety returned 29 yards for a touchdown to pull the Jaguars to within 21-17.

But the Broncos dominated from there, as Derek Loville took over for the injured Davis and slashed his way to 103 yards (second most by a Bronco in postseason) on 11 attempts, and scored two fourth-quarter touchdowns on runs of 25 and 8 yards to tie the club touchdown record already achieved in the game by Davis. Vaughn Heblum then got into the act himself scoring Denver's fifth rushing touchdown of the day on a 6-yard run with 1:11 remaining, to push the lead to its final margin of 42-17. With Davis' 784 rushing yards and Loville's 103, Denver became just the third team in NFL postseason history to boast two 100-yard rushers in the same game. Additionally, Denver's 40 minutes and 59 seconds of possession time and their 310 rushing yards both were the fifth highest recorded in an NFL playoff game.

AFC Divisional Playoff Game

DENVER & KANSAS CITY, MO.

Jan. 4, 1996 - Arrowhead Stadium - Kansas City, Mo.

Weather: Overcast, 32° (wind chill 26°), Wind NW 6 mph • Attendance: 76,965 • Time: 2:59

The Denver Broncos posted their first road playoff win in 11 years — and only the second in franchise history — with a 14-10 victory over Kansas City in front of 76,965 at Arrowhead Stadium. Denver advanced to its first AFC Championship Game since the 1991 season, on the strength of two Terrell Davis touchdowns — tying the franchise postseason record for the second week in a row — and a defense effort that limited the Chiefs to just 10 points tied for the fewest in each play-off history.

Davis broke a scoreless tie late in the second quarter, plowing into the end zone from 1-yard out to give Denver a 7-0 lead with 1:56 remaining in the half, capping an eight-play, 63-yard drive that covered 4:51 on the clock. Key to the drive was a 17 yard John Elway completion to Rod Smith on a third-and-seven play that gave the Broncos a first down at the Kansas City 4.

The Chiefs, limited to 58 yards total offense in the first half, came out strong after the break, moving the ball to the Denver 6-yard line, before settling for a 20-yard Pete Stoyanovich field goal. Kansas City struck again late in the quarter when Elvis Grube found tight end Tony Gonzalez in the back of the end zone for a 12-yard score and the Chiefs' only touch-down of the day.

The Broncos, however, would answer on their ensuing possession, driving 49 yards in six plays for what would prove to be the game-winning touchdown. The key play of the drive was a 43-yard Elway-to-Ed McCaffrey completion on 3rd-and-5 from the Chiefs' 44-yard line, which gave Denver a first down at the Chiefs' 1-yard line. After two unsuccessful attempts from close range, Davis muscled his way through the middle of the Chiefs' line for his second touchdown of the day and the fifth of his career in the postseason to establish a new franchise record.

Kansas City would have possession three more times in the game, but would be turned back each time by the Broncos' defense after reaching Denver's 31 (punt), their own 36 (punt) and the Broncos' 20 with 0:19 left (downs). The final play was a pass to the end zone on 4th-and-2 that was knocked down by Darren Gordon, ending the Chiefs' hopes, and propelling Denver to the AFC title game.

Elway, with 170 passing yards on the day, moved into second place in NFL postseason history in that category, surpassing both Terry Bradshaw (183) and Jim Kelly (186) at the finish line Sunday, 1994.

AFC CHAMPIONSHIP GAME

DENVER 24, PITTSBURGH 23

Jan. 13, 1998 • Three Rivers Stadium • Pittsburgh, Pa.

Weather Sunny 58° Wind SW 10 mph • Attendance 61,482 • Time 3:19

The Denver Broncos advanced to their fifth Super Bowl—and their first since 1989—with a 24-23 victory at Pittsburgh on the AFC Championship game on Jan. 13 at Three Rivers Stadium. The Broncos became the first Wild Card team to advance to the Super Bowl since the Wild Card format was established in 1971.

The passing of John Elway after he sustained a knee injury during the game was a defensive effort that included big plays after big plays combined to stop Denver's 24-23 final drive, which was a 24-23 win.

Elway was intercepted by Lennox Kirkland on the game's second play, but after the Steelers failed to answer when Terry Johnson's 38-yard field goal attempt sailed wide to the left, Denver then got on the board when Davis—who started the first 34 yards and became the 24th and final postseason rushing leader—cupped a six-play, 73-yard drive with a 30-yard touchdown to move the Broncos' second possession.

Pittsburgh evened the score on its next possession as quarterback Russell Stewart rushed 33 yards, another night for a toughened-up practice six-play, 65-yard drive that covered 317 on the clock. The Steelers then broke the game's deadlock on a second play when Jerome Bettis powered his way into the end zone from one yard out for the winning touches on an 11-play, 68-yard drive.

But the Broncos would win the game's next 17 points and in effect put the game away as the defense held up the end of the half and down the stretch. The scoring began with a 45-yard Jason Elam field goal with 8:37 remaining in the half. After a seven-play, 65-yard drive, Denver got the ball back when Ray Crockett intercepted a Stewart heave, then on the next play, a 45-yard punt set up the second Denver touchdown when Elway hit a 24-yard pass to tight end Elway connected with McCarthey for a 14-yard touchdown with 1:01 left in the half.

Denver entered the third quarter leading the fourth quarter before the Steelers scored the only points of the second half on a 4-yard Stewart to Charles Johnson touchdown pass with 2:46 remaining. But the Broncos were back in a driving position on the next possession after a 45-yard punt set up a 10-play, 68-yard drive.

Elway led Roger Staubach for fourth place on the NFL's all-time list for postseason touchdowns (24) with his two on the day and the Broncos' three interceptions tied the franchise possession record for most in a game.

SUPER BOWL XXXII

DENVER 31, GREEN BAY 24

Jan. 25, 1998 • Qualcomm Stadium • San Diego, Calif.

Weather: Clear and Sunny, 67°, Wind WSW 8 mph • Attendance 68,912 • Time: 3:25

The Denver Broncos won their first Super Bowl and became the first representative from the American Football Conference in 14 years to claim the Vince Lombardi trophy, as they used a powerful running game and a solid defensive performance to dethrone the defending Super Bowl champion Green Bay Packers 31-24 in front of 68,912 at Qualcomm Stadium in San Diego, Calif.

Denver running back Terrell Davis, playing in his hometown, was named the game's Most Valuable Player, in recognition of his 157-yard rushing effort on 30 carries, which included a Super Bowl-record three rushing touchdowns, each from 1-yard out. Davis' three total touchdowns and 18 points each tied Super Bowl records, and were made even more remarkable by the fact that he missed almost the entire second quarter when he was sidelined by the onset of a migraine headache.

Both offenses displayed their talents immediately, as Super Bowl XXXII became the first ever in which each team scored a touchdown on its opening possession. The Packers struck first when Brett Favre connected with Antonio Freeman on a 22-yard scoring pass to cap a 76-yard, 8-play opening drive. The Broncos answered by driving 58 yards in 10 plays the first time they touched the ball, culminating in a 1-yard Davis touchdown run with 5:39 remaining in the first quarter.

The Broncos turned two Packers turnovers into 10 more points to take a 17-7 lead early in the second quarter, making them the fourth team in Super Bowl history to score on each of its first three possessions. The first opportunity was created when safety Tyrone Braxton intercepted a Brett Favre pass, and eight plays later John Elway rushed around right end for a 1-yard touchdown. Free safety Steve Atwater sacked Favre on the next Green Bay possession, forcing a fumble that was recovered by defensive end Neu Smith. Four plays later Jason Elam converted a 31-yard field goal, the second-longest in Super Bowl history.

Green Bay pulled to within 17-14 with a touchdown just before halftime, and tied the score early in the third quarter when Ryan Longwell connected on a 27-yard field goal. Denver broke the tie late in the third quarter on 1-yard Davis touchdown run, and looked to increase the lead after recovering a Green Bay fumble on the ensuing kickoff, but Elway was intercepted by the Packers' Eugene Robinson in the end zone on the first play of the drive. Green Bay would move 85 yards in just four plays to tie the game at 24-24, setting the stage for Davis' late-game heroics.

After the Denver defense turned back the Packers on their next two possessions — including one advance to the Denver 39-yard line that was thwarted when Steve Atwater broke up a potential first-down pass to Robert Brooks — the Broncos set up shop at the Packers' 49-yard line for their game-winning drive. Five plays later Davis scored his third touchdown of the day, from one yard out, giving Denver a 31-24 lead that would hold up over the final 1:45 for the victory.

DENVER 31, GREEN BAY 24

Jan. 25, 1998 • Qualcomm Stadium • San Diego, Calif.

Weather: Clear and Sunny 67°, Wind WSW 8 mph • Attendance: 68,912 • Time 3:25

The Denver Broncos won their first Super Bowl and became the first representative from the American Football Conference in 14 years to claim the Vince Lombardi Trophy as they led a powerful running game and a solid defensive performance to defeat the defending Super Bowl champion Green Bay Packers 31-24 in front of 68,912 at Qualcomm Stadium in San Diego, Calif.

Denver running back Terrell Davis playing in his hometown, was named the game's Most Valuable Player, in recognition of his 157-yard rushing effort on 30 carries, which included a Super Bowl-record three rushing touchdowns. Davis also had two touchdowns and 18 points each on Super Bowl records, and were made even more remarkable by the fact that he missed almost the entire second quarter when he was sidelined by the onset of a migraine headache.

Both offenses displayed their talents immediately, as Super Bowl XXXII became the first ever in which each team scored a touchdown on its opening possession. The Packers struck first when Brett Favre connected with Antonio Freeman on a 22-yard scoring pass to cap a 76-yard, 8-play opening drive. The Broncos answered by driving 58 yards in 10 plays the first time they touched the ball, culminating in a 1-yard Davis touchdown run with 5:39 remaining in the first quarter.

The Broncos turned two Packers turnovers into 10 more points to take a 17-7 lead early in the second quarter, making them the fourth team in Super Bowl history to score on each of its first three possessions. The first opportunity was created when strong safety Tyrone Braxton intercepted a Brett Favre pass, and eight plays later John Elway rushed around right end for a 1-yard touchdown. Free safety Steve Atwater sacked Favre on the next Green Bay possession, forcing a fumble that was recovered by defensive end Neil Smith. Four plays later Jason Elam converted a 51-yard field goal, the second-longest in Super Bowl history.

Green Bay pulled to within 17-14 with a touchdown just before halftime, and tied the score early in the third quarter on a 27-yard Ryan Longwell field goal. Denver broke the tie late in the third quarter on a 1-yard Davis touchdown run, and looked to increase the lead after recovering a Green Bay fumble on the ensuing kickoff, but Elway was intercepted by the Packers' Eugene Robinson in the end zone on the next play. Green Bay would move 85 yards in four plays to tie the game at 24-24, setting the stage for Davis' late-game heroics.

After the Denver defense nixed back the Packers on their next two possessions — including one advance to the Denver 39-yard line that was thwarted when Steve Atwater broke up a potential first-down pass to Robert Brooks — the Broncos set up shop at the Packers' 49-yard line for their game-winning drive. Five plays later Davis scored his third touchdown of the day, from 1 yard out, giving Denver a 31-24 lead that would hold up over the final 1:45 for the victory.

DENVER @ KANSAS CITY 10

Jan. 4, 1998 • Arrowhead Stadium • Kansas City, Mo.

Weather: Overcast 32° (wind chill 26°), Wind NW 6 mph • Attendance: 76,965 • Time 2:59

The Denver Broncos posted their first road playoff win in 11 years — and only the second in franchise history — with a 14-10 victory over Kansas City in front of 76,965 at Arrowhead Stadium. Denver advanced to its first AFC Championship Game since the 1991 season, on the strength of two Terrell Davis touchdowns — tying the franchise postseason record for the second week in a row — and a defensive effort that limited the Chiefs to just 10 points, tied for the fewest in club playoff history.

Davis broke a scoreless tie late in the second quarter plowing into the end zone from 1 yard out to give Denver a 7-0 lead with 1:56 remaining in the half, capping an 8-play, 65-yard drive that covered 4:51 on the clock. Key to the drive was a 17-yard John Elway completion to Rod Smith on a third-and-seven play that gave the Broncos a first down at the Kansas City 4.

The Chiefs, limited to 58 yards total offense in the first half, came out strong after the break, moving the ball to the Denver 6-yard line before settling for a 20-yard Pete Stoyanovich field goal. Kansas City struck again late in the quarter when Elvis Grbac found tight end Tony Gonzalez in the back of the end zone for a 12-yard score and the Chiefs' only touchdown of the day.

The Broncos, however, would answer on their ensuing possession, driving 49 yards in 6 plays for what would prove to be the game-winning touchdown. The key play of the drive was a 43-yard Elway-to-Ed McCaffrey completion on third-and-five from the Chiefs' 44-yard line, which gave Denver a first down at the Chiefs' 1-yard line. After two unsuccessful attempts from close range, Davis muscled his way through the middle of the Chiefs' line for his second touchdown of the day and the fifth of his career in the postseason to establish a new franchise record.

Kansas City would have possession three more times in the game, but would be turned back each time by the Broncos' defense after reaching Denver's 31 (punt), their own 36 (punt) and the Broncos' 20 with 0:19 left (downs). The final play was a pass to the end zone on 4th-and-2 that was knocked down by Darren Gordon, ending the Chiefs' hopes, and propelling Denver to the AFC title game.

Elway, with 170 passing yards on the day, moved into second place in NFL postseason history in that category, supplanting both Terry Bradshaw (3,833) and Jim Kelly (3,863) to finish the day at 3,940.

1997 AFC Wild Card Playoff Game

Dec 27, 1997 - Miller High Stadium - Denver

Weather: Partly Cloudy 44° (wind chill 19°) Wind N 30 mph • Attendance 74,481 • Time 1:12

The Denver Broncos advanced to the AFC Divisional playoffs by literally running the Jacksonville Jaguars out of town as they posted up a sixth postseason record and 370 rushing yards on their way to a 40-27 victory in front of a packed Miller High Stadium. The Broncos' outstanding post-season record during the contest, including new season-best rushing attempts (49), total yards (331), points (40) and TDs (21) (4th total points and TDs in franchise history), rushing first downs (28), rushing first down efficiency (75%) while the 237 yards allowed by the defense was the second-lowest total in Denver's 31 game playoff history.

The Broncos scored touchdowns on each of their first three possessions, racking up a 21-0 lead in 32 offensive plays during which time the Jaguars ran only six Terrell Davis capped Denver's opening drive with a 2 yard touchdown run and Reggie Smith capped the next when he reeled in a 37 yard touchdown pass from John Elway. The lead was increased to 21-7 when Davis, who had traded a post season record for rushing attempts (31) rushing yards (184) and longest run from scrimmage (59) yards, advancing in the third quarter with bruised ribs tied the franchise records for rushing touchdowns and total touchdowns in a postseason game with his second 10 yard run this one from 5 yards out.

The Jaguars answered by scoring the game's only 7 points courtesy of a 1 yard Nate Means touchdown run before the half. A 37 yard Mike Hodak field goal early in the third quarter and a blocked punt by Travis Jones, which the Jacksonville safety returned 24 yards for a touchdown to put the Jaguars within 21-7.

But the Broncos dominated from there as Derek Leary took over for the injured Davis and washed his way to 111 yards and one more by a Broncos in possession on 11 attempts and scored two fourth-quarter touchdowns on runs of 25 and 8 yards to tie a franchise down record in a career achievement in the game by Davis. Vaughn Gibson then gave the Broncos a 40-27 victory with a 10 yard rushing touchdown on the day on a 5 yard run with 1:11 remaining to push the lead to 40-7. With Davis' 84 rushing yards and 2 touchdowns, Denver became just the third team in NFL postseason history to break a 40 yard rushing record in the same game. A total of 40 minutes and 59 seconds of possession time and their 370 rushing yards both were the fifth highest recorded in an NFL playoff game.

JACKSONVILLE 30, DENVER 27

Jan. 4, 1997 • Mile High Stadium • Denver

Weather: Sunny, 46°, Wind NW 15 mph • Attendance: 75,678 • Time: 3:02

The Broncos' most successful season since 1991 came to a surprising end at the hands of the Jacksonville Jaguars in an AFC Divisional Playoff game. In front of 75,678 stadium fans at Mile High Stadium, by a final score of 30-27. The loss was Denver's first defeat at home and only their second ever at home in the postseason.

The contest began on a promising note for the Broncos, as they scored on two of their first three possessions to take a 12-0 lead into the second quarter. First, Vaughn Hebronn scored his first ever postseason touchdown on a 1-yard plunge on fourth down. During that drive Terrell Davis set a franchise record for the longest postseason run with a 47-yard scamper. On Denver's next possession, Shannon Sharpe hauled in an 18-yard pass from John Elway to produce the 12-point margin.

The Jaguars then proceeded to score on their next six possessions, with the first five being unanswered by the Broncos, producing a 23-12 advantage for Jacksonville. The Broncos responded with a 9-play, 57-yard drive, capped by a 2-yard touchdown run by Davis who then tacked on the two-point conversion himself to cut the deficit to three. But then Mark Brunell, who threw for 245 yard and two touchdowns on the day, connected with Jimmy Smith on a critical third-and-five play at the Broncos' 16-yard line with 3:39 remaining in the game to restore a 10-point advantage.

The Broncos again pulled to within three points when Elway found Ed McCaffrey in the end zone for a 15-yard touchdown with 1:50 left, but Denver's magic ran out as the Jaguars held on for the 30-27 win.

During the contest, Elway — who played in his franchise-record 15th postseason game — passed Terry Bradshaw for fourth place on the all-time NFL postseason list for pass attempts. Natrone Means, who led Jacksonville's 203-yard ground attack, rushed for 140 yards on 21 carries. Brunell added 44 more on seven rushes.

1993 AFC WILD CARD GAME
LOS ANGELES RAIDERS 42, DENVER 24
Jan. 9, 1994 • Los Angeles Coliseum • Los Angeles, Calif.

Weather Sunny, 76° Wind 0 mph • Attendance 66,094 • Time 3:36

The Broncos arrived to the playoffs after a one-year hiatus and faced the L.A. Raiders for the second time in many weeks, but unlike the previous week, this time it was a 1-0 game situation for both teams.

Early on the game looked to have the makings of a defensive struggle, with both teams going four downs and out on their first possession, but the game's pace quickly picked up on the second possession. The Raiders struck first on a 7-play, 88-yard drive that was capped with a nine-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Jeff Hostetler to tight end Ethan H.

Quarterback John Elway and the Broncos responded with a drive of their own, going 63 yards in 7 plays, as Elway hooked up with tight end Shannon Sharpe for a 23-yard touchdown. The Raiders bounced back with a 65-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver Tim Brown to take a 14-7 lead. The Broncos responded by driving 64 yards in 11 plays setting up a 16-yard touchdown pass from Elway to tight end Reggie Johnson to tie the score. Hostetler continued to be red hot on the Raiders' next possession, leading the club 84 yards in just five plays, wide receiver James Jeti helped pad Hostetler's totals by catch up a 54-yard touchdown pass in the five-play drive.

As bad as the Broncos defense looked in three straight possessions, the Broncos offense picked up the slack. In the Broncos' last drive of the half, the offense chewed up nearly seven minutes and went 77 yards to tie the score 14-14. Wide receiver Derrin Russell caught a six-yard scoring pass that tied the score, but the real hero of the drive was John Elway, who completed passes to six different receivers and showed his versatility by running twice.

The two teams combined for nearly 900 yards of total offense by halftime, but only the Raiders continued that pace in the second half. After receiving the opening kickoff, the Broncos failed to move the ball on their first three possessions, giving the Raiders great field position after three punts that averaged 40 yards by Tom Ruen. The Raiders took advantage, starting drives at the Denver 43 and 36 and their own 48, and parlayed two of those into touchdowns on drives of three and five plays to take a commanding 45-21 lead.

The Bronco made a dent in the score at the beginning of the fourth period on a 33-yard field goal by Jason Elam, but the Raiders responded to that with a 31-play, 76-yard drive that was capped by Napoleon McCallum's third touchdown of the game from one yard out. That would prove to be all of the scoring, as the Raiders walked away with a 42-24 victory.

DENVER 26, HOUSTON 24

Jan. 4, 1992 • Mile High Stadium • Denver

Weather: Sunny, 36°, Wind W 14 mph • Attendance: 75,301 • Time 3:09

The Denver Broncos advanced to their fourth AFC Championship Game in six years after defeating Houston 26-24 before 75,301 in Mile High Stadium. David Treadwell's 28-yard field goal with 20 seconds remaining capped a 10-play, 78-yard drive in which the Broncos converted two fourth-down plays.

Houston quarterback Warren Moon drove his team 70 yards in four plays — highlighted by a 49-yard strike to Haywood Jeffries, who would also haul in the touchdown pass from 15 yards — to put Houston up 7-0 with only 1:46 gone in the game. After a Denver punt, Moon again drove his team down the field and threw his second touchdown pass, this one for 9 yards to wide receiver Drew Hill.

The Broncos started their next possession on their 35 and covered 65 yards in 8 plays to score on a 10-yard pass from quarterback John Elway to wide receiver Vance Johnson, but a fumbled snap on the conversion attempt left the score 14-6. On the sixth play of the Oilers' drive, Moon was intercepted by free safety Steve Atwater, but a roughing the passer call nullified the effort. Three plays later Houston scored on a 6-yard pass from Moon to wide receiver Curtis Duncan.

The next Oilers' possession ended when Atwater intercepted a pass and gave Denver the ball on its own 12 with 6:03 left in the half. In a drive that saw Elway complete all 6 passes for 64 yards, and Steve Sewell complete one to Johnson for 10, the Broncos covered 88 yards in 12 plays to score on a 1-yard run by running back Greg Lewis, cutting the Houston lead to 21-13. After a missed Houston field goal attempt, the Broncos drove from their 20 in Houston's 31 and David Treadwell nailed a 49-yard field goal, the longest in Denver post-season history. Now up by only five at 21-16, the Oilers reached the Broncos' 7 on their next drive, but had to settle for a 25-yard field goal.

Denver started on its 20 and 9 plays later faced a fourth-and-four from the Houston 41. Elway threw a short pass to wide receiver Michael Young, who broke two tackles and was finally brought down on Houston's 15, a gain of 26 yards. Three plays later Lewis was bowled over from one for his second touchdown of the day, making the score 24-23 in favor of Houston. The Oilers' next drive stalled and Greg Montgomery punted to the Denver two. With 2:07 and no time outs remaining, Elway hit Young for a 20 and gain on first down, but three plays later the Broncos had a fourth-and-six on the 28. Elway dropped back, then scrambled left upfield and ran out of bounds a yard past the first-down marker. Three straight incompletions again left Denver with a do-or-die fourth-down situation. Elway again dropped back and scrambled left, but as he headed upfield he tossed a pass to Johnson, who ran to the Houston 21 for a 44-yard gain, running back Steve Sewell run for 10 yards on first down, and two plays later Treadwell came on for the winning kick.

SUPER BOWL XXIV

SAN FRANCISCO 55, DENVER 10

Jan. 28, 1990 • Louisiana Superdome • New Orleans, La.

Weather Indoors • Attendance 72,919 • Time 3:21

The San Francisco Forty-Niners captured their fourth World Championship with a 55-10 victory over Denver in Super Bowl XXIV played in the Louisiana Superdome. San Francisco quarterback Joe Montana completed 22 of 29 passes for 297 yards and five touchdowns twice to wide receiver Jerry Rice.

The Forty-Niners scored two touchdowns in every quarter and outgained the Broncos 461 yards to 167. After stopping Denver on the game's initial possession, San Francisco drove 66 yards in 10 plays, scoring on a 20-yard pass from Montana to Rice. The Broncos next possession covered 49 yards in 10 plays and resulted in a 42-yard field goal by David Treadwell.

After punting the Niners to four yards on their next drive, Denver took possession on its own 49, but on first down running back Bobby Humphrey fumbled and defensive end Kevin Fagan recovered for San Francisco on the Niners' 46. That turnover led to a 7-yard touchdown pass from Montana to tight end Brent Jones, and after a failed extra point attempt, San Francisco led 13-3 with 7 seconds left in the first quarter.

The Broncos failed to cross mid-field in the second period while the Niners scored on a one-yard run by running back Tim Rathman and a 38-yard pass from Montana to Rice. San Francisco was unable to move the ball on the initial drive of the second half, but Elway was intercepted on the first play of Denver's next drive and the Niners took possession on the Broncos' 28. On first down Montana threw a touchdown pass to Rice to put his team up 34-3. The next Denver drive also ended with an interception, leading to a 35-yard scoring pass from Montana to wide receiver John Taylor. The Broncos, spurred by a 34-yard run by Humphrey, moved 61 yards in 5 plays and a penalty to score on a 3-yard run by Elway. San Francisco roared back with an 11-play, 75-yard drive that ended with a 3-yard touchdown run by Rathman. Following another Bronco fumble, running back Roger Craig plowed 1 yard into the end zone to round out the scoring.

Jan. 7, 1990 • Mile High Stadium • Denver

Weather: Sunny, 55°. Wind W 6 mph • Attendance 75,868 • Time 2:54

The Denver Broncos advanced to their third AFC Championship Game in four years with a come-from-behind 24-23 victory over the Steelers before 75,868 in Mile High Stadium. Although Pittsburgh held the upper hand in total yards (404 to 364) and time of possession (34:14 to 25:46) Denver was able to mount a late fourth quarter drive and score the winning touchdown with just 2:27 remaining.

The Steelers took the opening kickoff return and drove 65 yards in 13 plays, scoring on a 32-yard Gary Anderson field goal. Late in the opening quarter Pittsburgh took possession at its own 7-yard line, but after a 45-yard run by Merrill Hoge and a 33-yard Bubby Brister in Tim Worley pass play, Pittsburgh was knocking on the door and scored three plays later on a 7-yard run by Hoge to put Pittsburgh up 7-0.

The Broncos took their first possession of the second quarter and drove 75 yards in 12 plays to score on a 1-yard plunge by running back Mel Bratton on third-and-goal. The Steelers roared back, traveling 77 yards in 12 plays to score on a 9-yard pass from Brister to wide receiver Louis Lipps. The Broncos got the ball back on their own 33 with 20 seconds left in the half. On first down, quarterback John Elway and wide receiver Mark Jackson combined for 26 yards, and then Elway fired a 15-yard pass to wide receiver Ricky Nattiel, putting Denver at the Pittsburgh 26 with 2 seconds left. David Treadwell kicked a 43-yard field goal to pull Denver within 17-10 at the half.

Early in the third quarter, Denver NT Greg Kragen forced a Tim Worley fumble and CB Tyrone Braxton recovered for the Broncos on the Steelers 37. On first down Elway hit wide receiver Vance Johnson for a touchdown, tying the score at 17. Pittsburgh's next two possessions ended in Anderson field goals and the Steelers held a 23-17 lead in the early stages of the fourth quarter. After an exchange of punts the Broncos took possession on their own 29 with 7:06 left in the game. After a first down penalty, making it first-and-19 from the 20, Elway hit Jackson for 18 yards. Elway then handed off to running back Bobby Humphrey, who pitched the ball back to Elway and he threw a 36-yard strike to Johnson, giving Denver a first down on the Steelers 26. Humphrey ran on the next four plays, gaining 24 yards and taking the ball to the 2. On third-and-goal, from the 1, Bratton scored again and Treadwell's extra point gave Denver its first lead of the game with 2:27 left. Pittsburgh got the ball on its own 20, but on third downs Brister's signals were drowned out by the crowd and he mishandled the snap. Randy Robbins recovered for Denver on the Pittsburgh 18 and the Broncos were able to run out the clock.

DENVER 23, CLEVELAND 20

Jan. 11, 1987 • Cleveland Stadium • Cleveland, Ohio

Weather: Solid Overcast, 30°, Wind NW 14 mph (-5°) • Attendance: 79,915 • Time: 3:50

Rich Karlis kicked a 33-yard field goal 5:48 into overtime to give the Broncos a 23-20 victory over the Browns. The game was played in front of a record crowd of 79,915 people at Cleveland Stadium.

Cleveland took an early 7-0 lead when Bernie Kosar threw a 6-yard touchdown pass to Herman Fontenot with 5:19 left in the first quarter to cap a 14-play, 86-yard drive. The Browns topped the rest of the first half with a 10-15 kickoff, a 10-15 kickoff, a 10-15 kickoff and the second by Jim Ryan, who returned the ball 26 yards to the Cleveland 9. Four plays later Karlis nailed a 19-yard field goal to make the score 7-7. Denver got another break on Cleveland's next play when Kevin Mack fumbled and Ken Woodard recovered the ball on the Browns' 37. On first down John Elway rambled 34 yards, and two more rushes got Denver to the 1-yard line. On fourth-and-goal Gerald Whitfield plunged into the end zone to give the Broncos a 10-7 lead.

Cleveland kicker Mark Moseley tied the score at 10 with a 29-yard field goal with 20 seconds left in the first half. Both teams saw their first two possessions of the second half end in punts before Denver scored on a 26-yard Karlis field goal 12 minutes into the third quarter capping an 11-play, 61-yard drive. The Browns responded as Mack rushed for 34 yards on a 10-play, 76-yard drive that culminated with a 24-yard Moseley field goal, knotting the score at 13-13. The Broncos' next two possessions ended in punts, and Cleveland followed the second with a 48-yard touchdown strike from Kosar to Brian Brennan on a third-and-six play to put Cleveland ahead 20-13 with 5:43 left in regulation.

The ensuing kickoff rolled to the Denver 2-yard line where Gene Lang fell on it. Pro Bowl-bound Elway then engineered the longest and most important drive of his four-year career. On the fifth play of the drive (2nd-and-7 from the Broncos' 15), Elway rushed for 11 yards and a first down. He then hit Steve Sewell for a 22-yard gain, followed by a 12-yard strike to Steve Watson to give Denver a first down on the Cleveland 40. After an incomplete pass on 8th-and-1, Elway threw a 20-yard pass to Mark Jackson, moving the team to the Cleveland 28. Another incomplete was followed by a 14-yard Elway-to-Sewell pass, giving the Broncos a first down on the Browns' 14 with 57 seconds left. After an incomplete Elway run 9 yards to the Cleveland 5-yard line. On the next play, he hit Jackson for a touchdown, and Karlis' extra point tied the score at 20 with 37 seconds left. Cleveland was unable to move the ball at time ran out in the fourth quarter.

The Browns won the overtime coin toss and elected to receive. Three plays into the drive, (on third-and-two from the Cleveland 36) the Orange Crush rose up to snuff Herman Fontenot for no gain. Cleveland punted and Whitfield returned it to the Broncos 25, where the Denver juggernaut reved it up again. On second-and-five Elway hit Orson Mobley for a 22-yard gain, and three plays later Elway threw a 28-yard pass to Watson. With a first down on Cleveland's 22-yard line, the Broncos rushed three times to get to the 15, and on the fourth down, Karlis hit the 33-yard game-winner. Elway accounted for 300 total yards in the game, rushing for 96 and completing 22 of 58 passes for 244 yards. The Broncos kept alive a 1986 record of 13-0 when they scored 20 or more points. Denver also notched its 11th win on natural turf, losing only to San Diego at home on grass.

DEC. 30, 1978 • Three Rivers Stadium • Pittsburgh, Pa.

Weather: Light Rain • Wind: S 5 mph • Attendance: 48,421 • Time: 1:02

Two fourth-quarter touchdown passes by Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw tilted the Steelers' victory over the Denver Broncos into the AFC Central Division Championship game.

Bradshaw's scoring drive included a 45-yard bomb to John Stallworth and a 38-yarder to Lynn Swann, capping a brilliant performance by the Pittsburgh passer.

The Broncos took the early lead on a 37-yard J. Turner field goal, but Pittsburgh's Ernie Harris ran for six touchdowns, a 1-yarder and an 18-yarder. The Broncos kicked a field goal to tie the game late in the third quarter. However, Denver lost the halftime margin 19-10.

Denver threatened to come closer in the third period, but Turner's 29-yard field goal attempt was blocked, and Bradshaw's passing sealed Denver's defeat in the first half.

The Steelers rolled to 425 yards total offense, with Bradshaw accounting for 272 through nearly 500 yards of receptions by Stallworth.

The National World Champion Steelers visited the Broncos' ground game to push 67 yards in earning the right to play the Houston Oilers for the AFC crown the following week.

1977 AFC CHAMPIONSHIP GAME

DENVER 20, OAKLAND 17

Jan. 1, 1978 • Mile High Stadium • Denver

Weather: Mostly Sunny, 18°, Wind NE 3 mph • Attendance 74,982 • Time 2:00

Denver quarterback Craig Morton threw two touchdown passes to Haven Moses as the Broncos defeated the defending NFL Champion Oakland Raiders 20-17 and moved into their first Super Bowl.

Morton, who was drafted and spent nine-and-a-half years with the Cowboys, would face his former Dallas teammates after completing 10 of 20 passes for 224 yards. It would be the second meeting in five weeks for these two teams — Dallas won 14-6 in the regular season. Morton played in the game after a four-game suspension.

On a sunny 18-degree day before 74,982 Denver fans, the Raiders scored on their initial possession as Ernie Mann kicked a 20-yard field goal to climax an 18-play drive. Morton hit Moses for their first scoring hookup two plays later on a 74-yard touchdown bomb, and the Broncos were on top to stay.

Denver took advantage of two Oakland turnovers in the second half to win its second game in three meetings with Raiders during the 1977 season. Defensive end Brian Manor recovered running back Clarence Davis' fumble at the Oakland 17 and running back Ron Keyworth scored from the 1-yard line to increase the margin to 14-3 in the third quarter.

Oakland quarterback Ken Stabler hit tight end Dave Casper on the first of two scoring passes to narrow the lead to 14-10 with 49 seconds elapsed in the final period. But on Oakland's next possession, linebacker Bob Swenson intercepted a Stabler pass and ran to the Raiders' 44. Morton then threw 12 yards to Moses for the Broncos' final touchdown. Oakland finished the scoring on the next series as Stabler drew 17 yards to Casper for the game's last touchdown.

Denver controlled the ball for the final 3:08 and gave Red Miller the AFC title in his first year as head coach. Moses, a 10-year veteran, had 7 receptions for 168 yards. The Denver defense, which was No. 1 against the rush in the NFL during the regular season, held the Raiders to 94 yards on the ground.

DENVER 34, PITTSBURGH 21

Dec. 24, 1977 • Mile High Stadium • Denver

Weather: Sunny, 43°, Wind E 9 mph • Attendance 75,011 • Time: 3:15

After ties at 7, 14, and 21, veteran Jim Turner kicked a 44-yard field goal to put Denver ahead to stay as the Broncos — in their first playoff game ever — beat the perennial AFC Central Champion Steelers.

Leading 24-21, the Broncos capped their victory with two fourth-quarter interceptions by linebacker Tom Jackson, the last of which set up Craig Morton's 34-yard game-clinching touchdown pass to Jack Dolbin.

Denver capitalized on a blocked punt and a fumble recovery for two scores in the first half, which ended 14-14. Morton and Steeler quarterback Terry Bradshaw traded touchdown passes in the second half before Turner's kick. Jackson's interceptions, and Morton's arm kept Pittsburgh from the AFC title game for the first time in four years.

The Denver victory set up a third game between the AFC Western Champion Broncos and the AFC Wild Card Raiders, who split two regular season games.

DENVER BRONCOS RING OF FAME PROFILES

The Denver Broncos' Ring of Fame was inaugurated in 1984 to honor former players and administrators who played significant roles in the franchise's history.

The most recent induction came in 1993 when cornerback Louis Wright (1975-86) was inducted into the Ring of Fame, and linebacker Tom Jackson (1973-86) entered the Ring of Fame in 1992.

Linebacker Randy Gradishar (1974-83) was the only 1989 inductee into the Ring of Fame, while quarterback Craig Morton (1977-82), wide receiver Haven Moses (1972-81), and kicker Jim Turner (1971-79) were inducted in 1988.

Former defensive back Bill Thompson (1969-81) was honored in 1987 and three players joined the elite group in 1986, quarterbacks Frank Tripucka (1960-63) and Charley Johnson (1972-75), and defensive end Paul Smith (1968-78).

In 1985 former owner Gerald H. Phipps became the first non-player to have his name placed on the Ring.

Four former players were the original Ring of Fame inductees, running back Floyd Little (1967-75), defensive end Rich Jackson (1967-72), wide receiver Lionel Taylor (1960-66) and safety Austin "Goose" Gonsoulin (1960-66).

The Ring of Fame is on the facade of Mile High Stadium's east stands, just below the third level. The following are brief sketches of each of the 15 Ring of Fame members in alphabetical order.

SAFETY23

THEN Austin "Goose" Gonsoulin was one of the four original Ring of Fame inductees in 1984 recognized for his splendid play at safety for seven seasons. Gonsoulin was one of the original Broncos from the 1960 season. At the end of his Bronco career, he was the all-time American Football League leader in interceptions with 43. His 11 pickoffs in 1960 are still a Denver club record, and he shares the team record for interceptions in a game with four, a feat he accomplished Sept. 18, 1960 at Buffalo. Gonsoulin was an All-AFL choice in 1960, 1962 and 1963. His amazing durability and toughness enabled him to start 61 consecutive games at one point in his career. Gonsoulin was also the captain of his college team at Baylor.

Now Gonsoulin has operated a construction company in Texas since his retirement.

THEN Randy Gradishar was the only Ring of Fame inductee in 1989 in recognition of a 10-year career at linebacker with the Broncos. During his career, Gradishar was a seven-time Pro Bowler, the most by any Bronco at the end of his career, and he is also the all-time leader in tackles for Denver, finishing with 1,958. Gradishar never missed a game, playing in 145 in a row. He accounted for 33 turnovers in his career (20 INTs and 13 fumble recoveries) and was voted the Defensive Player of the Year in 1978 by AP, UPI, Pro Football Weekly and NEA (George Halas Award). His teammates also voted him team defensive MVP in 1978 and 1980. While at Ohio State, Gradishar was referred to by his head coach — the legendary Woody Hayes — as "the best linebacker I ever coached at Ohio State." Randy was a three-year starter for the Buckeyes and was named to every All-America team following his senior season, as well as being an Academic All-America selection, graduating with a degree in distributive education. Gradishar was also the president of the Denver Broncos Youth Foundation from 1982-92. He was inducted in 1988 into the College Football Hall of Fame.

Now Gradishar joined the Phil Long Dealerships as Leadership Manager in December 1997, a position in which he helps train, equip and support employees in the quest to achieve their goals and objectives. In that capacity, he encourages employees to exceed customer expectations and ensure customer satisfaction. Gradishar is also instrumental in the Phil Long Community Fund, which operates in conjunction with the Denver Broncos Charities Fund to make an investment back into the communities with which it does business, as well as the Phil Long University, furnishing employees with career opportunities through quality education and state-of-the-art training. Gradishar lives in Denver and has three children: Paige, Meredith and Mark.

DEFENSIVE END87

Jackson was the first Bronco to be named to the All-NFL first team in 1970. He posted his career high in quarterback sacks in 1969 with 11, and had 10 sacks in both 1968 and 1970. He was All-AFL from 1968-69 in addition to starting in the 1970 Pro Bowl. He made the Pro Bowl again in 1971 despite playing in only seven games due to a knee injury which eventually forced him out of football. Jackson finished his career with 34 sacks. He was a standout end at Southern University on both sides of the ball. He also lettered in track and was the NAIA shotput champion.

Now Jackson is a school administrator in New Orleans, La., where he and his wife, Katherine, reside.

TOM JACKSON

Year Inducted: 1992

LINEBACKER57

THEN Tom Jackson was the only player inducted into the Ring of Fame in 1992. "TJ" was always one of the most popular players among his teammates, who voted him most inspirational player six consecutive seasons (1981-86). He finished his career having played the most games in Broncos history at 191 and still ranks second on that list behind John Elway. He is also tied for third in games played at 177. Jackson is one of only three Broncos to wear the Denver uniform for 14 seasons, joining Dennis Smith and John Elway. He made three consecutive Pro Bowl appearances from 1977-79 and was named first team All-Pro twice (1977-78). He was also named as Denver's defensive MVP in 1974, '76, and '77. Upon his retirement in 1986, Jackson was tied for first with fellow Ring of Famer Randy Gradishar for the most interceptions in Broncos history by a linebacker with 20, and was fifth on the all-time sack list with 44. Jackson was also a standout performer at Louisville, where he was the Missouri Valley Conference Player of the Year twice — as a sophomore in 1970 and as a senior in 1972.

Now Jackson currently is a reporter for ESPN, and along with Chris Berman, Chris Mortenson, Joe Thiesmann and Sterling Sharpe, hosts the award-winning "NFL Countdown" show every Sunday morning during the NFL season. During the season he makes occasional trips to Denver to do interviews for Bronco features on the show. Tom, his wife Jennifer and their daughter Taylor, reside in Cincinnati, Ohio.

RUNNING BACK44

Then: Floyd Little is one of the four original Ring of Fame inductees from 1984. He was the first No. 1 draft pick ever signed by the Broncos and was widely regarded as "The Franchise" for much of his nine-year career. Little was the first serious threat for the Broncos at running back. A Pro Bowl participant in 1971, Floyd twice played in the AFL All-Star game (1968 and 1969) and is still the Broncos' all-time leader in rushing yards (6,323) and rushing attempts (1,641). Little is also the Broncos' all-time leading touchdown scorer with 54, and he leads all rushers with 43. He still ranks sixth on the Broncos' all-time scoring list with 324 points. Little totaled 12,103 all-purpose yards during his career, including a team-record 2,523 on kickoff returns. Little also holds the Broncos' record for the longest non-scoring kickoff return, of 89 yards (vs Oakland, Nov. 10, 1968). When Little retired, he was among the Top-10 all-time rushers in NFL history. Little was a three-time All-American at Syracuse. Following in the footsteps of Jim Brown and the late Ernie Davis as superstar tailbacks for the Orangemen, Little actually shattered most of the records set by his two predecessors, rushing for 2,704 yards, returning punts for 845, kickoffs for 797, and passed for 19 — for a grand total of 4,947 yards. He also scored in 22 of 30 regular season games, including five times in one game.

Now: Little has gone into business for himself and owns an auto dealership in Seattle, Wash.

Morton, who also starred with the Dallas Cowboys in the early 1970s, earned a variety of awards for his on-field performance in 1977, including AFC Most Valuable Player honors. During his career

GERALD PHIPPS

Year inducted: 1985

Years with Broncos: 1961-81

OWNER

Then: Gerald H. Phipps became the first and only non-player to be inducted into Denver Broncos' Ring of Fame in 1985. Under the guidance of Phipps and his brother Alan, the Broncos rose from their less than auspicious beginnings to the top of the American Football Conference. In 1977, the Broncos laid claim to their first ever AFC Championship, won the Western Division title in 1977 and 1978 and made three consecutive playoff appearances (1977-79). Under Phipps, the Broncos ultimately rose to a position as one of the NFL's most stable franchises. With the success of the Broncos, the doors were opened for other major league teams from other sports to grab a piece of the Denver sports pie. Following the takeover by the Phipps brothers, Denver Broncos season ticket sales improved from 8,002 in 1964 to 22,905 in 1965. Before purchasing the Broncos on February 15, 1965, Phipps was the president of the Gerald H. Phipps Inc. Construction Company, which he continued to operate. Phipps was born March 4, 1915 in Denver.

Mr. Phipps passed away August 8, 1993.

PAUL SMITH

Year inducted: 1986

Years with Broncos: 1968-76

DEFENSIVE TACKLE70

Then: Paul Smith was inducted into the Ring of Fame in 1986, along with quarterbacks Frank Tripucka and Charley Johnson. Smith posted 55 sacks for his career sixth-most on the Broncos' all-time list. He also posted 11 sacks in both the 1972 and 1973 seasons, propelling him to back-to-back Pro Bowl appearances. Smith was one of the leaders during the years when Denver was establishing its reputation for defensive excellence. His head coach, John Ralston, once said that Smith was "the finest defensive tackle in pro football." Smith's 11-year career was the longest in Bronco annals until he was surpassed by fellow Ring of Famer Billy Thompson. He was the first 10-year man in Bronco history. Smith played collegiately at New Mexico.

Now: Smith still resides in the Denver area and works in sales.

Taylor caught 92 passes during the 1960 season and followed that campaign with a team-record 100 receptions in 1961, leading the AFL in receiving for five of the league's first six years of existence. Taylor was regarded by many as the possessor of the best hands in pro football. He never had fewer than 78 receptions in a season over those first six years, averaging 64.7 catches from 1960-65, at that time the highest six-year total in football history. Taylor was selected to the Pro Bowl in 1960, '61 and '65 and played in the league all-star game in 1962. Taylor performed collegiately at New Mexico Highlands.

Now: Taylor has enjoyed an extensive coaching career as an assistant in the NFL, including with the championship teams of the Pittsburgh Steelers in the 1970's, and also in the collegiate ranks. He is currently the head coach of the England Monarchs of NFL Europe, formerly the World League.

BILLY THOMPSON

Year Inducted: 1987

DEFENSIVE BACK36

THEN: Billy Thompson, regarded by many as the best defensive back in Denver Broncos annals, was the only Ring of Fame inductee in 1987. He was the first player in team history to play 13 seasons with Denver, and he was the team captain for many years. Thompson, despite being retired for 15 seasons, still ranks second on the Broncos' all-time list for games started with 178, second in consecutive starts with 142, and sixth in games played with 179. He finished his career with 61 turnovers, (most in team history), 40 of which came via interceptions (third in team history). He holds two NFL records, one of which has stood for over two decades.

As a rookie in 1969, Thompson became the only player in NFL history to lead the league in both kickoffs and punt returns in the same season. He is also one of only two players in NFL history to return four opponent fumbles for touchdowns. Thompson was a three-time Pro Bowl selection (1977, '78 and '81), and earned All-NFL honors twice (1977 and '78) and All-AFC honors four times (1977-79, '81). Billy also enjoyed a brilliant career at Maryland State (now Maryland-Eastern Shore), earning All-CIAA honors three times as a defensive back and being named team MVP as a senior. He also twice earned NAIA All-America honors. Thompson also made All-CIAA three times in baseball as a centerfielder.

Now: Thompson was a college scout for the Broncos for two years before moving into his current position as Director of Player Relations and Alumni Coordinator. As Director of Player Relations, Thompson coordinates three major functions: family assistance, continuing education and career development. Each of these programs is designed to assist the player with his life off the field. As Alumni Coordinator, Billy works with the Alumni Council and former Broncos who live in the area, who are considered an important part of the Broncos' organization. Thompson is also a member of the Board of Directors of the African American Leadership Institute and Metropolitan State College. He also volunteers time with the Urban League, Hispanic Chamber of Commerce and several other non-profit organizations. Thompson, his wife Barbara, and their son Richie make their home in Aurora, Colo.

His 447 yards passing against Buffalo (9/15/62) still stands as the team record, and he shares the team record for most touchdown passes in a game with

RETIRED NUMBERS

The Denver Broncos have retired two jersey numbers in their 36-year history, quarterback Frank Tripucka and running back Floyd Little Tripucka, who wore number 18, was Denver's first quarterback and called signals for the Broncos from 1960-63. He played in the American Football League all-star game in 1962 and passed for 7,676 yards in his Denver career.

Little, who wore number 44 for the Broncos, as well as during his legendary college career at Syracuse, played in Denver from 1967-75 and is the team's all-time leader in rushing (6,323 yards) and total touchdowns (54). Little was A-F-L in 1969 and played in two AFL all-star games (1968, 1969) and three Pro Bowls (1971, 1972, 1973).

PILING UP THE POINTS

Through the 1997 season, the Broncos have scored 11,738 points in 38 seasons of play and 564 regular season games (308.9 per season, 20.8 per game). The 10,000th point in franchise history was scored Oct. 31, 1993, by running back Robert Delpino when he plunged into the end zone from one yard out in the third quarter of Denver's 28-17 win over Seattle. The total was at 9,997 points before the touchdown. At Denver's current seasonal pace, the club will score its 15,000th point sometime during the 2008 season. Their 12,000th point should be scored this season.

FORMER BRONCOS IN THE PRO FOOTBALL HALL OF FAME

Two players enshrined in the Pro Football Hall of Fame — cornerback Willie Brown and running back Tony Dorsett — spent a portion of their professional playing careers with the Denver Broncos. A brief review of their Hall of Fame careers is outlined below.

WILLIE BROWN

CB

INDUCTED: 1984

Cornerback Willie Brown, inducted into the Hall of Fame in 1984, played for the Broncos from 1963-66, and was named All-American Football League in 1964. He intercepted nine passes that season, including a team-record four in one game (vs. New York, 11/15/64), and was named the outstanding back in the AFL All-Star game in January, 1965.

The 6-foot-1, 195-pound Brown, who played his college ball at Grambling, joined the Broncos as a free agent in Aug. 1963 and played four seasons with the club. In 50 games he intercepted 15 passes and tallied 195 yards in returns, while also returning three punts for 29 yards (9.7) and three kickoffs for 70 yards (23.3).

Brown was traded to Oakland in 1967 and went on to play 12 seasons with the Raiders (1967-78). He was an all-league performer every year from 1968-73, while making three AFL All-Star game (1967-69) and four Pro Bowl (1970-73) appearances. In 16 seasons Brown played in 204 games and finished his career with 54 interceptions for 472 return yards and two touchdowns.

TONY DORSETT

RB

INDUCTED: 1994

Running Back Tony Dorsett, though best known for his brilliant 11-year tenure with the Dallas Cowboys, was a Denver Bronco during the 1988 and 1989 seasons. He joined the Broncos in 1988 and went on to lead the club in rushing that season with 703 yards on 181 carries. He spent the 1989 season on injured reserve before his retirement, and was inducted into the Hall of Fame in 1994.

Dorsett, who ranks third on the all-time NFL rushing list with 12,739 yards, captured rookie of the year honors in 1977 with the Cowboys, en route to four Pro Bowl selections (1978, 1981-83). His highest rushing total came in 1981 when he ran for 1,646 yards, just one of eight 1,000-yard seasons during his brilliant career. Dorsett also caught 398 passes for 3,554 yards (8.9) and accounted for 91 total touchdowns (77 rushing, 13 receiving, 1 fumble recovery).

Dorsett was a college star at the University of Pittsburgh where he won the Heisman Trophy in 1976 while leading the Panthers to the national title.

The helmet is blue with the horse done in white with orange highlights. MARCH — The Broncos are selected to face Miami in an American Bowl '97 contest in Mexico City, Mexico. The appearance marks the Broncos' sixth in an American Bowl, tying the club with San Francisco for most in the NFL since American Bowl games began being played in 1986. AUGUST 4 — Denver and Miami meet in Mexico City, Mexico, in an American Bowl '97 contest, won by the Dolphins, 38-19, at Estadio Guillermo Canedo. SEPTEMBER 21 — Running back Terrell Davis sets a franchise record by rushing for 215 yards in a 38-20 win over Cincinnati at Mile High Stadium. He is named AFC Offensive Player of the Week, en route to an AFC Player of the Month award for September. OCTOBER 6 — Denver defeats New England 34-13 in a Monday Night battle of the league's two remaining unbeaten teams, representing the furthest into a season that two undefeated teams have met on Monday Night Football. Linebacker John Mobley is named AFC Defensive Player of the Week in recognition of his 15-tackle effort that included an interception return for a touchdown. OCTOBER 26 — The Broncos defeat the Bills 23-20 in overtime at Buffalo's Rich Stadium, a mere 15 hours after arriving in Buffalo, due to a severe snowstorm that dumped more than a foot of snow on the Denver area, with drifts piled several feet higher in some areas. The Broncos' chartered flight leaves Denver 10 hours late, at 8 p.m. (MT) Saturday, Oct. 25, after an ordeal that involves numerous players' vehicles being stranded in snow-drifts trying to reach the team buses at Broncos headquarters. Several players make their way to headquarters by way of snowmobiles after being picked up by citizens. NOVEMBER 2 — John Elway sets two milestones and earns AFC Offensive Player of the Week honors on this day as the Broncos defeat Seattle 30-27 at Mile High Stadium. With 252 passing yards, Elway moves past Fran Tarkenton into second-place all-time in NFL passing yardage, and his 276 total yards make him just the third player in NFL history to top the 50,000-yard plateau. He will later be named NFL Offensive Player of the Month for November. NOVEMBER 9 — Cornerback Darrien Gordon ties an NFL record by returning two punts for touchdowns in the same quarter, a feat previously accomplished just twice in NFL history. His scoring returns of 82 and 75 yards in the first quarter staked Denver to a 14-0 lead en route to a 34-0 defeat of Carolina. The two touchdown returns in a game also tie Rick Upchurch's franchise record, while his 168 punt return yards set a new franchise standard, as Gordon wins AFC Special Teams Player of the Week honors. DECEMBER 21 — Denver closes its regular season with a 38-3 victory over San Diego to secure its second straight undefeated regular season at home, only the third NFL team to do so since the schedule expanded to 16 games in 1978. In the game, Denver sets club postseason records for rushing yards (310), total yards (511), rushing attempts (49), points in a quarter (21, 4th quarter), total points (42), first downs (28), rushing first downs (18) and third-down efficiency (75%). Terrell Davis rushes for a club postseason record 184 yards and is complemented by Derek Loville's 103 yards rushing, making Denver just the third team in NFL postseason history to post two 100-yard rushers in the same game. Denver's 40:59 of possession time and 310 rushing yards both rank as the fifth-highest totals ever in an NFL playoff game. Instrumental in the performance is the offensive line, which, as a unit, is named NFL Offensive Player of the Week. It marks just the second time in NFL history — and first in the postseason — that an Offensive Line is named Player of the Week.

JANUARY 4 — Denver wins a road playoff game for only the second time in franchise history by defeating the Chiefs 14-10 in an AFC Divisional Playoff Game at Kansas City's Arrowhead Stadium. JANUARY 11 — The Broncos win their fifth AFC Championship — and win on the road for the second straight week in the playoffs — by lopping the Steelers 24-21 at Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium. The win makes Denver just the fifth Wild Card team to advance to the Super Bowl since the Wild Card format was adopted in 1970. JANUARY 25 — Denver claims its first World Championship with a 31-24 victory over defending champion Green Bay in Super Bowl XXXII at Qualcomm Stadium in San Diego. The Broncos become the first team from the American Football Conference in 14 years to win the Super Bowl, and only the second Wild Card team ever to do so. Running back Terrell Davis sets a Super Bowl record with three rushing touchdowns to claim the Pete Rozelle Award as the game's Most Valuable Player. Davis finishes with 157 yards rushing and ties the Super Bowl record for total touchdowns (3) and points scored (18). The game marks the first time in Super Bowl history that each team scored a touchdown on its first possession, and the Broncos become just the fourth team in Super Bowl history to score on each of their first three possessions. JANUARY 27 — An estimated 650,000 fans gather in downtown Denver for a victory parade and rally to honor the World Champion Denver Broncos. The parade follows a route along 17th Street from Wynkoop to Broadway, and then along Broadway for several blocks before working its way to the steps of the Denver City and County Building, where a rally is held. Broncos owner Pat Bowlen, head coach Mike Shanahan, quarterback John Elway, running back Terrell Davis, Colorado Governor Roy Romer and Denver Mayor Wellington Webb address the sea of Broncos fans who pack the grounds in front of the stage, and Elway and Davis are honored with street signs bearing their names. FEBRUARY 1 — The Broncos are represented in the annual AFC-NFC Pro Bowl in Honolulu by running back Terrell Davis, center Tom Nalen, tight end Shannon Sharpe and defensive end Neil Smith. Quarterback John Elway is also selected, but opts not to play in the game due to injury. APRIL 22 — Colorado Governor Roy Romer signs into law SB 171, a bill authorizing voters to decide upon a ballot issue that would appropriate tax money to partially fund a new football stadium in Denver.

DENVER BRONCOS IN THE COMMUNITYDENVER BRONCOS CHARITIES FUND*Help Begins at Home

For more than 35 years, the Broncos have committed both financial support and the time of players, coaches and staff to the community in which we live and work. The establishment of the Denver Broncos Charities Fund (DBCF) in 1993 has enabled the team to extend its reach even further. Through the Fund the Broncos are able to raise and grant money to qualified non-profit organizations throughout the state of Colorado. Each dollar raised by the Fund is matched by the McCormick Tribune Foundation, greatly increasing the level of assistance provided to the non-profit sector.

The impact of DBCF is best demonstrated by its financial contributions. Since its inception, the Fund has granted 6.3 million dollars to charitable organizations in Denver and across the state. In 1997 alone, the Fund raised more than $2.5 million.

DBCF focuses its support on three critical areas: programs designed to impact young people in the areas of education, athletics and life skills with efforts aimed at disadvantaged and at-risk youth, programs devoted to physically or mentally challenged individuals and programs for the hungry and homeless. Throughout the year, the Fund holds nearly 20 events with partners who work in one or more of these mission areas.

CHILDREN'S PROGRAMS

DBCF's efforts begin with those least able to help themselves — children. From programs that benefit youth who have been physically, sexually or emotionally abused to initiatives that promote health, fitness and teamwork, Fund partners are helping to provide a promising future for the young people of Colorado.

BRONCOS ACADEMY

Communities in Schools of Colorado (CISCO), DBCF, the Nike Corporation and Denver Public Schools work together to operate Broncos Academy — a "school within a school" for high-risk youth in Denver at East High School. Broncos Academy is one of more than 80 such programs across the nation to help kids turn away from violence and despair with counseling, health services, tutoring, employment and gang intervention.

Since the academy's inception in 1994, enrollment has grown from 23 students to more than

A team of caring professionals and volunteers from businesses and the community work to ensure that students attend school, increase academic success and meet individual and family needs. While the dropout rate across Denver Public Schools is more than 50%, Broncos Academy has seen less than three percent of its students leave.

"LIGHT THE HOUSE" CAMPAIGN

Denver Ronald McDonald House kicks off its annual "Light the House" campaign by lighting the structure on the east side of Mile High Stadium at the start of the holiday season. The campaign is a collaborative effort of Ronald McDonald House Charities, DBCF, KWGN-TV and the "Light the House" Fund, which is also a fund of the McCormick Tribune Foundation. The lighted structure is over 50 feet tall and depicts the outline of the Ronald McDonald House. The campaign is a direct effort in the center. For each gift of $5 or more, a bulb is lit in the structure in the name of the donor. A portion of the proceeds benefit the Denver Ronald McDonald House, which provides temporary housing for families of ill or injured children who are being treated at Denver-area hospitals. The campaign raised more than $250,000 in 1997.

THE CHILDREN'S MUSEUM OF DENVER

The Children's Museum of Denver has provided a vital service to the six-county Denver metropolitan area for 25 years, providing interactive learning experiences for young people. The Museum hosted 187,000 visitors in 1997 and had a membership of 1,700 families. DBCF is partnering with Children's Museum for the first time in 1998 to assist in repositioning the facility as an early childhood learning center and launching their new initiative, The Center for the Young Child.

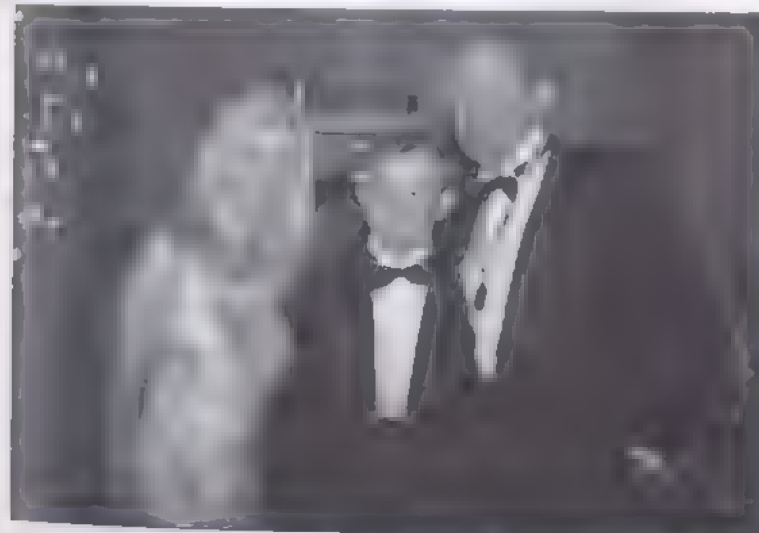

The Fund will match proceeds generated by the Museum's 25th Birthday Gala in October. The change in focus to address a younger crowd — children ages birth to eight — will be reflected in the evening's "Spend a Night in Their Shoes" theme. The partnership should help raise the Museum's public profile and improve the image of the Children's Museum in the community.

PROGRAMS FOR THE DISABLED

DBCF also supports programs devoted to physically or mentally challenged individuals. Football is a sport played by people with tremendous physical gifts — DBCF partners enable those without such gifts to still know the joy of athletic participation.

SPECIAL OLYMPICS

Special Olympics provides year-round training and athletic competition for children and adults with developmental disabilities. Broncos owner Pat Bowlen has served as honorary chairperson for the Special Olympics Hall of Fame dinner honoring the Special Olympians of the year since its inception in 1987. The event provides an opportunity to recognize the accomplishments of not only Special Olympics athletes, but also the volunteers and supporters who contribute their time, energy and spirit to ensuring the success of Special Olympics and its programs.

Pat and Annabel Bowlen pose with honoree Jason Pratt at the 1998 Special Olympics Hall of Fame gala.

Colorado Special Olympics currently serves more than 3,700 athletes in 22 sports and six championships. But the impact of Special Olympics on its participants lasts far longer than the competitions themselves. A 1995 Yale University report stated that Special Olympics athletes perform better at school, at work and at home the longer they participate in the program.

The Broncos have made the Wells Fargo Bank Cup an annual event that raises money for the National Sports Center for the Disabled, located at Winter Park Ski Area.

NATIONAL SPORTS CENTER FOR THE DISABLED/WELLS FARGO BANK CUP

The National Sports Center for the Disabled (NSCD) is another group that provides recreational opportunities for children and adults with disabilities and benefits from DBCF support. What started in 1970 as a one-time ski lesson for 23 amputee children from Denver has grown into the largest and most successful program of its kind in the world. Last year 2,800 people with a disability recorded 20,588 lessons in various NSCD programs.

DBCF helps host the annual Wells Fargo Bank Cup, a fund-raising ski event for NSCD. Broncos general manager John Beake first brought the two organizations together more than 20 years ago. Broncos alumni and cheerleaders have also historically played a prominent role in the event, skiing alongside pros, disabled athletes and sponsors.

COLORADO FAMILY CLASSIC

Successes of celebrity marathons in the early 1980s inspired the start of the Colorado Family Classic. Over the years, the event has become a favorite for both young and senior runners and has raised nearly $400,000 for indigent care programs. Pat Bowlen serves as honorary chairman and runs in the event every year.

The St. Joseph Hospital Foundation uses the funds raised by the event to provide services such as acute illness intervention, teen childbirth preparation, home health visits and more for medically indigent and low income residents of the Denver area.

HUNGER AND HOMELESSNESS

The third key area of DBCF attention is hunger and homelessness. While people who suffer from these conditions are often difficult to find and assist, the work is no less vital.

Staff members, as well as current and former players, have donated their time generously to the annual Colorado Family Classic a hit with kids and a major fund-raiser for St. Joseph Hospital.

BRONCOS WIVES FOOD DRIVE

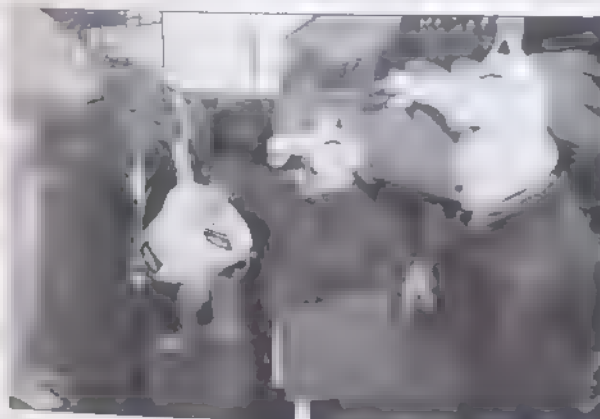

For sixteen years, Broncos fans have generously contributed to the Broncos Wives Food Drive. A group of Broncos players and female staff members collect cash donations and non-perishable items at Mile High Stadium before a home football game each year. Compa Food Ministries sorts the non-perishables to area food pantries, while cash donations are matched by DBCF and granted to Compa and Catholic Charities.

BRONCOS WIVES FASHION SHOW AND LUNCHEON

1998 marks the first year for the Broncos Wives Fashion Show and Luncheon — an extension of the food drive targeted at the corporate community. The two events are expected to raise more than $100,000 in cash and 20 tons of non-perishable food for worthwhile causes across Colorado.

THE GATHERING PLACE

When the Gathering Place opened its doors in 1986, its purpose was to provide a safe haven during the day and to meet the basic needs of women and children who were seeking refuge from street harassment and the outside elements. DBCF partners with the Gathering Place to host the annual Brown Bag Benefit, which raised more than $34,000 for the shelter in 1997.

The Gathering Place is Denver's only day shelter for homeless women and children. Each day between 150 and 200 women and children request day shelter, food and housing. Last year the Gathering Place handled more than 60,000 meals and nearly 17,000 food boxes along with visits from more than 29,000 women and 11,000 children.

PROJECT HOME

The Colorado Coalition for the Homeless (CCH) supports homeless families and children in Colorado through the Project Home fund-raising campaign. Project Home helps CCH assist families and individuals in improving their level of self-sufficiency while increasing public awareness of homeless issues.

Broncos wide receiver Ed McCaffrey serves as honorary chair for the annual campaign. In 1997, Project Home raised more than $50,000 for CCH efforts, including transitional and permanent housing, medical and dental services and mental health counseling.

DBCF organizations can always use your support. To make a donation, simply write a check to "Denver Broncos Charities Fund" and mail it to: Denver Broncos Charities Fund

THE DENVER BRONCOS CHEERLEADERS

Now in their sixth year, the Denver Broncos Cheerleaders are one of the newest squads in the National Football League, especially for an NFL franchise that is in its 39th year. The Broncos brought cheerleading back in 1993 after a 17-year absence and are proud of the work the squad does both on the field and in the community.

The Broncos Cheerleaders are chosen through auditions held each spring. This year, over 250 women tried out for the 26 available positions on the team. Auditions focus primarily on dance ability. However, appearance and personal attributes are also contributing factors.

Known for their distinctive Western uniforms, the Cheerleaders wear long leather chaps and anklets in the fall months, ski wear for cold games and a more traditional cheerleading short leather skirt and vest in the summer months. The three uniform changes gives them flexibility with the ever-changing Colorado weather.

Each member of the Broncos Cheerleaders has an average of 14 years or more of dance experience. In addition, the team is comprised of athletes, students, mothers and businesswomen. For example, on this year's team there are five mothers, a law student, a CPA, a pilot and three women with master's degrees.

The Denver Broncos Cheerleaders are active in the Denver community, donating their time for appearances on behalf of a variety of non-profit organizations, including the Broncos Charities Fund. During the off-season the Cheerleaders spend many hours at an assortment of different promotions. In 1998 the Broncos Cheerleaders will have a calendar, poster and other merchandise for sale.

For more information on the Cheerleaders call (303) 649-0553 or look up their page on the official Denver Broncos website at www.DenverBroncos.com.

THUNDER — THE DENVER BRONCOS MASCOT

When the Denver Broncos take the field at Mile High Stadium, Thunder, the team's mascot, with rider Angela Moore, leads the charge.

Although Thunder's registered name is JB Kobask, he was given the "stage name" Thunder for his mascot duties. Thunder made his Mile High Stadium debut September 12, 1993 for the Broncos' victory over the San Diego Chargers.

The 15-year old, pure-bred Arabian stallion, provided by Magness Arabians of Fort Lupton, Colo., is in his fifth season with the Denver Broncos Football Club in 1998. In his first four seasons, Thunder has delighted the crowds and been a big hit with the children. He has also started a new tradition with the Broncos, holding an annual Christmas party for underprivileged kids of the Denver area.

"We are avid Bronco fans and felt that an Arabian stallion would be an appropriate mascot. We are thrilled to have this chance to show the general public that Arabians are athletic, intelligent and friendly animals," says Sharon Magness, administrator of Magness Arabians.

Thunder lives on a 350-acre ranch that serves as the training, showing, breeding and marketing center of Magness Arabians. Sharon Magness also owns and operates a ranch bearing the same name in Santa Ynez, Calif., which she ran jointly with her husband Bob until his death two years ago. The Denver Broncos family mourns the passing of a good friend, but is proud to continue the close relationship it has had with the Magness family over the years.

One constant in the switch from the pasture to the playing field is Thunder's rider, Angela Moore. Moore, the other half of the Denver Broncos mascot tandem, has been showing horses and competing in barrel racing most of her life. As assistant manager of Magness Arabians, Moore trains, assists with veterinary care and grooms the horses.

The 32-year old Fort Lupton resident's love of animals does not stop at horses. Moore has a B.S. degree in equine science with a second major in zoology from Colorado State University. Her goal is to go back to school and receive her master's degree and doctorate in zoology to begin field research in feline physiology.

Neither Thunder nor Moore is shy in front of crowds. Thunder is a champion show horse whose wins include the Hunter Pleasure Champion of the Wyoming Arabian Horse Association Show in 1993, Reserve Champion of the Pure Breed Western Pleasure at the Colorado State Fair in 1989 and first place in Pure Breed Western Pleasure at the Rocky Mountain Arabian Horse Show in 1989. Moore's honors include the Scottsdale top-10 for Hunter Pleasure and three-time Colorado Hunter Futurity.

Thunder is trained by Tom Hudson, manager/trainer of Magness Arabians and accomplished equestrian. Hudson shows horses in the top Arabian horse shows around the country, although not with Thunder — he has been taken off the horse-show circuit for his career in football.

Thunder — with rider Angela Moore — made his debut as the Broncos' mascot in 1994 and was an instant hit with fans in Mile High Stadium.

MILE HIGH STADIUM

Mile High Stadium, home of the Denver Broncos, has been filled for every regular season game since the beginning of the 1970 season, with the exception of two replacement games played during the 1987 player's strike (both games were sold out before the strike). The Broncos have sold out 211 consecutive non-strike regular season games, and with postseason contests the total reaches 222 over the 28-year period.

Expansion of the stadium, begun in 1975, was completed for the 1977 season to give the Broncos the seventh-largest home facility in the league (capacity 76,078).

Denver voters passed a $25 million bond issue in 1974 to expand and improve the stadium from its capacity of 51,706 to 75,100. The stadium held 63,532 for the 1976 season, halfway through the project.

Bringing the stadium capacity to its present 76,273 in 1986 was the construction of the Penthouse Suites atop the west stands. There are 60 luxury suites that seat 14, 16 or 24 fans each, accessed by private elevators and fully serviced for every Bronco home game.

Making Mile High Stadium unique, however, is its movable east stands. The east stands move in a single section which, when fully extended, forms a horseshoe configuration for football. When the section is retracted, the stadium is in position for baseball.

The dynamics involved in the move are fascinating. First, bear in mind that the east stands section is a three-tiered structure, 535 feet long, 135 feet tall and 200 feet deep, weighing nearly nine million pounds. Second, the stands must be moved a distance of 145 feet.

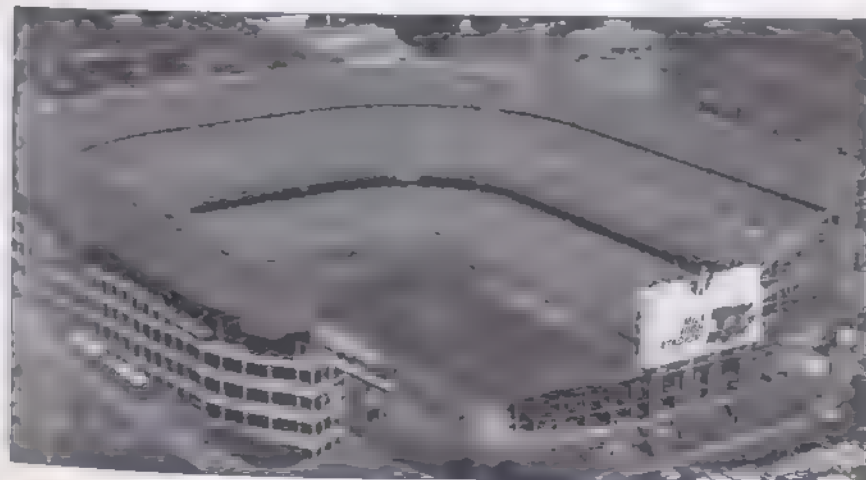

How is it done? The answer, says DMJM-Phillips-Reister, the engineering-architectural firm in charge of the project, is water.

More than 90,000 square feet of runways serve as the operating surfaces over which the stands will move. Water is pumped onto the runways and forms a .003 inch sheet upon which the stands rest. Hydraulic rams then push the stands forward at the rate of three feet per minute, making the move last somewhere around two hours.

Originally called Bears Stadium, the facility was built in 1948 for the Denver Bears of baseball's old Western League, with long range plans to utilize it for football as well. When Denver became a charter member of the American Football League in 1959, the south stands (8,100 seats) and portable east stands (9,616 seats) were added to give a capacity of 34,657 for football.

After Denver voters turned down a stadium bond issue to build an all-purpose metropolitan stadium in 1967, a non-profit group began a fund-raising drive with the goal of purchasing the stadium for the city.

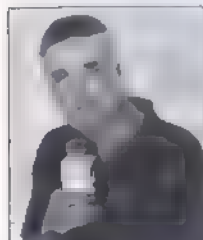

In February of 1968, the group bought the stadium from Rocky Mountain Empire Sports for $1.8 million and presented it to the city of Denver. A 16,000 seat upper deck was immediately constructed over the west stands, raising the capacity to over 50,000 for the 1968 season. In December of 1968, the stadium was renamed Denver Mile High Stadium.

Color Commentary

It's a Rocky Mountain tradition: 850 KOA and the Denver Broncos. For the 29th consecutive season, Denver's 50,000-watt station serves as the flagship for the Denver Broncos game broadcast network.

Dave Logan is in his second full season as voice of the World Champion Broncos, following seven years as a color analyst. Logan's background reads like an All-American dream: A Colorado native, he is one of two athletes (Dave Winfield) drafted by MLB, the NBA and the NFL. Logan chose the latter, starting for the Cleveland Browns from 1976-83, and ascending into the top 5 of virtually every receiving category in the franchise record books. He played his final season in Denver in 1984.

Since then, Logan has brought his love for sports and knowledge of the games to Colorado radio listeners as co-host of KOA's award-winning talk show, the Sports Zoo, weekdays from 3-7 p.m. He was named 1997 Broadcast Citizen of the Year in Colorado, following Colorado Sportscenter of the Year awards in 1992 and '93. Logan and Ron Zappolo co-host the weekly, in-season television show, "Broncos Huddle with Mike Shanahan," on KLSA-TV, and he is also the head football coach at Arvada (Colo.) West High School, leading his team to a state championship in 1997.

Scott Hastings joins Logan in the booth for his second year as color commentator, having proved himself a savvy and thorough analyst, complementing Logan's play-by-play during the Broncos World Championship season of 1997. An 11-year veteran of the National Basketball Association, Hastings was a member of the 1989-90 World Champion Detroit Pistons.

In addition to his co-hosting duties on KOA's Sports Zoo, Hastings provides NBA sideline reports for TNT and color analysis for Fox Sports Rocky Mountain, and is a former sports anchor on Denver's Channel 2 "Sports Tonight."

MEDICAL GLOSSARY

AC Joint — Acromioclavicular joint of the shoulder where acromion process of the scapula and the distal end of the clavicle meet. Most shoulder separations occur at this point.

Abduct — Movement of any extremity away from the midline of the body. This action is achieved by an abductor muscle.

Abrasion — Any injury which rubs off the surface of the skin.

Abscess — An infection which produces pus, can be the result of a blister, callus, penetrating wound or laceration.

Adduct — Movement of an extremity toward the midline of the body. This action is achieved by an adductor muscle.

Adhesion — Abnormal adherence of collagen fibers to surrounding structures during immobilization following trauma or as a complication of surgery which restricts normal elasticity of the structures involved.

Aerobic — Exercise in which energy needed is supplied by oxygen inspired and is required for sustained periods of vigorous exercise with a continually high pulse rate.

Anabolic Steroids — Steroids that promote tissue growth by creating protein in an attempt to enhance muscle growth. The main anabolic steroid is testosterone (male sex hormone).

Anaerobic — Exercise without use of oxygen as an energy source, short bursts of vigorous exercises.

Anaphylactic Shock — Shock that is caused by an allergic reaction.

Anterior Compartment Syndrome — Condition in which swelling within the anterior compartment of the lower leg jeopardizes the viability of muscles, nerves and arteries that serve the foot. In severe cases, emergency surgery is necessary to relieve the swelling and pressure.

Anterior Cruciate Ligament (ACL) — A primary stabilizing ligament within the center of the knee joint that prevents hyperextension and excessive rotation of the joint. A complete tear of the ACL necessitating reconstruction could require up to 12 months of rehabilitation.

Anterior Talofibular Ligament — A ligament of the ankle that connects the fibula (lateral ankle bone) to the talus. This ligament is oftentimes subject to sprain.

Arteriogram — A film demonstrating arteries after injection of a dye.

Arthrogram — X-ray technique for joints using air and/or dye injected into the affected area, useful in diagnosing meniscus tears of the knee and rotator cuff tears of the shoulder.

Arthroscope — An instrument used to visualize the interior of a joint cavity.

When making requests for working press credentials, please allow time for mailing. Press credentials are normally issued approximately seven days before the game. Should transmission facilities be required, please arrange for same through local representatives.

As a general rule, the Denver Broncos do not issue any types of press credentials to weekly newspapers or magazines, unless they are of national circulation on specific assignment.

It is understood that all credentials will be used for the purpose for which they were issued, without exception. Violation of this policy will subject the bearer to ejection from Mile High Stadium.

WORKING PRESS: Admittance to the Broncos' press box is restricted to the WORKING PRESS ONLY. Credentials are marked with individual identification. Passes are non-transferable.

PHOTOGRAPHERS: Photographers are asked to take special note of the following conditions for use of press credentials, as set by the National Football League:

NOTICE OF CREDENTIAL USE CONDITIONS

"This working credential is issued to an organization (the "Accredited Organization") for the sole purpose of providing stadium access to an individual (the "Bearer") who has a legitimate working function (media or game service) in connection with the game for which this credential is issued (the "Game"). IT IS NON-TRANSFERABLE. Any unauthorized use of this credential subjects the Bearer to ejection from the stadium and prosecution for criminal trespass, and subjects the Accredited Organization to revocation of its credentials for future NFL games or events. The NFL is defined for the purposes of this credential to include the National Football League, its affiliates, its member clubs, and their agents and employees.

This credential (if issued for a media function) authorizes (i) the use by the Accredited Organization, for news and editorial coverage of the Game, of any descriptions (including statistical descriptions), accounts, photographs, films, audio or video recordings, or drawings of the game or of any player interviews, press conferences, or other stadium activities related to the Game (collectively, "Game Information") taken, made, created or compiled by the Accredited Organization or the Bearer, and (ii) the use by the Accredited Organization of any NFL or NFL club logos or trademarks (the "Marks") in connection with its authorized use of the Game Information. Any other use or attempted use by the Bearer or the Accredited Organization of Game Information or Marks, including any distribution of Game Information to third parties other than ultimate consumers (e.g., newspaper readers) for their use (whether before or after the conclusion of the Game, and whether or not for editorial purposes) and any authorization of any third party to redistribute any Game Information or to use any Marks, is expressly prohibited, unless the Accredited Organization has obtained the advanced written permission of the NFL for such other use.

Accredited Organizations agree that Game Information taking the form of film, video or digital video recordings ("Video Material") may only be used in connection with a regularly scheduled broadcast television newscast aired by the Accredited Organization within a seven-day period following the Game, and further agree that their use of Video Material in such newscasts shall not exceed (a) six (6) minutes of "same-day" post-game highlights on game days and (b) two (2) minutes of current-season highlights on any other day, or (c) if an Accredited Organization airs a continuous-loop news service, Video Material including more than seven (7) plays in any 15-minute segment or fourteen (14) plays in any 30-minute segment of such service. Use of Video Material in any other manner without the advance written permission of the NFL and, where applicable, NFL Films, Inc., is expressly prohibited.

The Accredited Organization and the Bearer assume all risk incident to the performance by the Bearer of his or her services; assume all risk incident to attending NFL games; agree that the NFL has no responsibility for any equipment in use in the stadium, agree that they are not acting for the NFL in any manner whatsoever and are not employees or agents of the NFL; and agree to indemnify and hold harmless the NFL, its affiliates, its member clubs, and their agents and employees from and against all liability, loss, damage or expense, resulting from or arising out of the issuance of this credential or the Bearers' presence in the stadium, except to the extent such liability, loss, damage or expense arises out of the willful or intentional misconduct of the NFL or any other indemnified party.

This credential is subject to such additional credential use conditions as to which the Denver Broncos from time to time may give notice. Any violation of terms of credential use or such additional conditions may result in the withholding or revocation of this credential and any credential for any subsequent Denver Broncos football games.

Acceptance of the credential constitutes agreement by the Accredited Organization and the Bearer to abide by the foregoing conditions. Thank you for your cooperation."

Sideline photo passes will be tightly controlled by the Public Relations Department and are generally limited to photographers shooting for a daily newspaper, wire service, or magazine of national circulation on specific assignment, or television station.

RADIO-TELEVISION: In making requests for broadcast credentials, please specify requirements for spotters and/or statisticians.

STADIUM ACCESS: To get to Mile High Stadium, which is located at 19th Avenue and Eliot Street, take Interstate 25 to the Mile High Stadium Exit (19th Avenue Exit). The Press Box is located on the West side of the stadium.

DRIVING INSTRUCTIONS TO MILE HIGH STADIUM FROM DENVER INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT: Exit airport on Pena Boulevard and continue to Interstate 70. Take Interstate 70 West to Interstate 25 South. Continue on Interstate 25 South until you come to Mile High Stadium Exit (19th Avenue Exit).

DRIVING INSTRUCTIONS TO DENVER INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT FROM MILE HIGH STADIUM: Take one of two routes depending on your parking lot location. You can take 20th Avenue East to Clay Street, turning left at Clay and proceeding to 23rd Avenue. Take a right at 23rd Avenue and continue to Interstate 25 entrances. Another route (northbound) would be to take 17th Avenue East, which will continue beneath an overpass and will take you directly to Interstate 25 north. Take I-25 North to I-70 East. Follow the signs to DIA. Please allow 45 minutes from Mile High Stadium to DIA.

TRANSMISSION FACILITIES: The Broncos provide five complimentary telephones in the visitors area of the working pressbox for use with VDT or telecopier equipment. Only collect, credit card or third party billing calls can be made from these telephones. Should you wish a private telephone installed at your seat, the Broncos will be pleased to assign you a seat location and provide you with a contact for you to make the appropriate arrangements with the local telephone company.

POST-GAME TRANSPORTATION: Please advise Broncos PR personnel as soon as possible should you require transportation following the game. The amount of time you must wait will obviously decline as time goes by following the conclusion of the game. All taxis will make pick-ups curb side at the Ticket Office, which is located at 19th Avenue and Eliot Street. Should you wish to make your own arrangements, the numbers of local cab companies are 777-7777 and 333-3333.
